Mr. Hayes, for the defence, called a witness who said he was in company of the prisoner, at the SALUTATION INN, for about an hour. He had no dog under his arm, but there was one running about, which he (witness) kicked. Mr. Hayes submitted that there was no case for him to answer, and the Bench dismissed the case."

Birmingham Daily Post 19/8/1880

"The inquest touching the death of Ann Heath (55), who was killed by the falling of two chain shops at Cradley Heath, on the 11th inst, was resumed yesterday, at the SALUTATION INN, Cradley Heath, before Mr. F. W. Topham, deputy-coroner.

The depositions taken on the previous occasion were read over, and the witnesses signed them.

Hannah Gill said she saw the two shops fall together. A beam fell from the roof in Garratt's shop, next to where the deceased was at work, between one and two o'clock. They went back to look at the shops some time afterwards, and she saw the shops falling. She pulled her father (Thomas Garratt) out of the shop. The beam was upon him. In reply to the Coroner, witness said the shops were in the same condition as they had been for a long time, but they did not think there was any danger. If they had considered the shops dangerous to work in they should not have continued to work in them. There was only one prop to the building outside. At the time the shops fell she knew that the Heaths were at work in their shop, but had not time to warn them. She had barely time to pull her father out before the buildings fell. In answer to a juror, witness stated that the prop was put there because the building had given way. She believed the Heaths knew the beam in the next shop had fallen before they went to work after dinner, but she supposed they did not think there was any danger.

Thomas Garratt, chainmaker, called, said the property was kept in a good state of repair until the last four or five years. During the latter period it appeared to have been knocked about and shaken a great deal. It was not in a fair state of repair. The buildings showed no signs of falling, and the people who worked in them were not afraid. When the beam fell last Wednesday he went to Mr. Billingham about it, and he promised to have some repairs done to the shops. They, however, fell down to the ground shortly afterwards.

Sarah Heath, the injured woman, said she was at work in the shop with her mother when the buildings fell. The shop wanted repairing very badly. Her mother, she knew, had called Mr. Billingham's attention to the condition of the shops, and he on several occasions promised to attend to it, but had neglected to do so. She did not consider the buildings any more dangerous on the day of the accident than they had been for a long time past. In reply to a juror, witness said she considered the buildings in a very dangerous state.

The Coroner: Then why did you work in them? – Witness: Because we had nothing else to depend upon to earn our bread.

The Coroner, in summing up, explained the law with regard to the case. He said if a man had a duty to discharge, and neglected to discharge that duty, and death ensued in consequence of such neglect, he was guilty of manslaughter.

The jury, after a brief consultation alone, returned a verdict of manslaughter against Joseph Billingham, and expressed the opinion that there had been a certain amount of neglect on the part of the local authorities in not having insisted upon this class of buildings being kept in a proper and safe state of repair.

The Coroner then formally committed Billingham to take his trial at the Staffordshire Assizes on a charge of manslaughter. Bail was allowed, the prisoner in £200, and two sureties of £100 each.

The prisoner was taken before a local magistrate and remanded.”

[On 24th January 1881, Joseph Billingham appeared at the assizes charged with manslaughter, and ‘no bill’ was found.]

1881 Census

1, Lomey Town – SALUTATION INN

[1] Henry Barber (59), licensed victualler, born Coventry;

[2] Phebe Barber (61), wife, born Rowley Regis;

[3] Henry Barber (28), son, barman, born Rowley Regis:

Birmingham Daily Post 28/5/1881

“Yesterday, at the Dudley County Court, before Sir Rupert Kettle, judge, a comic vocalist named Lindon and his wife, sued a publican named Barber of the SALUTATION INN, Cradley Heath, for £4, balance of wages under an agreement. Mr. Stokes was for the plaintiffs, and Mr. Tinsley for the defendant.

The agreement between the parties was that the plaintiffs were to perform ‘two turns’ each evening in the defendant’s saloon, and the salary was to be £8 for a fortnight. At the end of a week defendant asked the plaintiffs to do ‘three turns’ per evening, but, as he did this in an offensive manner, Mr. and Mrs. Lindon declined. Then he refused to let them sing, and the plaintiffs presented themselves the next night.

His Honour gave a verdict for the full amount claimed, and the costs.”

The Era 2/7/1881 - Advert

“Victoria Grimsby. One of the great features of the Entertainment is the Wonderfully Trained Pigeons of Mr. and Mrs. Pietro Carle, and these Two Performers are also First-class Duettists, their Comic Sketches Nightly provoking applause and laughter.’ – Grimsby News, June 24th.

Address, SALUTATION HOTEL, Cradley Heath, Staffordshire.”

The Era 1/7/1882

“SALUTATION Music Hall, Proprietor, Mr. Barber.

Mr. Alex Day (comic vocalist and cornet payer) is here this week.”

The Era 2/12/1882 - Advert

“Wanted, for Monday next and onwards, Novelties and Artistes of every Description (excepting Gymnasts). Terms moderate, as Hall is small.

Address, H. Barber, SALUTATION Music Hall, Cradley Heath, near Brierley Hill.”

Dudley and District News 27/1/1883

“An inquest was held at the Guest Hospital on Wednesday afternoon before E. P. Jobson, Esq, (deputy coroner), on view of the body of Elijah Smith, aged 28 years, late of Cradley Heath. The deceased was the son of Charles Smith, warehouseman, of Flash Road, Oldbury. He was employed as pianist at the SALUTATION INN, Cradley Heath. According to the evidence of Henry Barber, the manager, it seems that the deceased played the piano in the concert hall connected with the house. He was subject to fits, and was rather addicted to drink. To witness’s knowledge the deceased had three twopenny-worths of rum to drink on the night of Thursday, the 18th inst. He had been drinking freely some short time previously.

By the foreman: He was not sober, but was able to take care of himself.

Deceased’s father stated that he did not know that his son had been subject to fits, he had never seen him in one.

Henry Hingley, bricklayer, of High Street, Five Ways, stated that on Thursday night he and his wife were proceeding home, and he thought he saw two men coming towards him. They were between the SALUTATION INN and Smith’s lodgings. One passed by him shortly afterwards, and as they proceeded they saw deceased in the gutter, lying with his head about nine inches or a foot from the curb. Witness’s wife looked at him and thought he was dead or in a fit. She bathed his face and temples with the water out of the gutter, and he shortly recovered consciousness. A policeman was sent for, and he was taken home.

In answer to the foreman witness stated that he knew the second man who passed him; he was a member of the Salvation Army, and a very quiet man. He (witness) did not see any struggle, neither did he hear any shouting.

PC Mountford said that when he was taking the deceased home, he said, ‘What’s the matter?’ and the deceased replied, ‘It’s all right.’ He had seen the deceased an hour or two previously, and he appeared the worse for drink. He believed deceased was subject to fits. He had no occasion to suspect foul play.

Dr. Muriel, house surgeon, stated that the deceased was admitted into the hospital at about twelve o’clock on Monday, suffering from a scalp wound. In answer to interrogations he said he had fallen down on the pavement on the previous Thursday in a fit. He was wandering in his mind at times, and he died on Tuesday morning at eight o’clock. Witness attributed his death to delirium tremens brought about in a great degree by a blow. Deceased had previously told witness that he had not been drinking.

The jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death.”

The Era 5/4/1884 - Advert

“Wanted, for Easter Monday, and onwards, Novelties and Talent of every Description (Gymnasts excepted). Terms must be low, as Hall is small.

Address, H. Barber, SALUTATION Music Hall, Cradley Heath.”

County Express 31/1/1885

“Richard Hotchkiss, miner, Netherton, was charged with being drunk at Cradley Heath on the 24th inst. Defendant went to the SALUTATION INN, Cradley Heath, and a police officer had to be sent to eject him. Defendant was fined 2s 6d and costs.”

County Express 20/6/1885

“Abel Homer, Lomey Town, Cradley Heath, was charged with committing a breach of the peace on the 13th inst. Defendant was fighting with another man outside the SALUTATION INN, Lomey Town, and when spoken to by Police-constable Tytherley, threatened to split the officer’s head open, and said he would be locked up for it. Inspector Walters said defendant had been previously convicted for assaulting the police.

Defendant: Oh no; it warnt me, in was Cain Homer.

Mr. Hayes (Magistrate’s Clerk): Then Cain wasn’t Abel. (Laughter.)

Defendant, having been reminded of the exact date of the previous conviction, said, ‘Oh, he had forgotten that.’

The Bench bound defendant over in his own recognisance to keep the peace for three months.”

County Express 24/7/1886

“Henry Barber, barman, was charged with being drunk and disorderly at the SALUTATION INN, Cradley Heath, and he was further charged with using threats to his father who keeps the public house. A policeman who was called to defendant between eleven and twelve o’clock on the night of the 19th inst, deposed to the drunk and disorderly conduct of the defendant, and Henry Barber, senior, spoke to the threats. Defendant, he said, threatened to kill them and burn the house down.

Defendant now pleaded that he was excited, and had had some beer, but said the threats were not intended to be carried out.

For being drunk he was fined 5s and costs, and he was ordered to be bound over in his own surety of £10 to keep the peace for six months on the charge of threats.”

County Express 6/11/1886

“Henry Barber, jun (35), clerk, Lomey Town, Cradley Heath, was charged with being drunk and refusing to quit the licensed premises of his father, Henry Barber, SALUTATION INN, on the 1st inst. Prosecutor said the defendant had been drunk for a week, and roaming about the street like a madman. On Monday night he came into the house drunk and refused to quit. The defendant would not work.

Defendant pleaded guilty, and was fined £1 and 7s costs, with the alternative of one month’s imprisonment, this being his third appearance this year.”

The Era 14/5/1887 - Advert

“Wanted Engagement, May 23rd, by Emmeline Carr, Characteristic and Guitarist.

Address, SALUTATION, Cradley Heath. Diorama or Concert Party for Tour.”

Birmingham Mail 16/11/1887

“At the Old Hill Police Court today, before Messrs. J. H. Smith and W. Bassano, Henry Barber, clerk of Cradley Heath, was charged with being drunk upon the premises of Henry Barber, sen, landlord of the SALUTATION INN, Cradley Heath. Prosecutor stated that on the 10th inst his son entered his house drunk. Defendant had been a teetotaler for months, but had recently broken out again. The Bench said that they considered defendant was a proper person to take the pledge. A fine of 9s 6d, including costs, was imposed.”

Henry Barber died in the 2nd quarter of 1888.

County Advertiser 23/6/1888

“Henry Barber, Lomey Town, Cradley Heath, was charged with being drunk on licensed premises known as the SALUTATION INN, Lomey Town. PC Hayward proved the case, and defendant was fined 10s and costs, or one month.”

Dudley Mercury 20/10/1888

“Henry Barber, Lomey Town, Cradley Heath, was charged with being drunk and disorderly on the licensed premises of Phoebe Barber, the SALUTATION INN, Lomey Town, Cradley Heath, on the 10th inst. Police-constable Wallace stated that he saw the defendant drunk on the licensed premises twice on the same night. The Bench said the defendant had been previously convicted, and he would now be fined 40s and costs.”

Dudley Mercury 5/10/1889- Advert

“Wanted, a good General Servant, at once.

Apply, SALUTATION INN, Cradley Heath.”

Birmingham Daily Post 17/10/1889

“Yesterday Mr. E. Hooper (coroner) held an inquest at the SALUTATION INN, Lomey Town, Cradley Heath, touching the death of a male child, the son of William Harback, of Lomey Town, who died on Sunday last. The jury returned a verdict of Death from Natural Causes. The Coroner reprimanded the midwife who attended the mother for neglect at the birth of the child.”

1891 Census

1, Lomey Town – SALUTATION INN

- [1] Oliver J. Deeming (24), licensed victualler, born Polesworth, Warwickshire;
- [2] Mary E. Deeming (22), wife, born Brierley Hill;
- [3] Lizzie B. Deeming (1), daughter, born Brierley Hill;
- [4] Alice Davis (14), general servant, born Brierley Hill;
- [5] Lydia Shakespear (14), general servant, born Brierley Hill:

County Express 24/10/1891 - Advert

“To be Let, with immediate possession, that well-known Old-licensed House, the SALUTATION INN, Cradley Heath. Apply, Delph Brewery, Brierley Hill.”

County Advertiser 16/12/1893 - Advert

“Wanted, a good General Servant.
Apply, Mrs. Deeming, SALUTATION INN, Cradley Heath.”

County Advertiser 4/1/1896

“Club Anniversaries.

On Wednesday evening Mr. O. J. Deeming, of the SALUTATION INN, Lomey Town, Cradley Heath, entertained about fifty of his customers to a supper. Mr. Alf Guest was voted to the chair. The health of the host and hostess having been drunk, the rest of the evening was devoted to songs and recitations, which were given by Messrs. G. Clarke, E. Barber, W. Plant, S. Hodgkiss, Reid, Fletcher, and Mallen. Messrs. Woodhall and Reid accompanied.”

County Advertiser 31/3/1900

“Edward Worton, Cradley Heath, was charged with refusing to quit licensed premises when requested on the 19th inst. Henry Fisher, landlord of the SALUTATION INN, Rowley Regis, stated that defendant came into his house on the 19th inst, and commenced to insult the customers. Defendant became very abusive, and witness requested him to leave, but twice defendant refused to do so. Witness eventually put defendant out. Defendant was fined 10s including costs.”

County Express 27/10/1900

“Arthur Forrest, Cradley Road, Cradley Heath, was charged with being drunk and disorderly on the 21st inst. Police-sergeant Pitcher said he was called to eject the defendant from the SALUTATION INN, and after doing that, defendant created a disturbance on the Five Ways. Defendant was fined 20s.”

1901 Census

Lomey Town

- [1] Alexander C. Aldridge (37), innkeeper, born Liverpool;
- [2] Maud Aldridge (27), wife, born Chepstow, Monmouthshire;
- [3] Dorothy Aldridge (5), daughter, born Chepstow, Monmouthshire:

County Advertiser 19/4/1902 - Advert

“Preliminary.
SALUTATION INN, Five Ways, Cradley Heath.
E. O. Nightingale will Sell by Auction, as above, on Thursday, 1st May, 1902, at Eleven am.
Cart Horses, Carts, Phaeton, Cart Harness, &c, belonging to the late Mr. Henry Barber.
Full particulars next week.
Auctioneer’s Offices: Cradley Heath and Blackheath.”

County Advertiser 24/10/1903

“John Burgess, jun, of Lomey Town, Cradley Heath, was charged with being disorderly upon the licensed premises of the SALUTATION INN, Lomey Town, Cradley Heath, and also with assaulting the landlord, John Hill, on the 13th inst. He was also charged, together with Hill, by the police for committing a breach of the peace on the same date. Hill alleged that on the night in question, Burgess visited his house and behaved in a disorderly manner. He refused to leave when requested to do so, and whilst witness was ejecting him he struck him a violent blow on the nose causing it to bleed. Burgess denied the offence and alleged that the landlord attacked him first. Police-constable Foulkes stated that when he was called to the spot he found the men fighting in front of the public house, Hill having his jacket and hat off. The Bench eventually bound both Burgess and Hill over to keep the peace for three months, in their own recognisances of £5, and dismissed the other two cases against Burgess.”

When the RAILWAY HOTEL had a fire in April 1905, the two children of the landlord were brought across the road to the SALUTATION INN for safety.

Benoni Buttery – see also BELL and BULLS HEAD.

County Advertiser 8/6/1907

“The quarterly licensing sessions for the Old Hill Petty Sessional Division were held at the Police Court on Wednesday..... An application was made for permission to make structural alterations to the SALUTATION INN, Lomey Town, Cradley Heath, kept by Lorenzo St. Claire Dorse. It was explained by Mr. Pritchard (architect) that it would effect a great improvement. It would not increase the licensing area.

After the plans had been inspected by the Bench, Mr. Pearson said there were a large number of houses in the vicinity of the public house, which was in a dilapidated state. They preferred the application to be made at the annual Licensing Sessions.”

Tipton Herald 9/1/1909

“A convivial party was held at the SALUTATION INN on Saturday evening, in honour of the 30th anniversary of the birth of the landlord, Mr. Lorenzo St. Clair Dorse.....”

Plans for the alteration of the counter were approved in February 1909.

Tipton Herald 13/3/1909

“In order to celebrate the marriage of Mr. Joseph Hall, of Gorsty Hill, a number of the ‘brother sufferers’ on Friday evening met at the SALUTATION INN, Lomey Town, and partook of a rabbit supper, which had been nicely prepared by the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo St. Claire Dorse. After the meal Mr. S. Williams was chosen as chairman, and a convivial time was spent. During the evening Mr. Dorse, on behalf of the company, presented Mr. Hall with a handsome spirit cabinet, and wished him a bright and prosperous future. Short congratulatory speeches were also made by Messrs. S. Williams, J. Finlay, and H. Burrup. On the suggestion of Mr. G. J. Smith, a hearty vote of thanks was afforded the chairman, Mr. Dorse for making the presentation, and the host and hostess for their catering. The harmony was supplied by The Two Macs.”

Tipton Herald 26/6/1909

“Their numerous friends in Cradley Heath will regret to hear of the death of the nine-year-old son of Mr. Joseph Westwood, of Compton Road. On Monday the lad was playing on the scaffold of some buildings in course of erection, when he over-balanced himself and fell 20 feet to the ground. He was picked up by his mother, but he died shortly after, notwithstanding what the doctor could do for him.

The Deputy Coroner, Mr. W. L. Lewis, held an inquest into the circumstances attending the sad occurrence, at the SALUTATION INN, Lomey Town, on Thursday morning.

Joseph Westwood, a chain manufacturer, said the deceased was his son. He was ten years of age. He last saw him alive on Monday morning, and when he returned home he was dead. He was told he had been playing round the building and had fallen off a scaffold about 20ft high. There was no one in charge of the boy. He did not know that his boy was in the habit of going up the scaffold; he was like other boys, and would climb.

A nine-year-old playmate of the deceased named Donald Vaughan, of Whitehall Road, said that on Monday at 7.30 in the evening he saw the boy Westwood playing on the scaffold and picking chips up. He was walking along a plank. He stooped and over-balanced himself, and as he was falling turned over and fell on his back. There was no sudden noise to startle him.

Answering Mr. Pateshall: There was no ladder; the boy had to climb up a pole.

Mr. Westwood (recalled): A doctor was called in, and he said the brain was lacerated. No bones were broken.

The Coroner said it was unfortunate no one was in charge of him. Still, as boys they had all done the same.

One of the jury asked if it was not customary to board such buildings round.

The foreman: Oh, no.

The Coroner: We could not expect that.

The jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death.

On the suggestion of Mr. Pateshall, the jury passed a vote of sympathy with the parents of the boy.

The Coroner extended the sympathy of the jury to Mr. Westwood.”

County Express 14/5/1910

“A meeting to form a fanciers’ club for Cradley Heath was held last week, Mr. Harry Grove presiding. Mr. Frederick Harper was appointed president, Mr. L. St. Clair Dorse treasurer, and Mr. Harry Willetts hon. secretary. The name of the society will be The Cradley Heath and District Homing Society, and the headquarters were fixed at the SALUTATION, Lomey Town.”

County Express 4/3/1911 - Advert

“Cradley Heath District Homing Society.

Headquarters: SALUTATION INN, Lomey Town.

The First General Meeting of the above Society will be held on Wednesday, March 8th, at 7.30pm, for the propose of arranging dates and race points, when all persons wishing to become members are earnestly requested to attend.

Radius: Two miles from the club house. All Races to be flown Wednesdays.

Any further information can be obtained from the Host (Mr. L. S. Dorse) at the Headquarters, or the Secretary (Mr. A. J. Pearson), 71, Cradley Road, Cradley Heath.”

1911 Census

1, Lomey Town – SALUTATION INN

- [1] Lorenzo St. Clair Dorse (33), licensed victualler, born Cradley Heath;
- [2] Sarah Dorse (37), wife, married 12 years, born Cradley Heath;
- [3] Ewart Dorse (9), son, school, born Cradley Heath;
- [4] Edgar Dorse (25), brother, fitter, born Cradley Heath;
- [5] Ann Tibbetts (18), niece, born Cradley Heath:

County Express 3/6/1911

“Old Cradley Heath. Chat with Mr. Thomas Hingley Parsons, sexton at St. Luke’s Church for Forty Years.....

Though in his 81st year, Mr. Parsons is wonderfully virile and active, the keenness of his intellect and memory is unabated, and he willingly discoursed upon the Cradley Heath of his younger days.....

In those days, he added, the inhabitants of the district were not quarter so many as they are now, and the only public houses were the HOLLY BUSH, High Street; Bannister’s Newtown; ‘Benny Fiddler’s’; SALUTATION, Lomey Town; BEEHIVE, Graingers Lane; and QUEENS HEAD, Corngreaves Road.”

Frederick George Hickman – see also HOLLY BUSH.

1939 Register

Lower High Street – SALUTATION INN

- [1] George Pugh, date of birth 23/11/1877, licensed tenant, married;
- [2] Martha Pugh, dob 19/7/1896, unpaid domestic duties, married:

Birmingham Daily Gazette 19/3/1942

“When George Pugh, licensee of the SALUTATION INN, Cradley Heath, was fined £10, with £14 costs, at Old Hill yesterday, for selling beer after closing time, he pleaded that the beer, found on the counter by the police, had been left by customers, who would not drink it because it was from the bottom of the barrel, or who had had to rush out to catch buses. Eight customers were fined £1 each.”

It closed on 27th June 1956, on the opening of the HUNTSMAN.

SHOULDER OF MUTTON

1, (122), (124), Halesowen Street, (Market Place), (Birmingham Road), (Rowley Road), BLACKHEATH

OWNERS

James Payne

Showells Brewery Ltd. (leased) [1879], [1896]

Ind Coope and Allsopp (leased) (acquired on 7th July 1935)

Ansells Ltd. [1978]

Holt, Plant and Deakin (acquired in 1988)

Burtonwood

Wolverhampton and Dudley Breweries Ltd.

Mike Westwood (leased) [2023]

LICENSEES

James Payne [1854] – 1879);

Robert James (1879);

Thomas Miller (1879 – 1891);

David Miller [1887]

Thomas H Miller [1891]

Miss Sarah Ann Miller (1891 – [1896])

Thomas B. Hadley [1901]

Mrs. Sarah Ann Hadley [1904] – 1905);

Josiah Hill (1905 – 1924);

Thomas ‘Tom’ Horton (1924 – 1938);

William Henry Slack Brackle (1938 – 1939);

Benjamin James Kilvert (1939 – 1948);

Geoffrey Arthur Poole (1948 – 1951);
Norman Francis Mills (1951 – 1957);
William Harper (1957 – 1959);
John Frederick Hodson (1959);
Thomas Albert Rathbone (1959 – 1961);
Brian Henry Ireland (1961 – 1963);
William Watson Brown (1963 – 1966);
Ronald Haycock (1966 – []
W Clarke (1970 – []
Victor Sylvester Jones [1985]
Steve Smith (1988 – []
Roy Price (1989 – []
Jane Oare (1989 – 1990)
Roy Price [1998]
Emma Maria Palmer [2002]
Harvey Baines and Ranjit Shokar (2009 – []
Paul Warwick [2016] – [2019]

NOTES

Rowley Road [1871]
Birmingham Road [1881]
124, Halesowen Street [1891]
Market Place [1904], [1924]
122, Halesowen Street [1911]
1, Halesowen Street [1939]

It was Grade II listed.

Black Country Bugle 1/9/2021

Article by Steve James

“SHOULDER OF MUTTON, Blackheath allegedly haunted by three ghosts, including a crying baby and howling dog.”

Worcestershire Chronicle 20/9/1854

“Unjust Weights and Measures. No less than 52 delinquents of this description were today fined as follows.....
Rowley Regis..... James Payne, one quart and four pints, 5s.”

Brierley Hill Advertiser 18/4/1857

“An inquest was held on Monday last, before G. H. Hinchcliffe, Esq, at the house of Mr. James Payne, SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, on the body of William Randle, who was found drowned in the waters of the Birmingham Canal, near this place, on the previous Friday.

The deceased is by occupation a waggoner, and had been missing since Tuesday night. His brother and a man named Mogg were passing along the footpath of the canal, and saw a cap similar to the one worn by the deceased, floating on the surface. Through this circumstance the canal was at once dragged, and the dead body brought up. A verdict of Found Drowned was returned.”

Birmingham Journal 16/9/1857

“In last Saturday’s Journal we gave account of an explosion which occurred on Thursday morning, at the colliery of Messrs. W. Mills and Son, at Windmill End, two miles from Dudley, and by which seven lives were sacrificed. Since then another man, John Dainty, who, it may be remembered, was partially buried in the pit for upwards of sixteen hours, has succumbed to the injuries he then sustained. The poor fellow underwent much suffering while under ground, in consequence of being well nigh suffocated. When recovered he complained of cold, and gradually sinking expired on Friday afternoon. The man Daniel Chink, whose body had not been recovered at the time our last report was written, was found about seven o’clock on Friday evening, not far from the bottom of the shaft, where he had been buried from the Thursday morning under an immense heap of earth brought from the roof by the force of the explosion. Life was, of course, quite extinct, and the body, which was dreadfully crushed, was fast decomposing. Of the other five or six persons injured the case of the young man Samuel Siveter, who lived with his mother in a hut not far from the scene of the occurrence, seems to be the most serious. He was not burnt by the explosion itself, but being one of the four or five men who were about to ascend the shaft, was buried beneath the earth and coals at the bottom, which forced him against a number of hot bricks that had previously formed the ventilating furnace. Here he endured the most intense suffering, and a deep hole was burnt into his side. He has been attended by Messrs. Fereday and Timmins, of Dudley, and his recovery is hardly probable. He was somewhat better on Saturday, and he then told a gentleman who visited the house, that just prior to the explosion he saw Abraham Sherwood and William Timmins go into the ‘crop’ side of the mine, where, as we have before stated, the explosion took place, with a lighted candle; the doggy of the pit, George French, being at that time nearer still to the crop. If this be true, and so far as we can ascertain there is no reason to doubt it, the cause of the dire event is explained. Still, it must be remembered that the butty, Francis Griffiths, had only a few minutes previously cautioned the men against going unguardedly into that part of the work, and that it is to be presumed, from a safety lamp having been found near French, that the latter had taken it with him to avoid the possibility of an explosion. Under such circumstances, it can scarcely be credited that Sherwood and Timmins would have the hardihood to take a lighted candle into the most dangerous part of the mine, as alleged. These three – French, Sherwood, and Timmins – were the only persons burnt by the explosion; the other five deceased being at the time at a distance of about two hundred yards from them at the bottom of the upcast shaft. They were buried beneath a mass of coals.

On Friday and Saturday last the Government Inspector of Mines, Lionel Brough, Esq, was at the spot, and descended the pit in company with one or two officials. The force of the explosion was of such a nature as to render the workings a complete wreck. Mr. Brough made an examination, and although he attended one of the inquests on Saturday afternoon, he will not present his official report until Monday next, the 21st instant, to which day one of the inquests, viz, that on the doggy, George French, which is to be made the principal enquiry, has been adjourned.

As we said on Saturday, the bodies of the deceased lie in three different parishes, and come under the jurisdiction of three Coroners – G. H. Hinchliffe, Esq, R. Docker, Esq, and W. Robinson, Esq.

The inquest on George French was held on Saturday afternoon at the house of Mr. J. Payne, the SHOULDER OF MUTTON public house, at Blackheath, near Rowley. The Coroner then said that the investigation into the circumstances of the explosion would no doubt occupy a considerable time. It was his intention to receive sufficient evidence to enable him to order the burial of the bodies, and he should then adjourn to afford time to the Government Inspector to examine the pit, and give an opinion as to the cause.

William Walker, the banksman at the pit, was the only witness examined. He said he went to the pit about six o'clock on the morning of the explosion (Thursday). The men descended the pit as usual, and commenced working. At about twenty minutes past eight o'clock he heard an explosion, and a great deal of smoke, but no fire came out of the shaft. One of the butties named James Williams, and a man named John Burton, went down the shaft shortly afterwards. George French was brought up the pit in an hour or two quite dead. The men were at work on the day previous to the explosion; but some of them came up at twelve o'clock as they had not work to go on with. Francis Griffiths and James Griffiths were the two other butties; Mr. Aston was the ground bailiff. He could not say when Mr. Aston was down the pit before the explosion. The witness saw the bodies of Joseph Griffiths and Darby brought up. The safety lamps were generally kept down the pit. It was the doggy's (French's) duty to try them every morning before the men commenced working.

By a Juror: The men only worked a quarter on Wednesday; but some remained down.

The Juryman: To cut some coals, eh? (The Juryman shook his head at the witness in a significant manner.)

The witness further said he did not know whether any safety lamp was kept in the engine house or not. He saw some safety lamps taken down after the explosion; but, in reply to a Juror who questioned him somewhat closely on the point, could not say whether they were new ones or not. The same Juryman told the Coroner that on the very morning of the explosion 'poor French told him there was no lamp about the pit fit to go near a body of sulphur.' The Juryman went on to say what kind of a master Mr. Mills was; and he and another Juryman expressed very strong and decided opinion on this point, which, however, at present we do not feel justified in publishing. The Coroner stopped the discussion, which had become rather animated, by telling the Jury they must first hear the evidence before they expressed an opinion on the case. The enquiry was then adjourned until Monday, the 21st instant, at three o'clock.

By this unhappy event six wives have been made widows and twenty-three children orphans."

[Other inquests were held at the CROSS GUNS, West Bromwich, the COCK, Rowley, the FOX HUNT, Old Hill, the GATE HANGS WELL, Darby Hand and the CROSS GUNS, Oldbury.]

[At the adjourned inquest on George French the jury returned a verdict 'That the deceased came by his death by an explosion of sulphur, which had accumulated in the pit, but what fired it there is no evidence to show. They at the same time are of opinion that the managers of the pit are exceedingly blameable for not having carried out Mr. Brough's suggestion for gate-road air.']

James Payne, beer retailer, Blackheath. [1861]

He was also a butcher. [1860], [1864], [1865], [1868], [1870], [1872], [1873]

1861 Census

Black Heath

[1] James Payne (32), butcher and beer shop, born Rowley;

[2] Mary Payne (32), wife, born Worcester;

[3] John Payne (7), son, born Rowley;

[4] Sarah Payne (5), daughter, born Rowley;

[5] Alfred Payne (4), son, born Rowley;

[6] Charles Payne (2), son, born Rowley;

[7] William Payne (2), son, born Rowley;

[8] Harriet Andrews (19), servant, born Worcester;

[9] Eagin Woodhouse (16), servant, born Harborne:

Birmingham Daily Post 13/10/1864 - Advert

"Butcher. Wanted, a Youth, to Live in the House. Must be able to Dress a Sheep.

Apply to James Payne, SHOULDER OF MUTTON, Black Heath."

Stourbridge Observer 22/10/1864

“An inquest was held on Friday last, at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON, before Mr. E. Hooper, Coroner, on the body of Emma Hackett, aged six months.

Henry Duncalfe, surgeon, West Bromwich, deposed to having received the Coroner’s precept to make a post mortem examination; that he had found the body in a very emaciated state, but every organ of the body healthy. The stomach contained half a teaspoonful of fluid, but there was no trace of poison. There was no doubt in his mind that deceased had died from want of nutrition, and it was clear that she could not have had any food for nearly two days before death; but if she had been purged, it is possible that if she had food within two days all traces of it would have disappeared.

Jane Hoddy swore that she lodged with Miss Matilda Hackett, the mother of deceased, who was living apart from her husband. She had known deceased six weeks, and she had been very delicate. Mr. Phillips, who had been attending her, pronounced her to be in decline; so she had heard Mrs. Hackett say. Mrs. Hackett went from home on Monday morning week, and never returned till the following Wednesday night. Witness attended the deceased. She took a quantity of bread and milk. Up to Friday she had not been purged. She was taken much worse on Saturday, and no doctor was sent for. Deceased died on Sunday morning.

Matilda Hackett identified the body as being that of her daughter, Emma, and proved her death. She at first denied that any woman had been in her house on the Sunday before deceased died, but on the Coroner pressing the question, she said that there had been some woman there.

Sarah Edwards swore that on Wednesday last she heard Mrs. Hackett had gone from home, and her child Emma was dead. She also heard they would let no person see it. She went to the house and found two women there. They said Matilda had gone to Dudley. They said Emma was in bed. She went upstairs and on removing the bed clothes she found the child lying in its own filth, and must have been in that state a long time. She had not been purged. One of the women said she had taken more care of the deceased than the mother would have done if she had been in the house, for she had given her her own breast, which the mother would not have done.

Thomas Bevington, Police-constable, deposed that on Monday he had received information that Hackett’s child had been poisoned, whereupon he went to Mr. Phillips and told him what he had heard. He said reports must not be attended to, but he did not give a certificate. The case caused much talk in the neighbourhood, and an inquest was much desired. Consequently he reported the whole of the facts to the Coroner. On Sunday before the death, there had been several prostitutes in the house.

The Coroner, in addressing the jury, stated that all the evidence had been laid before them that could be obtained, and upon that evidence their duty would be to find a verdict; but at the same time he must caution them against placing too much reliance on the mother’s evidence, considering the unsatisfactory manner in which she had tendered it.

The foreman said the jury returned a verdict that deceased had died from exhaustion, produced through want of nourishment; and they were of opinion that the mother’s conduct had been most inhuman, but that the evidence, in their opinion, was not quite sufficient to warrant them in committing her for manslaughter.

Matilda Hackett was called in, and severely admonished by the Coroner, who informed her that in as much as the deceased was the fourth child she had lost under similar circumstances, he considered it his duty to cause a strict watch to be kept on her movements, at the same time informing her that she had very narrowly escaped a verdict of manslaughter. In his opinion she had been guilty of very disgraceful conduct.”

County Advertiser 12/8/1865 - Advert

“Wanted, a strong youth, about 16 or 18, who can dress a sheep.
Apply to Mr. James Payne, SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Black Heath.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 28/10/1867

“Friendly Societies in Staffordshire.

Loyal Lodge of Free Givers’ Friendly Society, SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Black Heath, Rowley Regis; established 1857; dissolved by members, March, 1867; number of members, 14; funds, £27.”

Birmingham Daily Post 27/2/1868 - Advert

“For Sale, 4-horse horizontal Engine and Boiler, with Fittings.
Mr. James Payne, Butcher, Black Heath near Rowley.”

1871 Census

Rowley Road

- [1] James Payne (42), licensed victualler and butcher, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Mary Payne (42), wife, born Halesowen;
- [3] John Payne (17), son, butcher (apprentice), born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Sarah J. Payne (15), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Alfred J. Payne (14), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] William H. Payne (12), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [7] Charles E. Payne (12), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [8] James Payne (9), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [9] Ellen Payne (6), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [10] Frederick Payne (1), son, born Rowley Regis;
- [11] Hannah Good (22), domestic servant, born Halesowen:

Stourbridge Observer 15/11/1873

“John Hughes was charged with being drunk and refusing to quit the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, when requested. Police-sergeant Baldwin said he was sent for to the above house, to put the defendant out. He was drunk and refused to go. Fined 1s and costs.”

Stourbridge Observer 6/12/1873

“On Monday night a crowded meeting was held at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, consisting of the operatives in the rivet trade, to consider the conditions offered by the masters. Mr. Cashmore presided.

Mr. Juggins, General Secretary of the National Amalgamated Association was at once called upon to give the result of his interview with the Masters' Secretary. Mr. Juggins then conveyed to the men the terms agreed to by the masters, which were as follows.

‘That the men do commence work on Monday next, and continue to do so until December 13th 1873, at the old rate of wages, and after that date the masters agree to pay an advance of 10%, and pledge themselves to continue the same until March next. After that date, any alteration to be agreed to by the masters and men.’

Mr. Juggins advised the men to accept those terms, as the best that could be got at present.

The following resolution was passed, ‘That the Secretary of the Rivet Makers' Society do negotiate at once with the general secretary of the National Amalgamated Association of Nut and Bolt Makers, with a view to speedily form a branch of that society.’

A vote of thanks was unanimously passed to Mr. Juggins for bringing the dispute to a close re-establishing a friendly feeling, and averting a strike.”

County Advertiser 17/1/1874 - Advert

“Wanted, a Servant for a public house, about 18 or 20 years of age.
Apply to James Payne, SHOULDER OF MUTTON, Blackheath.”

County Advertiser 25/3/1876

“Samuel Priest was charged with being disorderly and refusing to quit the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Blackheath, when ordered to do so by the landlord, James Payne, on the 13th inst.

The landlord and Police-constable Walters proved the case, and defendant, who had been five times previously convicted, was fined 20s and costs.”

Birmingham Daily Post 18/3/1878

“The rivet trade in the districts of Rowley, Blackheath, and Old Hill still continues in a most unsettled state, in consequence of the difficulty that has arisen with regard to the breach of contract on the part of the masters and out-workers, particulars of which were reported in Friday's Post. Since the dispute arose several of the masters have refused to give out work excepting at the reduced price already accepted by a large number of the out-workers. This the men have refused to accept; consequently a large number of the workmen have been without employment during the last few days. The opinion prevalent in the district is that if the masters persist in demanding the reduction of 10 per cent of which intimation has already been given, a strike is inevitable. It is thought, however, that the men, if necessary, will accept the reduction for the present, until after the expiration of the agreement in May, when a general strike in the trade as regarded as a certainty. There is a strong feeling amongst the men that the course taken recently by the masters is only an attempt to bring about a general reduction in the price of wages, by first reducing the price paid to out-workers, knowing that the in-workers would soon be compelled to accept a reduction also. A meeting of the masters was held on Friday night, at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Blackheath, when Mr. I. Cashmore was present on behalf of the workmen. After discussing the question of the present difficulty at some length, it was unanimously decided by the masters present that if the men in the Old Hill district continued working at their present reduced price they (the masters) would insist upon a similar reduction throughout the whole of the district. Mr. Cashmore was informed of the decision, which he promised to lay before the men for their consideration.”

County Advertiser 15/3/1879 - Advert

“Important Clearing-Out Sale at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Black Heath, Rowley.

To be Sold by Auction, by Mr. R. J. Cooper, on Monday, the 17th of March, 1879, the whole of the Valuable Public House Effects, Brewing Utensils, Fixtures, &c, &c, comprising Four-pull Beer Machine, with Piping and Taps complete; Six Tap Spirit Fountain, &c; Liquor Stone Barrels, large quantity of Jugs, Cups, Glasses, &c; quantity of Hogshead and other Barrels, 165-Gallon Copper Boiler (nearly new); 80-Gallon Iron Boiler, Brewing Utensils, the whole of the valuable Fixtures, including Windows, Doors, Screens, Stair Cases, Cupboards, Grates, Seating around Room, Chimney Pieces, &c; large handsome Lamp, and other things too numerous to mention in catalogues, by order of Mr. Walter Showell, of the Crosswell's Brewery, Langley, who is making extensive alterations at the above Inn.

Sale to commence at Eleven o'clock.

Auctioneer's Offices, Oldbury.”

County Advertiser 9/8/1879

“Moses Martin, no occupation, and James Yardley, chainmaker, both of Cradley Heath, were brought up charged with unlawfully assaulting Matthew Evans, and stealing from him a gold watch, silver chain, and 6s in money. Mr. W. S. Hayes appeared to prosecute.

Prosecutor, who is an engineer, of Old Hill, gave evidence that on the night of the 14th June he was at the DUKE WILLIAM INN, Old Hill, and left scarcely sober. In Powke Lane he met three men and a woman. The woman and one of the men walked on, and one of the others then knocked him down, and while one held his mouth the other searched his pockets and took his watch and chain along with some silver. After taking the articles the men went away. He overheard one say, 'Let's go back and kill the b—'; but the other saying, 'No, don't let's kill him,' they ran away. Subsequently he went to Walsall to try and recover his watch from Yardley, having received certain information which led him to think that he was one of the men. Yardley admitted that he was one of the two who robbed him. He was in custody, and witness afterwards saw him along with Martin, who also was in the hands of the police. In Yardley's presence Martin said he (Yardley) broke the chain and stole the watch. Yardley then asserted that Martin wanted to stab prosecutor, and he prevented it. Yardley offered to let him (prosecutor) have the watch back for 50s; but contradicting himself afterwards he said he had sold it to 'Yeddy.' The watch was worth £16.

Harry Dodds, a forgerman, Cradley Heath, said that on the day in question he was at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON, Blackheath, in company with Elizabeth Prosser, who lived close to the prisoner Martin. Martin and Yardley were also with them. They left about eleven o'clock, and went down Powke Lane, where witness saw Evans lying in the road. The two prisoners lifted prosecutor up as he and Prosser walked on, and shortly afterwards they (prisoners) ran by him without speaking.

Elizabeth Prosser gave evidence similar to that of the foregoing witness, and said that the prisoner Martin admitted to her that he took prosecutor's money. She had never been in his company before the night in question. It was a dark night, and when the two prisoners stopped behind with prosecutor she could not see what was going on.

Police-constable Salt spoke to arresting Martin on the 1st ult, and to receiving Yardley from the custody of the Walsall police. When charged with the robbery Martin made a statement to the effect that as he and Yardley were walking home they found prosecutor lying drunk by the roadside, and picked him up. Yardley broke the watch chain while he (Martin) stole the watch and money. With 3s 6d of the money he fetched a pair of boots out of pawn, part he gave to Yardley, and 6d to Harry Dodds that he (Dodds) should not 'round' on them. Yardley told witness he saved prosecutor's life, for Martin asked him for a knife that he might stab him, when he asked him to take back the watch to prosecutor. He (Yardley) had none of the money. At this point Martin turned to Yardley and said, 'Why don't you tell the truth? You know you broke the chain, and I took his watch and money while you held his arm.'

At the conclusion of the case against them, the prisoners were asked in the usual way if they had any statement to make. Yardley said that he and Martin saw Evans in the road, and he said to Martin, 'Let's help him up.' Martin then went to Evans and they wrestled together for some time, at last falling against a wall. Martin said, 'I've got hold of his chain,' and added, 'He don't wear a chain without a watch.' Afterwards Martin joined him (Yardley) down the lane, and showed him the watch. He said to Martin, 'Why don't you take it back? I'll have nothing to do with it.' Martin said, 'I'll sooner stab him than I'll take it back.'

Martin had no statement to make, and this completing the case, both prisoners were committed to the Assizes for trial. Bail was refused."

[At Stafford, Martin pleaded guilty; and the jury convicted Yardley. Martin, who had been previously convicted, was sentenced to twelve months' hard labour, with three years' police supervision; and Yardley to three months' hard labour.]

1881 Census

Birmingham Road – SHOULDER OF MUTTON

[1] Thomas Miller (48), licensed victualler, born Stourhouse, Gloucestershire;

[2] Ann Miller (46), wife, born Arlingham, Gloucestershire;

[3] Thomas H. Miller (17), son, clerk, born Birmingham;

[4] Sarah A. Miller (14), daughter, born Birmingham;

[5] Elizabeth M. Miller (12), daughter, born Kidderminster;

[6] Ellen E. Miller (7), daughter, born Kidderminster;

[7] Annie Cheshire (17), domestic servant, born Birmingham:

Evening Express 21/4/1881

"Joseph Clift, miner, Blackheath, was charged with being drunk and disorderly and assaulting Police-constable Frost.

On the 13th inst the prisoner was ordered out of the SHOULDER OF MUTTON public house, Blackheath, but refused to go, and struck the waiter. Police-constable Frost was called in, and, after ejecting the prisoner, advised him to go home. Instead of doing so he took hold of the officer, struck him, then threw him on his head, and illused him whilst he was on the ground.

The Bench characterised the assault as a bad one, and sentenced the prisoner, who had three times been before the Bench for minor offences, to three months' hard labour."

County Express 29/4/1882

"Ann Perry, married woman, Blackheath, was charged with stealing a mackerel, the property of Benjamin Bird, fishmonger, Blackheath, on the 19th inst.

The woman had been bargaining with the prosecutor's daughter, Elizabeth Bird, for a mackerel which lay upon the shop window, but ultimately she got possession of it, and walked away. The witness followed her, and encountered her coming out of the SHOULDER OF MUTTON public house, where she had left her prize. Here an altercation took place. The prosecutor's daughter said she would forgive the prisoner if she would restore the mackerel, and the prisoner replied with foul language and abuse. At last a policeman was sent for, and she was taken into custody.

Henry Westwood, a collier, said he saw the woman take the mackerel and run into the public house with it.

Thomas Miller, the landlord of the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, said the prisoner came hurriedly into his house and left it without saying anything. Immediately afterwards Miss Bird brought her back, and a mackerel was found under a seat in the shop.

Mr. Cooksey, who defended, had no facts for a defence. He could only give a flat denial to the allegations of the prosecution. The Bench sent the prisoner to gaol for three months.”

County Express 24/6/1882 - Advert

“Long Lane, Blackheath, near Rowley Regis.

Mr. Thomas Cooksey has received instructions to Offer by Public Auction, at the house of Mr. Miller, SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Blackheath, on Monday, the 26th day of June, 1882.

All that Piece or Parcel of Land, situate in Long Lane, in the parish of Halesowen, having a frontage of 10 yards and 6 inches to Long Lane.....”

County Express 20/1/1883

“On Thursday a meeting of the men formerly employed at the Granville Colliery, Old Hill, belonging to Messrs. Swindell and Collis, was held at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Blackheath.

Mr. Breakwell said it would be remembered that on the 10th inst a number of the men were summoned before the magistrates at Old Hill, but the summonses were withdrawn, and an arrangement come to whereby the men were to return to work on the following day. In accordance with this arrangement, about fifty-five of the men presented themselves at the pit on the following Thursday morning, when they found their places filled with fresh men, and they were told to ‘go home, and stop until they were sent for.’ He had waited upon the manager, and in reply to his question as to when it would be likely that the services of the men would be required, he was told by the manager, ‘Never.’ After some discussion, a resolution condemning the action of Messrs. Swindell and Collis, in refusing the men employment, was unanimously carried, and it was also resolved ‘That steps be taken to recover from Messrs. Swindell and Collis a fortnight’s wages for each man in lieu of notice.’ The miners employed at the other collieries in the district are raising a fund, in order that the men who are now thrown out of work may each receive 10s per week.”

County Advertiser 11/8/1883

“A well attended meeting of miners was held last night at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Blackheath, for the purpose of considering the claims of the men in the North Staffordshire districts, who are now on strike against a reduction of wages. Mr. William Snead, of North Staffordshire, presided, and pointed out that the miners there had been out on strike thirteen weeks, and yet they were as firm as ever in resisting the proposed reduction of ten per cent in their wages, and were resolved to continue the strike until the employers concede the old rate of wage.

Mr. William Pickard, of Lancashire (miners’ agent), explained the causes of the strike.

Mr. William Winwood (miners’ agent) Blackheath, called upon the men to support to the utmost their fellow workmen in the North Staffordshire districts.

A resolution was passed pledging the meeting to support to its utmost the men in North Staffordshire on strike.”

Dudley and District News 29/9/1883

“John Bateman, collier, Blackheath, was summoned for committing a breach of the peace by fighting. On the 15th inst PS Hand visited the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Blackheath, where defendant was fighting with another man named Brooks. He pleaded guilty, and was bound over to keep the peace for six months, himself in £10, and two sureties of £5 each.”

Dudley and District News 23/8/1884

“The Miners Strike....

On Tuesday night a large meeting of miners was held at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Blackheath. A working miner presided, and after a short speech called upon Mr. Winwood to address the meeting, after which the following resolutions were unanimously passed: ‘That we continue to ‘play on’ until our employers concede the old rate of wages,’ ‘That we do our utmost to make the coming demonstration a grand success.’”

West Bromwich Weekly News 29/2/1887

“On Monday night the fortnightly representative meeting of the Old Hill and District Miners’ Protection Society was held at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Blackheath. After the delegates from the various lodges in the district had given their reports on the wages question, resolutions were unanimously passed.

(1) in favour of a pit-set conference being immediately called to obtain the opinion of the miners as to the advisability of asking for an advance of wages, and

(2) in favour of an effort to raise funds for the miners on strike against a 12½ per cent reduction in Northumberland.”

West Bromwich Weekly News 16/4/1887

“James Hill, of Blackheath, was charged with being drunk and disorderly on the 12th inst. He was further charged with refusing to quit the licensed premises of David Miller.

Sergeant Salt stated that defendant was outside the SHOULDER OF MUTTON, Blackheath, and he would be locked up, refusing to go away.

The landlord stated that defendant was refused ale and was forbidden the house, but he abused them, and refused to go.

Mr. Bassano said he had a very bad record against him, and he would be fined 10s and costs in each case, or 14 days.”

West Bromwich Weekly News 11/6/1887

“A meeting of rivet makers was held at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, yesterday, Mr. J. Bennett presiding. The Chairman said there was no time being lost in getting the strike settled. He was sorry that some men had not the courage to abide by their decision. The price they were demanding was only a slight increase, and their main object was to put all the masters on a level. The masters had not fulfilled the promises held out to them. They were trying to obtain rivets from other districts, chiefly in Halesowen, but he was glad to find that the operatives in the district had refused to supply them and were willing to come out on strike with them. They had issued appeals to the public for support in order that they might gain their object. Mr. J. Cashmore said that in the Halesowen districts they had met with great success as well as at Old Hill, the operatives having agreed to demand the same price. The operatives in those districts had been making rivets under the prices at Black Heath for a long time, and now they could see the error of their ways, and were willing to demand the same list. The gas rivet makers had also been at work, in the same district cheaper than at Black Heath.”

County Advertiser 1/10/1887

“On Monday a large meeting of miners employed at the Rowley Hall Colliery was held at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Blackheath, with reference to a dispute which has arisen between the masters and men at the above colliery. A miner presided, and stated that the men brought out their tools on Saturday last, in consequence of an attempt to enforce a reduction upon them. He said their employers gave them notice of a reduction of one halfpenny per ton 14 days ago, and they had met to determine what action should be taken with regard to the proposal. It was explained that the men had submitted to various reductions without notice until 1½d per ton had been taken off bottom coal, 1d off slack, and 8½d per yard off gateroads and stalls. In consequence of this course being taken by the employers, the men had given them a counter notice for the yardage and tonnage to be restored which had been taken off.

Mr. B. Winwood, miners’ agent, addressed the meeting, pointing out the necessity for a closer combination amongst working men, and the federation of trades for their protection against the attacks of their employers.

It was resolved to remain out on strike until the whole of the tonnage and yardage rates were paid to them as formerly.”

Dudley Mercury 12/10/1889

“Thomas Siviter and William Siviter, both of Blackheath, were charged with being disorderly on the licensed premises of Thomas Miller, the SHOULDER OF MUTTON, Old Hill, on the 6th inst.”

Birmingham Daily Post 17/10/1890 - Died

“On the 15th inst, at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Blackheath, Staffordshire, aged 58, Thomas Miller. At rest.”

1891 Census

124, Halesowen Street – SHOULDER OF MUTTON

[1] Thomas H. Miller (27), gun wadding manager and licensed victualler, born Birmingham;

[2] Sarah A. Miller (24), sister, barmaid, born Birmingham;

[3] Elizabeth M. Miller (22), sister, born Kidderminster;

[4] Ellen E. Miller (17), sister, dressmaker, born Kidderminster:

County Advertiser 18/4/1891

“Mr. Tanfield applied for the transfer of the license of the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Black Heath, to Miss Miller, in succession to her late father. Mr. Bassano said the Bench did not like to grant licenses to young women. Mr. Tanfield said the applicant had managed the house during the illness her father recently deceased, and there had been no complaint then. The license was granted on condition that the applicant should be assisted by her brother.”

County Advertiser 18/4/1891

“On Thursday night a meeting of miners was held at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Blackheath, when an address on the Paris Conference was given by Mr. B. Winwood (miners’ agent). In the course of his remarks Mr. Winwood said they could now boast of 700,000 union men. He now felt sure that they would secure the eight-hours working-day if the men would only be loyal to their leaders. Every Parliament throughout Europe was to be petitioned about the eight-hours’ proposal. There was not much chance of the English eight-hours’ bill coming on at present. The Home Secretary was opposed to the bill. On the day the bill was to come on in Parliament there was a needless debate on the Welsh Liquor Traffic Bill, so that the eight-hours’ bill should not come on. (Shame.) All the capitalists wanted to do was to kick the bill out of creation. A resolution was passed approving of the action taken by the delegates at the congress with regard to the formation of an international miners’ federation and the eight-hours question.”

County Advertiser 19/9/1891

“A meeting of the miners employed at Rowley Station Colliery was held at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Blackheath, on Thursday night. Mr. B. Winwood (agent) gave a report of an interview with the manager of the above-named colliery, with regard to a proposal made on behalf of the men to sever their connection with the Employers’ Liability Corporation with a view to joining the Miners’ Permanent Relief Society. A resolution was passed unanimously in favour of joining the Miners’ Permanent Relief Society, and of the balance of the Pelsall Fund now in Chancery being applied for the benefit of the society and the Mining Accident Fund.”

County Advertiser 22/9/1894

“A mass meeting of the men employed at the Rowley Station Colliery who are out on strike was held on Wednesday at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Blackheath. Mr. B. Winwood (miners' agent) presided, and stated that the position of the strike was unchanged. He had seen the manager of the colliery with reference to other matters, but on neither side was the present dispute mentioned. He had tried reasonably to meet the employers, and had had also used his influence with the men. It now resolved itself into a question of the strongest battalions winning. (Hear, hear.) They should not tell how long the contest would last, but he mentioned that some of the employers in that district were very much annoyed at the action taken by the Rowley Station Colliery officials. (Hear, hear.) It was a consolation to know that the men had the sympathy of some of the masters in their struggle. Should the strike continue, he proposed to issue an appeal to the other collieries in the neighbourhood for support. (Hear, hear.) They were told the average selling price of coal was 6s per ton. How could that be when at the present time the public were paying 10s, 12s, and 13s per ton for coal? (Hear, hear.) The rate of wages at the Station Colliery was the lowest paid in the locality, and even if the men's demands were conceded, they would still be below the district rate of wages. (Hear, hear.) It was unanimously resolved to continue the strike and also to appeal to the public and the miners in the district for support.

Yesterday, a meeting of miners employed at the Cakemore Colliery, Rowley, who are out on strike was held at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Blackheath. Mr. B. Winwood (agent) said he visited the colliery twice on Thursday with the view of ascertaining the reason why the men were not allowed to resume work upon the terms agreed between him and the manager at a previous interview, but he failed to see the officials or obtain any explanation as to the action of the employers in drawing the horses out of the mine, and refusing to allow the men to return to work.

It was decided to continue the strike, and the men were requested when they went to the pit to receive the wages due to them to endeavour to obtain some information as to why the colliery had been closed.

Yesterday an appeal was issued to the miners and the public by Mr. B. Winwood, on behalf of the men employed at the Rowley Station Colliery."

County Advertiser 13/10/1894

"Mr. Winwood announced at a meeting of miners, at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON, Blackheath, yesterday, that the directors of the Rowley Station Colliery had refused to accept the terms of settlement suggested by the men. He also stated that the vicar of Blackheath would address the men on Monday, and that he had received a donation from the Pelsall Miners' Association of £10 towards the relief fund. (Applause.)"

County Advertiser 18/4/1896

"On Monday morning a meeting of miners was held at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Blackheath, under the presidency of Mr. J. Parkes. The meeting was called in consequence of about 100 men and boys, employed at Messrs. W. Bassano and Sons' Rowley Hall Colliery, leaving their employment. The men's grievances are that they have been accustomed to work on Saturday afternoons until four o'clock, and they wish to work later on other days and to do away with the overwork on Saturday afternoons. It is stated that they were formerly paid 6s for yardage, and that they had been reduced to 2s 6d. There was also a further dispute as to the weighing of coal. Mr. B. Winwood, miners' agent, addressed the meeting, and advised the men to return to work, and join the Union, and then they would be able to get their wages raised. The men, however, refused to take his advice, stating that they were determined to put a stop to the present state of things. They decided to strike until some alteration was made."

County Advertiser 27/6/1896 - Advert

"To Brewers. SHOULDER OF MUTTON, Blackheath.

Cotton and Chappell are instructed by the Trustees of the late Mr. James Payne and others to Sell by Auction, on the Premises as above, on Wednesday, July 8th, 1896, at Six o'clock in the Evening, subject to Conditions then to be produced.

Lot 1. All that Important and Valuable Freehold Fully-Licensed Public House, known as the SHOULDER OF MUTTON, very prominently situated in Halesowen Street, at the Corner of Birmingham Road, and the junction of several thoroughfares, now let on a repairing lease to Messrs. Walter Showell and Son, which lease expires at Christmas, 1899.

The Premises have a good Corner Frontage, and include spacious Yards, with covered entrance; Stabling, Coach-houses, easily convertible into shopping; Hay and Corn Stores, let to Mr. Sturman; together with a Dwelling House and Shop adjoining, let to Mr. Dunn, the whole producing the low annual rental of £70.

The House, which is in good repair, comprises Four Bed Rooms, large Club Room with Spirit Room at end, Smoke Room, well-lighted Spirit Vaults and Bar, Snug, with side and front entrances, small Club Room, Sitting Room, Cooking and Back Kitchen, Two large Cellars, and usual Out-offices.

The House commands the chief trade of a very populous and extensive district, which is daily growing, and as the Property has been held by the vendor's family for upwards of 50 years, deserves special attention of Brewers and Publicans....."

County Express 4/9/1897

"A meeting of miners was held at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, on Wednesday night. A miner presided. Mr. B. Winwood (miners' agent) spoke of the Compensation Act. There were a number of things which were not satisfactory about it, one being the contracting out clause, which he said was repugnant to him. It made his blood boil within him to have to sign a document in 1880, which prohibited him claiming compensation if he were injured, or his wife getting anything if he were killed. That was the condition of affairs generally in the Black Country. There were places, however, to be found where the men had a struggle for eight weeks rather than submit to the dictation of the masters who wished them to sign out of the Act. If the men read the reports of the debate, he thought they would be more careful who they gave their vote to in future elections. He was not blaming the House of Commons; he was blaming the men who sent the representatives there to make laws either for or against them. There were a lot of colliery owners in the House of Commons, and they were everlastingly on guard and watching their interests. Those people, as soon as the bill was introduced by the present Home Secretary, raised a howl against it. They said the bill was revolutionary, that it was a communistic bill, that it was a robbing bill, that the men would get hurt purposely, or words tantamount to that. But he was pleased to think that at any rate the Government acknowledged the principle the working men had been fighting and advocating for for many years, and recognised the principle of the responsibility of the masters. Mr. Winwood ridiculed the idea that the men would get hurt purposely. He did not consider the time limit was quite right, and did not think an injured man should have to wait any time before receiving benefit. The masters organised and the men should organise. He should like to see them properly organised once more, and earning a respectable livelihood. When they saw the masters trying to crush unionism the more determined should the men be to go forward, and try to make the union stronger than ever. A resolution was passed 'that while this meeting approves of the general trend of the Act, it cannot accept as satisfactory certain clauses which are against the interests of the miners, and with the object in view of obtaining to the full the benefit of the measure we hereby agree to strengthen our organisation as early as possible.' Votes of thanks to the chairman, Mr. Winwood, and the Press terminated the proceedings."

County Advertiser 7/5/1898

"Local Miners and the South Wales Dispute.

On Tuesday night a largely attended meeting of miners, in connection with the Old Hill and District Branch of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain, was held at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Blackheath, with reference to the dispute on the South Wales and Monmouthshire coal trade.....

A resolution in favour of making collections at the pits in the district was carried unanimously owing to the gigantic proportions of the contest numberless poor wives and children are in a starving condition....."

County Advertiser 29/10/1898

"On Tuesday night a meeting in connection with the Old Hill and District Branch of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain, was held at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Blackheath. Mr. B. Winwood (miners' agent) presided over a good attendance, and he was supported by Councillor A. Stanley (of the Cannock Chase Miners' Association), and Mr. S. Dyas.

The Chairman moved the following resolution: 'That seeing miners' wages can be increased, and their general rights protected better by and through federated action, and with a view of giving more support to the Miners' Federation of Great Britain this meeting hereby urges upon all those outside the local organisation the necessity of joining such an association immediately.' He remarked that there seemed to be a great deal of misunderstanding amongst the miners in that district, respecting the advance of 2½ per cent they recently received. Some believed that it would only remain in force until next January, but the agreement arrived at by the Conciliation Board was that an advance of 2½ per cent should be conceded until next January, and then the Board would meet for the purpose of deciding whether a further increase should be conceded, and not to make any reduction. He considered that the miners' wages in that district were much lower than the men were entitled to, but he was of opinion that if the men would only strengthen their organisation and show a bold front they would be able to get a further increase in January next.

Mr. S. Dyas seconded the resolution.

Mr. Albert Stanley addressed the meeting, and said some of the miners were making the advance they had just received look ridiculous, but he thought that if they looked at it from a different standpoint there was a vast lot of difference in having an advance rather than having it taken off. They had a guarantee of 30 per cent for two years, and there was every reason to believe from the state of the trade that a further increase would be demanded at the end of the present year. He urged upon them the necessity of organisation, and said that although it was an old question it was none the less important. There were only about one out of every three miners in the Union, and he contended that the other two who were not in any organisation had no right to receive any benefit obtained for them by the Federation. (Hear, hear.)

The resolution was carried, and a vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Stanley.

On Thursday a meeting was held at the ROYAL EXCHANGE INN, Old Hill, at which a similar resolution was passed. Mr. Winwood presided, and Councillor A. Stanley addressed the meeting."

Birmingham Daily Post 29/8/1900

"The miners employed at the Rowley Station Colliery, numbering about 200 men and lads, declined to resume work on Monday in consequence of a few non-union men refusing to join the Miners' Federation of Great Britain. Subsequently a meeting was held at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Blackheath. Mr. B. Winwood (agent) addressed the gathering, and expressed his regret that the men had made such a mistake as to cease work without having first either informed the colliery officials of their intention – who, he felt sure, would have listened to them – of himself before causing the pit to be idle, or get the permission of the society to give in their proper notices to cease work unless the non-unionists agreed to join the association. He advised them to return to their employment at once, and suggested that some way might be found to induce the outsiders to join the Federation in the near future.

Afterwards Mr. Winwood had an interview with the managers of the colliery on the subject, was informed that whilst it was their wish for all the men to be associated with the Federation, yet if the miners did not return to their work on Tuesday morning summonses would be issued against them. Acting on the advice of Mr. Winwood, the men resumed their work yesterday."

1901 Census

Halesowen Street

[1] Thomas B. Hadley (35), licensed victualler, born Causeway Green;

[2] Sarah Hadley (34), wife, born Birmingham;

[3] Hilda Hadley (2), daughter, born Blackheath;

[4] Robert C. Hadley (10 months), son, born Blackheath;

[5] Flora Williams (21), domestic servant, born Blackheath:

County Advertiser 17/8/1901

“A number of stallmen employed at the Cakemore Colliery, Blackheath, belonging to Messrs. J. S. Pitt and Co., have gone out on strike in consequence of a dispute respecting the wages. On Tuesday evening a meeting of the men was held at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Blackheath. Mr. B. Winwood (miners’ agent) addressed the meeting, and explained that three weeks ago the employers gave notice to this section of the workmen to leave their employment; but before the notices expired the men were approached as to whether they were willing to submit to a reduction in wages. The men asked what the amount of reduction was, and they were told that they wanted to take off 15 per cent, or equivalent to that which had been put on; also to reduce the tonnage of slack and yardage of stall work. After some discussion with the manager the men, who had been receiving 6s for yardage, expressed themselves willing to submit to a reduction of 1s 6d providing the employers would not take the 15 per cent off. This the employers had declined to agree to, and the men turned out on strike. He had since had a meeting with the employers and the managers, and they offered to pay the men day work at the rate of 6s 8d per day, but this he pointed out was considerably below the district rate of wages paid for that work. The reduction averaged about 40 per cent. The men considered the offer, but eventually decided to refuse it and continue the strike.”

Tipton Herald 28/2/1903

“On Wednesday evening a largely attended meeting under the auspices of the Old Hill and District Branch of the Miners’ Federation of Great Britain was held at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Blackheath, for the purpose of considering the recent Denaby and Cadeby main evictions. Mr. B. Winwood (miners’ agent) presided. A deputation from the Denaby and Cadeby main miners also addressed the meeting.

A resolution was passed deciding to give the miners all the assistance possible.”

Staffordshire Sentinel 16/4/1904

“On Thursday, a meeting of the miners in the Rowley, Blackheath and Old Hill districts who have been thrown out of employment in consequence of the stoppages of the Rowley Hall and Yew Tree Collieries was held at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Blackheath. Mr. B. Winwood (miners’ agent), who presided, pointed out that the men had now been out of work for twenty weeks. He regretted the prospects of a resumption of work at both collieries were slight. Efforts were being made to put the Rowley Hall Colliery into proper working order, but the inrush of water was so great that some time would elapse before it could be restarted. He also mentioned that the miners employed at the Witley Colliery, Hales Owen, and the Top Gaune Pit, Old Hill, were at present under notice, this being attributed to the shortness of mining area and slackness of trade. Altogether the outlook of the coal trade in that district was a very gloomy one, and there was but little improvement through the whole of the South Staffordshire mining area.”

County Advertiser 23/3/1907

“On Thursday morning the dead body of the illegitimate child of Hannah Tibbetts (23), a domestic servant, residing at Lye Cross, Oakham, Rowley, was found underneath a copper in the kitchen at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Market Place, Blackheath, where Tibbetts was employed. The young woman gave birth to the child during the night, and the discovery was made by the landlord of the public house, Josiah Hill. Police-sergeant Bentley was called in, and he has communicated the facts of the case to the Coroner (Mr. G. C. Lewis). The woman, who was been removed to her home, is in a serious condition, and has been charged with concealment of the birth.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 25/3/1907

“Some very sensational evidence was on Saturday given at the inquest held by Mr. G. C. Lewis (county coroner) at Blackheath, concerning the death of the illegitimate female child of Hannah Tibbetts (23), a domestic servant, whose parents reside at Oakham, Rowley Regis. The body had been found in the furnace beneath a ‘copper’ or washing pan.

Josiah Hill, landlord of the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, stated that Tibbetts had been in his employ about sixteen months. Recently she had complained of being unwell, and early on the morning of March 21 her condition was such that he sent for a woman to attend her. Subsequently he saw her throwing paraffin oil on to some ignited wood in a furnace hole under a copper, and he told her she would set herself on fire, and ordered her to go away. She replied she wanted some hot water. Suspecting there was something wrong, he extinguished the flames and made an inspection. He saw the charred body of a child. Tibbetts then began to cry, and said to witness, ‘You will not say anything?’

Hill then sent for Dr. McQuin and Police-sergeant Bentley. Tibbetts stated that if she had a knife she would cut her throat. The sergeant described the discovery of the body, and stated that when he charged Tibbetts with attempting to conceal the birth of her illegitimate child she made no reply.

Dr. McQuin described the body as being badly charred, and said here was a gash in the throat. The post mortem examination showed one of the lungs to be badly burnt. He was of opinion that the child had had an independent existence, and death was due to suffocation and shock. He could not say that death was due to burning. He thought he should be justified in saying that the child was asphyxiated.

The Coroner said there was no doubt that the child was born alive, and that it had died from suffocation. There were no external marks of strangulation, and under the circumstances he did not think the jury would be justified in returning a criminal verdict. The jury returned an Open Verdict.”

County Advertiser 27/4/1907

“At the Rowley Police Court, on Wednesday – before Messrs. G. H. Holcroft, R. Priest, and A. C. Lowe – Hannah Tibbetts (23), a domestic servant, of Portway Road, Rowley, was charged with concealing the birth of her illegitimate child on the 21st of March. Mr. R. Bate appeared to defend.

Joseph [sic] Hill, landlord of the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Market Place, Blackheath, stated that prisoner was in his employ for sixteen months. On the morning of the 21st March prisoner became ill, and he call in a neighbour to attend to her. Subsequently he found her standing near a fire, which had been made under a furnace in the scullery. When the fire had been extinguished witness discovered the dead body of a child. He spoke to defendant on the matter, and she commenced to cry. Afterwards she asked him not to say anything about it.

Dr. McQueen stated that the child's body was badly charred. A post-mortem examination showed that the child had had a separate existence, and death was due to suffocation. He could not say whether death took place prior to the child being burnt or after.

Police-sergeant Bentley deposed to arresting prisoner, who made no reply when charged with the offence.

Prisoner, who reserved her defence, was committed for trial at the next Staffordshire Assizes, bail being allowed, herself in £20, and two sureties of £20 each."

[On July 11th 1907, at the Staffordshire Assizes, Hannah Tibbetts, appeared charged with 'On the 21st of March 1907, at Rowley Regis, being then delivered of a certain female child, unlawfully, by a secret disposition of the dead body of the said child, did endeavour to conceal the birth thereof.' She was found not guilty and discharged.]

County Express 16/1/1909

"Dividend Clubs..... SHOULDER OF MUTTON (Blackheath).

Upwards of 50 assembled to the supper at which the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Hill, catered admirably. Subsequently Mr. Hartley was voted to the chair. The secretary (Mr. E. W. Holloway) reported that in spite of the fact that the year's expenditure had been heavy, they had paid a dividend of 7s 2d per member. The following contributed to the evening's entertainment: Messrs. Jack Judge, James Richards, Golding, Parkes, George Hill, W. Holloway, and Davis. Votes of thanks were accorded."

Tipton Herald 20/3/1909

"On Wednesday evening the miners' agent, Mr. B. Winwood, addressed a well-attended meeting of miners in the clubroom at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON on questions respecting work and wages."

1911 Census

122, Halesowen Street

[1] Josiah Hill (49), publican, born Quinton;

[2] Mary Hill (49), wife, married 30 years, assisting in the business, born Hockley, Staffordshire;

[3] George Hill (29), son, fitter, boiler works, born Quinton;

[4] Arthur Hill (19), son, traveller, brewery firm, born Warley;

[5] May Hill (11), daughter, school, born Langley Green;

[6] Alice Cooper (19), domestic servant, born Blackheath:

County Express 9/12/1911

"At a meeting on Tuesday, of Old Hill and Highley Miners' Protection Society, held at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Blackheath, Mr. B. Winwood (agent) reported that he had written to fourteen local firms asking if they would favour a joint conference with the men's representatives upon the minimum wage question. Eight had replied in the affirmative, and he had forwarded their names to the firm who had first suggested this step, and who had replied that they would communicate with the employers on the matter. Those who had not replied were among the smallest employers, and employed mostly clay workers."

Birmingham Mail 2/1/1914 - Advert

"Bar General Wanted, January 5-14

J. Hill, SHOULDER OF MUTTON, Black Heath."

Birmingham Daily Gazette 16/3/1915

"A mass meeting of miners was held at the SHOULDER OF MUTTON, Blackheath, to consider the effect the present crisis is having upon miners generally. The Agent, Mr. S. Edwards, reviewed the situation and outlined the national movement. Out of a membership of 2,000 over 420 had enlisted. At the beginning of the war the masters made certain offers to the men who joined the colours, but in some instances the pledges had not been kept.

It was all right for the men to be patriotic, but the masters must be patriotic too, and straight as well. The miners wanted an advance in the rates of pay. The pikemen in the thick coal ought to have 7s 6d a day and the loaders 6s.

The meeting decided to support the action of the officials, and agreed that a uniform subscription of 6d a week to be paid by the members."

Birmingham Daily Gazette 18/10/1915

"Casualty Lists Mediterranean Force.....

Trooper G. Hill, of the Worcestershire Regiment, son of Mr. J. Hill, SHOULDER OF MUTTON INN, Blackheath, has been wounded in the knee, and is now in hospital at Cairo."

Tom Horton was married to Mary Ann.

County Clock Lodge (No.4973) of the Royal Antediluvian Order of Buffaloes met here. [1935]

1939 Register

1, Halesowen Street

[1] James B. Kilvert, date of birth 6/9/1889, licensed victualler, married;

[2] Eliza J. Kilvert, dob 22/9/1888, unpaid domestic duties, married;

[3] Blanch V. M. (Kilvert) Parkes, dob 4/4/1896, book keeper, leather goods, single;

[4] Benjamin H. Kilvert, dob 15/5/1918, audit assistant, A.R.P. Wolverhampton, single:

It had a darts team. [1948]

Sandwell Evening Mail 10/5/1986

“Rock Week Ahead.....

Today Goats Don't Shave, SHOULDER OF MUTTON, Blackheath.”

Sandwell Evening Mail 10/3/1988

“Oldbury-based brewery Holt, Plant and Deakin is to open three more pubs in the Black Country bringing its mini-empire to 26. The PLOUGH AND HARROW at Norton, Stourbridge, and the OLD PRIORY, Dudley town centre have been acquired by Holts and are temporarily closed for extensive restoration work.

The SHOULDER OF MUTTON in Blackheath town centre has also been acquired, and will close on March 17 for refurbishment. All three pubs are being restored in Holts' traditional style, and are due to re-open in mid-summer.”

It opened as a Holt, Plant and Deakin pub on 30th June 1988.

Sandwell Evening Mail 7/7/1988

“Black Country Wench of the Year Heather Gaskell added a touch of tradition as a Blackheath town centre pub re-opened after a £110,000 facelift. Heather, aged 21, from Sedgley, donned period costume for the launch of the SHOULDER OF MUTTON in Halesowen Street yesterday.

The SHOULDER OF MUTTON is the 27th pub to be opened by Oldbury-based brewers Holt, Plant and Deakin – the third in the last month. The pub has been closed for 14 weeks while Holt's installed three Victorian open fires and a Victorian gas lamp to remind customers of their heritage.

Heather joined mine hosts Steve and Sharon Smith, who are taking over their first pub. Steve is Black Country born and bred, having lived all his life in Rowley Regis, and has fulfilled a lifelong dream by taking over behind a bar.”

Black Country Bugle Annual 1989

'Pub of the Month' Selection

“The SHOULDER OF MUTTON at Blackheath, recently re-opened its doors to the public under the Holt, Plant and Deakin banner. Expert and careful refurbishment has restored this well-known tavern's late-Victorian image on a grand scale and the customers are flocking in. Holts happy knack of selecting the right house to restore is also reflected in the brewery's choice of licensees – in this case, Steve and Sharon Smith.....

When plans to add another public house to the Blackheath scene were first initiated, it is said that Enoch Eley [a local butcher] only agreed to sell his portion of the necessary ground if he was accorded the right to provide it with a name. Appropriately, he chose the SHOULDER OF MUTTON.....”

Roy Price was married to Jean.

Sandwell Evening Mail 16/6/1990

“There are plenty of spirits in the SHOULDER OF MUTTON, Blackheath – and not just those in the optics! The pub is thought to be haunted by at least three ghosts – including a baby and a dog. Landlady Jane Oare and her family have heard the sound of an infant crying, especially down near the snug end, and a boy who was bottling up the other day heard it. Footsteps are also heard in the children's bedroom, which is the coldest room in the building, says Jane, but the oddest spook has to that of the howling hound. Jane said, ‘My little girl, Amy, aged three, had me and the cleaner in fits when she said this dog had bitten her in the pub and we laughed. But the dinner-time barmaid said she, too, had heard a dog barking and could smell it. It was really weird.’ The ghosts could be long-established residents because the pub, in Halesowen Street, might date back two centuries and was once a slaughterhouse – although Jane thinks a workhouse would have more suited the spirits. Holt, Plant and Deakin took it over two years ago and completely refurbished it, adding their own old-world style, with lots of bric-a-brac, pictures and open fires.

The three previous separate rooms, a pool room, smoke room and bar were knocked into one big lounge bar and there's an upstairs function room. The back of the building looks like an old-fashioned street, complete with lamp post, lanterns and benches. It also has lots of chimneys, some of which are still in use.

The beer is traditional Holts Ales, bitter and mild and together with the atmosphere, is the main reason for its popularity, being very much a locals' local.....

Manager Jane, aged 27, who has two other daughters, Lucy, five and 10-year-old Emily, has kept the SHOULDER OF MUTTON for the past 14 months. Before that she kept the Rainbow in South Staffs and has been doing relief work since she was 18 as her parents also kept a pub in Penkridge. But, despite enjoying the business, Jane is leaving soon – to take up law. She's got a place at college in Wolverhampton to do an access course for 12 months for mature students, before hopefully going on to study law.....”

Sandwell Evening Mail 28/3/1991

“Beer drinkers at a Wednesfield pub are certain of a warm welcome after their local won a prize for the best cosy fire in the area. The PHEASANT INN in Wood End Road won the contest run by Black Country brewery Holt, Plant and Deakin. Licensee Mr. John Nicholls and his wife Diana won £400 in cash and solid fuel.

Runners-up in the competition to find the most welcoming fire were the BEECH TREE, Rowley Regis, and the SHOULDER OF MUTTON at Blackheath.”

Sandwell Evening Mail 5/2/1991 - Advert

“Christie & Co. The Vanguard Lease.....

SHOULDER OF MUTTON, Rowley Regis, West Midlands.

Traditional town public house. Comprises bar, function room (50) and fitted kitchen. 3 bedroomed owners accommodation.

Asking rental – offers in the region of £20,000 Leasehold.

Premium offers in excess of £30,000.”

Closed

It reopened on 8th July 2009 after a £50,000 renovation.

Ranjit Shokar = Ranjit Shocker

Dudley News 7/7/2009

“Two Black Country entrepreneurs who have been friends since schooldays have joined forces to restore the 150-year-old SHOULDER OF MUTTON public house in Blackheath.

Once a magnet for the local community and renowned for its old English bar games such as ‘shove ha’penny’ and bar skittles, the pub has been taken over by new landlord Harvey Baines and Ranjit Shocker who have spent around £50,000 on a new makeover. The restoration has been spearheaded by Harvey who knew the Grade II listed pub in Birmingham Road when it was a popular watering hole and was saddened when it became rundown and finally closed four months ago. The 33-year-old, who met Ranjit while a student at Hall Green College, Birmingham, graduated from London’s South Bank University in business information technology and has gained wide experience in the family business which has included pub management, leisure and property development overseas. He hopes the former regulars will return and plans to offer a mixture of traditional English and Indian snacks as well as local guest beers.

Harvey’s business partner Ranjit, well known locally for his involvement in building new homes as well as his interest in the rented sector, said he hoped the pub would become a venue for wedding receptions, parties, dancing and various other activities as it had been in the past.

The pair also hope that eventually the pub will have a brew of beer that is particularly associated with the SHOULDER OF MUTTON. The first pint at the newly restored pub will be pulled by the Mayor of Sandwell, Councillor Geoff Lewis, accompanied by his wife, Beryl on July 8 and Black Country comedian, Tommy Munden, will produce lots of laughs with his ‘Aynock and Ali’ routine.”

Halesowen News 27/10/2011 - Death Notices

“Royston Price. Former Licensee of the SHOULDER OF MUTTON, Blackheath. Passed away 21st October 2011, aged 76 years. He will be sadly missed by all his family and friends. Funeral Service will take place on Monday 31st October at Rowley Regis Crematorium at 10.45am. Family flowers only, if desired donations in lieu of flowers for Cancer Research UK.”

[2023]

SIR ROBERT PEEL

1, (2), Rowley Village, (Birmingham Road), (Lillipot), (Lilley Pot Row), ROWLEY REGIS

OWNERS

Jeremiah Laister

William Taylor

William Butler and Co. Ltd. (acquired on 13th May 1898)

Thomas B. Williams and Lizzie Bate (acquired on 1st March 1939)

Ansells Ltd. (acquired on 15th June 1946)

Pubmaster

Punch Taverns

LICENSEES

Timothy Lowe [1855]
James Slim [] – 1857);
George Churchill (1857 – 1858);
Daniel Bowater (1858 – 1880);
Mrs. Rosanna Bowater (1880 – [1889]
William Taylor [1891] – [1896]
Sarah Taylor []
William Evans (1898 – [1900]
Mrs. Elizabeth Bishop [1901] – [1904]
Ellen Bishop [1906]
Walter Willetts [1908] – 1925);
Thomas Wyle (1925 – 1926);
William Thomas Bodley (1926 – 1940);
John Thomas ‘Tom’ Davenport (1940 – 1963)
Ronald Phillpotts (1963 – 1965);
Frank Verdun Davenport (1965 – 1966);
Eric George Albert Munyard (1966 – 1967);
Brian Edward Taylor (1967);
Ronald Bennett (1967);
Patrick Henry Chance (1967 – 1968);
Wyndham Gill (1968);
Sydney Collett (1968);
Thomas Victor Buckingham (1968 – 1969);
Colin John Goucher (1969);
Gerald George Haldron (1969 – 1970);
John Edward Merry (1970);
Marian Simon (1970 – 1971);
Aubrey Kitchener Poole (1971 – 1983);
Maureen Courtney (1983 – 1984);
Mrs. Evelyn May Harvey (1984 – [1997]
Valerie Harris [2002] – [2003]
Glynis Bates [2007]
Paula Round [2013] – [2017] manager

NOTES

2, The Village [1881]
1+2, The Village [1891]
2, Rowley Village [1901] , [1911], [1932]
1, Rowley Village [1940]

It was reputedly haunted.

It was the headquarters of the Rowley Regis and Blackheath Horticultural Society.

It was a home brew house.

London Gazette 26/6/1857

“Whereas a Petition of George Churchill, now and for these six months past, living at Lillyport, in the parish of Rowley Regis, in the county of Stafford, carrying on business as a Licensed Victualler and Publican, and also a Charter Master, under the employ of Messrs. Mills and Higgs, and for five years before that period, living in Yew Tree-lane, in the said parish of Rowley Regis, carrying on business also as a Licensed Victualler and Publican, and also being a Charter Master and Butty Collier, and for three years before that period, living in Powke-lane, in the said parish of Rowley, working as a Charter Master only, an insolvent debtor having been sued in the County Court of Worcestershire, at Dudley, and an interim order for protection from process having been given to the said George Churchill, under the provision of the Statutes in that case made and provided, the said George Churchill is hereby required to appear before the said Court, on the 10th day of July next, at ten of the clock in the forenoon precisely, for his first examination touching his debts, estate, and effects, and to be further dealt with according to the provisions of the said Statutes; and the choice of the creditors’ assignees is to take place at the time so appointed. All persons indebted to the said George Churchill, or that have any of his effects, are not to pay or deliver the same but to Mr. Thomas Walker, Registrar of the said Court, at his office at the Court-house, Priory-street, Dudley, the Official Assignee of the estate and effects of the said insolvent.”

Wolverhampton Chronicle 12/8/1857

“At a sitting of the County Court on Friday, Mr. Serjeant Clarke disposed of the following cases.....

George Churchill, licensed victualler and publican of Lilly-pot, Rowley, came up on his first adjourned examination, supported by Mr. Smith, and opposed by Mr. Wright, of the firm of Hayes and Wright, Oldbury. The petition was dismissed with a view to make an arrangement with creditors.”

Staffordshire Advertiser 28/11/1857 - Advert

“Insolvent Debtors to be heard before the Judge of the County Court of Worcestershire, holden at Worcester, at the Guildhall, Worcester aforesaid, on Wednesday, the ninth day of December, 1857, at the hour of ten in the morning precisely.....

George Churchill, late of Rowley Regis, in the county of Stafford, out of business; previously of the same place, Licensed Victualler, Butty Collier, and Chartermaster.”

George Churchill – see also YEW TREE.

1861 Census

Rowley Village – SIR ROBERT PEEL

[1] Daniel Bowater (28), victualler, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Rose Hannah Bowater (27), wife, born Bilston;

[3] Ann Maria Cole (24), house servant, born Rowley Regis:

Daniel Bowater, retailer of beer, Rowley. [1862]

Birmingham Daily Gazette 4/2/1870

“Complaints are being made by the common nailmakers that some of the masters are deviating from the list which was agreed to, after a long and disastrous strike, on September 15th last year. The men employed by Messrs. Perry and Brookes, of Lye Waste, have, it appears, decided to strike in consequence of a reduction in their payment of 3d per bundle. To consider the advisability of supporting these men on strike a meeting of delegates from various nailmaking districts was held on Tuesday evening at Mr. D. Bowater's, SIR ROBERT PEEL INN, Rowley, when Mr. John Price, chairman of the Amalgamated Nailmakers' Association, presided. After considerable discussion, during which a determination was expressed to maintain the 'list of September, 1869,' the following resolution was passed unanimously: The committee of the Amalgamated Nailmakers' Association are under the painful necessity of putting the spike nailmakers in the employ of Messrs. Perry and Brookes on strike, and are resolved to maintain them until the aforesaid firm pay the net list price of September 15th, 1869.”

1871 Census

Rowley Village, Lillipot

[1] Daniel Bowater (38), victualler and butcher, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Rossannah Bowater (38), wife, born Horseley Heath;

[3] Phoebe Southwick (19), niece, visitor, born Rowley Regis:

County Advertiser 18/11/1871 - Advert

“Valuable Freehold Land, Residences, Malshouses, Public House, & Cottages, at Cradley Heath and Rowley.

Messrs. Oates, Perrens, and Wooldridge are favoured with instructions from the Trustees of the Will of the late Jeremiah Laister, deceased, to Sell by Auction, at the house of Mr. W. H. Nock, the FOUR WAYS INN, Cradley Heath, on Wednesday, the 6th day of December, 1871, at Five o'clock in the Afternoon, subject to conditions then to be read, the following valuable and extensive Freehold Properties, in the undermentioned or such other lots as shall be decided upon at the time of Sale.

Lot 1. A Freehold Public House, the SIR ROBERT PEEL, situate in Lilley Pot Row, or Telegraph Street, Rowley, together with the Brewhouse, Stable, Yard, Piggeries, an excellent Well of Water, and Premises, occupied by Mr. Daniel Bowater; and also the Tenement, Nail Shop, and Premises, occupied by Edward Foster.....”

County Advertiser 18/5/1872

“William [sic] Bowater, of the SIR ROBERT PEEL INN, Blackheath, was charged with having unlawfully permitted drunkenness in his house on the 29th of April.

Mr. Underwood, schoolmaster, was called to give evidence for the prosecution. The witness said that before giving evidence he must demand his fees for attendance at the Court. The Clerk said the fees due to him amounted 3s, being at the rate of 1s 6d per day.

Mr. Underwood: Then I will make the Clerk a present of it. But I shall reuse to be sworn until my proper fee is paid.

The Clerk: The legal fee is 1s 6d per day.

Witness: Do you wish me make believe that that is all I am entitled to?

The Clerk: I cannot make you believe anything. All I say is that that is the legal fee, and all that you can claim.

Mr. Mills said that this case arose out of evidence which had been given at a coroner's inquest. There was no doubt that the person upon whom the inquest was held lost his life through having got intoxicated at the defendant's house. If the witness would not give evidence he must ask the Bench to dismiss the case.

Mr. Underwood said he saw the deceased on the road, but he did not see him drinking at the defendant's public house. When he saw the man in the road he was in a state of intoxication, and his attention was called to him by another man, when he saw the deceased was being run over. This occurred on the 29th of April, at Rowley Regis. A boy was in company with the intoxicated man. Mr. Superintendent Mills questioned the witness respecting the evidence which had been given at the inquest.

In reply Mr. Underwood said that he drew the attention of the landlord to the fact that the deceased was unfit to take care of the horses which were yoked to the vehicle of which he had the charge; but he did not see the man drinking in the house, as he (witness) was never in the house at all.

Superintendent Mills informed the Bench that the evidence of the witness, as now given, was very different to his evidence as given before the Coroner.

The case was dismissed."

County Express 20/3/1875

"Joseph Hackett was charged with being disorderly on licensed premises. Defendant pleaded guilty.

Daniel Bowater said he was landlord of the SIR ROBERT PEEL INN, Blackheath, and on the 13th inst defendant was in his house. He requested him to leave, which he refused to do. He pushed witness on to the fire, and some hot water fell on him. He used some very bad language. Defendant was not drunk.

Fined 10s and the costs; or, in default, of payment, fourteen days' imprisonment with hard labour."

Daniel Bowater died in the 2nd quarter of 1880 and was buried at St. Giles Church, Rowley.

Dudley and District News 7/8/1880

"The full license of the SIR ROBERT PEEL INN, at Rowley, was transferred from the executors of the late Daniel Bowater to Rosanna Bowater, his wife."

AND

Dudley Herald 7/8/1880

"Old Hill. The Bench granted the following transfers.....

from Thomas Dixon and William Jukes, executors of Daniel Bowater, licensed victualler, late of Rowley, the SIR ROBERT PEEL, Rowley, to Rosannah Bowater, Rowley."

1881 Census

2, The Village – SIR ROBERT PEEL INN

[1] Rosannah Bowater (47), licensed victualler, born Haden Cross;

[2] Jane Mulletts (17), domestic servant, born Darby Hand:

Rosannah Bowater died on 20th November 1889 and was buried at St. Giles Church, Rowley.

Dudley Mercury 23/11/1889

"The South Staffordshire Coroner, Mr. Edwin Hooper, held an inquest at the BEE HIVE INN, Hawes Hill, Rowley, touching the death of Rosannah Bowater (56), landlady of the SIR ROBERT PEEL INN, Rowley Village, who had died from the effects of severe burns received on the 20th inst.

Harriet Robinson, domestic servant, stated that at eleven o'clock on Wednesday morning the deceased sat down at a table, near to the kitchen fire, for the purpose of writing in a book the quantity of wines and spirits received that morning. Whilst witness was in one of the bed rooms she heard the deceased cry out that she was on fire. She ran into the kitchen and found her mistress enveloped in flames. Witness shouted, and deceased ran into the yard, which increased the flames. A neighbour came to her assistance, and threw a hearthrug over her, and eventually the flames were extinguished. Her cotton dress was entirely destroyed, as was also most of her underlinen. Her injuries extended from head to foot, and Dr. Beasley, who was sent for, upon seeing her, said that she could not possibly live.

Edward Southwick, contractor, said the deceased was his sister, and had been a widow for some years. He saw her shortly after the accident, and she told him that whilst she was writing a cinder fell out of the fire on to her dress, and in a few minutes she was in flames. She died on Wednesday night shortly after ten o'clock.

The jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death."

County Express 21/12/1889 - Advert

"SIR ROBERT PEEL INN, Birmingham Road, Rowley Regis.

To Publicans, Brokers, Furniture Dealers, and Others.

Mr. W. Hackett has received instructions to Sell by Auction, on Monday, December 30th, 1889, without Reserve, the whole of the Household Furniture, Brewing Plant, Public House Fixtures, and other Effects, as above, comprising massive Brass and Iron Bedsteads, Spring and Straw Mattresses, Feather Beds, pair of Mahogany Duchesse Dressing Tables, Toilet Glasses, Birch Night Chair, Mahogany Towel Rails, Cane-seated and other Chairs, Mahogany Chest of Drawers, Dressing Chest, Mahogany Horse-hair-seated Sofa, Mahogany Horsehair-seated Chairs, Mahogany Corner Cupboard, Eight-day Clocks, Toilet Ware, Tea and Dinner Ware, Fenders, Fire-irons, and the whole of the Excellent Brewing Plant, comprising nearly-new 140-gallon Copper Brewing Boiler, Cast-iron Boiler, nearly new; 12-bushel Oak Mash Tub, large Cooler, Copper-bottom Wort Sieve, Mash Rules, Round Tubs, Collecting Tubs, Hogshead and Half-hogshead Barrels, excellent Four-pull Beer Machine, with piping and taps, all complete; and other things too numerous to mention, which will appear in Catalogues to be had from the Place of Sale or the Auctioneer.

Sale to commence at 10.30am prompt.

Auctioneer's Offices: 78, High Street, Blackheath, near Dudley, and 393 Oldbury Road, West Smethwick."

County Advertiser 4/1/1890

"Curious experiences sometimes befall the broker. His lot in life is one that takes him into many fresh scenes and amongst many strange faces, and in his time he plays many parts. One of these singular adventures happened to Mr. R. T. Webster, of the Lye, who is a member of the Stourbridge Board of Guardians, and also carries on the trade of a broker. The affair in question occurred at Rowley, on Monday, when a large 'find' of money was made. A great deal of excitement ensued, and it is said that the matter has cleared up a family mystery. It appears that the sale was being conducted at the SIR ROBERT PEEL INN, Rowley, by Mr. William Hackett, auctioneer, of the effects which belonged to the late Mrs. Bowater, who some time ago was burned to death. There had been an impression that a considerable sum of money had been saved by the deceased, and some unpleasant suspicions, it is stated, arose amongst the relatives. These, however, were dispelled on Monday. A pair of duchesse dressing tables were purchased by Mr. Samuel Hill, of Wordsley, and Mr. R. T. Webster assisted to remove them. While preparing to carry a portion of the framework downstairs, a small woollen bag fell on the floor, and on examination it was found to contain £50. Mrs. Bowater's niece exclaimed, 'That's the money that was lost; give it me.' Mr. Webster declined, however, to do this, and placed the framework on some bedsteads, when another bag dropped out. This was taken charge of by the niece, and it was subsequently found to contain £199. Within a few minutes after Mr. Webster had discovered the money he was surrounded by a crowd of excited people, one and another of whom clamoured at him to give up the money. The crowd grew more excited every minute, but the more threatening became the aspect of those who pressed him for the money, the more stubbornly did he refuse to give it up until he knew the right person to give it to. At length he learned who the executor was, and gave up the money he had found. The other bag containing the £199, we understand, was also given up to the executor. There is no doubt that Mr. Webster was subjected to a good deal of annoyance because he would not give up the money when first asked, and that he was placed in an awkward position, if not one of some danger. One of his fellow-brokers remarked to him, referring to when he saw the crowd round him, 'Webster, I wouldn't have been in your position for a ten pound note.' It is fortunate, perhaps, that the money in the first instance did fall into the hands of Mr. Webster, who had the courage to hold it until he knew who was the proper person to receive it."

1891 Census

1+2, The Village

- [1] William Taylor (59), licensed victualler, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Sarah Taylor (57), wife, born Amblecote;
- [3] Thomas G. Taylor (26), son, pattern maker, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] John Taylor (24), son, brewer, (journeyman), born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Sarah Taylor (19), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] Ellen Taylor (16), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [7] Sarah A. Hughes (26), domestic servant, born Rowley Regis:

Dudley Herald 27/8/1898 - Advert

"On Tuesday Next. To Publicans and others. SIR ROBERT PEEL INN, Rowley.

Notice of Unreserved Sale by Auction of the nearly New Excellent Brewing Plant.

Comprising 250-Gallon Copper, Oval Mash Tub, Gun Metal Stop Cocks, Pair Coolers, Lead Piping, Pine Square, 120, 60, and 54-Gallon Cooper-made Casks, and other useful Effects, which Alfred W. Dando has received instructions from Messrs. W. Butler and Co. Limited, to Sell by Auction, upon the Premises as above, on Tuesday Next, August 30, 1898, at 3 o'clock in the Afternoon sharp.

Further particulars may be obtained at the Offices of the Auctioneer, Priory Street, Dudley."

William Evans was the son of John Evans of the NEW INN, Churchbridge, Oldbury.

John Evans founded the Churchbridge Brewery. His sons Joseph and William subsequently ran it.

County Advertiser 22/12/1900

"On Monday morning, Mr. H. A. Pearson (coroner) held an inquest at the SIR ROBERT PEEL INN, Rowley Village, concerning the death of Fanny Parkes (5), whose parents reside at Rowley Village, and who died on the 13th inst from the effects of burns sustained on the 15th of November. The evidence showed that on the latter date the mother left deceased alone in the house whilst she went to a neighbour's. Upon returning she discovered her daughter in the garden, with her clothing in flames. These were extinguished by a neighbour named Hutton. Dr. Beasley was called in. The child progressed satisfactorily until the 8th inst, when bronchitis set in, death taking place on the 13th inst.

A verdict of Accidental Death was returned by the jury."

1901 Census

2, Rowley Village

- [1] Elizabeth Bishop (34), widow, publican, born Haselor, Warwickshire;
- [2] Catherine Alice Bishop (10), daughter, born Worcester;
- [3] William Richard Henry Bishop (8), son, born Worcester;
- [4] Jane Priest (15), general servant, born Blackheath:

County Advertiser 20/4/1901

“John Skitt, Siviter’s Lane, Rowley, was charged with refusing to quit the SIR ROBERT PEEL INN, Rowley, on the 3rd inst; with assaulting Mrs. Bishop, manageress; and also with doing damage to dishes and furniture to the extent of 10s. Mr. H. S. Chapman, of Birmingham prosecuted.

Mrs. Bishop, manageress, said that at 10-15pm on the 3rd inst the defendant came to the house and commenced using obscene language. He was drunk, and refused to go, and became very violent. He struck witness and knocked her on the fender, upset the table on which were a large number of glasses and crocks and broke a chair. Witness asked him to go a dozen times, but he refused, and remained on the premises for half an hour. The damage done was more than she was claiming.

Defendant, who did not appear, was fined 10s and costs for refusing to quit, 20s and costs for the assault, and 6d and costs for malicious injury, and 10s damage.”

Elizabeth Bishop – see also BUSH, Tipton.

County Advertiser 3/10/1903

“An unusual application was made by Elizabeth Bishop, the landlady of the SIR ROBERT PEEL INN, Birmingham Road, Rowley. The license of the house had by some means been mislaid or lost, and she applied to the magistrates for a certified copy of it. This was granted.”

County Advertiser 6/10/1906

“An extraordinary incident was related in connection with an application made by James Winfield, an ex-sergeant of the Staffordshire police force, for the transfer of the license of the SIR ROBERT PEEL INN, Birmingham Road, Rowley, from Ellen Bishop. Superintendent Johnson stated that Winfield entered into possession of the house on Tuesday last, and already a report had been received against him for permitting drunkenness, and he therefore opposed the application.

Winfield said it was unfortunate, as the man who was alleged to be drunk was in the house when he entered it, and directly he knew of his being there he ordered him to leave.

Mr. Pritchard, of Bilston, on behalf of the owners of the house, said under the circumstances he could not consent to the transfer taking place.

Superintendent Johnson said the unfortunate part of the matter was that if it was proved that an offence had been committed Mrs. Bishop, the present holder of the license, who had left the premises, would be held to be responsible.

Winfield said it was a serious matter for him.

The magistrates decided, under the circumstances, to defer the consideration of the application for a week.”

County Advertiser 27/10/1906

“Elizabeth Bishop, licensee of the SIR ROBERT PEEL INN, Birmingham Road, Rowley, was charged with permitting drunkenness upon her licensed premises, on the 2nd October. Mr J. W. Clulow prosecuted, and Mr. Pritchard, of Bilston, defended. Mr. W. Lees, of Sedgley, watched the case on behalf of ex-sergeant James Winfield, who was in charge of the house at the time.

Mr. Clulow stated that at three o’clock on the afternoon of October 2nd Police-sergeant Bentley was on duty in the locality of the public house serving some summonses when he saw a man named Thomas Parkes, residing at Blackheath, coming along the road from the direction of the public house. He was in a helpless state of drunkenness and fell down. The officer went to the public house where he saw a man named James Winfield, an ex-sergeant in the Staffordshire police force. It appeared that the licensee had early that morning made arrangements for leaving the premises, and she put in charge the man Winfield. She went out of the house about ten o’clock when the man Parkes was there. He remained there for about five hours until he got into that helpless state of drunkenness. Winfield was in charge of the house, but Mrs. Bishop was responsible for the conduct of the premises. They did not press for a heavy penalty, but they wished publicans to understand that they could not do this kind of thing. The practice of putting irresponsible persons in charge of houses was becoming a common one, and licensees must be taught that they were responsible for the conduct of house until they were transferred. Evidence was given in support of this statement by Police-sergeant Bentley.

Mr. Pritchard admitted the offence, but contended that it was committed whilst Winfield had charge of the house. He thought it would be inflicting a hardship upon the defendant if she was convicted for an offence she knew nothing about. Under the circumstances the Bench allowed the case to be withdrawn on payment of costs, £2 11s 6d.

Thomas Parkes, of Blackheath, was fined 10s, including costs, for being drunk upon the premises.”

1911 Census

2, Rowley Village

[1] Walter Willetts (39), licensed victualler, dealer, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Clara Jane Willetts (38), wife, married 17 years, assisting in the business, born Halesowen;

[3] Reginald Willetts (15), son, blacksmith’s striker, born Halesowen;

[4] Herbert Walter Willetts (13), son, butcher’s errand boy, born Halesowen;

[5] Mary Willetts (11), daughter, born Halesowen;

[6] Clara Willetts (8), daughter, born Rowley Regis;

[7] Lawson Joseph Willetts (4), son, born Rowley Regis;

[8] Emma Downing (21), domestic servant, born Rowley Regis:

County Express 31/8/1912

“At Old Hill Police Court, on Wednesday, Walter Willetts, licensee of the SIR ROBERT PEEL INN, Birmingham Road, Blackheath, was summoned for permitting drunkenness upon his licensed premises, and also for supplying a drunken person on the 5th inst. Mr. J. W. Clulow prosecuted, and Mr. S. Vernon defended.

Mr. Clulow stated that at 3.15 on the afternoon in question, PC Mann was passing the house, when he saw a man named Weston in the yard at the rear of the premises in a drunken condition. The officer went into the house and found Weston drinking from a glass. The attention of the landlady was called to it, and she admitted that the man had been served with a pint of ale. Weston was ejected from the house, and his conduct outside was so bad that he was locked up.

PC Mann and Sergt. Brough gave evidence in support of this statement.

Mr. Vernon pleaded guilty to supplying Weston, and urged that there was nothing in the man’s conduct or manner to suggest that he was drunk when he entered the house. The man had been drinking parsnip wine which had an effect upon him. Cases often occurred in the district where men although under the influence of drink, often pulled themselves together, walked straight, and even spoke properly when questioned by publicans, and it was only when, perhaps, an argument arose amongst the customers, that their condition was discovered. He submitted that it was one of those accidents which happened in the best regulated public houses, and that the landlady had been deceived by the man’s appearance.

In reply to the Bench, Supt. Johnson said Willetts had held a license in the division for twelve years without a single complaint. The Chairman said they had considered the defendant’s good record as a publican, and under the circumstances would only impose a fine of 20s and costs, amounting in all to £3 16s 6d.”

Dudley Chronicle 8/2/1913

“The annual licensing sessions for the Rowley Regis Petty Sessional Division were held at Old Hill on Wednesday.....

Walter Willetts, a licensee who had been fined for selling drink to a drunken person, appeared to answer an objection to the renewal of his license.

Superintendent Johnson said applicant was still in possession, and had conducted the house well since the conviction.

The Bench renewed the license, and cautioned the applicant.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 31/1/1933

“In consequence of a collision between a motor-car and a motor-cycle at the Queslett – Chester roads crossing at Streetly on 27 December, a case was heard at Rushall Court yesterday.

William Thomas Bodley, of the SIR ROBERT PEEL INN, Rowley Regis, was fined 40s and £2 8s special costs for driving a car without proper care, and William George Thomas, of Chelsfield, Kent, a labourer employed by Kent County Council, 20s and 20s special costs for driving a motor-cycle without a third party insurance policy.

A summons against Thomas for driving without proper care was dismissed.

As the result of the accident the cycle pillion passenger, Miss Alice Archer, of Oakengates, was seriously injured and taken to Sutton Coldfield Hospital.

Bodley, who was represented by Mr. McGregor Clarkson, barrister, declared, when asked who was to blame for the collision, said that it was ‘a pure accident’ on a greasy road.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 21/4/1938

“References to a man’s visits to public houses before committing suicide were made at an inquest at Old Hill yesterday on Thomas Mansell, aged 56, 63, Mackmillan Road, Blackheath, a refuse collector, employed by Rowley Regis Town Council.

The widow, Elizabeth Mansell, stated that her husband returned from work at mid-day on Saturday and left at one o’clock to have a drink at the SIR ROBERT PEEL INN. He returned at 1.35 and he had had a few drinks. He afterwards went out for a walk, and said he should be back at eight o’clock.

William Dunn, licensee of the BRITANNIA INN, Rowley, stated that at 2.50 Mansell called at his house and asked for a gallon of beer, but he refused to serve him. He was too much over the mark.

Walter Watts, landlord of the KINGS ARMS INN, Rowley, said that at about three o’clock Mansell asked for a gallon of beer, but he refused to supply it. Witness said he would not describe the man as drunk, but he had had enough.

Other evidence showed that Mansell’s coat, waistcoat, and cardigan were found by the side of Rowley Hall pool at 4.30.

A verdict that Mansell committed Suicide while the Balance of his Mind was Disturbed was returned.”

1939 Register

1, Rowley Village – ROBERT PEEL INN

[1] William Thomas Bodley, date of birth 15/4/1873, licensee, married;

[2] Ruth Bodley, dob 4/09/1889, unpaid domestic duties, married:

After his first wife died in 1950, John Thomas Davenport married Bertha Aldridge in 1951.

Birmingham Daily Gazette 3/12/1953

“John Thomas Davenport, licensee of the SIR ROBERT PEEL at Rowley Village, Blackheath, who faced three summonses here for serving beer after hours and one for obstructing the police, said the beer was served to customers before 10pm.

Police-sergeant James said that when he went into the bar at 10.50pm on November 11, there were three customers with pint glasses of beer in front of them. The beer still had a head on it and looked as though it had just been pulled.

He told Davenport not to touch the beer, but the defendant took one of the glasses and poured it away. The exhibits in two 'squash' bottles were from the other two glasses.

The beer still had a head on it.

Davenport said, 'Just because the beer had a top on it, it doesn't mean it had just been pulled. The beer always retains its strength.'

A barman, a cleaner and Davenport's wife gave evidence that he did not serve any beer after 10pm.

Davenport was fined £5 on each of the first three charges, £1 on the fourth and ordered to pay 15gns costs.

The three customers were fined £2 each with £1 15s costs each for consuming beer after 10 o'clock."

Sports Argus 9/4/1960

"Round The Dartboards.....

Rowley Regis League have just ended a great struggle for their championship. In the end ROBERT PEEL triumphed by two points over BRICKHOUSE....."

Tipton Herald 24/9/1960

"It was announced during the presentation of the Harry Griffiths Memorial Darts Cup at the WHEATSHEAF, Windmill End, Netherton, on Thursday of last week that the £25 which had been raised by the competition would be given to St. Peter's Church, Netherton.

A team from the SIR ROBERT PEEL, Blackheath, won the Memorial Cup which was presented by Mr. Richard Griffiths, the son of Mr. Harry Griffiths. Each member of the team – Messrs. G. Harvey, D. Harvey, L. Turner and R. Churchill – received a canteen of cutlery.

Messrs. H. Davies, J. Johnson, N. Lester and C. Law, the 'C' team of the RED LION, Chapel Street, Netherton, won the J. E. Parkes runners-up cup which was presented by the donor. They each received a dinner service The presentations, other than those of the cups, were made by Mrs. D. C. Pardoe, of the OLD SWAN INN, Netherton Mrs. Pardoe said she was delighted at the success of the competition and of the efficient way in which it had been run. She also noted with interest that several young people had entered for it....."

A team from here took part in the Rowley Regis Darts League. [1960/61], [1965/66]

Frank Verdun Davenport was married to Floss.

See also CROWN, GATE HANGS WELL, and LOYAL WASHINGTON (Netherton), and HAMMER, and SMILING MAN (Dudley).

Sandwell Evening Mail 26/9/1986

"Four charities have been given a welcome cash boost thanks to a sponsored walk and other efforts by regulars at a Rowley Regis public house. More than 20 drinking pals at the SIR ROBERT PEEL public house in Rowley Regis and nine children walked seven miles to and from the BARLEY MOW in City Road, Tividale, and helped raise more than £1,000.

A cheque for £454 from the walk – £183 raised alone by Mr. Sidney Blakemore of Mincing Lane, Rowley Regis – was presented to Birmingham Children's Hospital, £182 to Harefield heart hospital and £40 handed over to help physically handicapped people in Smethwick.

Patients at Wolverhampton's Compton Hall Hospice meanwhile, will benefit from further presentations of £335 from the walk, £130 from a bottle collection at the pub and £75 raised by a sponsored slim by barmaid Mrs. Dorothy Jukes.

One of the walk marshals, Mrs. Diane Nock, said, 'It was a very enjoyable day. It was nice to see so much money raised for such worthwhile causes.'"

Sandwell Evening Mail 3/2/1989

"Rowley Regis and Blackheath Horticultural and Allotment Holders' Association holds its annual meeting at the SIR ROBERT PEEL pub, Rowley Regis, next Tuesday."

Sandwell Evening Mail 17/11/1990

"Customers at a Rowley Regis pub have proved they have hearts of gold by raising more than £15,000 for charity in six years.

Regulars at the SIR ROBERT PEEL in Rowley Village have raised a record £3,350 in the last twelve months. Now local charities are set to share in a bumper pay-out which maintains the pub's great fund-raising reputation over the years.

The delighted licensee, Mrs. Evelyn Harvey, said, 'A lot of the credit has to go to one of our customers, Sid Blakemore, who never stops badgering people for money for charity. I have been here for six years, and this latest figure is the most that has ever been raised in a year. The customers are so generous.'

The cash was raised through raffles, a harvest festival, jumble sales and other events.

Organisations which have benefitted are the Compton Hospice at Wolverhampton, the Birmingham Children's Hospital, the Smethwick Club for the Physically Handicapped, Rowley Regis Sons of Rest and the Rowley Physically Handicapped Club.

Other sums will go to the Regis Lodge Old People's Home in Blackheath, the Licensed Victuallers' Association national homes and the blind."

Sandwell Evening Mail 15/2/1991

"Gulf servicemen are in for a sweet surprise thanks to pub and supermarket customers. The SIR ROBERT PEEL, Rowley Regis, and Safeway's in Bearwood raised £186 for parcels of biscuits, sweets, coffee and tea."

Sandwell Evening Mail 21/11/1991

“Charities in the Black Country are to receive £1,850 – thanks to the regulars at the ROBERT PEEL pub in Rowley Village.”

Sandwell Evening Mail 15/5/1993

“A disabled Smethwick woman has been given a new lease of life thanks to kind-hearted regulars at a Rowley Regis pub who raised £700 to buy her a wheelchair. Customers of the SIR ROBERT PEEL in Rowley Village raised the money to help Mrs. Margaret Walker of Londonderry Lane, Smethwick. Their fundraising efforts were made after Margaret, 40, who is paralysed from the waist down, told friends her wheelchair had tipped over three times. She said, ‘It was a wonderful thing for the regulars from the pub to do for me. Although I already have a wheelchair from social services it is not very good and keeps tipping over.’ Regulars at the SIR ROBERT PEEL raised the cash in many ways including boot sales, a sponsored silence and one person even gave up drink for six weeks.”

Evelyn Harvey was married to Don.

Halesowen News 25/7/2011

“A football club is holding a family fun day at a Rowley Regis pub. There will be attractions including face painting and a bouncy castle at the event being staged by Paschendale FC at the SIR ROBERT PEEL on Saturday August 20. The fun kicks off at noon. There will also be a barbecue and Wii sports and darts competitions as well as raffles. The day aims to raise money for the football team which is based at Britannia Park in Halesowen and will end with an eight round quiz.”

Halesowen News 18/4/2012

“Three Rowley Regis friends are recovering after kayaking the length of the River Severn to raise cash for a inspirational blind local girl. John Daniels, Lee Bates and John Fanthom paddled 179 miles over five gruelling days to help raise £5,000 for a new braille computer for five-year-old Mia Daniels. Lisa Teague, Mia’s auntie, helped organise a celebration at the SIR ROBERT PEEL pub on Friday to mark the end of the challenge. She said, ‘The lads worked really hard and paddled extra fast to complete the trip in a grand total of five days instead of seven. The family would like to say a big thank you to Pips Novelty Cakes who made the lads a well done cake and to Helen Hoskin and the Birmingham Canoe club who gave all the lads their training.’ The next fundraising event for Mia is a family fun day at the SIR ROBERT PEEL pub on May Bank Holiday Monday.”

Dudley News 19/6/2014

“Sandwell Sea Cadets are holding a fun day at a Blackheath pub to raise funds for the unit. A barbecue, games and raffle will be held at the SIR ROBERT PEEL, Birmingham Road, on Saturday July 12 from 1pm.”

Halesowen News 22/7/2015

“A family fun day is being staged by Blackheath Royal British Legion on Saturday to raise funds for the branch. The fourth annual event will be at the SIR ROBERT PEEL pub, Rowley Village, starting at 1pm. Attractions will include a prize tombola, barbecue, bouncy castle and live music from a local Ukulele group later in the afternoon.”

Halesowen News 19/7/2017

“A weekend of music and entertainment is to be held in Rowley Regis to support an appeal to fund a wheelchair for a young girl. The SIR ROBERT PEEL pub will host the August bank holiday events as part of efforts to raise £4,000 to purchase a bespoke body moulded wheelchair for 10-year-old Amelia Westwood. Amelia suffers from cerebral palsy and epilepsy and needs the chair to help her travel more comfortably. Performances will take place at the pub between August 25-27 and these include live music from Ivy Road, a Roy Chubby Brown tribute act, Les Harris as Pub Landlord Al Murray and Terry Whitehouse as Mrs. Brown. Organisers said they are looking for more acts to get in touch and perform on the day. Mr. Harris said, ‘Music is medicine for Amelia as she loves coming to the pub with her parents to enjoy the live shows. Unfortunately, she has problems sitting too long and gets uncomfortable so she needs the specially moulded chair to help her. We have organised this fun weekend to help boost the wheelchair fund.’”

Halesowen News 14/7/2021

“A Rowley Regis pub looks set to be offering B&B after plans were given the thumbs up by planners. The SIR ROBERT PEEL pub on Rowley Village will offer bed and breakfast alongside its current operation after a proposal was granted permission. The first floor of the pub will be converted into five bedrooms with en-suites. Plans show three double bedrooms, one single bedroom and one family room on the first floor of the pub. The space is home to an office and function room at the moment. Sandwell Council planners granted permission for the scheme from Mr. P Brar, of Penn, on July 7.”

[2021]

SPRINGFIELDS

Springfield, ROWLEY REGIS

OWNERS

LICENSEES

Letitia Woodhouse [] – 1855);
Joseph White (1855 – [1861]
John Mills [1862]
John Woodhouse [1864] – [1865]
Daniel Mason [] – 1874);
John Tranter (1874 – []

NOTES

SPRINGFIELD HOUSE [1860], [1864]
SPRING HOUSE [1862], [1864], [1865]
SPRING FIELDS INN [1874]

John Woodhouse was also a bricklayer. [1864], [1865]

Aris's Birmingham Gazette 19/11/1864

“On Wednesday evening an accident of a shocking and fatal character, attended with an awful sacrifice of human life, eight human beings being suddenly launched into eternity, occurred at the Counterfield Colliery, situated in the parish of Dudley, and belonging to Messrs. Nock. The pit, it appears, had been at work all day, and the chain to which the skip was suspended had worked in the usual manner. The skip was sent down the shaft the last time before the accident at about a quarter-past six o'clock, with a boy in it, and a number of pikes which were required for use by the miners on the night turn. The ‘hanger on,’ a man named John Slater, noticed that when the skip was about to be drawn up the shaft, eight persons were in, and by his direction one man named Thomas Bateman got off, as there was a sufficient number of men in already. As the skip was ascending, one of the boys jumped on. The skip, with its living human freight, had ascended more than eighty yards up the shaft when a voice was heard to exclaim, ‘O, Lord,’ followed by a piercing scream, and immediately after the skip went crashing to the bottom. All the men were dead when Slater saw them at the bottom of the pit. The first body he recognised was that of his unfortunate brother (William Slater), a youth of 17 years, whose head was cut off by the chain. About 85 yards of the chain fell to the bottom of the pit on to the deceased. The chain had broken when the skip was about half way up the pit. The engineer, Francis Downing, seeing the chain drawn up to the pulley, and suspecting something wrong, at once shut off the steam. On examination he found that the chain had broken, and that a yard of it had gone over the horn and was hanging over the shaft of the drum. The bodies of the unfortunate men at the bottom of the shaft were conveyed to their respective homes to await the Coroner’s investigation into the circumstances connected with their untimely fate.

The inquest on the body of William Slater was opened yesterday by Mr. Edwin Hooper, District Coroner, at the SPRING HOUSE INN, Rowley Regis. Mr. J. P. Baker, the Government Inspector of Mines, attended the inquest. At the commencement of the inquiry the Coroner dismissed four jurors because they were connected slightly with the proprietors of the Counterfield Colliery by business transactions, and the jury was made up by others entirely disinterested in the matter.

The jury, having viewed the body and examined the machinery, John Slater, a miner, living at Springfield, and brother to the deceased, was called, and deposed to the identity of the body, after which the Coroner said he thought that possibly greater justice would be done to the public, the deceased, and other men employed at the pit by having an adjournment. The jury had had the opportunity of seeing the machinery inclusive of the pit frames and the chain. He had taken upon himself to order a part of the chain to be cut off and placed in the hands of a practical person to be tested by hydraulic pressure, that they might be satisfied that there was no fault in connection with it. A report had been spread to the effect that it had been an old chain; he did not know himself personally, but he had, as he had before informed them, taken the proper means to ascertain. If he found that scientific evidence was necessary, he should get such evidence as would satisfy them. He thought it much better that they should see the machinery themselves than hear a description of the same from the mouths of witnesses, so that they might form their own opinion on the subject. The inquest was then formally adjourned until Friday, December the 2nd.

The second inquest was held at the WONDER INN, Tividale, in the parish of Rowley, on the body of Thomas Bowater, who met his death at the same colliery. The Coroner explained what had transpired at the previous inquest, and intimated his intention of adjourning the investigation touching the death of Thomas Bowater until after the first inquiry had been held, as the same witnesses would be required at all the inquiries, though the verdict of one jury would not necessarily affect that of the other. The father of the deceased was then called, and gave evidence of the identity of the body, and the inquest was then adjourned till Tuesday, the 6th proximo.

The Coroner desired the jury to inspect the machinery, as the previous jury had done, and place a police-officer at their disposal who would show them over the works, Messrs. Nock having promised to afford them every facility, and courting a complete and searching investigation. As far as can be ascertained, the catastrophe appears to have been occasioned by the framework having by some means become disarranged, the chain in working over the ‘horn’ got thrown out of its horizontal position and inclined to one side of the horn, instead of working equally over the whole, and the chain would of necessity become worn and thinner in those parts where the friction took place. When the men were ascending the pit on Wednesday night the chain would appear to have been working out of its proper adjustment in the manner described, to have been caught in the horn and swagged over on to the drum, where it snapped in two, as clearly as if it had been cut by a machine.

The inquest on the bodies of the other six unfortunate deceased was opened yesterday afternoon by Mr. B. Robinson, coroner for Dudley, at the DUDLEY ARMS HOTEL, but no further evidence was taken beyond that of establishing the identity of the bodies, and the inquiry was then adjourned for a week for reasons previously enumerated.”

Wolverhampton Chronicle 7/12/1864

“The inquiry into the death of William Slater, one of the eight deceased who lost their lives at the colliery of Messrs. Nock, at Withemore, near Dudley, on the 16th ultimo, was held on Friday, before Mr. E. Hooper, coroner, at the SPRINGFIELD HOUSE INN, Rowley Regis.....

The Coroner, in summing up, observed that the question the Jury had to consider was whether the accident had occurred from mismanagement in consequence of the machinery of the pit having been out of gear, or whether it was in consequence of the oscillation of the chain, caused by the men getting in at the bottom of the pit. They would also have to consider whether or not proper precaution had been taken at the colliery in its working. If they found that death had arisen from the negligence of any person connected with the colliery, and that he was culpably negligent, they would, no doubt, have to return a verdict of manslaughter against such person or persons. At the same time they must be quite certain in their own minds about the matter, and if any doubt existed give the party criminated the benefit of the doubt. There was a doubt as upon whom the responsibility rested. It must rest on some one. It would not do for the colliery proprietor to say that no one was responsible, for if no other person was responsible, the colliery proprietor was.

The Jury deliberated for about three-quarters of an hour, and ultimately found a verdict to the effect that Edwin Nock had been guilty of great neglect in not employing some one as colliery manager, which was, in fact, a verdict of manslaughter.”

[At Staffordshire Lent Assizes Edwin Nock was found not guilty.]

Check ROYAL OAK.

SPRING MEADOW

255, (244), (212), Halesowen Road / Spring Meadow Road, OLD HILL

OWNERS

Atkinsons Ltd.

Julia Hanson and Son Ltd.

Wolverhampton and Dudley Breweries Ltd.

Punch Taverns

Star (Heineken UK) (acquired on 5th March 2018)

LICENSEES

Joseph Pearson [1890]

Mary Ann Guest [1893]

William Foley [1897] – [1899]

Giles Bloomer [1901]

Samuel Boddis [1901] – [1910]

Frederick Cobourne [1911] – [1912]

George Johnson [1919] – 1920);

Bert Adrian Slim (1920);

Thomas Johnson (1920 – 1923);

Jesse Woodhall (1923 – 1930);

William George Hayward (1930);

George Sperring (1930 – 1956);

Eric Taylor (1956 – 1958);

Jack Harris (1958 – 1960);

William Walker (1960 – [1965]

Yvonne Gray [] – 2000)

Andrew Michael Penk [2002]

Justene Victoria Allbutt [2005] – [2007]

Samantha Angela Jones []

NOTES

212, Halesowen Road [1901]
244, Halesowen Road [1911], [1939], [1940]
255, Halesowen Road [1990], [2018]

SPRING MEADOW HOUSE [1970s]

It had an ante '69 beerhouse license.

County Advertiser 27/9/1890

“Adjourned Licensing Session at Old Hill.....

Joseph Pearson, of the SPRING MEADOW INN, Old Hill, made an application for a wine license. Mr. Waldron appeared on his behalf. He knew there was a feeling growing up amongst magistrates against the granting of wine licenses, unless there was a strong case made out. The house was well conducted.

Miss Pearson was called and made a statement. In answer to questions by the police, she said that wines were sold at the GEORGE HOTEL, eighty yards away, and that there were other houses in the street.

Mr. Bassano said there were more houses than were necessary, and they would be taking a step in the wrong direction if they granted the application; therefore they should refuse it.”

Birmingham Daily Post 25/5/1893

“Yesterday, at Old Hill Police Court – before Messrs. W. Bassano, J. H. Smith, and B. Hingley, MP – Samuel John Cooper, of Blythe Bridge, Longton, was charged with obtaining, by means of false pretences, £2 13s 3d from Mary Ann Guest, SPRING MEADOW INN, Old Hill, in September last.

Inspector Bishop stated that at present he was not prepared to go on with the charge, and asked for a remand. He explained that the prisoner’s modus operandi had been to insert an advertisement in some daily papers, which read as follows: ‘Earthenware crates of seconds, £2 each; special crates, best useful good, £3. Write for lists, Earle Works Pottery, Longton, Staffordshire.’ Tradesmen in the district had forwarded money for goods to the prisoner from £1 up to £30, and waited in the expectation of receiving the goods, which, however, never arrived. They had communicated with prisoner on the subject, but did not receive any reply. A few days ago witness received a warrant for prisoner’s arrest, and went to Longton, where he arrested him on the platform of the railway station. In reply to the charge, prisoner said it was all through being ill; but afterwards, on the way to Old Hill, he said it was just what he expected, as he had got himself into a terrible hole. Witness and prisoner went to the post office, where two registered letters were handed to the prisoner. One contained a complaint similar to the one he had mentioned, and the other contained two sovereigns and 5s worth of stamps in payment for some goods. Witness went to various places where prisoner said he carried on business, but found nothing excepting a few pieces of earthenware to indicate that he carried on any such business. Prisoner was remanded for a week, bail being refused.”

Birmingham Daily Post 15/6/1893

“At the Old Hill Police Court, yesterday – before Messrs. W. Bassano, J. H. Smith, and J. Walker – Walter Watson, alias Samuel John Cooper, of Longton, was charged with obtaining, by means of false pretences, £2 13s 3d, from Mary Ann Guest, of Old Hill; £3 from John Lenton, of Netherton; £3 from John Astbury, of Cannock; £2 from Sarah Jane Harper, of Dudley; £2 from Leith Almond, of Dewsbury; £6 from Alexander Wallace, of Ayrshire; £3 from A. Lancaster, of Birmingham; £8 15s from H. Durant, of London; £3 15s from Mary Ann Burnham, of Northampton; £8 5s from Henry Nickless, Old Hill; and £1 10s from Mr. Bullchamber, London. Albert Tunnickliffe and Elizabeth Bradshaw, of Stoke-on-Trent, were charged with aiding and abetting in the offence. Mr. G. H. Hunt, of Hanley, appeared for Watson, and Mr. Wright defended Tunnickliffe.

Mary Ann Guest, of Spring Meadow, said on December 21, she saw an advertisement in one of the daily papers to the following effect: ‘Earthenware crates of seconds, £2 each. Special crates useful goods, £3. Write for lists, Earle Works Pottery, Longton, Staffordshire.’ In consequence she wrote to the works, asking for a price list, and in reply she received the printed list produced. Witness sent an order for some goods and enclosed a postal order for £2 13s 3d in payment of them. By return of post witness received a receipt for the money signed on behalf of the Earle Works Pottery Company with the initials ‘A. T.’ She had never received the goods or any part of them. She had made several applications for the goods, but up to the present she had not received them.

John Lenton, licensed victualler, of Halesowen Road, Netherton, and other witnesses gave similar evidence.

The prisoner Bradshaw said she had nothing to do with it; she was only the servant.

Watson and Tunnickliffe were further charged with obtaining by means of false pretences £34 2s 6d from persons in different parts of the country.

Evidence having been given by persons who had forwarded money for goods, Albert Charles Woolley, assistant superintendent at the Longton Post Office, identified the handwriting of all the prisoners.

Samuel Ashcroft, accountant to the Manchester and Liverpool Branch Bank at Longton, said Cooper had an account with the bank, which was closed in March last owing to the way in which it was carried on.

Arthur Lander Harber, printer of Longton, said in December last the prisoner Tunnickliffe gave him an order to print circulars similar to the one produced, but he could not say in whose handwriting the original copy was in.

Inspector Bishop said he arrested Watson at Longton station, as he alighted from a train. In reply to the charge, prisoner said, 'This is all through being ill. It is nothing more than I expected. It is Tunncliffe who has got me into this; he used to come and see me, and give me a pound or two when I wanted it; he has had the money.' When near the post office witness asked prisoner where the Earle Works were. Prisoner replied, 'It is no good you going up there; there is nothing there only some papers and old stuff. I have done no advertising since long before Christmas, and am trying to send the customers their goods. I stopped all advertisements so that I could keep orders out. I have not a penny in the world. That is my wife's business; I am managing it for her.' Witness then took prisoner to the post office, where he received two registered letters – one from a Mrs. Butt, of Malvern, which contained two sovereigns and 4s 6d in stamps; the other letter was from Mr. Hardy, of Leicester, complaining about the non-delivery of his goods. Witness, accompanied by Superintendent Evans, visited the Earle Works, and there he failed to find any signs of any manufacture whatever, and the place appeared to be deserted. On the 3rd inst witness arrested Tunncliffe at Stoke. To the charge he made no reply. On the following Sunday Tunncliffe made a confession, in which he said he should be a better witness than a prisoner. As regarded the charge of conspiracy against him, he said he did not know what papers to advertise in. When Watson was taken ill he asked him to look after his business, and also to see after the back orders. Whatever he had done in the matter had been done at the request of Watson, and he had paid all moneys into the bank. When he told Watson that he had received letters of complaint Watson said, 'They cannot hurt me; it is a bona fide business.' Witness received the female prisoner into custody that morning.

In reply to the bench witness said he communicated with 200 persons, and had received eighty-seven complaints. Forty-five persons had sent the prisoner Watson money and received goods; thirteen persons had not received either money or goods.

At this point the Court adjourned until ten o'clock this morning."

[The prisoners were eventually committed to the Staffordshire Quarter Sessions. On 27th June 1893, Walter Watson (36), potter; Albert Tunncliffe (32), clerk, and Elizabeth Achaan Bradshaw (28), barmaid, were charged with conspiracy to defraud, and found guilty. Watson and Tunncliffe were sentenced to five years' penal servitude, and the case against Bradshaw was dismissed.]

County Advertiser 18/12/1897

"William Humphries, chainmaker, of High Street, Quarry Bank, was charged with drunkenness and refusing to quit the licensed premises of the SPRING MEADOW HOUSE, and also with allowing his dog to be at large unmuzzled. William Foley, landlord of the SPRING MEADOW HOUSE, stated that on the 19th of November, he requested defendant who was drunk to leave the house but he refused to do so. He became very violent, kicked the piano and tore one of the customers hat up. He also tried to set his dog on witness and pulled its muzzle off.

Inspector Given gave evidence.

Defendant was fined 5s and costs for drunkenness, 10s and costs for refusing to quit, and 1s and costs for allowing his dog to be at large unmuzzled. The total was £1 17s 6d."

County Advertiser 21/1/1899 - Advert

"Old Hill. Important Sale of Valuable Freehold Property.

E. H. Boilstone has been instructed by Mr. E. H. Westwood, to Sell by Auction, at the House of Mr. Wm. Foley, SPRING MEADOW INN, Old Hill, on Tuesday, January 31st, 1899, at Six for Seven o'clock in the Evening....."

County Advertiser 28/10/1899 - Advert

"Wanted, General, suitable for Public-house.

Apply, Mrs. Foley, SPRING MEADOW INN, Old Hill."

County Advertiser 11/8/1900

"Local Miners and the Wages Question.

On Saturday evening the members of the lodge held at the SPRING MEADOW HOUSE, Old Hill, celebrated their first anniversary, when a large number sat down to an excellent supper. Afterwards a miner presided, and an address was delivered by Mr. B. Winwood (miners' agent) upon the wages question. He remarked that the miners might do worse by not accepting the settlement suggested at the conference in London the previous week, as the terms, if agreed upon by both sides, meant a 15 per cent increase in their wages, and by their acceptance they would of course reach the maximum point of 60 per cent above the 1888 prices. The increase had to be paid in three instalments of 5 per cent each, in October, January, and February next, and he was bound to confess that he did not think the maximum would be obtained as quickly under the existing arrangements as it would be should the recommendations of the recent conference be adopted. He also pointed out that the way in which the advance was to be conceded would not be so likely to injure the coal trade or affect prices as though the whole of the 15 per cent were granted at once. He thought the miners could venture to feel pleased with such results from their united efforts, and urged them to stick to their combination. Resolutions in support of the Federation and organisation was passed, and the meeting also endorsed the opinions of Mr. Winwood with regard to the wages question."

County Express 26/1/1901

"Giles Bloomer, landlord of the SPRING MEADOW beerhouse, Old Hill, was charged with permitting drunkenness. Mr. McCardle (instructed by Messrs. Redfern and Co.) defended.

Inspector Given said at 5.15pm on the 9th he visited the defendant's house and found a man named Thomas Norwood sitting on a bench in the front room with a pint cup half full of ale in front of him. Norwood drank the ale and went towards the doorway staggering, and he eventually fell. Defendant expressed his sorrow, and said he did not think Norwood was so bad, and he hoped the inspector would overlook it. He had been killing a pig or two, and Norwood had been helping him, and had not had beyond his share of drink, and one other pint. Police-constable Plant also gave evidence.

Mr. McCardle, for the defence, suggested it was necessary that the prosecution should prove the man Norwood was drunk within the knowledge of the defendant, and that the defendant actually permitted him to remain in his house knowing he was drunk. He submitted that the evidence did not show anything about Norwood's state to attract the defendant's attention. The pig killing began at 2 o'clock and lasted till 5. The share of drink Norwood had during that time would not be more than 1½ pints, and only a pint afterwards, so that in all he had only 2½ pints. From what he knew of miners, this was not their capacity of drinking. Defendant had only recently gone into the public house, and, having invested all his savings in it, it was hardly likely he would run the risk of having a drunken man on his premises.

The defendant, his wife, Henry Millard, and George Jackson gave evidence, and caused some amusement by their answers as to the pig killing.

Defendant was fined £5 and costs."

AND

"Thomas Norwood, Spring Meadow, Old Hill, was fined 10s and costs for being drunk on licensed premises."

1901 Census

212, Halesowen Road – SPRING MEADOW INN

[1] Samuel Boddis (24), vermin trap maker and innkeeper, born Wolverhampton;

[2] Florence Rose Boddis (26), wife, born Wednesfield;

[3] Gertie Saffley (19), sister-in-law, unmarried, barmaid, born Wednesfield:

County Express 21/12/1901

"Joseph Johnson, of 27, Spring Meadow, Old Hill, pleaded guilty to a charge of refusing to quit the SPRING MEADOW TAV-ERN, Old Hill, on December 14th, and also to a charge of assaulting the landlord, Samuel Boddis. According to the landlord, Johnson went into the house in a drunken condition, and upon being asked to leave refused to do so. The landlord went to eject him when Johnson struck him in the mouth. Upon the landlord threatening to send for the police the defendant left the house. There was a further charge against the defendant of being drunk and disorderly on the same date. PC Gratage proved this offence. For refusing to quit defendant was fined 10s and costs, for the assault 1s and costs, and for being drunk and disorderly was ordered to pay the costs."

County Advertiser 19/1/1907

"The appeal recently issued by the miners' agent (Mr. B. Winwood) has had the effect of materially strengthening the organisation in Old Hill, Blackheath, Rowley Regis, and Halesowen districts. As a result it has been found necessary to start a new lodge at the DUKE WILLIAM INN, Old Hill, and also to revive an old society at the SPRING MEADOW INN, Old Hill, whilst there is some talk of a movement in Halesowen for the formation of a new lodge. The whole of the miners are receiving an advance of 5 per cent in their wages, conceded by the masters when the terms for the re-establishment of the Conciliation Board were discussed."

1911 Census

244, Halesowen Road – SPRING MEADOW INN

[1] Fred Cobourne (44), public house manager, born Quarry Bank;

[2] Clara Jane Cobourne (43), wife, married 3 years, born Cradley;

[3] James Bertram Cobourne (1), son, born Quarry Bank:

Frederick Cobourne, beer retailer, 244, Halesowen Road. [1912]

Evening Despatch 20/7/1914

"The members of the Old Hill Branch of the National Federation of Miners had their annual dinner on Saturday, the club rooms at the DUKE WILLIAM, High Street; the SPRING MEADOW, Halesowen Road; and the KINGS HEAD, Elbow Street, being used for the occasion....."

Jesse Woodhall = Jesse Woodall

See also HORSE SHOE.

Birmingham Daily Gazette 14/9/1929 - Advert

"By Order of Messrs. Atkinsons Brewery Limited and Messrs. Peter Walker & Co. Limited.

In The Black Country Industrial Area, and Embracing Properties in Staffordshire and Worcestershire.

Important Sale In Separate Lots, of 45 Freehold Licensed Houses, some with adjoining properties, and including 36 Fully-licensed Houses, 8 On-Beer Houses and 1 Off-License, situate in.....

Old Hill and Cradley.....

SPRING MEADOW, Old Hill.....

Boswell & Tomlins, FAI, in conjunction with William Fowler, Bewlay & Co., Will submit the above for Sale by Public Auction, in 45 Lots (subject to Conditions of Sale), at the Grand Hotel, Birmingham, on Monday, October 14, 1929, Commencing at 3.30 pm Promptly.

Printed particulars may be obtained from the Solicitors, Messrs. Redfern and Co., 25, Colmore Row, Birmingham; or from the Auctioneers, Messrs. Boswell and Tomlins, FIA, 88 and 89, Darlington Street, Wolverhampton (Tel. No.1116 (two lines), Telegrams 'Auctions'), and Messrs. William Fowler, Bewlay and Co., 59, Temple Row, Birmingham (Tel. Midland 6120)."

Birmingham Daily Gazette 15/10/1929

"An important sale of freehold licensed premises in the Black Country was held at the Grand Hotel, Birmingham, yesterday, when Messrs. Boswell and Tomlins, Wolverhampton, and Messrs. William Fowler, Bewlay and Co., Birmingham, offered 45 lots, the vendors of which were Messrs. Atkinsons Brewery Ltd, and Messrs. Peter Walker and Co. Ltd.

Of the 45 lots which were situate at West Bromwich, Tipton, Dudley, Brierley Hill, Old Hill, and Stourbridge, 32 were sold at the sale, and these realised over £80,000.....

SPRING MEADOW, Halesowen Road, Old Hill, was sold for £3,300."

Dudley Herald 27/6/1931

"George Sperring licensee of the SPRING MEADOW, Old Hill was fined £5 with £3 3s costs for suffering gambling on his licensed premises.....

They [the Bench] did so hoping that he would in future conduct his house in such a way that never again could such a charge be brought against him. They were of the opinion that if he honoured their faith in him his license would be renewed at the end of the licensing year."

1939 Register

244, Halesowen Road

[1] George Sperring, date of birth 13/5/1902, licensed victualler, married, AFS Rowley Regis;

[2] Doris Sperring, dob 22/4/1905, unpaid domestic duties, married;

A publican's license was granted on 2nd February 1949.

It was transferred to a full license on 27th April 1949.

Birmingham Daily Post 30/6/1955

"As a fire engine from the Old Hill section of Staffordshire fire brigade was answering a call to an outbreak at the works of B. Priest and Co., Old Hill last night, it collided with the corner of a public house at the junction of Halesowen Road and Spring Meadow Road. Halesowen Road was partially blocked for some time. Another engine went to the fire which was quickly extinguished."

Sandwell Evening Mail 22/8/1991

"A sponsored darts marathon will take place on Saturday at the SPRING MEADOW, Halesowen Road, Old Hill. Eight players are taking part. Money will go to Mascot – Make a Sick Child's Dream Come True."

Medda Villans (Aston Villa fan club) was based here. [2005]

Halesowen News 21/8/2012

"A Cradley Heath dad who suffered a stroke aged just 38 has raised £800 for two organisations which helped him back to health. Richard Plant held a retro music night at the SPRING MEADOW pub in Old Hill to raise cash for Rowley Regis Hospital and The Stroke Association. The father of one was driving down the M6 last September when he suffered a stroke."

Samantha Angela Jones, 10 Grace Road, Tividale, unemployed, lately residing at 16 Greenhill Road, Dudley, and lately carrying on business as the GEORGE, Birmingham Road, Oldbury, the BULLS HEAD, Birmingham Street, Oldbury, the OAK AND IVY, Oxford Street, Bilston, the DOG AND PARTRIDGE, Sandwell Street, Walsall, the PRINCE BLUTCHER, Stafford Street, Walsall, the ROYAL OAK, Daw End Lane, Rushall, and the SPRING MEADOW, Halesowen Road, Old Hill, filed for bankruptcy in the County Court at Dudley on 1 March 2016.

Express & Star 12/7/2018

"A woman was taken to hospital after a fire broke out in the home above a Black Country pub. Crews from Haden Cross Fire rushed to the SPRING MEADOW pub, Halesowen Road, Old Hill, just before 7pm yesterday. The blaze started in the front bedroom upstairs with customers rushing up to tackle it with fire extinguishers as it spread.

Dramatic footage posted to social media by firefighters on the scene shows the extent of the damage left behind – with walls charred and multiple rooms of the living quarter devastated by the fire.

Three people were treated on the scene for smoke inhalation and a woman was sent to Russells Hall Hospital but was later released – with crews also working to rescue a cat from the fire. In their online post Haden Cross Fire also urged members of the public to close doors in a bid to limit the damage and spread of fire.

Haden Cross Fire watch commander Justin Bayliss, 39, whose colleague crew commander Andrew Pincher was on the scene responding, said, 'It was last night around 7pm just before the football kicked off. Three people were treated on scene for smoke inhalation. A couple of people in the bar went up with fire extinguishers. One lady went to hospital but was released and a cat was rescued. Crews were there around two and a half hours. The downstairs has remained relatively intact with just a bit of water damage. I think it has been put down as accidental. We went back just to check on the pub itself. The incident has been closed.'"

[2018]

Closed [2019]

Halesowen News 14/6/2021

“The driver of a car which slammed into a wall at an Old Hill pub ran off. The car crashed into the wall of the SPRING MEADOW pub on Spring Meadow, off Halesowen Road. Police and firefighters were at the scene at 8pm on Friday (June 11). Two crews from Haden Cross Fire Station went to the incident at the pub, which has been closed for a number of years.....”

It reopened on 17th September 2021 following restoration.

[2021]

STORK

Four Ways, CRADLEY HEATH

OWNERS

LICENSEES

John Simons [] – 1866);

NOTES

County Advertiser 13/10/1866 - Advert

“STORK INN, Four Ways, Cradley Heath.

Neat Household Furniture, Eight-Day Spring Clock, &c.

Mr. Chandler will Sell by Auction, on Monday Next, October 15th, 1866, at Eleven o'clock, the useful Household Furniture, consisting of Tent and Iron French Bedsteads, Wool Mattresses, Bed Clothing, Beds, Wash Stands, Dressing Tables, Toilet Glasses, Maple-painted Chest of Drawers, Windsor Chairs, Square, Centre, and other Tables, Mahogany Sofa, Kitchen Screen, large Double Cupboard, Eight-day Spring Clock, Kitchen Requisites, and Effects of Mr. J. Simons, at the STORK INN, Four Ways, Cradley Heath, being surplus Goods not taken to by the in-coming Tenant.”

County Advertiser 13/10/1866 - Notice

“Notice to Debtors and Creditors.

All Persons having any Claims or Demands on the Estate of the late John Simons, of the STORK INN, Four Ways, Cradley Heath, in the County of Stafford, Beer Retailer, Deceased, are requested to transmit the full particulars thereof to me forthwith. And all Persons who are Indebted to the said Estate are required to pay the amount of their respective Debts to me on or before the 29th day of October, 1866, otherwise legal proceedings will be instituted for the recovery thereof, without further notice.

Dated this 11th day of October, 1866.

Alfred Chandler, Auctioneer, Cradley Heath, 11th October, 1866.”

SWAN

25, (17), (23) Providence Street / Foxoak Street, (Union Street), CRADLEY HEATH

OWNERS

George Burford [1882], [1887]

Alfred Aston Snr. [1893]

Alfred Aston Jnr.

Thomas Oliver Ltd, West Bromwich [1920]

William Butler and Co. Ltd. (acquired on 24th April 1945)

Mitchells and Butlers Ltd.

Stanley John ‘Stan’ Owen (acquired c.1979)

Holdens Brewery (leased from 1983)

LICENSEES

Joseph Bagley [1868]
William Hadley [] – 1869);
Alphonso Shaw (1869 – 1873);
Richard Burford (1873 – 1875);
Alfred Aston Snr. (1875 – 1928);
Alfred Aston Jnr. (1928);
Harold W Jasper (1928 – 1963);
Brian John Bevan (1963 – 1965);
Arthur Sutton (1965 – 1966);
John Howard Bridgens (1966 – 1968);
Joan Billingham (1968);
Eric John Spooner (1968 – 1976);
Clark Edward Stevens (1976 – 1978);
Elizabeth Law (1978);
Stan Owen (1980 – 1982);
Ted Lloyd (1982 – []
Carl Kneeshaw [1983] – 1988);
Ashton Eric Greenwood (1988);
John Nicholls (1990 – [1994]
Mrs. Shirley Bishop (1997 – [1998]
Gary Steven Mole [2007]
Paul Mole [2013] – [2014]
Simon Giles [2015]
Matt Howl [2018]

NOTES

17, Providence Street [1881], [1891], [1901], [1912], [1916], [1921], [1924], [1932]
23, Providence Street [1896]
25, Providence Street [1939], [1940], [1983], [1997]

It was known locally as “Jaspers”.

It had a beerhouse license.

It was a home brew house.

County Advertiser 30/1/1869 - Advert

“William Hadley, SWAN INN, Newtown, Cradley Heath, begs to inform the Creditors of Joseph Bagley, who formerly occupied the said house, that he paid him for stock and fixtures, according to the valuation, on December 14th, 1868, and that he has no claim on him whatever.”

Alphonso Shaw = Alphens Shaw = Alphonsus Shaw = Alfred Shaw

1871 Census

Union Street – SWAN INN

- [1] Alphens Shaw (41), beer seller, born Kingswinford;
- [2] Jane Shaw (38), wife, born Kingswinford;
- [3] Harry Shaw (16), son, anchor smith’s striker, born Kingswinford;
- [4] George Shaw (15), son, labourer at furnace, born Kingswinford;
- [5] Sarah Shaw (12), daughter, scholar, born Kingswinford;
- [6] Margaret Shaw (10), daughter, scholar, born Kingswinford;
- [7] Elizabeth Shaw (8), daughter, scholar, born Kingswinford;

County Advertiser 12/8/1871 - Advert

“Stolen or Strayed, a Black and Tan Dog, with a white mark on his breast.
Anyone returning him to the WHITE SWAN, Cradley Heath, will be rewarded for their trouble

Alfred Aston = Alfred Austin

County Express 16/10/1875 - Advert

“Providence Street, Cradley Heath.

Mr. T. Homer will Sell by Auction, on Tuesday Next, October 19th 1875, Seven Pairs of Smiths’ Bellows, Six Sets of Chain Makers’ Tools, Five Water Boshes, and Fire Irons, Vices, Anvils, Tongs, Harness, &c, &c, (under distraint for rent), removed for convenience of Sale to the SWAN INN, Providence Street, Cradley Heath.
Sale to commence at 11 o’clock.”

County Advertiser 29/1/1876

“James Mansell was charged with being drunk and refusing to quit the SWAN INN, Cradley Heath, on the 17th inst, and further with damaging a shirt and a pane of glass.

Alfred Aston, landlord of the above inn, said defendant came to his house, on the 17th, drunk, and behaved in a very disorderly manner. He refused to supply him with ale, and ordered him out of the house, but he refused to go. He then attempted to eject him, and defendant broke a pane of glass and tore his shirt, the damage amounting to 4s 4d.

Defendant was fined 5s and costs on the first charge, and ordered to pay the damages and costs in the latter.”

County Express 26/2/1876

“Alfred Aston, landlord of the SWAN INN, Providence Street, Cradley Heath, was charged with having sold a quantity of ale after 11 o’clock on the night of the 15th inst.

Police-constable Cooper said that on the night in question, about 11-15, he was on duty near to the back door of the defendant’s house in company with Police-constable Styles, and he saw a man carrying a can of ale. He accosted the man, and on tasting the ale, found it was fresh and appeared to having been recently filled. In the meantime defendant came up and in answer to a question put to him, said that he had filled the ale a considerable time before, but the man had been holding a conversation with him in the brewhouse, and that accounted for his presence at that time. Witness, on going into the house, found two men there. One was drunk and very abusive. Witness observed that it was after 11 o’clock when the person entered the house for the ale.

Police-constable Styles gave similar evidence.

The Bench cautioned defendant and inflicted a fine of 5s and costs.”

Dudley Herald 22/7/1876

“Alfred Aston, landlord of the SWAN INN, Cradley Heath, was charged with having in his possession on the 4th May, 12lbs of sugar, not being for the necessary or ordinary use of his family, he not being licensed to brew with sugar. Mr. Hayes appeared for the defendant, who pleaded guilty.

Mr. Hayes addressed the magistrates for the defence, and said that although his client had pleaded guilty to the charge, the sugar was really for the use of his family.

Mr. Hingley said he would like to know how it was the defendant was summoned if that was the case.

Mr. Perry, solicitor, Stourbridge, who prosecuted in behalf of the Excise authorities, stated that it was on account of the sugar being found on the top of a cask in the cellar.

Mr. Brain, supervisor of Excise, corroborated this statement, and added that there were also a number of paper bags in the cellar which had also contained sugar.

The Magistrates refused to make any recommendation that the fine should be reduced, and fined the defendant in the mitigated penalty of £50.”

1881 Census

17, Providence Street – SWAN INN

[1] Alfred Aston (35), cooper and publican, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Emma J. Aston (35), wife, born Rowley Regis;

[3] Laura Aston (10), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis;

[4] Alfred Aston (7), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;

[5] Ellen Aston (5), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis;

[6] Francis J. Aston (3), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;

[7] William T. T. Aston (1), son, born Rowley Regis;

[8] Thomas S. Tromans (71), father-in-law, widower, boot and shoe maker, born Rowley Regis:

County Express 15/10/1881

“On Wednesday last Mr. E. Hooper held an inquest at the SWAN INN, Providence Street, Cradley Heath, on the body of William Thomas Tromans Aston, aged 2 years, the son of the landlord.

On the 24th ult the boy’s mother had taken a pan of boiling water from the fire, and set it down on the kitchen floor. The boy, who was playing in the kitchen at the time, fell backwards over it, and was so badly scalded that he died on the 9th inst. He was attended by Dr. Standish.

A verdict of Accidental Death was returned.”

Dudley and District News 6/5/1882 - Advert

“To Coopers. Wanted, a good Dry Cask Maker.

Apply, Alfred Aston, Cooper, &c, Cradley Heath.”

Dudley and District News 13/5/1882

“Nehemiah Stafford, Pear Street, Old Hill, cooper, was summoned by Alfred Aston, Cradley Heath, cooper, to recover the sum of £1 5s 6d for money advanced on work and 10s for loss sustained in lieu of 14 days’ notice.

Complainant said defendant had drawn the first amount in various sums at different times.

Defendant said he had been working for the complainant but during the past year he had not had a fortnights work. The money was lent him when he was out of work and because complainant had no work he told him that he might go and look for work.

The Bench ordered defendant to pay £1 5s 6d in two months.”

County Express 2/9/1882 - Notice

“To the Overseers of the Poor of the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford, and to the Superintendent of Police of the District or Division of Rowley Regis, and to whom it may concern.

I, Alfred Aston, Beerhouse Keeper, now residing at the SWAN, Cradley Heath, in the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford, do Hereby Give Notice that it is my intention to apply, at the Adjourned General Annual Licensing Meeting, for the Division of Rowley Regis, to be holden at the Public Office, at Old Hill, in the said County, on the 27th day of September instant, for a Seven Days’ License to hold an Excise License to sell Beer and Cider by Retail, to be consumed on and off the premises, situate at Cradley Heath, in the Parish of Rowley Regis aforesaid, in pursuance of the Act 11, George IV, and 1Wm. IV, Cap. 64, and Acts amending the same, of which said premises one George Burford is the owner, and the same are of the annual value by law required, and are now in my own occupation.

Given under my hand this 1st day of September, 1882. Alfred Aston.

Witness: Frank Harris, Clerk to Mr. John Wright, Solicitor, Cradley Heath.”

Dudley and District News 30/9/1882

“Old Hill Adjourned Licensing Sessions.....

Mr. Oldershaw, Blackheath, applied on behalf of Thomas Hadley, the proprietor of the HANDEL HOTEL, Blackheath, for a six days’ license to be altered to a seven days’. Mr. J. Wright, Cradley Heath, made a similar application on behalf of Alfred Aston, of Providence Street, Cradley Heath. Mr. Wright explained that the application was made really in the interests of the landlord of the premises to which the license was attached. Some time ago it was a seven days’ license; but, without the sanction of the landlord, it was reduced to a six days’, which had materially lessened the value of the property. Both applications were refused.”

Dudley and District News 6/1/1883

“A complimentary supper in honour of the return of Mr. C. S. Cave as a member of the Rowley School Board was given on Thursday evening at the house of Mr. Alfred Aston, SWAN INN, Providence Street, Cradley Heath. Between twenty and thirty gentlemen sat down to an excellent supper, served in a manner which reflected great credit upon the host and hostess.....”

Dudley and District News 8/3/1884

“Alfred Aston, of the SWAN INN, was charged with permitting drunkenness on his licensed premises on the 23rd of February. The case was dismissed.”

County Express 15/3/1884

“William Wright, Cradley Heath, was charged with being drunk on the premises of Alfred Aston, the SWAN INN, Cradley Heath, on the 23rd ult. Police-constable Tytherley and another officer visited the premises about ten o’clock at night, and found the defendant very drunk. A fine of 1s and costs was imposed.”

County Advertiser 3/4/1886 - Advert

“Rowley Regis Local Board Election, 1886.

The following Gentlemen, who are all Liberals and thoroughly interested in the Working Classes, have been Nominated as Candidates to represent Rowley Regis at the Board of Guardians, and ask the Ratepayers and Owners to Record their Votes in their favour.

Geo. Wood, Tividale, Brick Manufacturer; Benj. Hadley, Blackheath, Gentleman; David Willetts, Cradley Heath, Nail and Chain Manufacturer; Alfred Aston, Cradley Heath, Cooper and Brewer.

Nominated by Mr. Geo. Green, Esq.

Do Not Allow the Tories to Tamper with your Voting Papers.”

Birmingham Daily Post 1/9/1886

“Yesterday an inquest was held at the SWAN INN, Cradley Heath, before Mr. Hooper, coroner, on the body of Maud Ella Watts (3), who was found drowned in a well at the back of her parent’s premises, on Friday last.

Sarah Ann Watts, mother of deceased, stated that her daughter left home at about 9.30am, and as she did not return at dinner-time, and not being able to ascertain her whereabouts she and her husband sounded the well, and found the body of her child at the bottom.

The Coroner said he did not think in the whole of his experience he had met such a case of gross neglect, for the well was quite level with the ground, and in his opinion, it was a regular ‘death trap.’ He severely censured the parents for not having had the well covered over, saying that they had from their neglect largely contributed to the death of the child, and it was his duty to enforce them to have it made safe immediately.

A verdict of Accidentally Drowned was returned.”

Birmingham Mail 28/9/1887

“Old Hill Adjourned Licensing Sessions.

At the Old Hill Police Court today, before Messrs. W. Holcroft and W. Bassano, Mr. Travis applied for a seven days’ license, on behalf of Mr. Aston, of the SWAN INN, Cradley Heath. He pointed out that the house had been licensed for the sale of beer for many years, and originally had a seven days’ license instead of six, but the occupier of the house closed it on Sundays, and thus lost a very valuable privilege. He now asked the Bench to reinstate the old license. With regard to encouraging Sunday trade his client was not an advocate of it, and was quite willing to close providing that the whole of the publicans did so. It had made a material difference to applicant’s trade, being compelled to close on Sundays, as the customers that went to the house for beer on the week days were compelled to go elsewhere on the Sunday. The application was granted.”

Dudley Mercury 3/3/1888

“Mr. E. Hooper, coroner, of South Staffordshire, held an inquest at the SWAN INN, Cradley Heath, on Tuesday afternoon, touching the death of Elizabeth Weston (61), of Foxoak Street. After having her supper on Wednesday last, she was walking up stairs, and after getting about half way she fell down. She was picked up by her daughter and put to bed. Next day she complained of a pain in the side. A doctor was sent for, but in the interim she died.

A verdict of Accidental Death was returned.”

In May 1888 an inquest was held here on Esther Ann Tilley, 2½ years old, who was killed while crossing Lord Dudley’s railway at Saltwells. A verdict of Accidental Death was returned. The jury said that a man ought to be stationed at the crossing to keep children off the line.

Alfred Aston was elected to the Rowley Board of Guardians in 1889.

Birmingham Daily Post 26/3/1891

“Rowley. Appointment of Overseers. At the Old Hill Police Court, yesterday, the following were appointed overseers for the parish of Rowley for the ensuing year Alfred Aston.”

1891 Census

17, Providence Street

- [1] Alfred Aston (45), beerseller and cooper, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Eliza J. Aston (45), wife, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] Laura Aston (20), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Alfred Aston (17), son, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Ellen Aston (15), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] Francis J. Aston (13), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [7] Charles Fokes (26), domestic servant, born Rowley Regis:

County Express 29/7/1893 - Notice

“To the Overseers of the Poor of the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford, and to the Superintendent of Police of the District or Division of Rowley Regis, in the said County, and to all whom it may concern.

I, Alfred Aston, Beerhouse Keeper, now residing at the SWAN INN, Cradley Heath, in the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford, do Hereby Give Notice that it is my intention to Apply, at the General Annual Licensing Meeting, for the Division of Rowley Regis, to be holden at the Public Office, at Old Hill, in the said County, on the 23rd day of August, 1893, for the Grant of a License or Certificate authorising me to apply for and hold an Excise License for the Sale by Retail at the House and Premises, situate and known as the SWAN INN, Cradley Heath, in the Parish of Rowley Regis aforesaid, of all Intoxicating Liquors to be consumed either on or off the Premises in pursuance of the Intoxicating Liquor Licensing Act, 1828, and Acts amending the same, of which said Premises I am the owner, and the same are of the annual value by law required, and are now in my own occupation. Given under my hand this 25th day of July, 1893.

Alfred Aston.”

County Advertiser 26/8/1893

“The annual licensing sessions of the Rowley Regis Petty Sessional Division were held on Wednesday.....

Mr. John Wright applied, on behalf of Alfred Aston, owner and occupier of the SWAN INN, Providence Street, for a spirit license, and in doing so pointed out that frequent applications were made to Mr. Aston for liquor, and he was unable to supply it. The nearest full-licensed public house was 250 yards away, and the population was thick and growing rapidly. The character of the applicant was good, and he hoped the Bench would grant the application.

Mr. Aston gave evidence in support of these statements, and said the house was rated at £31 a year.

A memorial against the granting of the license was presented by Mr. Goodman (magistrates’ clerk), and it was also opposed by Mr. Clift, who said the evil of drunkenness would be increased by the granting of the application.

Mr. Bassano said the Bench thought if there was a case in the parish in which an old license should be granted it was this case.

They had decided to grant it, and he would like to see all old beerhouses with full licenses, so that the power of the magistrates to control them would be increased.”

Staffordshire Advertiser 14/10/1893

“The annual meeting of the County Licensing Committee was held at the Shire Hall, Stafford, on Saturday for the purpose of confirming new licenses and of hearing objections (if any). . . .

The committee confirmed licenses which had been granted to

Alfred Austin, SWAN INN, Cradley Heath (who was represented by Mr. Wright, of Cradley Heath).”

County Advertiser 28/10/1893 - Advert

“Cradley Heath.

To be Sold by Auction, by Mr. T. Homer, under Bill of Sale, on Monday Next, October 30th, 1893, a capital Bay Mare, about 16 hands high; set of Brass-mounted Harness, Five Sets of Chainmakers’ Tools, including Bellows, Anvils, Stakes, Swages, Oliver Tools, &c, &c; also Weighing Machine, by Avery; Chairs, Clocks, Filters, Gas Fittings, Barometer, by Fitzroy, &c.

The above are removed for convenience to Mr. A. Aston’s, the SWAN INN, Providence Street.

Sale at Two o’clock.”

County Advertiser 31/3/1894

“The names of Alfred Aston were submitted as overseers for the parish of Rowley, and the Bench gave their sanction to the election of the gentlemen named.”

Alfred Aston, beer retailer and cooper, 23, Providence Street. [1896]

County Express 10/4/1897

“An inquest was held on Wednesday, by Mr. Betham (deputy coroner) at the SWAN INN, Providence Street, upon Benjamin Woodhouse (67), chainmaker, Providence Street. Joseph Woodhouse, Copeland Place, said the deceased, who was his father, had not been in good health for the last few years. On the 31st March he fell downstairs, and died from the accident on the 3rd inst. Dr. Tibbetts, who attended the deceased, said he had concussion of the brain. Deceased had never fallen down the stairs before, but his mother had fallen down there three times. Elizabeth Woodhouse said she was attending on her father. He had a fall downstairs on the 31st March, from which he died on the 3rd inst. He was attending on her mother, who was upstairs, when she heard him fall from the top to the bottom of the stairs. Some of the jury spoke of the dangerous nature of the stairs, and the Coroner said he would request the landlord to have the same attended to. A verdict of Accidental Death was then returned.”

County Express 8/12/1900

“William Bridgwater, of Providence Street, died on Tuesday night from the results of an accident on the 5th inst, when he fell into a vat of vitriol at Messrs. Glaze’s bucket works, Foxoak Street.

It was stated the deceased went to the works in an intoxicated condition, became abusive, and was requested to leave. This he refused to do, so the police were sent for. Just as Police-constable Maisey arrived the deceased fell into a vat of vitriol and died from the injuries he received on Tuesday night. He was attended by Drs. Tibbetts and Fry.

The inquest was held yesterday by Mr. H. A. Pearson, at the SWAN INN, Providence Street, Cradley Heath.

The evidence showed that shortly after two o’clock on the 5th inst deceased returned to work in a very drunken condition, and commenced to quarrel with the workmen. Mr. Walter Glaze, the proprietor, refused to allow deceased to work, and sent for a policeman. Deceased’s brother and a man named William Bird tried to persuade him to go home, but he snatched himself away from Bird, who had got hold of him, and fell headforemost into the vat, which contained nine inches of acid, and a quantity of which deceased swallowed. He was attended by Dr. Fryer, but died on Wednesday from pneumonia following the injuries.

The jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death.”

1901 Census

17, Providence Street

[1] Alfred Aston (55), brewer, born Cradley Heath;

[2] Emma J. Aston (54), wife, born Cradley Heath;

[3] Alfred Aston (27), son, cooper, born Cradley Heath;

[4] Ellen Aston (25), daughter, born Cradley Heath;

[5] Francis J. Aston (23), son, brewer and cooper, born Cradley Heath:

County Advertiser 6/4/1901 - Advert

“Dudley Union. Election of Guardians. Rowley Regis District.

Ladies and Gentlemen.

We desire to express our concurrence and satisfaction that a contest has been amicably avoided.

We shall always endeavour to administer the Poor Laws with equity, and to promote in every way their proper and true working. Especially shall we watch over the particular interests of our own district. Residing amongst you, we shall always esteem it a pleasure to be of service in any shape or form so far as we possibly can consistent with our duties.

We shall not hesitate to try and secure any reforms we think beneficial, provided they do not increase financial burdens.

Economy, progress, and reform is our motto, and assuring you of our best services as your representatives.

We remain, Your obedient Servants, Alfred Aston, John Darby, James Gill, Samuel Grove, Joseph Edward Harris.”

County Express 13/12/1902

“Mr. H. A. Pearson (coroner) held an inquest at the SWAN INN, Cradley Heath, on Tuesday, concerning the death of Fred Warren (21), a riveter, of Silverthorne Lane, Cradley Heath, who was fatally injured while following his employment at the Cradley Boiler Works on Friday last. Mr. J. E. Ashworth (inspector of factories), was present, and Mr. Sharrocks, of Wolverhampton, watched the proceedings on behalf of the Boilermakers' Association.

Emily Warren, sister of deceased, residing at Banbury, said deceased had described to her how he met with the accident. He went to fetch his riveting machine, when a tank, which was being rolled off a trolley, struck him as he was passing, and wedged him between it and another tank. He died early on Sunday morning.

Frank Bate, a riveter, of Cradley, employed at the works, said he and some other men were engaged in moving the tank off a trolley to the ground, and a scotch was put in the way, but the tank jumped the scotch, and deceased who was near, was wedged in between this tank and another. Witness saw deceased walk out when the tank was removed, and he did not appear to be injured much. He (witness) had warned all the men to keep clear of the tank. In reply to Mr. Ashworth, witness said the tank was 5ft in diameter, and 12ft long, and weighed 27cwt.

Samuel Garret, who was inside the stationary tank, and Wesley Houston gave corroborative evidence.

Dr. DeDenne said he attended deceased before his death, and afterwards made a post mortem examination. He attributed death to peritonitis.

The jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death.”

AND

Banbury Advertiser 11/12/1902

“A sad accident occurred at Cradley Heath, Birmingham, on Saturday, whereby a young man named Fred Warren (21), a member of the G Company of the Banbury Detachment 2nd Volunteer Battalion, Oxfordshire L.I., lost his life. The deceased, whose mother, a widow, lives in West Street, Grimsbury, recently resided at Silverthorne Lane, Cradley Heath, and died on Sunday from the effects of injuries sustained whilst following his employment as a riveter at the Cradley Boiler Works, on the 5th inst. A tank, about twelve feet in length, and weighing 27cwt, was rolled from a trolley down a slope at the works, for the purpose of being riveted. Warning was given to several workmen, but deceased, who was a little distance away, rushed across, and in attempting to pick up a riveting machine, was caught between two tanks, his stomach being crushed. The riveting machine belonged to deceased, and he was afraid of it being smashed by the tank. After the accident deceased walked home, but complained of illness, and died on Sunday from peritonitis. An inquest was held at the SWAN INN, Cradley Heath, on Tuesday, a verdict of Accidental Death being returned. The remains were afterwards removed by rail to Banbury for internment. Much sympathy is felt to the bereaved mother and relatives, and a well-conducted young fellow, and a good Volunteer, and his death is much regretted by his comrades of all ranks. Last season he played in football teams of the Volunteer and Britannia United.

The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon. Among the floral tributes were wreaths from members of G Company 2nd V.B.O.L.I. and the workmen of Messrs. Barrows and Co., Cherwell Works, where deceased was formerly employed.”

County Express 13/12/1902

“An inquest was held at the SWAN INN, on Tuesday morning, by Mr. A. H. Pearson (coroner) touching the death of Elizabeth Emily Edge, aged five months, infant daughter of William and Susannah Edge, of Newtown Lane, Cradley Heath, who was found dead in bed on Sunday morning. The mother of deceased child said she awoke at about four o'clock and found the child in its usual health, but on waking again at 7.30 she found the child dead.

Dr. Fryer, who was called to deceased, said death was due to convulsions.

A verdict of Natural Causes was returned.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 26/3/1903

“Yesterday, at Rowley Regis, the magistrates sanctioned the appointment of Alfred Aston as the overseers of the parish for the ensuing 12 months.”

Alfred Aston, beer retailer and cooper, 17, Providence Street. [1904]

Birmingham Daily Gazette 27/4/1905

“A Tipton chainmaker, named Arthur Rose, at the Old Hill Police Court, yesterday, was charged with assaulting Edward Weaver, a chainmaker, of Quarry Bank, on April 17. While he was drinking in the SWAN INN, Cradley Heath, Weaver stated that Rose accused him of having told tales to his employer. He denied the charge, and when he went outside Rose followed him and struck a blow in the side, knocking him into an ashpit. One of his ribs was fractured, and he was rendered unconscious. Rose, who denied the assault, was fined 16s 6d inclusive of costs.”

County Advertiser 26/1/1907

“The Housing Problem at Cradley Heath.....

Mr. F. Woodhouse said It was at bottom a drink problem, and when they had solved the drink problem they would solve the housing problem. He did not think it was right that they should have a publican upon the Board of Guardians.....”

County Advertiser 2/2/1907 - Correspondence

“Licensed Victuallers and Boards of Guardians.

To the Editor of the Advertiser.

Sir. With reference to the report of the meeting on the housing problem question in your last week's issue, no doubt I am the 'publican' referred to by Mr. F. Woodhouse, whose discourteous statement I feel it is my duty to take exception to. With regard to a 'publican' not being allowed a seat on the Board of Guardians, I have left this matter entirely to the discretion of the people of Cradley Heath, who have done me the honour of electing me to represent them for nearly twenty years. During this long term of office in that capacity, I have come to the conclusion that the public are much better served by men who are above party service or confine themselves to any one groove, than by faddists or fanatics, who are so narrow-minded and bigoted. Neither politics or anything else have influenced me in my duties, and I have always endeavoured to carry them out on purely impartial and honourable lines to benefit the people of this locality. Such remarks, to my mind, come with the utmost bad taste from Mr. Woodhouse. I should like to ask this gentleman, which is the worst evil or the most injurious to the social advancement of the poor workers – drink, or the intolerable grinding and sweating which has been the chief topic for some time. It has been freely stated that after paying the rent out of their miserable earnings some of the small chainmakers have not had an adequate sum left for their maintenance.

I am prepared to make a fair challenge to Mr. Woodhouse, and invite him to oppose me at the coming election in March next, and I should then be quite content to accept the verdict of the voters interested.

Apologising for trespassing on your valuable space, I remain, yours faithfully.

Alfred Aston, SWAN INN, Cradley Heath.”

County Express 12/9/1908

“Friendly Societies’ Parade. On Wednesday evening the committee of the above met at the PLOUGH AND HARROW INN, Mr. W. Coley presiding over a large attendance. The following was a complete list of those boxes which contained amounts of 1s and upwards.

Mr. A. Aston, SWAN INN, 8s 8d.”

County Express 30/4/1910

“In celebration of the recent Liberal victories in the Urban Council and Guardians’ elections, a dinner was held in the Lomey Town schools, Cradley Heath, last evening. Mr. John Fellows, president of the Dudley borough Liberal Association, presided, and had the support of Alfred Aston (member of Dudley Board of Guardians).....”

County Express 10/12/1910 - Deaths

“On the 30th November, Emma Jane, wife of Mr. Alfred Aston, SWAN INN, Cradley Heath; aged 64 years.”

AND

County Express 10/12/1910 - Acknowledgements

“Mr. Alfred Aston and Family, SWAN INN, Cradley Heath, wish to Thank the many sympathisers with them in their sad bereavement.”

1911 Census

Providence Street – SWAN INN

[1] Alfred Aston (65), widower, brewer and cooper, born Cradley Heath;

[2] Alfred Aston Jnr. (37), son, brewer and cooper, born Cradley Heath;

[3] Francis John Aston (33), son, brewer and cooper, born Cradley Heath:

County Express 7/10/1911

“We regret to record the death, which took place on Saturday at his residence in Compton Road, Cradley Heath, of Mr. John Henry Morton, the lessee and proprietor of the Empire Theatre, Cradley Heath. Mr. Morton succumbed to heart failure after a short illness. In his early years Mr. Morton was an aeronaut, and his many balloon exploits made him famous in many countries

Later, Mr. Morton went on the stage, and gained some eminence as an emotional actor in travelling companies. It was almost 20 years ago when he came to Cradley Heath. He built the Empire Theatre and has managed it ever since.....

The funeral was on Wednesday

The bearers were Alfred Aston.....”

County Express 11/5/1912

“Many will hear with regret that Mr. Alfred Aston, of the SWAN HOTEL, Cradley Heath, a member of the Dudley Board of Guardians, is suffering from illness and has for two weeks been at an institution in London, where he has undergone two operations. He is now progressing favourably.”

Dudley Chronicle 20/7/1912

“On Wednesday evening a bowling match took place at the SWAN INN, Cradley Heath, between Cradley Heath and the Conservative bowling clubs, the former winning by 54 points.”

Alfred Aston Snr. was also a brewer. [1916]

Black Country Bugle

Letter from G. W. Swingler, Quarry Bank

“.....I remember when Fred Aston kept it – and brewed his own beer.....”

Black Country Bugle

Letter from A. Head, Cradley Heath

“.....I can remember Mr. Aston, he was a very nice and respectable man who always wore a celluloid shirt front and stiff collar together with a bowler hat.”

Alfred Aston Jnr. was a brewer. [1928]

Gloucester Journal 17/3/1928

“When the license of the SWAN INN, Cradley Heath, was transferred at Old Hill Police Court, on Wednesday, it was mentioned that the out-going licensee, Mr. A. Aston, had held the license for 52 years, being one of the oldest licensees in the country. He had retired from the management of the house in consequence of ill-health.”

Alfred Aston Snr. died in the 2nd quarter of 1928.

Market Harborough Advertiser 15/6/1928

“Mr. Alfred Aston, of Cradley Heath, Staffs, who claimed to have held a licence for one house for nearly 60 years, a period longer than any publican in England, died at the age of 83.”

The People 4/11/1928

“Mr. Alfred Aston, who held the license of the SWAN INN, Cradley Heath, for nearly 60 years – a record for any publican in England – left £13,054

Harold Jasper was married to Lilian.
See also HOLLY BUSH, and ANCHOR.

Jolly Jasper's Jazz Band was based here. [1930s]

1939 Register

25, Providence Street

[1] Harold W. Jasper, date of birth 12/6/1895, licensed victualler, married;

[2] Lilian H. Jasper, dob 29/12/1894, unpaid domestic duties, married;

[3] Mary (Jasper) Bartlett, dob 12/12/1924, tailor's presser, single;

[4] Cissie Jasper, dob 28/4/1927, at school, single;

[5] William T. Tromans, dob 5/6/1869, chain striker (retired), widowed:

Tipton Herald 22/9/1956

“Cradley Heath Old Age Pensioners Christmas Party Fund will be richer on October 3rd by £55. The money, which will be presented at the SWAN INN, Cradley Heath, is the net result of the newly-formed Detheridge darts competition.

All told, 34 teams from Cradley Heath and its neighbouring districts took part in the competition which was eventually won in front of a 300 crowd by the BIRD IN HAND, Cradley Heath, who beat the ANCHOR 'B' team, also of Cradley Heath.

Secretary C. Burtlett tells me next year's competition will commence some time in March and is expected to attract an even greater number of entries.”

A team from here took part in the Cradley Heath Domino League. [1960]

A team from here took part in the Cradley Heath Darts League. [1970]

A team from here took part in the Sports Argus Inn Quiz competition. [1974/5]

It closed in the 1970s.

It was reopened by Stan Owen.

Black Country Bugle (October 1980) - Pub of the Month

“.....The pub had lain empty for close on two years when Stan [Owen] spotted it and the idea of bringing it back to life came into his mind The SWAN had been vandalised whilst it stood empty and its interior had to be completely renovated This old pub which used to be a favourite haunt of Cradley Heath chainmakers is now one of the most popular taverns in the town Prior to the 1830s, Cradley Heath was a rural area with a scattered population. This was swiftly changed when industry boomed in the area and New Town was built to accommodate a rapidly increasing army of workers.

Chainmaking was thirsty work. New Town Lane ran from the Four Ways towards Netherton. Providence Street, where the SWAN now stands, was part of the new development containing rows of terraced cottages, with chainshops at the rear, and of course, its own pub.

The oldest pub on the site was owned and kept by the Bannisters, well known as enthusiasts for the blood sports.”

John Nicholls was married to June.

Shirley Bishop was married to Andy Bishop.

Halesowen News 20/5/2014

“A help the Heroes fundraising bid is set to strike a chord with regulars at a Cradley Heath pub. The two-day event at the SWAN – known as Jaspers – will kick-off with a karaoke and games night on Sunday (May 25). Ex-serviceman Lee Pearson, who runs the Star for a Night karaoke team, is providing their services free of charge. There will also be video horse racing and a Play Your Cards Right game for guests to enter, with the fun starting at 6pm. A raffle will also be staged with prizes donated by local businesses. On Bank Holiday Monday (May 26) there will be a pig roast and two bands playing at the Providence Street pub for most of the day. Help the Heroes co-ordinator for the West Midlands, ex-serviceman Darren Gethin said it was the first time the pub had been a venue for a fundraiser by the charity and thanked landlord Paul Mole for his support. He said, ‘There’ll be lots of good entertainment and we’re hoping for a big turnout to raise lots of money for the charity.’ Help The Heroes merchandise, including hoodies, t-shirts and mugs, will also be on sale.”

[2019]

Closed [2020]

Dudley News 31/3/2020

“Plans have been submitted to convert a former Cradley Heath pub into a home. Proposals have been submitted to transform the SWAN pub on Providence Street, at the junction with Foxoak Street, into a four-bedroom house. The pub, also formerly known as Jaspers, which is opposite Tesco in Cradley Heath, closed in 2018. Plans, from Mr. D. Hayer, to convert the site into a four-bedroom home with two lounges, a lobby, study and utility room have been submitted to Sandwell Council. The pub was previously offered for sale for £179,999 by Matthew Phillips Surveyors.”

SWAN

55, Rowley Village, (55, The Village), ROWLEY REGIS

OWNERS

Benjamin Dando [1884]
Henry Heath [1884], [1887]

LICENSEES

William Adams [1818]
Laister [1831]
Thomas Glaze [1834] – [1835]
John Adams [1841] – [1845]
Mrs. Susannah Adams [1849] – [1854]
Henry Harley [] – 1859;
Richard Huiton* (1859 – [])
Richard Hinton* [1861]
George Read Challinor [1862] – 1865;
Sarah Jane Slim (1865 – 1866);
Thomas Adams (1866 – [])
John Southall [1868] – 1870;
Mrs. Phoebe Southall (1870 – [1872])
Edmund Palmer [1873] – 1882;
Henry Heath (1882 – [])
Henry Banks [] – 1883;
Benjamin Dando (1883 – [])
Mrs. Sarah Ann Tromans [1884] – [1892]
Henry Heath [1892]
Harry Tromans [] – 1893)
William Henry Taylor [1894] – [1911]
Samuel Tromans [1912] – [1913]

NOTES

55, Rowley Village [1881], [1891], [1901], [1904], [1908], [1911]
5, The Village [1911]

It was situated on the right hand side of Rowley Village, facing downhill.

WHITE SWAN [1856], [1861], [1864], [1864], [1865], [1866], [1871]
OLD SWAN [1899], [1900], [1904], [1908], [1912]

Aris's Birmingham Gazette 11/6/1827 - Advert

"Freeholds In Rowley Regis.

To be Sold by Auction, by Jesse Wright, at the SWAN INN, Rowley Regis, on Friday the 15th day of June, 1827, at five o'clock in the afternoon, subject to conditions – eighteen Freehold Dwelling Houses, Shops, Gardens, and Premises, in three lots, and a piece of valuable Building Land in small lots, situate in the village of Rowley Regis, by the side of the turnpike road leading from Dudley to Blackheath.

For all further particulars apply to Mr. John Creighton, of Rowley, the Proprietor, or his Attorney, Mr. Fellowes, of Dudley."

Aris's Birmingham Gazette 9/5/1831 - Advert

"Freehold Estate At Rowley Regis.

To be Sold by Auction, on Tuesday the 17th day of May, 1831, at Mr. Laister's, the SWAN INN, in Rowley Regis, at five o'clock in the afternoon, either together or in lots, as may be agreed upon, and subject to conditions – a very desirable Freehold Estate, situate by the side of the turnpike road at the bottom of the pleasant village of Rowley Regis.....

Mr. John Creighton, the proprietor, is now in the neighbourhood of Rowley Regis, and will be willing to treat for the disposal of the estate by private contract....."

1841 Census

Village

[1] John Adams (40), publican, born Staffordshire;

[2] Susanna Adams (40), born Staffordshire;

[3] Anne Adams (7), born Staffordshire:

Aris's Birmingham Gazette 12/2/1844 - Advert

"Sale on Wednesday Next. Freehold Chapel, Dwelling Houses, and Premises, situate in the parish of Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford.

To be Sold by Auction, by Mr. Newbold, at the SWAN INN, in Rowley aforesaid, on Wednesday next, February 14, at six o'clock in the evening, in the following lots, by order of the Mortgagees, and subject to conditions then to be produced.

Lot 1. All that substantially-erected Building and Premises, situate in the centre of the Village of Rowley aforesaid, and fronting the road leading from thence to Cradley and Stourbridge, as the same is now used as a place of Worship, and is called the Wesleyan Chapel....."

John Adams was also a maltster. [1845]

Worcestershire Chronicle 9/12/1846

"Died, on Friday last, in his 60th year, Mr. John Adams, the respected landlord of the SWAN INN, Rowley. The deceased, on the Sunday week preceding his death, sat before a large fire warming his feet, and in doing so burned his shoe and raised a blister on the great toe, which afterwards mortified and caused his death."

1851 Census

Village

[1] Susannah Adams (50), widow, victualler, born Halesowen;

[2] Ann Adams (17), daughter, born Rowley;

[3] Elizabeth Daniells (55), visitor, nailor, born Rowley:

Birmingham Journal 4/7/1855

"On Monday evening last, an inquest was held at the SWAN INN, Rowley, before G. H. Hinchliffe, Esq, Coroner, on the body of a man named William Beddows, 27 years of age, who was killed by a quantity of coal falling upon him whilst at work in a pit at Portway Hall Colliery, Rowley Regis, on the previous Saturday. A verdict of Accidental Death was returned."

Worcestershire Chronicle 7/11/1855

"G. H. Hinchliffe, Esq, held an inquest on Monday at the SWAN INN, Rowley, on Samuel Wild, aged three years, who on the 2nd instant drank some boiling water from the spout of a kettle, which so scalded his throat and stomach that death ensued. Verdict accordingly."

Birmingham Journal 19/1/1856 - Advert

“To be Let, with immediate possession, that excellent and well-frequented Old-Licensed Public House, the WHITE SWAN, situated at Rowley, with capital Malt-house attached. Coming-in moderate.
Apply, J. F. Watkins, Auctioneer, Dudley.”

*probably the same person

1861 Census

Rowley Village – WHITE SWAN

[1] Richard Hinton (53), victualler, born Northfield, Worcestershire;

[2] Hannah Hinton (46), wife, born Hunsworth, Staffordshire:

George Read Challinor was also a plumber and painter. [1864], [1865]

London Gazette 1/4/1864

“Notice is hereby given, that the following is a copy of an entry made in the book kept by the Chief Registrar of the Court of Bankruptcy for the Registration of Trust Deeds for the benefit of Creditors, Composition and Inspectorship Deeds executed by a Debtor, as required by the Bankruptcy Act, 1861

Title of Deed, whether Deed of Assignment, Composition, or Inspectorship – Composition and Release.

Date of Deed – 7th day of March, 1864.

Date of execution by Debtor – 7th day of March, 1864.

Name and description of the Debtor, as in the Deed – George Read Challinor, of the WHITE SWAN INN, Rowley Regis, in the county of Stafford, Licensed Victualler, and Plumber, Painter, and Glazier.

The names and descriptions of the Trustees or other parties to the Deed, not including the Creditors – Joseph Green, of Oldbury, in the county of Worcester, Attorney’s Clerk, of the second part; and the creditors, of the third part.

A short statement of the nature of the Deed – A Deed, whereby, in consideration of 5s in the pound paid to all the creditors of the said debtor, as well those who should not assent thereto as those who should assent thereto, they respectively release the debtor from the debts due from him to them respectively.

When left for Registration – 1st of April, 1864 at half-past eleven o’clock.

C. H. Keene, Registrar.”

Perry’s Bankrupt Gazette 2/4//1864

“George Read Challinor, victualler, and plumber, painter and glazier, WHITE SWAN INN, Rowley Regis. Trustee – Joseph Green, attorney’s clerk, Oldbury. Composition of 5s.”

Stourbridge Observer 9/9/1865

“On Wednesday last an inquest was held at the SWAN INN, before E. Hooper Esq, District Coroner, touching the death of a female child, who was found in a field. From the evidence adduced, it appears that on Sunday night last, as a man named Thomas Lowe was passing down a footpath, through a field belonging to Mr. Mallin, farmer, and situate at Portway, he discovered the dead body of a female child. He at once communicated the discovery to Police-constable Dawes, who immediately proceeded to the field indicated and took charge of the body of the child.

The jury, after hearing the evidence came to the conclusion that the child was still-born; they accordingly returned a verdict to that effect.

The Coroner intimated that the Police-constable must endeavour to find out, if possible, who was the mother of the child.”

Birmingham Daily Post 7/12/1865 - Advert

“WHITE SWAN INN, Rowley Regis.

To be Let, the above Old-established Public House, situated in a very important district. A very steady trade has been carried on for some years. This presents an excellent opportunity to parties desirous of entering the Public Business as a fortune would soon be realised by an enterprising party. Rent moderate.

For further particulars, apply on the Premises; or to Mr. John Bent, Auctioneer, 5, Union Street, Dudley.”

Birmingham Journal 20/1/1866 - Advert

“Unreserved Sale, at the WHITE SWAN INN, Rowley Regis.

To be Sold by Auction, by Mr. John Bent, on Tuesday Next, January 23.

All the Excellent Brewing Plant, Four-pull Beer Machine, with Piping, excellent Vats, Coolers, Mash Tubs, Hogshead Casks, ½ hogshead ditto, 60 gallon Casks, 40 gallon ditto, 120-gallon Copper Boiler, 80-gallon iron ditto, together with the neat and clean Household Furniture, set four-post Bedsteads, Mattresses, Carpets, feather Beds, together with the usual Kitchen Requisites, belonging to Mrs. Slim, who is declining the business.

Sale to commence at Eleven o’clock.

Catalogues made be had from the Auctioneer’s Offices, 5, Union Street, Dudley.”

Birmingham Daily Post 22/1/1866 - Advert

“By Mr. John Bent, at the WHITE SWAN INN, Rowley Regis, Tomorrow (Tuesday), at Eleven – the Brewing Plant, Household Furniture &c.”

County Advertiser 4/4/1868

“John Southall, landlord of the SWAN INN, Rowley, was charged with assaulting a little girl named Mary Baker, by setting a dog on her. The case was adjourned from last week, when the girl stated that she was playing in front of the defendant’s house, and a dog belonging to defendant ran out of the house and seized her by the arm. She was thrown down, and was very severely bitten. The Bench then adjourned the case in order that a witness might be summoned who was in the defendant’s house at the time. The name of the witness was James Baines, a collier, and he deposed on Wednesday that he was in the house on the day in question. A number of children were making a noise in front of the house. This appeared to annoy defendant, who called a dog to him, and tapped it on the back, saying ‘Go out and bite ’em.’ The dog ran growling away, and in a few minutes afterwards witness heard that a girl had been badly bitten on the arm.

In reply to the charge, the defendant denied he encouraged the dog to bite the girl.

The Bench imposed a fine of 2s 6d and costs; in default of payment, fourteen days’ hard labour.

The defendant was removed declaring his intention of going to prison.”

Stourbridge Observer 20/2/1869

“At the Petty Sessions, on Wednesday last, before F. D. L. Smith and F. W. G. Barrs, Esqrs, George and John Payne were charged with assaulting Phoebe Southall, on the 9th inst. Mr. Lowe defended.

From the evidence of complainant it appears that George had just come out of prison, and dressed himself with blue ribbons. He then came into her house, which is a public, and knocked her down, beat and kicked her, and made use of abusive language. The reason he beat her was because she was a witness against George a short time ago.

Joyce Siviter proved seeing defendant throw stones.

Three witnesses were called for the defence.

John Payne was fined 5s and costs, in default 21 days; George Payne 1s and costs, or 14 days.”

Birmingham Daily Post 25/12/1869

“On Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Bayley, Deputy Coroner, held an inquest at the SWAN INN, Rowley, on the body of John Southall, aged thirty, who came by his death under the following distressing circumstances. The deceased, who was landlord of the house where the inquest was held, worked as a miner at the Tump Pit, in the colliery of Messrs. Dawes. On Monday last deceased acted as ‘cager’ and about three o’clock in the afternoon two miners went to him and said they wished to ascend. Deceased said, ‘All right; I’ll go up with you.’ Upon this a lad said to deceased, ‘Jack, I’ll ring off.’ Deceased replied, ‘No; I’ll do it myself.’ He then stepped upon the cage and gave the signal; but in reaching his waistcoat, which was hanging close to, he was thrown from the cage as it left the ground, and received a violent blow in the stomach from the edge of the cage. The blow knocked him into the ‘sump’ which was about forty yards deep, and contained some water. His body was not recovered till about two hours afterwards, and of course at that time life was quite extinct. There could be no blame attached to anyone, as the deceased fell from the top inset, and it being absolutely necessary for the sump to be left uncovered.

The Jury returned verdict of Accidental Death.

Mr. Breakwell, the miners’ agent for the district, was present during the inquiry, and explained to the Jury the peculiar nature of the accident. He said that there was not another pit in the whole district similar to it.”

County Advertiser 12/2/1870

“The following transfers were allowed.....

SWAN, Rowley, from John Southall (deceased) to Phoebe Southall.”

Stourbridge Observer 29/10/1870

“Joseph Horton, a nailer, residing at Bromley, was charged with cutting and wounding a woman named Sarah Rose.

Prosecutrix deposed that on Monday last, about eleven o’clock, she went to the SWAN INN, Rowley, for a pint of beer. She left soon after, and was proceeding down the street when the prisoner went up to her, and after some angry words stabbed her in the throat. It was a knife or something sharp that struck her. The blood spurted out, and he then knocked her down, and she became insensible. When she recovered consciousness the prisoner was upon her striking her, and she shouted, ‘Murder,’ and some one went and pulled him off her. She stated that she had kept prisoner’s company, and he was jealously minded.

William Hodgetts said he saw complainant on the ground, with prisoner lying upon her beating her. He pulled him off, but he broke from witness’s hold and attacked her a second time, when another man went up and assisted. Prisoner was given into custody, and complainant taken to a surgeon.

Mr. D. W. Phillips, surgeon, deposed that he saw complainant, and upon examination found she had a punctured wound, more than an inch in length and half an inch in depth, in the neck. The woman was greatly exhausted from loss of blood. It was a dangerous wound, and indeed ‘it was almost a miracle that she was there today to tell her tale.’ The wound was inflicted in a dangerous position, and if it had been an eighth of an inch deeper, the carotid artery would have been cut.

PC Slinn proved apprehending the prisoner.

Upon being charged in the usual manner, prisoner said, ‘I did strike her, and I shan’t say I didn’t; but I had nothing in my hand as I know of.’

He was committed to take his trial at the next Sessions.”

[There was no prosecution at the Staffordshire Quarter Sessions.]

1871 Census

Rowley Village – WHITE SWAN

- [1] Phoebe Southall (27), widow, licensed victualler, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Hannah Southall (9), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] Thomas Southall (7), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] John Southall (3), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Elizabeth Westwood (20), general servant, born Rowley Regis:

Stourbridge Observer 15/7/1871

“Phoebe Southall was charged with having her house, the SWAN INN, Rowley, open for the sale of drink during prohibited hours, on the 9th inst. Mr. Addison appeared for the defendant.

Police-sergeant Powner said on the above date, at 12.20, he was on duty, and visited defendant’s house. An officer was there before him.

On examining the house they found three men in the cellar, with a quart jug half full of ale. He asked the defendant how she accounted for it, and she said one of the men was her uncle, and his was the only jug she filled. Witness knew the men.

Cross-examined: The defendant’s uncle did not come to me and say he was sorry he had drawn her into the bother.

Mr. Addison admitted that the men were there. The one was defendant’s uncle, and he asked her to give him some drink, and she did so; and he would ask the Bench, under the circumstances, to let the case off with payment of costs. The ale was not paid for, but was given to the men.

The Bench said the object was to get hold of the men who were in the house, and fined defendant 6d and costs.”

Stourbridge Observer 1/6/1872

“At the Police Court, on Wednesday, before Messrs. F. W. G. Barrs and E. Moore and the Rev. F. J. Clarke, Phoebe Southall, landlady of the SWAN INN, Rowley, was charged with permitting gambling in her house, on the 13th ult.

Police-constable Johnson said he was stationed at Blackheath. On the above date at about 8.15pm he visited the defendant’s house. On going in he heard some one shaking dice. He stood at the door of the tap room some time, and saw the defendant shaking dice with a man. At that time the defendant told the man, ‘that made two pints, now.’ The dice were in a tin spill can. He saw 2d on the table, which the landlady took up and put in her pocket along with the dice. He asked her what she was doing with the dice, and she said nothing. Witness asked the man, and he refused to give it.

Joseph Hackett and Charles Cole were called for the defence, and swore that there was no gambling in the house, and there were not any dice in the place at all. The witness (Hackett) knocked the spill can over and picked it up, at the same time shaking two pieces of pipe stem in it.

The case was dismissed.”

Phoebe Southall married Edmund Palmer on 11th August 1872.

County Advertiser 18/10/1873

“Edmund Palmer, landlord of the SWAN INN, Rowley, was charged with permitting drunkenness in his house on the 6th inst. The defendant was also charged with permitting a quantity of ale to be consumed on his premises after eleven o’clock pm, and was also further charged with being drunk in his own house. Mr. Stokes defended.

Police-constable Bird said he went to the defendant’s house, at ten o’clock, on the night in question. He saw from forty to fifty young men and women in the dancing room, and also saw six men drunk in the house. The defendant was drunk. The witness also visited the house in company with Police-constable Jackson at eleven o’clock, and the same men were there drunk.

Cross-examined: Did not speak to the landlord on the first occasion. Saw the defendant bending over a man speaking to him, and his body was unsteady, and that was the reason of his swearing that the defendant was drunk. All the men were unsteady. The landlady did not tell witness that it was only five minutes past eleven o’clock. Did not tell the defendant that he should report the case.

Police-constable Jackson said that he went to the defendant’s house in company with last witness. The defendant was drunk.

There were some men drunk in the house, and they were all sitting down but the defendant, who was standing. Saw all the persons who were in the house come out into the street.

Mr. Stokes, in defence, contended that if the defendant was drunk at twenty minutes past eleven o’clock they had no right to convict him, and that the evidence was very unsatisfactory. With reference to the house being open after eleven o’clock he should prove that it was only five minutes past eleven o’clock. He contended that the evidence was not so satisfactory as to admit of convicting the defendant. Moreover Mr. Stokes submitted that in a charge of allowing ale to be consumed after eleven o’clock, it had been decided that if the ale was sold before eleven o’clock they could not convict a defendant, inasmuch as he had no power over the consumption of the ale. The charge of permitting drunkenness was dismissed, but on the charge of allowing ale to be consumed on the premise after eleven o’clock, the defendant was fined 20s and costs. The charge against the defendant for being drunk was also dismissed.

Thomas Darby, Joseph Portman, William Price, Benjamin Walker, Edward Bastable, and Henry Portman, were charged with being found in Palmer’s house at twenty minutes past eleven o’clock pm. Bastable, who had been previously convicted, was fined 2s 6d and costs. The other defendants paid costs.”

County Express 22/5/1880

“A meeting of miners employed at the Rowley Station Colliery, who are now on strike against a reduction, was held on Thursday night, at the SWAN INN, Rowley.

The Chairman stated that the reduction which their employers wished them to submit to would take over 20 per cent of their wages. If they resumed work at the reduction he did not know what they should do for a living. He, therefore, urged upon the men to show their determination in resisting it. (Hear, hear.)

Another miner moved, 'That in the opinion of this meeting it is advisable to continue to resist the proposed reduction, and issue as early as possible an appeal to the public for assistance.' He thought the public should be informed of their position, and also as to the reductions they had submitted to in the past. The terms which their employers were trying to enforce upon them were something terrible, and were beyond all reason. It would take something like 8s 4d out of every £2 which the men earned. There were some other questions which he considered the public ought to be instructed upon. There was the 'stoppage' system, under cover of which tubs of coal or cobbles were only paid for at slack prices. In these cases, instead of men receiving 1s 1d for a tub of coal, they were paid 4d. In addition to this, lately 10s had been stopped off some, and 5s off others, for sending these tubs of bad stuff up the pit. Another grievance was that the men were frequently not allowed to see the coals complained of, although these deductions were made from their wages.

The resolution having been seconded by a miner, was carried unanimously."

Birmingham Daily Post 26/5/1880

"A numerously-attended meeting of the miners employed at the Rowley Station Colliery, who are now on strike against a reduction of wages, was held yesterday morning at the SWAN INN, Rowley. Mr. Thomas Griffiths and Mr. Henry Barnes attended the meeting as a deputation from the West Bromwich and District Miners' Association. A miner presided.

Mr. Thomas Griffiths said he considered the wages of the men and the prices of the tonnage for coal and slack were too low already at the pit in question, and was glad to think that the men were fully determined to continue the strike until the unreasonable notice was withdrawn. Referring to the 'stoppage system' in use at the pit, he said the under the Mines Regulations Act the employer had no right to take a tub from the men or make any deduction from their wages unless the men had seen the coals complained of, or someone else had seen them on their behalf. He considered this is a great injustice to the men. He also pointed out that the fines of 5s and 10s per man, which it had been the custom to impose upon the men for sending up inferior quality of coal, were altogether illegal. No master had a right to fine a workman unless there was an agreement between man and master to that effect. If the men working at the Rowley Station Colliery had been connected with the union they could have prevented many of the evils under which they were now suffering from coming upon them. (Hear, hear.) Similar systems had been put into operation at other collieries in the district, but they had been stopped simply because the men were connected with the union.

Mr. Henry Barnes urged upon the men the necessity of joining some union for the protection of their interests.

Mr. Griffiths stated that some of the men were members of the union, and these would receive strike pay.

The men unanimously resolved to join the Miners Association when work is resumed. It was also decided to continue the strike until the notice is withdrawn."

Birmingham Daily Post 2/6/1880

"A meeting of miners employed at the Rowley Station Colliery, who are now on strike against a reduction in wages, was held yesterday, at the SWAN INN, Rowley. It was stated that a deputation waited upon the manager, who refused to withdraw the notice. Reference was made to Mr. Wills's letter, which had appeared in the papers. A miner said the statement that the men made 6s 0½d per day, or 1s 2d above the district price, was incorrect. The men decided by resolution to go back to work daywork if the master would concede the district price of 4s 10½d per day. Unless that were done it was resolved to continue the strike."

Birmingham Daily Post 29/7/1880 - Advert

"Pianist Wanted. Apply, SWAN INN, Rowley Regis."

Aris's Birmingham Gazette 14/8/1880 - Advert

"Pianist (Female). Wanted one who can sing.

Apply, SWAN INN, Rowley Regis."

1881 Census

55, Rowley Village – SWAN INN

[1] Edmond Palmer (30), licensed victualler, born Oldbury;

[2] Phoeby Palmer (37), wife, born Rowley Regis;

[3] John Southall (13), step-son, stone breaker at quarry, born Rowley Regis;

[4] Edward Palmer (9), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;

[5] Horney Palmer (7), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;

[6] William Palmer (4), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;

[7] Phoeby Palmer (2), daughter, born Rowley Regis:

Birmingham Daily Post 18/1/1882

"Liquidations By Arrangement.

Edmund Palmer, Great Bridge Road, West Bromwich, carpenter, but late of the SWAN INN, Rowley Regis, Staffordshire, licensed victualler."

County Advertiser 15/4/1882

“Henry Heath, landlord of the SWAN INN, Rowley, and pig dealer, was charged under the Contagious Disease (Animals) Act with having in his possession, on the 1st inst, six pigs affected with swine fever, and with not having reported the matter to the police.

The evidence given in the case was to the effect that Police-sergeant Cooper visited defendant’s premises and found the pigs suffering from swine fever. One of the pigs was severely affected, and Cooper sent for Mr. Blakeway, veterinary surgeon, of Stourbridge; but before he arrived the animal had died. Previous to Cooper’s going to defendant’s, two pigs had died, presumably from the same complaint. These had been buried in a garden under about one foot of soil. The remaining pigs were certified to be suffering from swine fever, and they were slaughtered and buried. The two pigs which had been previously buried were disinterred and re-buried in deeper soil.

Police-inspector Walters stated that the disease had since broken out in Old Hill, and five pigs suffering from it had been killed and buried.

Defendant now pleaded ignorance of its being incumbent upon him to report the matter to the police. The evidence, however, showed that notices had been posted at various places.

The Bench considered the offence a very serious one, and fined the defendant £10 and costs.”

Dudley and District News 13/5/1882

“Henry Heath, SWAN INN, Rowley Regis, licensed victualler, was charged with unlawfully selling intoxicating liquors during prohibited hours on the 7th inst. Mr. Cooksey defended.

PC Styles said he was in company with PC Lightfoot concealed near the defendant’s premises, about 7.45am, and there was a nail shop opening on to defendant’s premises. A woman named Hodgetts came to the window and called defendant’s daughter, who came and she gave her a jug. She went into the house and filled it with ale and gave it to Hodgetts through the window of the nail house. The defendant was standing by the window and had a shilling in his mouth. Witness and Lightfoot then went to the nailshop, and found Hodgetts and five men drinking.

Defendant pleaded guilty.

Mr. Cooksey said when defendant filled the ale in the jug his daughter brought him she told him it was for a traveller from Oldbury.

Superintendent Wollaston said this practice of the defendant’s had been carried on several years; there was no secret of it, it was talked about everywhere. Defendant said he would not give up the practice, as he made sometimes 30s a day by such transactions. The Bench said they considered it a more serious offence than permitting drunkenness, and fined him £5 and costs.”

Evening Star 25/5/1882

“James Hodgetts, Joseph Hodgetts and Daniel Caddick, were charged with aiding and abetting the landlord of the SWAN INN, Rowley, in selling drink during prohibited hours. Adjoining the inn is a nailshop, and on Sunday the 7th instant, the defendants were seen taking drink in there, which they had got from the landlord’s daughter. Each of the defendants were fined 20s and costs, in default one month.”

Dudley and District News 2/9/1882

“Old Hill annual Brewster Sessions were held at the Police Court on Wednesday.....

The following is the black list, and in each of the cases the licenses were suspended till the adjourned licensing meeting.....

Henry Heath, SWAN INN, Rowley Village, selling ale on Sunday during prohibited hours, fined £5 and costs.”

Dudley and District News 30/9/1882

“This being the Old Hill adjourned licensing sessions the Bench granted a renewal of the licenses which were suspended at the last annual general sessions. The Chairman stated that the magistrates had very carefully considered each case, and they had decided to renew the licenses on the understanding that some assurance was given on the part of each defaulter, that their respective houses should be better conducted in the future. The Bench were determined that the law should be enforced, and if the defendants were guilty of any further offence against the Licensing Laws they would be severely punished and their licenses forfeited. The Chairman added that Henry Heath, who was convicted for selling ale during prohibited hours on Sunday, was now taking out a six days’ license instead of a seven days’, and his license was renewed on that condition; and if any of the others wished to have six days’ licenses the Bench would be pleased to grant them.”

Dudley and District News 5/4/1884

“Dudley Police Court.....

Mr. Hooper appeared for a protection order on behalf of the wife of Benjamin Dando, who, he said, had sold his beerhouse and sailed for Australia.

Alice Dando said she was the wife of Benjamin Dando. He sold the beerhouse some weeks ago, and left home on Tuesday, the 25th. He had told her his intention on several occasions of going to Australia. She wished to obtain a license to brew pit beer.

John Dando said that on Friday, the 28th he saw his father at Birmingham, who had sent for him, and told him he was going to Australia. He showed him his pass, and told him he was going to sail on Wednesday, the 2nd April. The Bench granted the order.”

County Advertiser 7/8/1884 - Notice

“To the Overseers of the Poor of the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford, and to the Superintendent of Police of the District or Division of Rowley Regis, and to all whom it may concern.

I, Sarah Tromans, Licensed Victualler, now residing at the SWAN, Rowley, in the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford, do Hereby Give Notice that it is my intention to Apply, at the Adjourned General Annual Licensing Meeting, for the Division of Rowley Regis, to be holden at the Public Office, at Old Hill, in the said County, on the 24th day of September next ensuing, for a Seven Days' License to hold an Excise License to Sell by Retail all Intoxicating Liquors, to be consumed on and off the premises, situate at Rowley, in the Parish of Rowley Regis aforesaid, in pursuance of the Intoxicating Liquors Licensing Act, 1828, and Acts amending the same, of which said premises Henry Heath is the owner, and the same are of the annual value by law required, and are now in my own occupation

Given under my hand this 21st day of August, 1884.

Sarah Tromans.

County Advertiser 27/9/1884

“The adjourned licensing sessions for the Old Hill Petty Sessional Division was held at Old Hill Police Court on Wednesday. . . . Mr. Cooksey applied for a seven days' license on behalf of Sarah Tromans, SWAN INN, Rowley, the present license being a six days' one. Mr. Hooper (Dudley) opposed on the ground that there were eight other public houses within a radius of 600 yards, and the thirsty wants of a community on Sunday ought not to be so great as on week days. Mr. Bassano said the only argument in favour of the application would be to put the applicant on the same footing as her neighbours, but as it was incompatible with their duty to afford further facilities for Sunday drinking, they must refuse the application.”

County Advertiser 10/9/1887 - Notice

“To the Overseers of the Poor of the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford, and to the Superintendent of Police of the District or Division of Rowley Regis, in the said County, and to all whom it may concern.

I, Sarah Tromans, Licensed Victualler, the holder of a Six Days' License, now residing at the SWAN INN, Rowley, in the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford, do Hereby Give Notice that it is my intention to Apply, at the Adjourned General Annual Licensing Meeting, for the Division of Rowley Regis, to be holden at the Public Office, at Old Hill, in the said County, on the 28th day of September inst, for the Grant of a Seven Days' License or Certificate authorising me to apply for and hold all Excise Licenses for the sale by retail at a house and premises situate at the SWAN INN, Rowley, in the Parish of Rowley Regis aforesaid, of all intoxicating liquors, to be consumed either on or off the premises, in pursuance of the Intoxicating Liquor Licensing Act, 1828, and Acts amending the same, of which said premises one Henry Heath is the owner, and the same are of the annual value by law required, and are now in my own occupation.

Given under my hand this 1st day of September, One Thousand Eight Hundred and Eighty-seven.

Sarah Tromans.”

Birmingham Daily Post 24/3/1891

“Last night a largely-attended meeting of quarrymen employed at the various quarries in the Rowley and Old Hill districts was held at the SWAN INN, Rowley, Mr. T. Brookes presiding, for the purpose of considering the wages question and the advisability of forming a union among the operatives.

The Chairman said the agricultural labourers, of whose deplorable condition so much had been said, were in a better position than the men employed in getting stone in quarries. The masters were simply crushing them into the grave – (hear, hear) – but the men had resolved to resist the encroachments upon their rights and privileges as far as possible.

Several of the workmen addressed the meeting, and spoke of the deplorable condition of the stone breakers and others employed in the quarries in the locality at the present time. One operative stated that at one of the quarries the men were not allowed to know the weight of their own work; the foreman or employer put down what weight they liked, and the workman had no voice whatever in it. Another man complained of unfair deductions being made from the work, whilst a third speaker declared that the operatives could not earn more than a shilling a day in some instances. (Shame.)

After considerable discussion a resolution was passed deciding to form a quarryman's union for Rowley and the surrounding districts, and officers were elected to conduct the business of the association.”

1891 Census

55, Village

[1] Sarah Tromans (38), widow, licensed victualler, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Henry Tromans (28), step-son, stone set maker, born Rowley Regis;

[3] Jane Tromans (21), step-daughter, dressmaker, born Rowley Regis;

[4] Phoebe Tromans (18), daughter, born Rowley Regis;

[5] Edward Tromans (16), son, stone breaker, born Rowley Regis;

[6] David Tromans (14), son, stone breaker, born Rowley Regis;

[7] Ellen Tromans (12), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis;

[8] Harriet Tromans (5), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis;

[9] Lizzy Tromans (3), daughter, born Rowley Regis:

Sarah Tromans married Harry Tromans on 10th August 1891.

Birmingham Daily Post 24/2/1893

“Marrying Her Step-son.

Mr. E. Hooper (coroner) held an inquest yesterday afternoon, at Rowley, relative to the death of Harry Tromans (32), landlord of the SWAN INN, who died suddenly, on the 20th inst. Sarah Ann Tromans said before she married deceased her name was Tromans, as she had married deceased's father. She had been married to deceased about two years, and the marriage took place at Netherton Church. The clergyman was not aware of their relationship at the time of the marriage. Deceased was taken ill on the 19th inst, and had to remain in bed all day. She did not send for a doctor until the 20th, when deceased grew worse, but before medical aid could be procured he died. Deceased had been a heavy drinker for some time. Martha Woodhouse said deceased was of drunken habits. The jury returned a verdict of Death from Natural Causes."

County Advertiser 25/8/1894

"The annual licensing sessions for the parish of Rowley were held on Wednesday last.....

William Henry Taylor, of the SWAN INN, Rowley, applied for a seven days' license instead of the present license of six days.

Mr. Waldron appeared for the applicant, and stated that it was the only house in Rowley Regis that had not the seven days' license, and it had been the custom of the Bench on previous occasions to place all the license holders upon the same footing.

Mr. Bassano said the Bench thought that all persons in the same business should be placed on an equal footing, and if all was right with the applicant, they would grant the license applied for."

County Advertiser 13/5/1899

"On Thursday morning an inquest was held at the OLD SWAN INN, Rowley Regis – before Mr. H. A. Pearson – concerning the death of William Ashman (34), miner, formerly residing at Rowley Village, who was killed whilst following his employment at Rowley Hall Colliery, belonging to Messrs. W. Bassano and Sons, on Monday last. Mr. W. H. Pickering (assistant Government Inspector of Mines) was present, and Mr. I. Meacham represented the proprietors.

The widow, Mary Ashman, stated that the deceased had been employed at the colliery about two years, and earned about £2 a week. He was a very healthy man, and was a good husband. He had left six children, the youngest being seven months old. On Monday he went to work, and at three o'clock in the afternoon she was informed that he had been killed.

Isaac Stibbs stated he was working with deceased shortly before twelve on Monday morning, but while he was fetching one of the tubs several bumps occurred, causing the propping timber to give way, and a large quantity of coal fell. He saw deceased jump on to the left hand side of one of the trees, and he did not see him again after the coal fell. About sixty tubs of slack and loose earth fell upon deceased, and a man named Greenwood shouted to him. He replied, 'Do get me out, Lord help me.' Deceased was not extracted until two and a half hours later when he was found to be dead.

Dr. T. E. Mitchell, who had been called in, said deceased was dead, and they removed the body home.

In reply to Mr. Pickering, witness said the stall was examined by deceased before they started to work, and there were then no signs of the timber giving way. He thought that about five or six pieces of timber were moved by the bump.

Henry Greenwood, a pikeman, gave corroborative evidence. He said he heard deceased praying for help. He shouted to him several times and deceased said, 'Lord, have mercy upon me. It's over.' He repeated this several times, but his voice gradually grew weaker, and about five minutes after the accident it ceased all together. Deceased's body was not got out until about two and a half hours after. Whilst they were engaged in clearing away the stuff repeated falls occurred. The deceased was the best workman he had ever worked with. He was quite dead when reached.

Dr. Mitchell said the deceased was a strong, healthy man. He saw the body when it was brought up the shaft. There were no broken bones, and the cause of death was suffocation.

Mr. I. Meacham explained that if the deceased, when the fall occurred, had jumped the opposite way he would have escaped.

The Coroner said it was a distressing case for a man to be cut off in his prime of life, and their sympathies must go out to the widow and the six young children. He did not see that any person was to blame, as everything possible appeared to have been done for the safety of the men.

The jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death, and the coroner and jury made special reference to the heroism displayed by the workmen in endeavouring to effect the rescue of the deceased, notwithstanding the repeated falls of coal."

1901 Census

55, Rowley Village – SWAN INN

[1] William H. Taylor (43), nut and bolt manufacturer's agent, born Cradley Heath;

[2] Jane Taylor (40), wife, born Rowley Regis;

[3] Frederick L. Taylor (17), son, engine fitter, born Rowley Regis;

[4] Lucy Taylor (15), daughter, born Halesowen;

[5] Thomas Taylor (13), son, at school, born Rowley Regis;

[6] Ethel Taylor (10), daughter, at school, born Rowley Regis:

County Advertiser 12/3/1904

"District Council Nominations Rowley Regis Rowley Ward.....

William Henry Taylor, licensed victualler, Rowley Village."

St. Giles, Rowley - Parish Register - Baptisms

15th March 1905 - Ada, daughter (b. 26/1/1905) of William Henry and Jane Taylor, publican, 55, The Village.

1911 Census

55, Village

[1] William Henry Taylor (53), widower, bolt and rivet manufacturer's agent, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Lucy Taylor (25), daughter, born Rowley Regis;

- [3] Ethel Taylor (20), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] William Taylor (17), son, carter, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Jane Taylor (13), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] Sarah Taylor (11), daughter, school, born Rowley Regis;
- [7] Ada Taylor (6), daughter, born Rowley Regis:

Staffordshire Sentinel 7/6/1913

“The Licensing (Consolidation) Act, 1910. Notice of Principal Meeting. County of Stafford.

Notice Is Hereby Given, that the Principal Meeting to be held pursuant to the Licensing Rules, 1901, by the Compensation Authority for the above Area, will be held at the Shirehall, Stafford, at 10-45 o'clock am on Thursday, the 24th day of July, 1913. And Notice Is Hereby Also Given, that the Compensation Authority will at the Meeting be prepared to hear, with reference to the Renewal of the Licenses of the several Premises specified in the subjoined list, all those Persons to whom under the Licensing (Consolidation) Act, 1910, they are bound to give an opportunity of being heard.....

List of Licensed Premises.....

SWAN INN, Rowley Regis. Alehouse. Licensee, Samuel Tromans.”

Staffordshire Sentinel 24/7/1913

“The principal meeting of the County Licensing Compensation Authority was held in the Shire Hall, Stafford, today (Thursday), when 38 houses appeared in the list to be dealt with by the magistrates.....

The licenses of the SWAN INN, Rowley Regis, and the QUEENS HEAD, Old Hill, in the Rowley Regis division, were taken away.”

AND

Birmingham Daily Gazette 25/7/1913

“The Staffordshire Licensing Committee, at their meeting at Stafford yesterday, had thirty-eight cases to consider, the question being whether the licenses should be withdrawn and the houses extinguished under the compensation clauses of the Licensing Acts.....

The licenses of the SWAN INN, Rowley Regis, and the QUEENS HEAD, Old Hill, were renewed.”

[It would appear that the license of the QUEENS HEAD was renewed but that of the SWAN was not.]

Closed

Demolished

SWAN

Birchfield Lane, Whiteheath Gate, WHITEHEATH

OWNERS

William Collins Hodgetts [1903]

LICENSEES

David Hadley [1834]

William Cole [1843]

Benjamin Slim [1845] – [1861]

David Hingley [] – 1903:

NOTES

Aris's Birmingham Gazette 9/10/1843 - Advert

“Freehold Public House, Dwelling House, and Premises, at White Heath Gate, in the parish of Rowley Regis, in the county of Stafford.

To be Sold by Auction, by Mr. Newbold, at the TALBOT HOTEL, in Oldbury, on Tuesday the 17th day of October inst, at seven o'clock in the evening (by direction of the Mortgagee and Trustee for sale, and subject to conditions then to be produced).

All that Messuage or Public House, called the WHITE SWAN INN, situate at White Heath Gate aforesaid, fronting the road leading from Titford to Oldbury.

The House and Premises comprise tap-room, parlour, pantry, ale and spirit cellars, two bed-rooms, Stable, good brewhouse, Garden, Skittle-alley, Pigsties, Yard, and well of excellent water, and are now in the occupation of Mr. William Cole.

Also all that other Messuage or Dwelling House, nearly adjoining the above Inn, with two Shops, Outbuildings, and Premises thereto belonging, at present void, but eligibly situated and adapted for a Retail Provision and Grocer's Shop. For further particulars apply at the respective offices of Mr. Bolton, Solicitor, or of the Auctioneer, both of Dudley."

1851 Census

Whiteheath Gate

- [1] Benjamin Slim (57), innkeeper and dealer in iron, born Titford;
- [2] Jane Slim (49), wife, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] James Slim (18), son, wheelwright, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Benjamin Slim (15), son, labourer, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Joseph Slim (5), son, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] Ann Slim (13), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [7] Jane Slim (10), daughter, born Rowley Regis:

County Advertiser 15/10/1859

"Joseph Willetts and Richard Fereday, colliers, were charged with breaking into the cellar of Mr. Noah Parkes, landlord of the NEW INN, Whiteheath Gate, Rowley, and stealing a quantity of ale therefrom, his property. It appeared in evidence that the two prisoners in company with other men were drinking and bowling on Monday night last at the public house called the SWAN, kept by Benjamin Slim, which adjoins or is in close proximity to the prosecutor's premises. The NEW INN had been lately taken to by Parkes, and the house was unoccupied. In the cellar, however, were two or three thirty-six gallon casks containing ale, one of which was in tap, and about two gallons had been taken out. The cellar had been properly secured during the afternoon, and about seven o'clock in the evening prosecutor received information that the cellar had been broken into and that the ale was being carried away. He immediately went to the place, and saw the prisoner Fereday in Slim's yard in the rear of the premises, and separated from prosecutor's house by a seven feet wall, but he had nothing in his possession. He went to the other side of the wall, and there found an iron bucket full of ale, and on examining the cellar, which had been entered by breaking open the trap door, he found that the barrel which was in tap was about half emptied of its contents. It was estimated to be worth at least 1s per gallon. The prisoner Fereday had endeavoured just previously to borrow a bucket from Mrs. Slim, but was refused, and he then took it. He was also heard to say that he would have some ale, and that it should come from the other side of the wall, pointing towards the cellar; and another witness swore to seeing the prisoners handing the beer to each other over the wall. They were each committed to take their trial at the ensuing Stafford Sessions on Monday next."

Wolverhampton Chronicle 19/10/1859

"Staffordshire Quarter Sessions.....

Richard Fereday, 23, and Joseph Willetts, 35, both miners, were charged with breaking into the dwelling house of Noah Parks, the keeper of the NEW INN, White Heath, Rowley Regis, and stealing 18 gallons of ale from a 36 gallon cask in the cellar. Fereday was seen bringing some of the ale away from the cellar in a bucket; Willetts, it was alleged, aided him in passing it over the wall at the back of the NEW INN. Fereday was now sentenced to three months' hard labour, and Willetts was acquitted."

Birmingham Daily Post 18/7/1860

"Yesterday, before R. W. Johnson and W. H. Davies, Esqrs, William Slinn, labourer, was charged with having assaulted, with intent to murder, Enoch Cooper, a labourer in the employ of Mr. Hackett, of Rowley Regis.

The evidence was to the effect that on the 5th of the present month both parties were in the SWAN public house, near Whiteheath Gate, when the prisoner, being drunk, commenced provoking the complainant, and after quarrelling with both him and the landlord's son, he struck complainant on the temples with his fist, knocking him down on to the screen, apparently senseless. Prisoner then caught hold of complainant by the hair of his head, lifted him up, placed him against the window-shutter, and struck him two very violent blows in the mouth. He then loosed him, and complainant fell on the floor. It was at first supposed that complainant was dead, and upon it being suggested that brandy should be administered to revive him, the prisoner wiped the blood off the complainant's face, and forced it into his mouth, saying, 'I'll give the b—— brandy.' Subsequently prisoner violently assaulted the landlady, and pulled some of the hair off her head. He also assaulted the landlady's son, and frightened everybody so much that the daughter having locked herself in a room, he was at length complete master of the house. Eventually, however, he was taken into custody and locked up.

Mr. Brown, surgeon, said that complainant had sustained a severe compound fracture of the jaw, and had scarcely been able to speak. Complainant also sustained other injuries, so severe that his life was at one time despaired of, and on Friday last Captain Bennitt and Mr. Wright (Magistrates' Clerk) attended at his residence and took down all the answers – necessarily categorical – which he gave to questions put to him. The prisoner, the surgeon, the Superintendent, and sergeant of police were also present. It is hoped, however, that the complainant will ultimately recover, but it will be some time before he is able to leave home or indulge in general conversation.

After hearing the evidence, yesterday, the prisoner was fully committed to take his trial at the next Assizes.

The prisoner seems to be of an extremely violent temper, as he suffered imprisonment for eight months for a previous offence of a similar character. His brother is undergoing imprisonment for felony."

Wolverhampton Chronicle 19/12/1860

"Worcester Assizes.....

The Jury, without hesitation, found the prisoner guilty of wounding with intent to murder, and Mr. Baron Wilde directed that sentence of death should be recorded against him, observing that the sentence would only be commuted to penal servitude for life or for twenty years.”

[The records show that William Slimm received a sentence of penal servitude for life.]

1861 Census

Birchfield Lane

[1] Benjamin Slim (67), victualler, born Warley Wigorn;

[2] Jane Haden Slim (58), wife, born Rowley Regis;

[3] Jane Slim (20), daughter, general servant, born Rowley Regis:

1871 Census

Birchy Field Lane

[1] Benjamin Slim (78), dealer in scrap iron, born Oldbury;

[2] Ann Slim (70), wife, born Rowley:

The license was not renewed in February 1903.

County Advertiser 14/2/1903

“On Wednesday the annual licensing session for the Rowley Regis Petty Sessional Division were held at the Court House. Notice of objection has been served on William Collins Hodgetts, the owner of the SWAN INN, Whiteheath, and the present tenant, David Hingley, on the ground that the license was not required. No intoxicants had been sold at this house for some years.

Superintendent Spendlove had given notice that he should oppose the following licenses.

David Hingley, SWAN INN, Whiteheath, license not required.

The Bench then proceeded to deal with the objections. Upon the consideration of the SWAN INN, Whiteheath, Mr. Cooksey pointed out that there was no application for the renewal of the license.

The Chairman: It is defunct then? – Mr. Cooksey: Yes, sir.”

Check SWAN, Titford, Oldbury.

SWAN WITH TWO NECKS

76, Lower High Street, (96, Lomey Town), CRADLEY HEATH

OWNERS

Henry ‘Harry’ Tibbetts [1893]

North Worcestershire Breweries Ltd. (acquired in 1896)

Wolverhampton and Dudley Breweries Ltd. (acquired in 1909)

LICENSEES

Joseph James Westwood [1864] – [1883]

Henry ‘Harry’ Tibbetts [1885] – 1896)

William Weaver [1901] – [1908]

John Lane (1910 – [1911])

Henry Townsend [1912]

Alfred Smith [1912]

Daniel Broughton [1915] – 1937);

Egbert Ernest ‘Bert’ Priest (1937 – 1958);

Arthur Bradney (1958 – [1965])

K J Woodhall [1976]

Tony Bass [1988]

NOTES

96, Lomey Town [1881], [1911]

76, Lower High Street [1939], [1940]

SWAN [1868], [1869], [1870], [1871], [1881], [1885], [1886], [1887], [1888], [1891], [1902], [1903], [1908], [1909], [1911],

[1912], [1939], [1940]

WHITE SWAN [1910]

It had an ante '69 beerhouse license.

County Express 29/8/1868

“Joseph James Westwood, SWAN INN, Cradley Heath, was charged with keeping his public house open after eleven o'clock on the night of the 22nd of August, and, pleading guilty, was ordered to pay costs.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 30/8/1869

“The annual licensing meeting for Rowley Regis division was held on Friday, at COOKSEY'S HOTEL, Old Hill.....

The following beerhouse keepers had been fined during the last five years.....

Joseph James Westwood, SWAN, Cradley Heath.....

The licenses of Joseph James Westwood, were suspended till the adjourned licensing day, on Wednesday week.”

Joseph James Westwood was also a chain manufacturer. [1870]

County Express 13/8/1870

“Joseph James Westwood, of the SWAN INN, Cradley Heath, was charged with keeping his house open for the sale of liquors during prohibited hours.

Police-sergeant Breton said, on Sunday morning, the 24th ult, he was passing defendant's house, when he saw a woman run in.

Directly afterwards ten or a dozen men came out of a back door. He went into the house, and in two different rooms he found wet marks on the table, where there had been ale. On one table were two jugs, one of which was partly filled with ale. Under another table he found a cup full of newly drawn ale.

Police-constable Lavin gave corroborative evidence, as he went into the house with the sergeant, and defendant was fined 20s and costs.”

County Express 27/8/1870

“The annual licensing meeting for the Rowley Regis Petty Sessional Division was held yesterday.....

The licenses of Ann Cox, FIVE WAYS, Cradley Heath, licensed victualler; Joseph Westwood, SWAN WITH TWO NECKS, Cradley Heath, beerhouse keeper, were suspended.”

County Express 10/9/1870

“Mr. Hayes applied for continuation of the beerhouse license of Joseph James Westwood, SWAN INN, Cradley Heath, which was suspended at the annual licensing day.

The Bench consented to grant it, but said if the defendant was summoned again they should take away the license altogether.”

1871 Census

Lomey Town – SWAN INN

[1] Joseph J. Westwood (53), chain maker and publican, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Susan Westwood (50), wife, born Cradley;

[3] Ruben Westwood (16), son, labourer, born Rowley Regis:

Stourbridge Observer 14/10/1871

“Joseph James Westwood, landlord of the SWAN WITH TWO NECKS INN, Cradley Heath, was also charged with keeping his house open during prohibited hours, on 8th October.

The officers Johnson and Griffin proved visiting defendant's house about eight o'clock, when they found three men in the house.

There was a pint cup part full of ale in the cupboard.

Westwood, in defence, said one of the men was a lodger, and he had served him with a pint of ale. As to the other two men – one was his son in law, and the other came to bring him two sticks of celery. They did not have anything to drink.

The Bench dismissed the case.”

Joseph James Westwood, beer retailer and chain manufacturer. [1872]

County Express 15/7/1876

“Joseph Westwood, landlord of the SWAN INN, Lomey Town, Cradley Heath, was charged with selling beer during prohibited hours, on Sunday, the 2nd instant; and was further charged with attempting to bribe Police-constable Cooper on the same date. Mr. W. Hayes, jun. defended.

Cooper said about twenty minutes past four on the above date he saw a man come out of defendant's house with a half-gallon bottle filled with ale. He took the man back to the house, when defendant said his wife had filled it. Witness then left the house, and defendant called him back and asked him if they could not settle the matter between them, and he (defendant) would give the officer something handsome.

For the first offence defendant was fined £1 and costs; and for the attempted bribery a fine of £5 and costs was imposed.”

County Advertiser 22/7/1876

“Benjamin Harris was fined 5s and costs for being upon the licensed premises of Joseph Westwood, at Lomey Town, on the 2nd inst, during prohibited hours. Police-constable Cooper proved the case. Westwood was fined at the previous sessions.”

Dudley Herald 30/8/1879

“The annual licensing session for the Rowley Regis division was held on the 26th ult.

The convictions against beerhouse keepers were.....

Joseph James Westwood, SWAN WITH TWO NECKS, Cradley Heath, permitting drunkenness. Paid costs, October 30th.”

1881 Census

96, Lomey Town – SWAN INN

[1] Joseph Westwood (65), widower, publican, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Daniel Tromans (74), boarder, chain maker, born Rowley Regis;

[3] Thomas Burrows (20), grandson, chain maker, born Rowley Regis:

Birmingham Daily Post 25/1/1883

“Yesterday, at the Old Hill Police Court, before Messrs. Lea Smith and Walker – Joseph James Westwood, chain manufacturer, and landlord of the SWAN WITH TWO NECKS INN, Cradley Heath, pleaded not guilty to a summons charging him with infringing the Truck Act, by paying a workman otherwise than in current coin of the realm, to wit, beer.

Mr. Hooper (Messrs. Stokes and Hooper), Dudley, instructed by Mr. Charles Williams, secretary to the Anti-Truck Association, appeared to prosecute, and Mr. Holberton, Brierley Hill, defended.

Joseph Wellings stated that he was a chainmaker, and he had formerly been in the employ of the defendant for about eighteen months, and had been in the habit of having beer from the defendant. He had not paid for the beer, but defendant used to deduct the amount from his wages, and on the 23rd September he deducted 2½d for a pint of ale.

Cross-examined: The defendant was his grandfather, and he (witness) had frequently had his dinner at defendant’s house. He was paid in the presence of the other workmen. Witness did not assent to the deductions being made from his wages.

Re-examined by Mr. Hooper: He had heard another workman named Goodman grumble when the money was deducted from his wages.

There was also a second charge of contravening the Truck Act by paying Joseph Wellings otherwise than in the coin of the realm, to wit clothes.

Wellings stated that he had been in the habit of going errands for the defendant, and he supplied him with a suit of clothes for doing it.

Cross-examined: He did not have the clothes until most of the work had been done.

When the witnesses were called for the defence it appeared that, although at the commencement all witnesses had been ordered out of Court, three of defendant’s witnesses had remained in during the hearing of the witness for the prosecution. The Bench therefore refused to take their evidence, and inflicted a fine of £5 and costs in the first case. The second summons was dismissed.”

County Advertiser 27/6/1885

“James Harris, Lomey Town, was summoned on the charge of being drunk on licensed premises of Henry Tibbetts, SWAN INN, Lomey Town, and refusing to quit. When the case came on last week Inspector Walters said he had ascertained that Tibbetts and Harris had settled the case.

Mr. Hingley then said the Bench would not allow cases to be settled in that manner, and the police were instructed to order the two men to appear.

Tibbetts now said he was under the impression that cases could be settled out of Court, but finding his mistake he was sorry for what he had done.

The case was allowed to be withdrawn on the defendant’s agreeing to pay the costs.”

County Advertiser 28/8/1886 - Advert

“Wanted, a strong Servant, of good character.

Apply, SWAN INN, Lomey Town, Cradley Heath.”

County Express 17/9/1887

“An elderly man named Frederick Bence, described as a blacksmith, and residing at Lomey Town, Cradley Heath, was remanded for a fortnight charge of stealing three fowls, the property of Harry Tibbetts landlord of the SWAN INN, Lomey Town.”

County Advertiser 1/10/1887

“Frederick Bence, Cradley Road, Cradley Heath, was charged with stealing a whip, the property of Thomas Adams. The whip was missed from a trap which had been left in the yard at the SWAN WITH TWO NECKS, and subsequently the prisoner gave the whip to a man named Fisher. Defendant said that he found the whip lying in the road. The Bench did not consider there was sufficient evidence to convict defendant, and discharged the case.”

County Advertiser 3/12/1887 - Advert

“Wanted, good General Servant, over 20.

Apply, SWAN INN, Lomey Town, Cradley Heath.”

Dudley Mercury 14/4/1888

“Walter Jenkins, Woodside, was charged with assaulting Harriet Cartwright, on the 7th inst. Complainant said she was at the SWAN INN, Lomey Town when the defendant went to her and struck her with his fist several times. Mrs. Tibbits said that the defendant did not strike the girl. The case was dismissed.”

Dudley Mercury 21/7/1888

“On Monday morning Mr. E. Hooper (coroner) held an inquest at the SWAN INN, Lomey Town, Cradley Heath, respecting the death of an infant, aged nine days, who resided with her parents at Silverthorn Lane, Cradley Heath. Mary Yardley, mother of the deceased, stated that on Thursday morning witness got up to get her husband’s breakfast, when a neighbour, named Mrs. Cope, came in, and she said the baby was very ill, and asked if she should take it to a doctor. They took deceased to Dr. DeDenne. The assistant came and unwrapped the child, and he told them that he would fetch the doctor. When the doctor came he said the child was dead, and he could do nothing for it, and he ordered them to communicate with the police. The jury returned a verdict of Death from Natural Causes.”

1891 Census

Lomey Town – SWAN INN

- [1] Harry Tibbetts (31), beerhouse keeper, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Henrietta Tibbetts (29), wife, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] Nellie Tibbetts (7), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Willie Tibbetts (6), son, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Sarah Stinson (22), domestic servant, born Brierley Hill:

County Advertiser 17/9/1892

“Frederick Charles, Peartree Street, was charged with being disorderly on the licensed premises of Harry Tibbetts, landlord of the NEW [sic] INN, Lomey Town, Cradley Heath, and refusing to quit same, and also with damaging windows to the amount of 2s 6d, on the 3rd inst.

Complainant stated that defendant came into his house on Saturday week and had a pint of ale. Soon afterwards he became disorderly and created a disturbance, using bad language. Witness told him he could not allow it, and ejected him. Immediately afterwards a stone came through the window.

A man named Thomas Bloomer said he saw defendant strike the landlord three times when ejected, and heard him threaten to break the window. Defendant searched in the gutter for some stones, and afterwards ran away when witness tried to catch him. Defendant was fined 5s and costs for being disorderly, and 10s and costs and 2s 6d damage for breaking the window.”

County Advertiser 2/9/1893 - Advert

“To the Overseers of the Poor of the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford, and to the Superintendent of Police of the District or Division of Rowley Regis in the said County, and to all whom it may concern.

I, Harry Tibbetts, the holder of a Seven Days’ Beerhouse License, now residing at the SWAN INN, Lomey Town, in the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford, Do Hereby Give Notice, that it is my intention to Apply, at the Adjourned General Annual Licensing Meeting, for the Division of Rowley Regis, to be holden at the Public Office at Old Hill, in the said County, on the 27th day of September next ensuing, for the grant of a License or Certificate, authorising me to Apply for and to Hold an Excise License for the Sale by Retail, at a House and Premises, situate and known as the SWAN INN, Lomey Town, in the Parish of Rowley Regis aforesaid, of all Intoxicating Liquors, to be Consumed either on or off the Premises, in pursuance of the Intoxicating Liquor Licensing Act, 1828, and Acts amending the same, of which said Premises I am the Owner, and the same are of the annual value by law required, and are now in my own occupation.

Given under my hand this 31st day of August, 1893.

Harry Tibbetts.”

County Advertiser 30/9/1893

“The annual adjourned licensing sessions for Rowley Regis petty sessional division was held on Wednesday.....

Mr. John Wright made an application on behalf of Harry S. Tibbetts, landlord of the SWAN INN, Old Hill [sic], for an excise license to sell intoxicating spirits.

Mr. Wright said the house belonged to the applicant, who had occupied it for ten years, and it was near to the Railway Station. That being the case, he was frequently asked by travellers and other people for wines and spirits, and the population was also increasing. Tibbetts had a good character, and he might say that all the nearest houses were in the hands of breweries, who, therefore, had a monopoly. The applicant had kept the house without a stain on his character. He (Mr. Wright) had a petition in his possession very largely signed by people in the locality in favour of the application.

The applicant gave evidence in keeping with Mr. Wright’s statement, and in cross-examination said there were seven public houses at a distance of 300 yards or over from his house. All of these, with the exception of the ANCHOR INN were in the hands of breweries.

Mr. Sidaway deposed to the annual value of the house being £40, exclusive of rates.

Mr. Bassano said that personally, he was of opinion that every public house should be full-licensed, but as the majority of the publicans did not possess full licenses, they could not, in justice, grant the application.”

County Advertiser 29/12/1894 - Advert

“Wanted, a strong General Servant, used to Public Business.
Apply, Mrs. Tibbetts, SWAN INN, Cradley Heath.”

North Worcestershire Breweries issued tokens from here marked ‘SWAN, Cradley Heath’.

1901 Census

Lomey Town

- [1] William Weaver (41), innkeeper, born Cradley Heath;
- [2] Lizzie Weaver (38), wife, born Dudley;
- [3] Pollie Weaver (16), daughter, born Cradley Heath;
- [4] Edith Weaver (7), daughter, born Cradley Heath;
- [5] William Weaver (3), son, born Cradley Heath;
- [6] Oliver Shaw (20), cousin, shoe maker, born Quarry Bank:

County Express 18/1/1902

“On Tuesday morning the body of James Morgan, a moulder, who formerly resided in Silverthorn Lane, was found in a pool at the back of his home. An inquest relative to the death was held at the SWAN INN, Lomey Town, on Thursday morning by Mr. A. A. Betham, deputy-coroner.

Harry Weaver, son-in-law of the deceased, said Morgan had lived with him for some time. Deceased was an iron-moulder by trade, but owing to bad trade, had only worked five days in the last six months. Deceased had been in good health. Witness last saw deceased alive at 9.40am on Monday morning, when deceased was in better spirits than witness had seen him in for some time. The deceased ‘liked his beer’ but was sober on Monday morning. Deceased did not come home on Monday evening, and the next morning, when witness went down the garden, he found Morgan’s hat, and a minute or two later discovered the deceased’s body in a pool which was situated at the bottom of the garden. The body was about five yards from the side. Witness sent for the police, and PC Dale came and recovered the body. Witness had never heard deceased threaten to take his life, but witness knew deceased was depressed at times over not being able to get work. He was also troubled about his two sons who were out in South Africa. One of these was to have started home this month, but the last they heard of him was that he had the fever badly. That weighed on deceased’s mind. On Monday morning deceased received a letter, which witness knew asked him to send some money by return of post. This letter was produced, and the Coroner, after reading it, stated it was from a watch manufacturer in Birmingham, asking for money, but it was not of a nature as should disturb a man’s mind much.

Thomas Burley, of 40, Cradley Road, a moulder, said he spent from twelve o’clock until four on Monday afternoon with deceased at the SWAN INN. They had five pints of beer between them. When witness left the inn deceased was sober. During the conversation they had, which was chiefly about their work, deceased asked witness how things were looking at the works. Witness replied that they were looking brighter, and in a short time deceased might be able to get a job. Deceased replied that he had tried everywhere, but people would not set him on, on account of his grey hairs.

Mrs. Martha Smith, of Silverthorn Lane, who saw deceased going home on Monday night, said it was apparent he had had beer, but he was not drunk.

Mrs. Sarah Billingham, of Silverthorn Lane, who passed deceased in the lane, said deceased was drunk. Deceased had been in the habit of ‘getting a little bit on.’ She heard him muttering to himself, and overheard him say, ‘I will show them what I am going to do; they shall know what I am going to do.’

PC Dale gave formal evidence as to recovering the body. He said there was a coating of ice on the pool a quarter-of-an-inch thick, and as deceased was four yards from the side, this pointed to the fact that he had got there overnight, and before the pool became frozen. He had made enquiries as to the deceased’s condition on Monday, and found he was drunk.

William Weaver, landlord of the SWAN INN, said deceased was sober when he left the inn.

After deliberation, the jury returned a verdict of Found Drowned.”

County Advertiser 9/5/1903

“The florists of Lomey Town and several friends held their annual dinner at the house of Mr. W. Weaver, the SWAN INN, when about twenty-five sat down to an excellent repast provided by the host and hostess. After dinner Mr. D. Broughton presided. In the course of the evening Messrs. J. Butcher, J. Hill, T. Burley, T. Price, G. Stevens, and the host contributed songs or recitations, and a convivial evening wound up with the toast of ‘The Host and Hostess.’”

William Weaver, beer retailer, 96, Lomey Town. [1904]

County Express 12/9/1908

“Friendly Societies’ Parade. On Wednesday evening the committee of the above met at the PLOUGH AND HARROW INN, Mr. W. Coley presiding over a large attendance. The following was a complete list of those boxes which contained amounts of 1s and upwards.....

Mr. W. Weaver, SWAN INN, 1s 5½d.”

Indenture 28/10/1909

“All that public-house known as The SWAN INN situate at Cradley Heath with the brewhouse outbuildings and garden.....”

County Express 11/6/1910

“At Old Hill Police Court, on Wednesday, a temporary authority was granted to John Lane in respect of the WHITE SWAN INN, Lomey Town.”

1911 Census

96, Lomey Town – SWAN INN

- [1] John Lane (40), anchor forgerman and publican manager, born Cradley Heath;
- [2] Sarah Lane (31), wife, married 13 years, assisting in public house, born Cradley Heath;
- [3] Wallace Lane (12), son, school, born Cradley Heath;
- [4] Guilenda Lane (11), daughter, school, born Cradley Heath;
- [5] Daisy Lane (10), daughter, school, born Cradley Heath;
- [6] John Lane (8), son, born Cradley Heath; [crossed out (dead)]
- [7] Nelson Lane (7), son, school, born Cradley Heath:

Henry Townsend, beer retailer, 96, Lomey Town. [1912]

County Express 21/12/1912

“Will. The late Mr. Alfred Smith, of the SWAN INN, Lomey Town, left by his will personal estate proved at £301 gross.”

Daniel Broughton, beer retailer, 96, Lomey Town. [1924]
He married Jemima Higgs.

Black Country Bugle (July 1988)

“Dan Broughton kept pigs at the back of the pub, and the story went that whenever he had a porker killed, he’d keep the teeth and use them as counters, to keep check of his ‘tick’ run up by his regular customers Dan had a speech impediment, and one day he returned to the pub, looking forward to a juicy suckling pig on the dinner table, he was offered turkey. Greatly displeased, he chastised his wife by saying ‘Yo’ve aiten all the ucking pig.’ As a consequence the pub often went as ‘Ucking Pig’s.”

1939 Register

76, Lower High Street – SWAN INN

- [1] Egbert E. Priest, date of birth 7/8/1903, publican manager, married;
- [2] Leah Priest, dob 4/4/1904, unpaid domestic duties, married;
- [3] Hilda L. (Priest) Faulkner, dob 23/10/1933, at school, single;
- [4] Caleb Priest, dob 1/1/1876, chain maker, heavy work, widowed:

Sports Argus 30/12/1939

“Cradley Heath Darts League.....

The meeting of the clubs of the League will be held on Monday night at the SWAN INN, Lomey Town.”

A Publican’s license was granted on 2nd February 1949.

It was transferred to a full license on 27th April 1949.

News Telephone 3/9/1970

“All pubs have their regulars – some more regular than others – but few could claim to have two patrons of more than 62 years standing.

For that is how long 94 years old Caleb Priest and his friend 90 years old Arthur Ford have been popping into the SWAN WITH TWO NECKS INN at Lower High Street.....

The pub itself has changed little over the years and when I visited it the two old gentlemen were seated on a long wall bench near an old fashioned chimney stove.....”

A team from here took part in the Cradley Heath Darts League. [1970]

Tony Bass was married to Jackie.

[1994]

Closed

It was converted into offices.

TALBOT

96, High Street / Stoney Yard, Five Ways, CRADLEY HEATH

OWNERS

Noah Fellows [1880]
Showells Brewery Ltd. (acquired in 1875) [1893]
Ind Coope and Allsopp Ltd. (leased) (acquired on 3rd July 1935)

LICENSEES

Noah Fellows [1851] – [1854]
Reuben Chandler [1855] – 1857;
Alfreece Chandler (1857 – []
Noah Fellows [] – 1859);
Johanna (Meredith) Hughes (1859 – 1861);
William Hughes (1861)
Noah Lowes (1861);
Charles Bridgens (1861 – 1867);
Charles Blizard [1862]
William Letts (1867 – 1871);
Thomas Taft* (1871 – [1878]
William Letts [1876]
Thomas Taft* [1881] – [1889]
Henry ‘Harry’ Dingley [1891] – 1919);
Clarence Bertram Dingley (1919 – 1922);
Isaiah Baker (1922 – 1924);
William George Hawkes (1924 – 1929);
George Thomas Delahay (1929 – 1938);
Joseph Powell (1938);
Francis Harry Tomlins (1938 – 1940);
Harold Tromans (1940 – 1941);
Francis Robert Hay (1941);
Charles Matthew Leake (1941 – 1943);
Alfred Reginald Harris (1943 – 1948);
Isaac Baden Shepherd (1948 – 1949);
John Howard Wise (1949);
Hubert Stowe (1949 – 1950);
Joseph Albert Cornock (1950 – 1951);
Richard Edgar Downen (1951);

NOTES

TALBOT HOTEL [1864], [1865], [1872], [1873], [1896], [1912], [1924]
CRADLEY HEATH HOTEL [1932]

It was known locally as “The Big Lamp”.

1851 Census

Cradley Heath

- [1] Noah Fellows (36), grocer, born Oldswinford;
- [2] Jane Fellows (35), wife, born Kingswinford;
- [3] Joseph Fellows (13), son, scholar, born Oldswinford;
- [4] Sarah Ann Fellows (8), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Ruth Fellows (5), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] Charlotte Fellows (9 months), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [7] Thomas Hill (15), apprentice, born Stourbridge;
- [8] Louisa Millward (16), house servant, born Rowley Regis:

Birmingham Journal 25/6/1853 - Advert

“Valuable Freehold Property, Cradley Heath, in the Parish of Rowley, in the County of Stafford.

To be Sold by Auction, by Mr. Hawkins, on Tuesday, the 12th of July next, at the house of Mr. Noah Fellows, the TALBOT INN,

Five Ways, Cradley Heath aforesaid, at Five o'clock in the evening, and subject to conditions.

Lot 1. All that valuable Old Licensed House and Premises, known by the sign of the OLD FIVE WAYS INN, situate at the Five Ways, Cradley Heath aforesaid, and now in the occupation of Mr. William Cox.....”

Noah Fellows was also a grocer. [1854]

Aris's Birmingham Gazette 28/8/1854 - Advert

“Staffordshire. Freehold House and Land, Cradley Heath.

To be Sold by Auction, by Mr. Hawkins (by direction of the Assignees of Mr. Jeremiah Billingham, a bankrupt), this present Monday, August 28, at the house of Mr. Noah Fellows, known by the sign of the TALBOT INN, Cradley Heath aforesaid, at six o'clock in the evening, and subject to conditions.....”

Birmingham Journal 14/7/1855 - Advert

“£50 Society, No.2

Reuben Chandler, TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath, begs to announce the Commencement of the above on Wednesday, 18th instant.

No.1 is admitted to be the best Club in the vicinity, and the same Management as heretofore will be continued.

Any friend wishing to become a Member will oblige by joining.”

Birmingham Journal 17/11/1855

“On Tuesday evening last, G. H Hinchliffe, Esq, commenced an inquest at the TALBOT INN, Cradley Heath, on the body of Edward Davis, aged thirty-five years, a sinker. The deceased was employed at Mr. Dawes's pit, Waterfield Lane, and on the previous Tuesday evening he descended the shaft which had been sunk between two and three hundred yards. Here he continued at work with two others until a little after nine o'clock, when three men went down to relieve the deceased and his companions, who got in the bowk and gave the usual signal, and it commenced ascending, Johnson, the engineer, working the engine. It went at a normal speed until within about 40 yards of the top of the shaft, when the speed slackened, but immediately afterwards it increased, and the bowk ascended at a fearful rate. Deceased and his companions called ‘murder,’ and the banksman hooted to the engineer, who also called out, but the speed of the engine was not checked, and the bowk came out of the pit, and was drawn violently over the pulley to the next roller post, the deceased and his companions being thrown a considerable distance – the former 28 yards from the pit. He was found severely injured and died on Saturday last; the other two were also badly hurt. The engineer immediately locked up the engine house and left the pit, and he afterwards procured the attendance of Dutton, Mr. Dawes's principal engineer, who examined the engine, and stated that he found the top strain valve and bottom exhausting valve sticking up, and he gave the causes that might occasion this, and said that when the valve stuck the engineer would lose all control over the engine, and the weight of the chain at the other shaft would cause the bowk in which deceased and his companions were to ascend with great velocity. The Coroner and Jury considered that the whimsey man, Johnson, had no right to have directed an examination of the engine, as it ought to have been left in the same state as it was when the bowk was drawn over the pulley until the inquest. The inquiry was adjourned until Tuesday evening next for further evidence, and in order that the Government Inspector might be written to.”

[At the adjourned inquest the jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death.]

Brierley Hill Advertiser 7/2/1857

“Concert Hall TALBOT HOTEL. A complimentary supper was given to Mr. J. H. Boston, the eminent pianist of this establishment, when between twenty and thirty respectable tradesmen of the district assembled to pay a mark of respect to that talented gentleman. The supper was served up in Mrs. Chandler's general good style, and gave great satisfaction to all present.....”

County Advertiser 21/3/1857

“Reuben Chandler, landlord of the TALBOT INN, Cradley Heath, preferred a charge against a young man named Thomas Cox, for being drunk and disorderly in his house on the 9th inst. Defendant alleged that he went into the house and called for a glass of rum and water; on tasting it he discovered that no sugar had been put in, and therefore enquired the reason; that was all he had done. Mr. Chandler did not wish to press the case, as Cox had expressed contrition for what had occurred. Ordered to pay costs.”

Brierley Hill Advertiser 30/5/1857 - Advert

“To Be Let, with immediate possession, all that well-accustomed full-licensed house known as the TALBOT HOTEL, Five Ways, Cradley Heath. The house is doing good business, is well supplied with water, stands in the best situation in this rapidly improving town, and is surrounded with iron, coal, and other extensive works. The present tenant is leaving in consequence of other arrangements.

For particulars, and to treat, apply on the premises.”

Birmingham Journal 11/7/1857 - Advert

“The TALBOT, Cradley Heath, Four miles from Dudley, Two-and-a-half miles from Netherton, and near to the Great Congreve and other extensive Ironworks.

By Roderick and Son. To be Disposed Of by Private Contract, the Licenses, Goodwill, and Possession of the above capital Wine and Spirit Vaults and Tavern, one of the most lucrative Concerns in the Mining District.

The Premises comprise a large Liquor Shop, 50 feet long, Smoke, Tap, and Sitting Rooms, large Club Room, numerous Chambers, good Cellaring, Yard, and Stabling, and are now held at a low rent. Coming-in about £450.”

For further particulars, and to treat, apply to the Auctioneers, 54, New Street, Birmingham.”

Mr. Chandler, auctioneer, had his office here. [1858]

County Advertiser 18/6/1859 - Advert

“TALBOT INN, Five Ways, Cradley Heath.

To be Let, and may be entered upon immediately, the above old-licensed, well-situated Inn, capable of doing a first-class trade.
Apply to Mr. Noah Fellows, Five Ways, Cradley Heath.”

County Advertiser 12/11/1859

“At the Old Hill Petty Sessions on Wednesday, two offending innkeepers were charged and dealt with as follows: Joseph Yardley, landlord of the CHAINMAKERS ARMS, Cradley Heath, for keeping a disorderly house on the occasion of the drunken fracas which gave rise to the proceeding against the defendant last week, was cautioned by the Bench and dismissed.
Joanna Meredith, landlady of the TALBOT INN, Cradley Heath, for a similar offence, was ordered to pay costs.”

County Advertiser 31/12/1859

“Johanna Meredith, landlady of the TALBOT INN, Cradley Heath, and John Shinton, a beerhouse keeper at the same place, were each fined 10s and costs for keeping their houses open during the hours prohibited by law.”

1861 Census

High Street – TALBOT INN

- [1] William Hughes (39), iron roller and victualler, born Tividale;
- [2] Jemima Hughes (45), wife, born Oldswinford;
- [3] Henry Meredith (16), son-in-law, born Cradley;
- [4] Eliza Meredith (14), daughter-in-law, born Cradley;
- [5] Amelia Meredith (11), daughter-in-law, born Cradley;
- [6] Ann Hughes (30), sister, born Kingswinford;
- [7] Mary Elizabeth Hughes (8), daughter, born Cradley;
- [8] Sophia Hughes (6), daughter, born Cradley;
- [9] Mary Ann Grosvenor (24), visitor, born Kingswinford;
- [10] Margaret Johnson (21), visitor, born Portabello;
- [11] Jane Brown (16), visitor, born Dudley;
- [12] Mary Ann Sellers (38), visitor, singer, born Bristol:

Worcestershire Chronicle 17/4/1861

“.....the following licenses were transferred.....

TALBOT, Rowley, from Joanna Hughes (late Meredith) to her husband, William Hughes.”

Birmingham Daily Post 17/5/1861 - Advert

“To Parties in Search of a Good Old Licensed Public House.

To be Let, with immediate possession, that excellent Old-Licensed Public House, the TALBOT INN, at the Five Ways, Cradley Heath, having large front Spirit Shop, Smoke Room, Tap Room, large Club Room, three Chambers, three Cellars, Brewhouse, enclosed Yard, Stabling and Coach-house, with a good supply of Hard and Soft Water.

The above House is situated in High Street, in a manufacturing and densely populated district, and close to the British Iron Company's extensive Works.

For particulars, and to treat, apply to Mr. Noah Fellows, Five Ways, Cradley Heath; or to Mr. Hawkins, Auctioneer, Brierley Hill.”

London Gazette 2/6/1862

“William Hughes, at present and for one year and twenty-four days last past living in lodgings in the VICTORIA INN, Hill-street, Cradley, in the county of Worcester, Roller of Iron, previously and for seven weeks residing at the TALBOT INN, High-street, Cradley Heath, in the county of Stafford, Innkeeper and Roller of Iron, having been adjudged bankrupt under a Petition for adjudication of Bankruptcy, filed in Her Majesty's Court of Bankruptcy for the Birmingham District, on the 28th of May, 1862, is hereby required to surrender himself to a Registrar of the said Court, at the first meeting of creditors, to be held before the said Registrar, on the 16th day of June instant, at twelve o'clock at noon precisely, at the said Court, at Birmingham. Mr. George Kinnear, of No.37, Waterloo-street, Birmingham, is the Official Assignee, and Mr. Thomas Assinder, of Birmingham, is the Solicitor acting in the bankruptcy.”

Charles Bridgens = Charles Bridgen = Charles Bridges

Bells Life in London and Sporting Chronicle 18/5/1862

“T. Homer of Cradley Heath will run A. Akers of Birmingham six score yards level, or Ben Garrington the like distance, with two yards start, for £5 or £10 a side. Money ready at Bridgen's, TALBOT INN, Five Ways, Cradley Heath.”

Bells Life in London and Sporting Chronicle 25/1/1863

“Garratt and Yorke. These men staked £2 each on the 17th at Mr. Rowley’s, FISH INN, Common Side. The final deposit of £4 a side is due at the TALBOT, Cradley Heath, on Monday Jan 26.”

Bells Life in London and Sporting Chronicle 1/2/1863

“Garratt and Yorke. The final deposit of £4 a side between these men was made at Mr. Bridgen’s, TALBOT, Cradley Heath, on Monday, Jan 26. The lads fight on Monday, Feb 2, within 20 miles of Cradley Heath.”

Bells Life in London and Sporting Chronicle 4/2/1863

“Jack Garratt, of Cradley Heath, and Yorke of Halesowen, at Catchweight, for £10 A-side.

These men met early on Monday morning at the Talbot Inn, Chaddesley, near Kidderminster, and, after considerable delay, proceeded to the Talbot, at Hartlebury, the police, who evidently had full scent of the coming event, keeping in track. Garratt is a fine-made, powerful looking young fellow of twenty-two, weighing close to 10st and had never figured in the roped arena. Yorke is a smaller-built man, weighing 9st 4lb, and fought a good battle with Smoker, of Dudley, to whom he had to succumb, the referee giving in against him for falling without a blow. For the present encounter he was made favourite at 6 to 4, from his doubtless possession of greater science than his antagonist, which more than compensated for the extra weight and length of reach of Garratt. From the commencement of the meeting at Chaddesley, the proceedings were watched with a furtive eye by a determined-looking ‘peeler,’ and no sooner was a start made than this inveterate spoiler, on arriving at the second meeting-place (the Talbot, Hartlebury) no less than three of the Stourbridge Constabulary carts were drawn up with a most threatening aspect in front of the inn, each car containing three of Her Majesty’s servants. Garratt, who had trained at the TALBOT, Cradley Heath, being recognised by the police, a lively chase through several fields resulted, he being ultimately obliged to surrender, being hemmed in on all sides. Some very ugly rumours are afloat as to Garratt having contrived his apprehension, being ‘funky’ at meeting his adversary; but these rumours require proof ere they should obtain credence among the unprejudiced. We are inclined to think that a fight was meant, but that, not being sufficiently ‘snug,’ the authorities got wind of the affair, and determined to put a stop to the proceedings by an imposing force. The result of the final meeting between these men will appear in our next.”

Bells Life in London and Sporting Chronicle 8/2/1863

“J. Garratt of Cradley and T. York of Brierley Hill.

These men met, for £10 a side, at Hartlebury, in Worcestershire, on Monday, Feb 2, but, owing to the attendance of the police, they could not bring the affair off; and at a meeting which took place on Tuesday, Feb 3, another fixture was arranged, and at an early hour on Wednesday morning, Feb 4, the men met at Brick Bridge, nine miles from Cradley, but before the ring could be put down the police again made their unwelcome appearance. A move was at once made towards Wolverhampton, and about four miles from that place the ring was pitched. It was Garratt’s first essay in a roped ring; York has figured in two or three minor matches. Garratt had the advantage in height and length of reach. The betting commenced at 6 to 5 on York, who got the knock-down blow, whilst the first blood was awarded to Garratt. From the first to the last it was one of the most determined, slashing fights that has taken place in the midland districts for some time past; York having the best for the first half hour, getting heavily all over Garratt’s phiz in almost every round. Garratt was not idle, for with his right he placed some severe punishment on York’s ribs. Round after round was fought gamely on both sides, both men administering severe punishment, until after fighting for one hour the odds turned in favour of Garratt. York still continued to play his part with advantage, and Garratt to receive unflinchingly; but as the fight progressed York began to show signs of weakness, yet his gameness was such that he kept on, only to receive the lion’s share of punishment; and not till nature had left him would he consent to be withdrawn, after fighting 96 most determined rounds in 1h 55min. Garratt, who was declared the winner, was led away nearly blind of both eyes, and York was much in the same condition. Garratt’s money shall be sent to him at Mr. C. Bridgen’s, TALBOT INN, Cradley Heath, Staffordshire.”

Bells Life in London and Sporting Chronicle 22/2/1863

“Jack Garrett will fight White of Halesowen, at 9st 10lb, for £25 or £50 a side. Money ready at C. Bridgen’s, TALBOT, Cradley Heath.”

Worcestershire Chronicle 4/3/1863

“The Late Prize Fight. The ‘Fancy’ in Trouble.

On Monday week, Benjamin York and John Garratt appeared in answer to a summons before the county magistrates, Messrs. Hill and Briscoe, at Wolverhampton, on a charge of creating a breach of the peace by fighting a pitched battle, on the 4th inst, at Tettenhall, and William Naylor, George Wilkes, Alfred C. Berry, Isaiah Edmonds, Charles Bridgens, and Barnsley Beasley, were charged with aiding and abetting the same. Mr. Miller Corbet, of Kidderminster, appeared on behalf of the defendants, all of whom belonged either to Brierley Hill or Cradley Heath. The Bench ordered Berry, York and Garratt to enter into their own recognisances in £20, and each to find one surety in £10 to keep the peace for three months.”

Birmingham Daily Post 8/2/1864 - Advert

“At a Meeting of the Gas Consumers of Cradley Heath, on Tuesday last, the 2nd day of February, at Mr. C. Bridgens, TALBOT INN, Mr. R. Whitby in the Chair.

Proposed and carried unanimously—

1st. That this Meeting is of opinion that the proposed reduction of prices, as now offered by this Company, is not satisfactory, and cannot be accepted by the Consumers, and they (the Consumers) pledge themselves not to burn any of their Gas after the 25th day of March next, unless, in the meantime, the Gas Company reduce their charges to the same rates and terms as those of the Birmingham and Staffordshire Gas Company, and also give notice of the reduction to the Consumers prior to that date.

2nd. That the following Resolution, which was passed at our last Meeting, be rescinded: 'That all the Gas Consumers be requested to decline payment of their accounts till the decision of the Company should be made known,' and that the Company pay their accounts forthwith.

3rd. That a Copy of the Resolutions passed at this Meeting tonight be published in the Brierley Hill Advertiser and Birmingham Daily Post, and that the Chairman be requested to send a copy of the same to the Directors of the Gas Company.

(Signed) Robert Whitby. Chairman."

Stourbridge Observer 21/5/1864

"On Monday last an inquest was held at the TALBOT HOTEL, (Mr. C. Bridgen's) before E. Hooper, Esq, on the body of Charles Giddens, who was killed by a fall of coal, on Friday last, at Messrs. Sparrows pits After several witnesses had been heard the jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death.

Benjamin Westwood, the butty, was recalled, and cautioned by the Coroner to make his men adhere to the rules in a better manner for the future; and also to see that the doggy fulfilled his duty in a better manner likewise."

Stourbridge Observer 4/3/1865

"On Wednesday last, an inquest was held at the house of Charles Bridgens, TALBOT HOTEL, before E. Hooper, Esq, District Coroner, on the body of Samuel Wright, who died suddenly on Sunday morning last. After the jury had been duly sworn and had viewed the body, the following evidence was taken.

Alfred Wright deposed that he was the son of the deceased who was a butcher, and resided at Cradley Heath. His father had not enjoyed very good health for the last 12 months, he was troubled chiefly with the rheumatism and a pain in the stomach. On Sunday morning last, at about half past twelve o'clock, he and his brother Samuel were going to bed, when they began pulling each other about not angrily but only in fun. When they had got up stairs his father said he would put a stop to this game. Samuel made a reply and said yes, he would. His father then got out of bed, and went down stairs. He and his brother then dressed themselves. He went down stairs also, but Samuel went into the other room. When he had got down into the kitchen he commenced fastening his shoes. While doing this, his father came out of the shop with a gambriel [a hook for hanging a carcass on] in his hand. He (the father) struck at him twice with the gambriel, but hit the screen instead; the third time the stick caught him on the head. As his father was endeavouring to strike again he slipped down. His sister went and lifted his father up, and sat him down on the screen. When his father was trying to strike him his younger sister ran out and gave an alarm. Mr. Harper hearing the alarm came in and persuaded his father to go to bed. He slept in the same room as his father. His brother Samuel was not in the room when his father came up stairs the second time; he was out in the yard. His father had not been in bed five minutes, when he got out and complained about being ill. He (his father) then went down stairs and said to his eldest daughter, 'Elizabeth, I am ill, send for Henry Bellingham.' No doctor was sent for as his father said he was getting better. He then went into a neighbour's house, as he did not like to hear his father groan. His brother Samuel came in at about a quarter past twelve o'clock. He was not drunk. He understood that his father would die suddenly, from hearing the doctor making a remark to that effect some time since. His father was subject to fits, but he had not seen him in one during the last six years. At about twenty minutes to three they came into the house where he was and sent him for the doctor. When he came back with the doctor, his father was lying dead on the sofa. He thought that he heard the doctor say that his father had died in a fit of apoplexy. His father ate a very hearty supper on the Saturday evening. His brother Samuel and his father often quarrelled. The last time that they did so was on the Thursday previous to his father's death. His father had not had any drugs from any chemists. There was some money in the bank belonging to his father, but he did not know the amount.

Elizabeth Wright, daughter of the deceased, corroborated the former witness's evidence, and stated in addition that when her father came down stairs he complained of pains in his stomach and neck. He complained on Thursday the 23rd of a similar pain. He asked for Henry Bellingham, and when Bellingham came he rubbed her father's chest, and also gave him some tobacco; part of which he smoked. He was in great pain and groaned dreadfully. He would not consent for us to send for a doctor, but said he should be better presently. He was then sitting on a screen; he afterwards got up and went to the sofa, where he knelt down resting his hands on the back of the sofa. She then turned him over and found that his face was quite black. She immediately sent for the doctor, but before he came her father was dead. He died on the sofa. When she went up stairs she did not observe anything in disorder in his room. Her father was easily enraged. The pain of which he complained on Thursday, the 23rd, was caused by his lifting a pig.

Police-constable Fox said he was told of the sudden death of the deceased, on Sunday evening last, by Dr. Hodgson. He had made every enquiry but could not hear of anything suspicious. When he went to the deceased's house, he did not search it.

After hearing the above evidence the coroner ably summed up, and the jury returned the following verdict. That the deceased died in a fit of apoplexy, caused by overexcitement through quarrelling with his son, Samuel."

County Advertiser 11/3/1865

"On Wednesday, at the Police Court, before Messrs. F. W. G. Barrs and H. O. Firmstone, John Worton and Benjamin Shaw were charged with committing a breach of the peace on the previous Saturday week, by fighting in the TALBOT public house, Cradley Heath. Police-constable Fox gave evidence to the effect that he was called into the public house in question to put an end to a disturbance, and found the two defendants stripped and fighting. Shaw was then charged with assaulting Worton. Complainant stated that the cause of the fight was an assault committed upon him by Shaw, without the slightest provocation. For the assault Shaw was fined 6d and costs. In the first case the two men were ordered to find sureties to keep the peace for a month."

Stourbridge Observer 1/7/1865

“Wanted, a General Servant, about 20 years of age, accustomed to the Business of a Public House. Apply Mrs. Bridgens, TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath.”

County Advertiser 12/8/1865

“George Walker, a carter, in the employ of Mr. Gideon Billingham, chainmaker, Cradley Heath, was charged with stealing 3½d from the till of Charles Bridgens, of the TALBOT public house, Cradley Heath. It appeared that the prisoner was in the habit of calling almost every day at the liquor shop of the prosecutor and having half a pint of ale. Sometimes he called twice in the course of one day, and after he had gone money was generally missed from the till. Mrs. Bridgens consequently watched him, and on Tuesday last saw him get on a form, reach over the counter, and take 3½d from the till. She immediately accused him of the theft, when he admitted it, and said it was the first time he had taken anything. He was sentenced to twenty-one days’ imprisonment.”

County Advertiser 23/9/1865 - Advert

“Chas. Bridgen, of the TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath, has taken No.1 Booth, adjoining the Paddock, on the Wordsley Race Ground, where the best Articles on the Course will be found. Port, Sherry, Champagne, and Spirits of the best quality. Ham, Beef, &c, will be provided.”

Bells Life in London and Sporting Chronicle 2/12/1865

“T. Horner (alias Dumpling) of Musham will run Tudor of Dudley Port 120 yards level, or Tonks or Wareing of Wednesbury, or take two yards of Foster of Oldbury, or three yards from Kirkham of Westbromwich. Either match for £10 a side. Money ready at the TALBOT INN, Cradley Heath.”

Stourbridge Observer 26/5/1866

“An inquest was held on Monday afternoon, before Mr. Edwin Hooper, Coroner, at the TALBOT INN, Cradley Heath, respecting the death of Charlotte Smith, a woman 27 years of age, who resided in Cradley Heath.

John Smith said the deceased was not his wife, but he had lived with her as such for the last twelve or thirteen years. He had six children, three of them were living. On the 4th inst he went home tipsy, and had some words with the deceased. Some time afterwards she told him that she was not well. On the 11th inst, she complained of a pain in her leg and stomach, and on the following day she was delivered of a still-born female child. Witness asked the deceased where the child was, and she said she had covered it over, and put it away, so that the children should not see it. Witness, who seemed very much depressed, said the child was not a full grown one, when he appeared overcome, and said, ‘I should wish for that woman to come here; that woman has been the cause of the death of the deceased.’ Upon being asked by the Coroner what he meant, witness said a woman that lived next door to him had raised a report stating that the deceased had taken ‘stuff’ to destroy her child. In reply to the Coroner, witness said deceased had never had a miscarriage before, and the last time she was confined was about a year and nine months past. Witness asked the deceased when she complained of illness whether he should fetch a doctor, and she said, ‘No, they were poor enough then.’ Witness afterwards fetched a midwife, on the night of the 12th inst, and she said deceased could have another delivery. Witness, on the following Sunday went for Mr. Hodgson, surgeon, but he was out. He then went to Mr. Moore’s; the servant answered the door. Witness asked for Mr. Moore saying his wife was on the point of death. The servant said Mr. Moore was out. Witness then asked if Mr. Kendrick was in, but received an answer in the negative. Witness then went to another doctor’s house, but he also was out. He then ran to Hadens Hill, where he had been informed Mr. Kendrick was. He went to the house he was told and Mr. Kendrick answered the door. Witness asked him to come to their house, and told him the state the deceased was in. Mr. Kendrick then told him he could not go unless he had a note. Witness then went to Mr. Hodgson’s again, and that gentleman saw the deceased about seven o’clock in the evening. He saw her again at midnight, and four o’clock the next Monday morning. Mr. Hodgson informed witness that he thought the deceased would be delivered of another child, but she was not. Mr. Hodgson told witness that when he came to the deceased he expected to have the money. Witness said he should have it, and went to his master for the purpose of getting it. Mr. Hodgson, however, afterwards told him that he could have as much medicine as he liked, and, although he had attended the deceased three times, he would not charge him anything. He continued to attend the deceased until last Saturday morning, when she died. Witness, when asked by the Coroner what he thought the deceased died from, said he thought she died of a broken heart, for about a quarter of an hour previous to the time she expired she referred, in her conversation with him, to the report that had been raised, and said what a disgrace it would be to her.

Elizabeth Edmonds, alias Billingham, said she lived next door to the deceased. She saw her on the 12th inst. She was very ill. The deceased told her she had had a miscarriage. Witness told her she had better send for some one. She replied, ‘I want no one; I want to lie and die.’ Witness had known her for seven months. The husband of the deceased had words sometimes with her, but witness never knew him strike the deceased. Since her illness he had paid her every attention, and she had everything that she required.

Sarah Working said she lived at the Five Ways. She was fetched to the deceased by Elizabeth Edmonds. When she saw deceased she saw something she did not like. She afterwards had some conversation with her. The child was a six months child. Witness asked her why she did not send for a doctor? She replied that she did not want one. Witness then told her to get some brandy. Mr. H. F. Hodgson said he attended to the deceased, and during the time he did so she had sufficient nourishment. She was suffering differently to what she would have done if she had been properly attended. The child was not full-grown, and he did not think it had been born alive. He gave an order for the burial of it. He felt convinced that the deceased had taken nothing to secure abortion. He discovered no marks or bruises on the body of the deceased.

The jury returned a verdict that the deceased Died from Natural Causes, accelerated by the want of earlier medical treatment. They appended also to their verdict that the relieving officer living such a distance away, a person should be appointed in Cradley Heath to grant orders for the attendance of a parish doctor.

The Coroner promised to bring the wishes of the jury under the notice of the Dudley Board of Guardians.”

Bells Life In London and Sporting Chronicle 16/6/1866

“Homer (alias Dumpling) of Musham will run any of the following men at Aston Cross Grounds, Birmingham, viz, Pegg of Worcester 100 yards (and give Pegg one yard start), for £5 a side, open for £10; or will take two yards start of Kirkham of West-bromwich in 100 yards, for £10 a side; or run Tudor of Dudley Port 100 yards level, for £10 a side; or take two yards start in 100 yards from Sim Webb of Kates Hill, for £10 a side; or take two yards start in 100 yards from Bennett of Kidderminster, for £10 a side. Any of the above matches can be made any night next week at Mr. Charles Bridgens’s, TALBOT INN, Cradley Heath.”

County Advertiser 30/6/1866 - Advert

“Ancient Order of Foresters and Shepherds. Grand Demonstration!

The Committee of the Stourbridge and East Worcestershire District of the Ancient Order of Foresters have much pleasure in announcing that they have obtained the kind permission of the Right Hon. Lord Lyttleton to hold a Monster Gala in Hagley Park, on Monday, July 9th, 1866.

The Members of the various Courts in their splendid Regalia will meet the Ancient Order of Shepherds and form a Grand Procession from Stourbridge to Hagley, accompanied by their splendid Emblematical Flags and Banners, and a Grand Display of Military Bands. The Birmingham Royal Albert Saxhorn, Worcestershire Rifle, 1st Battalion, the 3rd Worcestershire, and the 15th Staffordshire Bands; the whole in their gorgeous and Military Uniforms.

The following first-rate Artistes have also been engaged, regardless of expense.

Mr. W. Fawke, late Sergeant in the Royal Scots Greys, who will go through the whole of his wonderful Feats of Swordsmanship, for particulars of which see small bills.

The versatile Mimics of Mr. George Hancox, the Royal King of Cures, who has had the honour of appearing before her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales.

A Comic Singing Contest; First Prize, £2; Second, £1; Third, 10s; Fourth, 5s. Entrance, 2s each.

A String Band will accompany the vocalists.

Dancing, Aunt Sally, Uncle Sam, Foot Ball, Gymnastics, and other English and Olympic Games; Shooting Gallery, Photographic Gallery, Camera Obscura, and for the Juvenile Visitors, Running Horses, Punch and Judy, &c, &c. Balloon Ascents.

Spacious Tents will be erected for Refreshments, at town prices. Ale, Porter, Wines, Spirits, &c, will be supplied by Mr. Bateman, CROSS KEYS, Stourbridge, and by Mr. Bridgens, TALBOT INN, Cradley Heath; and Confectionary, Sandwiches, Tea, Coffee, and Ginger Beer by Mr. Corns, Snow Hill, Wolverhampton.

Admission to the Park, 6d each. Children under Twelve, Half-price.

Tickets may be had at the various Court Houses, of any Member of the Committee, or of Mr. Mark’s, Printer, Stourbridge.

Applications to be made to the Committee, OLD KINGS HEAD INN, Stourbridge.”

Bells Life in London and Sporting Chronicle 7/7/1866

“Pegg of Worcester and Homer (alias Dumpling) of Musham. £2 a side is down for the 100 yards match, for £5 a side (open for £10), at the Britannia Grounds, Tipton, on July 23. A further deposit of the same must be made at Bridgen’s, TALBOT INN, Cradley, on the 16th inst.”

County Advertiser 31/8/1867 - Advert

“To Innkeepers.

To be Let, with possession at Michaelmas, that Old-licensed Inn, the TALBOT, situated at Five Ways, Cradley Heath. The Premises are extensive and well-arranged, and adapted for carrying on a large business. In-coming about £150.

For further particulars apply to Mr. Joseph Fellows, Cradley Heath.”

London Gazette 22/10/1867

“Charles Bridgens, now and for one month last past residing in lodgings at Brettell-lane, in the parish of Kingswinford, in the county of Stafford, out of business, and for six years previously thereto residing and carrying on business, as a Victualler and Dealer in Tobacco, at Cradley-heath, in the parish of Rowley Regis, in the said county of Stafford, having been adjudged bankrupt under a Petition for adjudication of Bankruptcy, filed in Her Majesty’s Court of Bankruptcy for the Birmingham District, on the 18th day of October, 1867, is hereby required to surrender himself to Owen Davies Tudor, Esq, a Registrar of the said Court, at the first meeting of creditors to be held before the said Registrar, on the 1st day of November next; at twelve o’clock at noon precisely, at the said Court at Birmingham. Mr. George Kinnear, of Waterloo Rooms, Waterloo-street, Birmingham, is the Official Assignee, and Mr. Joseph Stokes, of Dudley, is the Solicitor acting in the bankruptcy.”

County Advertiser 29/2/1868

“On Saturday last an inquest was held at the TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath, before Mr. E. Hooper, Coroner, on the body of the illegitimate child of Ann Homer, residing at Hancox’s building. After hearing the evidence, the Jury returned a verdict to the effect that the deceased was stillborn.”

Wolverhampton Chronicle 8/4/1868 - Advert

“County of Stafford. Weights and Measures. District C, or South Staffordshire.

I hereby give notice that I shall attend at the undermentioned times and places for the purpose of Comparing and Examining all such Weights and Measures as shall be brought to me for that purpose, and stamping such of them as shall be found correct.....

TALBOT HOTEL, at Cradley Heath, on Thursday, May 14th, 1868, at Ten o'clock am.....

All Persons residing in the said District desirous of having their Weights and Measures stamped, should bring or send them to any of the above places for adjustment, as shall be most convenient; or to my Residence, at Goldthorn Hill, near Wolverhampton, on Wednesdays or Saturdays.

Persons within any local jurisdiction, for which a separate Inspector is appointed, cannot have their Weights and Measures Examined or Stamped by the County Inspector.

J. George Horder. Inspector of Weights and Measures for the said District.

Brueton Villa, Goldthorn Hill, Wolverhampton. April 1, 1868.”

County Advertiser 4/7/1868 - Advert

“Wanted, a good General Servant, well accustomed to a public house. Must have a good character.

Apply, W. Letts, TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath.”

County Express 3/10/1868

“Thomas Griffiths was charged with assaulting Police-constable Johnson while in the execution of his duty, on the 22nd August. Plaintiff said on the 22nd ult he was on duty near the TALBOT INN, High Street, Cradley Heath, at twenty-five minutes past twelve in the morning, when a number of men were turned out of that house drunk, and making a great disturbance. He requested them to go home when defendant struck him on the mouth, and prevented him taking two others into custody. He hit him in the face cutting his lip and causing his mouth to bleed.

Thomas Cox, chainmaker, Four Ways, Cradley Heath, said defendant did not strike the policeman. A man named Samuel Gritton struck him and knocked him down. The officer here said he was not knocked down.

Defendant had been twice before charged with assaults. Fined 5s and costs, or in default, twenty-one days' imprisonment.”

County Advertiser 9/1/1869 - Advert

“Wanted, an active industrious Girl, of good character.

Apply, W. Letts, TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath.”

County Advertiser 6/3/1869

“At a special Petty Sessions, held on Wednesday, before Mr. H. Hall, Thomas Morgan, of Harts Hill, was brought up on remand from Wordsley, charged with unlawfully cutting and wounding William Hampton, of Cradley Heath, on the 22nd ultimo. Mr. Addison appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. Stokes was for the defence.

Complainant said he was a chain maker, residing at Cradley Heath. On Monday, the 22nd ult, he was at Letts's public house, the TALBOT INN, Cradley Heath, about twelve o'clock at night. He first went into the liquor shop, and afterwards into the bagatelle room where he saw the prisoner and his brother-in-law, George Webb, and several others. A dispute arose over the play. While the quarrel was going on Mr. Letts said he would have no quarrelling there, and they went outside. When outside, the prisoner struck at George Webb, who struck him again, and the prisoner and his brother-in-law ran away towards Four Ways, in the direction of the brother-in-law's house. In about five minutes they returned. Prisoner had a knife in his hand. Did not see him do anything then, but when he was going up the street, prisoner came to him and said, ‘You b—, you are one,’ and struck him with the knife. He threw himself back, but the knife caught him under the left eye. Prisoner struck at him again with the knife, at his head. He (complainant) put his left arm up, and was cut in two places. Prisoner struck at him three times. He felt the blood on his hand, and fell down. He then got up, and started to go away to the Five Ways, to look for a policeman, but did not see one; and about half-past two went to Dr. Hodgson's surgery, where his wounds were dressed. I knew the prisoner well.

Cross-examined. Lived at Five Ways. Had spent seven weeks in gaol. Had been before the Magistrates seven or eight times.

Had been charged with assaulting the police. Had been a prize fighter. Prisoner stopped till Webb came up. Went in the same direction as the men. Was with Webb and his companions till three o'clock. A knife was not drawn by Westwood. He was not one of the company. He, Webb, and others did not set about the prisoner when he came out of the public house. Did not follow him up to his brother-in-law's. Did not have a picker in his hands to defend himself. Did not throw brick-ends at the prisoner. A person named ‘Jack Tom’ was present. He was a friend of his (complaint's). He did not knock the prisoner down and take 4s 6d out his pocket in his (complainant's) presence. Had been drinking from a quartier to ten till twelve o'clock. Went to Letts's and had some spirits. Was quite sober. Prisoner was drunk.

George Webb said he was a collier, and resided at Cradley Heath. On the 22nd ult he was at Letts's public house. Prisoner was there. Prosecutor came in about twelve o'clock. Prisoner and the others were playing at bagatelle. A dispute arose, and prisoner said he would give witness sixpence if he would fight him a quarter of an hour. The landlord ordered them all out. Prosecutor did not say a word to the prisoner in the house. When out of the house prisoner struck witness, and he struck him again. Prisoner's brother-in-law threatened witness and afterwards went away. When by Mason's, the ironmonger's, he saw the prisoner with a knife in his hands. It looked like a carving knife, and prisoner struck Hampton twice. Prosecutor fell down. He afterwards got up and ran away. Prisoner said, ‘Where's the man who struck me?’ Witness said, ‘Here I am.’ Prisoner then lifted up the knife and stuck at him on the head; but he fell towards him, and the knife went through his coat. He then went after the policeman, and waited for him till ten minutes to three, when he came.

Charles Butler, chain maker, residing at the Five Ways, said that when near Mason's house, at Cradley Heath, he saw prisoner with a knife in his hand. He struck at the prosecutor with the knife, and hit him under the left eye.

Henry Frederick Hodgson said he was a surgeon practising at Cradley Heath, and was called up about half-past two o'clock on the morning of the 22nd ult to attend to the prosecutor. He found him suffering from two incised wounds on the back of the left hand, and one under the left eye. They appeared to have been cut with a sharp instrument. He dressed the wounds. The man was still under his care, and was likely to be for some time. One of the wounds was about an inch in length, and the other went right through the hand.

Cross-examined: There were two flesh wounds. The bone of the hand was not hurt. The blow on the eye was very trivial. Police-constable Fairbanks proved apprehending the prisoner, and charged him with stabbing William Hampton on the morning of the 22nd ult. Prisoner said, 'You can have me; but I want them, as they wanted to set about me.'

This being the case for the prosecution, Mr. Stokes said he should not address the Bench, as there was no doubt a prima facie case. He should simply call a witness.

John Scoltock said he was a blacksmith, and resided at Cradley Heath. On Monday week prisoner came to his house at about eight o'clock, and they went to the TALBOT about nine. Prisoner had a quarrel with George Webb, and when outside the house Webb struck the prisoner. Witness told prisoner to come along, or he would get killed; so they both left, and went to witness's house. They were there about ten minutes, when prisoner went out to go home. Shortly after he had left witness heard a noise outside, and went out to ascertain what was the matter, when he saw a number of persons fighting. He did not go near them, but returned into the house. Prisoner shortly after followed him into the house and took up a poker, and said he should defend himself. While prisoner was in the house some one threw some stones and half-bricks at the door. Did not run out with a knife; neither did the prisoner have a knife. Had prisoner a knife, witness must have seen him with it.

Prisoner was then committed to take his trial at the next Stafford Assizes."

[At Staffordshire Lent Assizes, Thomas Morgan was found guilty of intent to do grievous bodily harm. The jury recommended him to mercy on account of his previous good character. He was sentenced to fifteen months' imprisonment.]

County Advertiser 24/7/1869 - Advert

"Wanted, an honest, industrious Girl, as General Servant. Apply to W. Letts, TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath."

Stourbridge Observer 28/8/1869

"Joseph Weaver and Richard Harvey were charged by Emmanuel Pitchford with assaulting him on the 14th inst. Complainant said he lived at the Four Ways, Cradley, and was out-porter at Cradley Station.

On the above date, witness went into Letts' public house to have a pint of ale, and put it on the mantelpiece. Weaver went and took hold of it, and said it was his ale. Witness went to sit down on the Bench, and Harvey struck him several times, and then pulled something out of his pocket, and stabbed him through the cheek with some sharp instrument, which completely penetrated it. Weaver had previously threatened to stab him with a knife.

A witness was called for the defence.

After hearing his evidence, the Bench fined Harvey 10s and costs; in default one month. Weaver was fined 6d and costs; in default seven days."

County Advertiser 27/11/1869

"On Monday, Mr. Bayley, Deputy Coroner, held an inquest at the TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath, on the body of Daniel Cartwright, a miner, twenty-two years of age. On the previous Thursday, the deceased was at work at the Haden Hill Colliery, belonging to Mr. Bassano, when a fall of coal immediately followed what is known as a 'bump.' Deceased was struck on the back by the falling coal, and so severe were his injuries that he died in about twenty-four hours. Several witnesses were examined, but there did not appear to be the least blame attributable to anyone, every precaution having been taken to prevent an accident. The Jury accordingly returned a verdict of Accidental Death."

County Advertiser 24/12/1869

"On Wednesday, at the Police Court, Mary Homer, a well-dressed young woman was charged with stealing 1½lbs of sugar, belonging to Mr. Letts, of the TALBOT, Cradley Heath. Before any evidence was taken, the Bench asked Mr. Letts if he wished to press the case. He replied that he did not, provided defendant would pay the expenses incurred. Defendant's husband paid the money, and as he left the Court was roundly abused by defendant for doing so."

County Advertiser 23/4/1870 - Advert

"Wanted, an active Girl, as General Servant. Apply, W. Letts, TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath."

Stourbridge Observer 7/5/1870

"Alfred Billingham was charged with being drunk and refusing to quit the TALBOT INN, Cradley Heath, on the 1st inst, when requested to do so by the landlord.

William Letts, the landlord said he ordered defendant to leave the house, and he refused to do so, and threatened to strike him with a pint cup.

Defendant pleaded guilty, and was fined 2s 6d and costs, in default 14 days."

Stourbridge Observer 17/12/1870

"An inquest was held on Wednesday evening at Mr. William Letts's, the TALBOT HOTEL, before Mr. E. Hooper, Coroner, touching the death of Cornelius Grainger, five weeks old.

The first witness called was Sarah Grainger, mother of deceased, who said she was wife of Thomas Grainger, a puddler, and resided at the Five Ways. Deceased was five weeks old, and it was his body the jurymen have just seen. He had good health. On Saturday night she went to bed. His face was towards her when she went to bed, and it was in the same position when she woke. She did not think he died from suffocation. She sent for Mrs. Evans.

Deceased was purple about the lips, and his hands were clenched. The child had not been out of her care on the Saturday. She sent for Mr. Maland, surgeon, after the child was dead, and he told her to go for a policeman.

Elizabeth Evans said she was neighbour to Grainger. She had frequently seen the child, and he seemed to enjoy pretty good health. She last saw it alive at eleven o'clock on the Saturday night. She was called in on the Sunday morning, and she saw the child in bed dead. She thought every attention had been paid to the child by the father and mother. She thought the child had died from natural causes.

Police-constable Craddock said there was no suspicion in the case.

The jury returned a verdict of Died from Natural Causes."

1871 Census

High Street – TALBOT INN

[1] William Letts (35), grocer and victualler, born Holdenby, Northamptonshire;

[2] Sarah E. Letts (21), wife, born Rowley Regis;

[3] Anne Letts (14), daughter, born Halesowen;

[4] Edward A. Letts (7), son, scholar, born Halesowen;

[5] Ralph Letts (5), son, scholar, born Halesowen;

[6] Mary Letts (3), daughter, born Rowley Regis;

[7] Walter Letts (9 months), son, born Rowley Regis;

[8] Emma Dunn (50), nurse, born Halesowen;

[9] Sarah A. Salt (19), domestic servant, born Halesowen;

[10] George Palmer (19), general servant, born Halesowen:

County Advertiser 20/5/1871 - Advert

"Wanted, an active experienced Girl, about 24 years of age, as General Servant. Apply, Mrs. Letts, TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath."

County Advertiser 19/8/1871 - Advert

"Wanted, a steady Girl, as Servant, and to take management of house. Apply, Mrs. Letts, TALBOT HOTEL, Five Ways, Cradley Heath."

Stourbridge Observer 23/9/1871 - Advert

"TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath. To Publicans, Brokers, & Others.

To be Sold by Auction, by Mr. S. Leonard, on the Premises aforesaid, on Wednesday, September 27th, 1871, the whole of the Brewing Plant, quantity of Household Furniture, &c, comprising lot of Hogshead, Half Hogshead, and other Casks, 20-bushel Mash Tub, Gathering Tub, three Wort Vats, Wort Pumps, 180-gallon Copper Boiler, Iron Boiler, Malt Crusher, eleven pockets of Sussex and Worcester Hops; capital 4-pull Beer Machine, with Taps, extensive Piping, &c, complete; Brass Pumps, Brass Water Fountain, with gas apparatus; lot of Pewter Measures, eight Liquor Casks, with Piping and Brass Taps; large Street Lamp, Copper Kitchen, capital slate-bottomed Bagatelle Table, with Cues, Balls, Marking Board, and Cover, complete; Mahogany Sofa, covered with Morocco Leather; Mahogany Horsehair-seated Couch; Mahogany Smoke-room and other Chairs; Chimney Glasses, in Gilt and Rosewood Frames; two long Mahogany Tables, Mahogany Table, with three additional leaves; 4-post Bedsteads, with cornices, &c; Feather Beds, and numerous other Effects, belonging to Mr. William Letts, who is leaving the Premises.

Sale to commence at Eleven o'clock in the Morning.

Catalogues may be had of the Auctioneer, Cradley Heath."

Thomas Taft = Thomas Taft

* probably the same person

Stourbridge Observer 9/11/1872

"Thomas Williams was charged with refusing to quit the TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath, on the 19th ult, when requested to do so by the landlord. Thomas Taft proved the case. The defendant pleaded guilty, and was fined 6d and costs."

County Advertiser 8/2/1873

"Richard Spencer, chainmaker, was charged with stealing a parcel of woollen shirting on the 29th ult, the property of Joseph Bowen, of Cradley Forge. Mr. Addison defended.

Complainant said he was in the TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath, between seven and eight o'clock on the night of the 29th. He had some plaid shirting in his right-hand jacket pocket, wrapped up in paper. The prisoner was in the house, and he drank with him. Prisoner was dancing about the room. He sat down, and sometime after he felt some one take the parcel out of his pocket. Could not swear it was the prisoner. Prisoner went out of the room, and he followed him and asked him where the stuff was. Did not hear him make a reply.

Cross-examined by Mr. Addison: The parcel did not fall out; it was taken out.

Samuel Mason said he was in the TALBOT HOTEL on the 29th ult, and while a fight was going on in the street he saw prisoner take the parcel out of prosecutor's pocket, and go out.

Police-constable Collier said he went to the works where prisoner was employed, and found the parcel under some straw in the manger. He apprehended prisoner, who said that he picked it up off the room floor.

Alfred Shaw was called for the defence, and said that while the fight was going on the parcel fell out of prosecutor's pocket. Prisoner picked it up, and he (witness) took it out of his hand, and put it in Mr. Hingley's stable for a lark. Prisoner did not take it out of prosecutor's pocket. The case was dismissed."

County Advertiser 15/11/1873

"Hannah Skelding and William Hadley were charged with stealing five ginger beer bottles on the 8th inst, the property of Thomas Taft, landlord of the TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath. The prosecutor said he found the bottles produced on the prisoners. Henry Homer said he was waiter, and on the night in question he was put to watch the prisoners. He saw the prisoner Hadley take up two bottles and give them to the other prisoner, and she put them in her handkerchief. He also saw a boy, the female prisoner's son, give her two bottles, and she put them in her basket. Police-constable Collier said he went to the public house on Saturday night, and met the prisoners coming out of the house with the bottles produced. He charged them with the theft, and they denied stealing the bottles. Prisoners pleaded not guilty, but they were sentenced to 24 hours' imprisonment."

Birmingham Daily Post 17/2/1874 - Advert

"Bagatelle Table, slate bottom; excellent condition.

Apply to Thomas Taft, TALBOT INN, Cradley Heath."

The Era 30/8/1874 - Advert

"Wanted, at once, a Piano Player; must be a good singer, for a Public House, in the Country.

Apply to Mr. T. Taft, TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath, near Brierley Hill."

County Express 8/5/1875 - Advert

"Walter Showell, Crosswells Brewery, Langley, near Oldbury.

Having completed his new premises, is now prepared to offer season-brewed Ales and Porters of first-class qualities, and upon terms that cannot fail to give general satisfaction. Agent for Bass & Co., Burton; Guinness & Co., Dublin; W. & A. Gilbey, London; Wholesale Wine and Spirit Merchant, and Bottler of Bass's Pale Ale, and Guinness's Extra Stout.....

Wholesale Branch Stores TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath. Agent: Mr. T. Taft."

County Express 5/2/1876 - Advert

"Wanted an industrious Youth, to live in house.

Apply, TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath."

County Express 22/7/1876 - Advert

"Walter Showell, Crosswells Brewery, Oldbury, Wholesale Wine & Spirit Merchant.....

A stock of the above Wines and Spirits is kept by the following Agents.....

Mr. T. Taft, TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath."

County Advertiser 30/9/1876

"Thomas Taft, TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath, charged Henry Leatham with being disorderly and refusing to quit his premises on the 16th inst. Fined 5s and costs."

County Advertiser 3/3/1877

"William Price, a wheelwright, of Cradley Heath, was charged with being disorderly and refusing to quit the licensed premises of Thomas Taft, TALBOT INN, Cradley Heath. The landlord proved that on the 18th ult defendant came to his house, and applied for some ale; but as he was drunk at the time, the barmaid refused to supply him with any. Defendant then became disorderly, and on being in consequence ordered to leave the premises, he refused. There was no defence, and the Magistrates imposed a fine of 10s and costs; in default fourteen days' imprisonment."

County Advertiser 10/3/1877

"Henry Homer, a chainmaker, of Cradley Heath, was charged with being disorderly on the licensed premises of Thomas Taft, and with refusing to quit when ordered to do so. The prosecutor, who is the landlord of the TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath, said defendant applied to him for ale while intoxicated, and on being refused became disorderly. He also refused to leave. Defendant said he only spent 1s on the day in question; he promised amendment in the future. A fine of 2s 6d and costs was inflicted; in default, a week's imprisonment."

County Express 25/8/1877

"After the business of the Petty Sessions had been disposed of the Annual Licensing Sessions were held.....

John Biggs, the BULLS HEAD INN, Cradley Heath, applied for a license to enable him to sell intoxicating liquors either on or off the premises.

Mr. Hayes, who supported the application, said that his client at present held a seven days' beer license but he proposed if the Bench granted his application to discontinue the sale of all intoxicating drinks on Sunday; an arrangement which he thought very desirable.

Mr. Taft, of the TALBOT HOTEL, opposed, on the ground that his business would be injured by the granting of an additional license in the neighbourhood, as there were already a number of public houses in close proximity to this one.

Application refused.”

Midland Advertiser 9/2/1878 - Advert

“Walter Showell, Crosswells’ Brewery, Oldbury.

Has the pleasure to inform his friends and customers of Oldbury and District, that he has given up the Agency of Messrs. W. A. Gilbey. He has been induced to do so in consequence in the rapid increase of business, which has far outgrown the limits to which agencies of this kind usually attach, and which has consequently rendered it necessary for him to purchase in the open market, in order to meet the requirements of his customers. In doing so he has confined his purchases to Importers of the first-class only, and being in a position to obtain the most favourable terms, and finds himself able to offer an article very far superior to that he has been hitherto able to do in his capacity as Agent.....

Agents Mr. T. Taft, TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath.”

County Advertiser 18/1/1879 - Advert

“TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath. Wanted, a good General Servant.

Apply as above.”

Dudley Herald 22/11/1879

“James Nicklin was charged with being drunk on the licensed premises of Thomas Taft, TALBOT HOTEL, Five Ways, Cradley Heath, on the 11th inst. Prosecutor stated that the defendant came to his premises and was drunk. He ordered him out, but defendant refused to quit. Defendant was also charged with being drunk and riotous in the street. The charges were proved, and defendant was fined 1s and costs, or, in default, seven days. The second charge was withdrawn.”

County Advertiser 7/8/1880 - Notice

“The Licensing Acts, 1872-74.

To the Overseers of the Poor of the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford, and to the Superintendent of Police of the District or Division in which the House and Premises or Shop hereinafter mentioned are situate.

I, Thomas Taft, now residing at Cradley Heath, in the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford, Victualler, do Hereby Give Notice that it is my intention to Apply, at the next General Annual Licensing Meeting for the Rowley Regis Division of the said County, to be holden at the Public Office, at Old Hill, in the said Division, on the 25th day of August, 1880, for a License to hold any of the Excise License or Licenses that may be held by a Publican, to Sell by Retail, Intoxicating Liquor, to be consumed on and off the Premises, at a House situate at Cradley Heath, in the Parish of Rowley Regis aforesaid, and known by the sign of the TALBOT, of which Premises Noah Fellows, of Halesowen, is the Owner, and from whom I rent them.

Given under my hand this 27th day of July, 1880.

Thomas Taft.”

Dudley and District News 2/10/1880

“Adjourned Licensing Sessions. These sessions were held on Wednesday at Old Hill.....

Mr. Waldron made an appeal, on behalf of Mr. Thomas Taft, of the TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath, that a seven days’ license might be granted to his client. He stated that some five or six years ago, in deference to public opinion, his client voluntarily surrendered his seventh day’s license, but now, finding that the competition of other publicans placed him at a disadvantage, he asked that he might be allowed to have the day back again.

Mr. Homer opposed, on behalf of a number of ratepayers. He urged that the seventh day license was not required, stating that the number of young men and women to be found in the public houses on a Sunday night was a public scandal, and a disgrace to Cradley Heath. The Sunday closing would very soon be brought about by the Legislature itself. Mr. Joseph Whitley presented a memorial, signed by a large number of ratepayers of Cradley Heath against the application being granted.

The application was refused, the Bench stating that their feeling was against the increasing of seven days’ licenses.”

1881 Census

96, High Street

[1] Thomas Taft (39), licensed victualler, born Tettenhall;

[2] Eleanor Taft (39), wife, born Tettenhall;

[3] William Henry Taft (14), nephew, scholar, born Enville;

[4] Abigail Newton (21), barmaid, born Brierley Hill;

[5] Jane Grazier (18), general servant, born Mushroom Green;

[6] Eany Shire (21), visitor, dressmaker, born Brierley Hill:

County Advertiser 25/3/1882 - Advert

“To Builders, Speculators, and Others.

Very Desirable and conveniently-situated Freehold Building Land, in Graingers Lane, Cradley Heath, in the County of Stafford.

To be Sold by Auction, by Messrs Insull and Son, at the house of Mr. Taft, the TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath, on Thursday, March 30th, 1882, at Six o’clock in the Evening, subject to conditions of Sale as will be then and there produced and read.....”

County Advertiser 1/4/1882

“An inquest was held on Monday morning last at the TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath, before Mr. E. Hooper, coroner, touching the death of Richard Johnston (39), of High Street, Cradley Heath, who met with his death while engaged at the Timbertree Colliery, belonging to the New British Iron Company, on the previous Thursday. Mr. Scott, assistant Mines’ Government Inspector, and Mr. Keen, certificated manager of the colliery, were present.

The evidence given was to the effect that Henry Downes and the deceased man, Johnson, were engaged in setting a tree a little after eight o’clock on the previous Thursday morning. As Downes struck the tree with a dresser another tree jumped out, and a quantity of ‘shut’ came down upon him and Johnson. Downes was injured by the stuff which came upon him, but his fellow workman, Johnson, was completely buried by the falling mass, and when he was extricated some few hours afterwards he was quite dead.

It was stated that Johnson had been accustomed to timber setting for twenty years.

In answer to Mr. Scott, the man Downes said there were slabs over the tree, but these were not nailed. He was quite sure the blow hit the tree and not the bar.

Mr. Scott remarked that there seemed to have been some very injudicious setting.

In reply to further question, witness said the timbering was safe, but it was the weight of the stuff which brought it down.

Mr. Scott said that at present it did not seem to him that this was the case.

The Coroner asked Mr. Scott if he would like to have the inquest adjourned so that he might examine the place.

Mr. Scott said it seemed to him to be an ordinary class of thick coal accident, which might have been avoided by better fastening of the timber by nailing.

The Coroner said it did not seem to have been done in this instance. There did not appear to have been sufficient care used in the setting of the timber, and in consequence the unfortunate man lost his life.

The jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death.

Mr. Scott, in answer to the Coroner, said he would not be long before he visited the place.

The Coroner: And no doubt you will impress upon them the necessity of carrying out your suggestion.

Mr. Scott said he certainly should. This was only another case which proved the suggestion to be a valuable one.

Replying to a remark of Mr. Keen, the Coroner said he was here to speak the opinion of the jury, and they were of opinion that there must be greater care used in future in timbering this pit.

Mr. Keen said that would be impossible.

The Coroner said if Mr. Keen told him it was impossible, he should certainly make a note of what he said. He afterwards told Mr. Keen that if he could convince Mr. Scott as to what he said, he (the coroner) should be satisfied.

Mr. Scott said he himself thought the timber had been very weakly set.

The inquiry then terminated.”

County Advertiser 22/4/1882

“A trap accident occurred a few nights ago, near to the Board Schools, Blackheath, and resulted in two persons named Thomas Taft, publican, Cradley Heath, and Thomas Wilkes, ironmonger, also of Cradley Heath, being injured, Mr. Taft seriously about the head. It is alleged that when Mr. Taft was driving in the direction of Cradley Heath he was driven into by a butcher named Thompson. Mr. Taft and his three friends were thrown out of the conveyance. Mr. Taft was thrown violently against the kerbstone, by which he sustained shocking injuries to his head. He was removed to his home, and for some days no hopes were given of his recovery. Since then he has taken a favourable turn, and is said to be getting the better of his injuries.”

County Advertiser 29/12/1883 - Advert

“Wanted, a good General Servant, about 20, clean, active, and early riser. One from the country preferred. Apply, TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath.”

County Express 10/3/1888 - Advert

“Important Sale of Valuable Freehold Properties, Cradley Heath.

Mr. A. H. Sidaway is favoured with instructions to Offer for Sale by Auction, at the house of Mr. T. Taft, the TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath, on Thursday, March 27th, 1888, at Six for Seven o’clock in the evening, subject to conditions to be then produced.....”

County Advertiser 25/5/1889 - Advert

“High Street, Cradley Heath.

Mr. T. Pateshall is instructed to Sell by Auction at the TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath, on Monday, June 3rd, 1889, a very useful Chestnut Horse, 16½ hands; capital Chestnut Mare, 15 hands; a Valuable Roan Colt, 13½ hands, 2 years off, broken to harness; Three Sets of Harness, Gearing, Horse Clothing, a quantity of Household Furniture, and other Effects, belonging to Mr. Thomas Taft, who is leaving the Premises.

Sale at Twelve o’clock.”

Dudley Mercury 1/6/1889 - Advert

“High Street, Cradley Heath.

Mr. T. Pateshall is instructed to Sell by Auction at the TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath, on Monday Next, June 5th, 1889, the Modern and Genteel Household Furniture, Horses, Vehicles, &c, comprising Iron Half-tester and French Bedsteads, Feather Beds,

Toilet Tables and Ware, Chests of Drawers, Night Commode, Mahogany and other Tables, Two capital Pianofortes, Sofa, Time-pieces, Wringing and Washing Machine, Kitchen Requisites, Two-knife Chaff Engine, capital Village Dog Cart (new), Waggonette, Four Sets of Harness, Horse Clothing, capital Chestnut Horse 16½ hands, good worker; capital; very useful Cream-coloured Cob, 15 hands; Valuable Roan Colt, 2 years; and other Effects, belonging to Mr. Thomas Taft, who is leaving.
Sale at Eleven o'clock.
Catalogues may be had of the Auctioneer, Cradley Heath."

1891 Census

96, High Street – TALBOT HOTEL

- [1] Henry Dingley (44), publican, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Sarah A. Dingley (41), wife, born Cradley;
- [3] Joseph H. Dingley (17), son, iron moulder, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Victor P. Dingley (9), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Lawrence N. Dingley (6), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] Clarence B. Dingley (3) son, born Rowley Regis;
- [7] Frank G. Dingley (9 months), son, born Rowley Regis;
- [8] Susannah Oliver (22), general servant, born Cradley;
- [9] Lizzie Rosser (14), nurse, born Chester:

County Express 29/7/1893 - Notice

"To the Overseers of the Poor of the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford, and to the Superintendent of Police of the District or Division of Rowley Regis, in the said County, and to all whom it may concern.

I, Henry Dingley, Licensed Victualler, the holder of a Six Days' License, now residing at the TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath, in the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford, do Hereby Give Notice that it is my intention to Apply, at the General Annual Licensing Meeting, for the Division of Rowley Regis, to be holden at the Public Office, at Old Hill, in the said County, on the 23rd day of August next ensuing, for a Seven Days' License to hold an Excise License of Sell all Intoxicating Liquors by Retail, to be consumed on and off the Premises, situate and known as the TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath, in the Parish of Rowley Regis aforesaid, in pursuance of the Intoxicating Liquor Licensing Act, 1828, and Acts amending the same, of which Premises Messieurs Walter Showell and Sons are the owners, and the same are of the annual value by law required, and are now in my own occupation.

Given under my hand this 26th day of July, 1893.

Henry Dingley."

County Advertiser 26/8/1893

"The annual licensing sessions of the Rowley Regis Petty Sessional Division were held on Wednesday.....

Henry Dingley, landlord of the TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath, applied, through Mr. Waldron, for the extension of his six days' license to a seven days'.

Mr. Waldron said that although the present application was in the nature of a new application, it was not so in reality. Some years back Messrs. Showell and Sons, the owner of the premises, endeavoured to bring about the closing of public houses on the Seventh Day, but every other public house had since kept to the seven days. They therefore thought that it was time that such an application should be made, and that the applicant should be placed on the same footing as others in the trade.

Mr. Bassano said the Bench would be glad if all licenses were for six days, and if there were fewer of those. It was, however, not fair to the applicant to be placed at a disadvantage with his competitors; and he would not be guilty of taking away a man's license without sufficient reason, and he would not grant a new one without he thought it was required.

Mr. Cave objected to the extension of the license on the ground that the notices were bad in law, and that it was not required.

There were many licensed houses open on Sunday within a stones throw of the TALBOT, and in 1880 the Bench declared that as far as possible they should refuse any seven days' license.

The license was granted."

Staffordshire Advertiser 14/10/1893

"The annual meeting of the County Licensing Committee was held at the Shire Hall, Stafford, on Saturday for the purpose of confirming new licenses and of hearing objections (if any).....

Mr. Samuel Cave appeared (in the interests of public morality, he explained) to oppose the confirmation of a seven days' license to Mr. Henry Dingley, of the TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath. For 20 years, it appeared, the the house had had a six days' license, but the petty sessional bench had now granted a seven days' license. The Clerk of the Peace said there was nothing before the committee with respect to Mr. Dingley's license. Mr. Cave asked if he was to understand that the extension of a license from six to seven days did not require confirmation. The Chairman said it was not the business of the committee to decide an abstract question of the kind; the case was not before them. From some further remarks it was understood that the police would move in the matter if there has been any contravention of the law with regard to the license in question."

Birmingham Daily Post 16/4/1894 - Advert

"Important Sale of Valuable Old-Licensed Public House and other Property, situate in High Street, Cradley Heath.

Mr. A. H. Sidaway is favoured with instructions to Sell by Auction, Tomorrow (Tuesday), the 17th day of April, at the TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath, at Six o'clock in the Evening, subject to conditions then to be produced.

Lot 1. All that truly Valuable Freehold Old-Licensed Premises, known as the TALBOT HOTEL, situate in High Street, Cradley Heath, together with the Property adjoining, now used as Offices.

The Public House accommodation consists of spacious Liquor Vaults, 29ft by 28ft, capital Bar, Smoke Room, two Private Sitting Rooms, large Club Room, Spirit Room, four Bed Rooms, extensive Cellaring with Rolling Way, Cooking Kitchen, Coalhouse, Store Rooms, excellent Stabling, and large paved Yard.

This is in every respect a complete and important Property, commanding one of the very best business positions in Cradley Heath, and has a frontage of 63ft 6in to High Street aforesaid

The TALBOT is a very old-established and well-accustomed house, doing an extensive trade, and is well worth the attention of capitalists and the trade generally. Possession will be given on completion.....”

County Advertiser 2/2/1895

“Mary Ann Hurley, of Cradley Heath, was charged with stealing an umbrella, value 2s 6d, the property of Emily Yardley, on the 19th inst.

The evidence showed that prosecutrix, who lived at Nether-ton, went on the day named to the TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath. Prosecutrix had put her umbrella down in a corner while she was waiting to be served, and missed it directly afterwards. Prisoner, who was then in the public house had gone out, and the umbrella was missing. The umbrella was recovered on the 23rd when Alice Oliver, servant at the TALBOT HOTEL, went to prisoner’s house and demanded the umbrella, which was given up. When prisoner was arrested by Police-constable Wynn she said that she did not intend to keep the umbrella as it was not worth keeping. Mr. Bassano said prisoner’s record was not so good as it should be, and she had been committed for two months for receiving stolen goods. Prisoner would be fined 5s and costs, or fourteen days, in all £1 8s.”

County Advertiser 29/10/1898

“David Collett, labourer, of Mousesweet Brook, Old Hill, was charged with being drunk and disorderly and refusing to quit the licensed premises of the TALBOT HOTEL, kept by Henry Dingley, and also with assaulting Police-constable Tiernan, on the 23rd inst.

It appeared that on Saturday night prisoner went into the TALBOT HOTEL in a drunken condition. He was refused drink, and he then caught hold of a customer’s jug which contained ale. The landlord requested him to leave, but he declined to go, and when ejected he commenced to create a disturbance. Police-constable Tiernan was called, and defendant, refusing to give his name, he was taken into custody. He became very violent, and Tiernan had to obtain the assistance of Police-constable Clark before he could be conveyed to the station, and he struck Tiernan savagely.

Defendant said he remembered nothing until he found himself in a police cell on Sunday morning.

Defendant was fined £1 15s, including costs, or in default three weeks’ imprisonment.”

County Express 28/4/1900

“The annual parade of the local friendly societies to the Parish Church, took place on Sunday, accompanied by the Halesowen Volunteer Band and the Cradley Heath Salvation Army Corps Band. The two original processions united at the TALBOT HOTEL, and then paraded to Cradley Park, Netherend, Lyde Green, and High Street, to the church.....”

1901 Census

96, High Street

[1] Henry Dingley (52), publican, born Old Hill;

[2] Sarah A. Dingley (50), wife, born Ashby de la Zouch, Leicestershire;

[3] Victor P. Dingley (18), son, chainmaker’s fitter, born Cradley Heath;

[4] Lawrence Dingley (15), son, chain manufacturer’s clerk, born Cradley Heath;

[5] Frank G. Dingley (13), son, born Cradley Heath;

[6] Maud Bradley (23), barmaid, born Oakengates, Shropshire;

[7] Elisabeth Weaver (19), domestic servant, born Quarry Bank:

County Advertiser 3/8/1901 - Advert

“For Sale, a Roan Pony, 13 hands, coming four; very quiet, will face trams or steam.

P. Dingley, TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath.”

County Express 14/9/1901

“Myra Price, and elderly woman, said to have no fixed abode, was charged with stealing a half-pint cup, a tea spoon, and a salt spoon, value 6d, the property of Henry Dingley, landlord of the TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath. Mr. Dingley said prisoner had been in the habit of going to the public house, and on August 24th she went in and remained some time. She had some rum and coffee, and as she asked for some salt, he handed her the half-pint cup produced, in which the salt was kept. He did not miss the cup until it was brought back to him by Police-constable Reynolds. Then he missed the cup and spoons.

Police-constable Reynolds said he met the prisoner on the 5th inst in Dog Lane, Rowley. She had a bag with her. He arrested her and charged her with being in possession of stolen property. Prisoner admitted to him having had the things from Dingley’s public house, Cradley Heath.

While the evidence of these witnesses was being given, the prisoner kept up a running commentary upon the statements, nor would she be quiet though warned by the magistrates’ clerk that she was doing her case no good. She protested the things were given to her by Mrs. Dingley.

She was fined 10s or seven days' imprisonment."

County Express 14/12/1901

"A bad beginning in life was made by Roland Cox (aged 9), of High Street, Cradley Heath, and Noah Harris (aged 13), of Graingers Lane, Cradley Heath, who were each ordered to receive three strokes of the birch-rod for stealing 4s and a money-box, the property of Mrs. Dingley, landlady of the TALBOT HOTEL. It seems the box was left in the kitchen by Mrs. Dingley, who saw it safe during the morning, and when she found it at night it had been burst open and the money extracted. A boy named James Billingham and PC Maisey also gave evidence, the latter detailing the admissions made by the boys."

County Express 5/4/1902

"On Thursday morning, Mr. H. A. Pearson (South Staffordshire Coroner) held an inquest at the TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath, with respect to the death of Henry Barber (53), haulier, High Street, who had been found dead. Joseph Poole, scrap iron dealer, stated deceased was his uncle, and had been a teetotaler for ten years. On Monday he went to Hereford, and was apparently in the best of health, and thoroughly enjoyed himself. He returned home alone, and nothing further was seen of him.

By the Coroner: The deceased lived alone.

Job Swindley stated he was in the employ of the deceased, and on the 1st inst he went to his house and found him dead on the couch in the sitting room. Police Constable Dale said that having heard of the death he went to that house and found on the table a box of Beecham's pills and other medicines.

Dr. Tibbetts, who made the post mortem examination, said death was due to perforation of the stomach, caused by a gastric ulcer. There was a hole the size of a sixpence in the stomach through which food escaped. The food traveling in the wrong direction caused death.

In reply to the coroner, the doctor stated the actual cause of death was a surprise to him.

A jurymen stated the deceased had been in the habit of drinking stone or ginger beer, and he should like to know if it would be injurious, and the doctor replied it would not be beneficial, but lemonade or soda water would be harmless.

The Coroner said it was very rare such cases occurred among men.

The jury returned a verdict in accordance with the medical evidence."

County Advertiser 6/9/1902

"A smoking concert was held on Monday evening at the TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley, in connection with St. Luke's Football Club. Dr. Tibbetts (who was supported by the Rev. W. L. O. Ward and several well-known patrons of the winter pastime) presided over a large attendance. The toast of 'The King' was proposed by the chairman in a very interesting and appropriate speech. The Rev. W. L. O. Ward, in proposing 'St. Luke's FC' appealed for support to the club in its new surroundings, and wished it every success. Mr. T. Grice had arranged a capital programme, and a hearty vote of thanks was passed to the following gentleman for their services: Messrs. Cutler, C. H. Mansell, J. Cookson, L. Williams, T. Grice, J. Grice, and members of the Glee Party. Mr. F. Raybould and Master Cutler proved very efficient accompanists."

County Advertiser 8/11/1902 - Advert

"To Brewers, Publicans, Maltsters, and Property Investors.

Important Sale of Freehold Beerhouse and Dwelling Houses at Cradley Heath; and Building Land at Mount Pleasant, Kingswinford.

Arthur H. Sidaway is favoured with instructions from the Trustees of the late William Tibbetts, Esq, to Sell by Auction, on Tuesday, the 18th day of November, 1902, at the house of Mr. Harry Dingley, the TALBOT HOTEL Cradley Heath, at Seven o'clock in the Evening, subject to Conditions then to be produced....."

County Express 22/11/1902

"On Tuesday night Mr. Arthur H. Sidaway held a very successful sale of properties at the TALBOT HOTEL, High Street, Cradley Heath. Eight houses in Tibbetts Gardens were sold for £700; six freehold houses, Graingers Lane, made £620; the RAILWAY TAVERN and house adjoining, after spirited competition, realised £1,835; a plot of land at Kingswinford, £101. The total amount of sale, £3,256. Mr. James Hinds, of Stourbridge, acted as solicitor."

County Advertiser 13/10/1906

"Sporting Items.....

The opening run of the Cradley Heath branch of the Small Heath Harriers will take place today from headquarters, H. Dingley's, TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath. Any person wishing to join should apply to Mr. A. Pateshall, 33, King Street, Cradley Heath."

County Advertiser 27/10/1906

"Cross-Country Notes.

Small Heath paid a visit to their Cradley Heath branch on Saturday last, and a combined pack of 30 runners turned out in charge of A. F. Pateshall, the branch captain, under whose direction they negotiated some seven miles of splendid country around Foxcote, Lutley, and Huntingtree at a medium pace. One pleasing feature of the run was the increased number of actual Cradley Heath runners in the pack, there being more of these than ever before, and it was pleasing to note with what ease and style the new men among them got over the ground.....

An excellent tea, provided by Mr. Dingley, of the TALBOT, was partaken of by the runners and others, after which an impromptu social evening was held....."

County Express 9/5/1908

“On Monday night, at a public auction at the TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath, two freehold houses, situate in Spring Street, Cradley, producing £23 8s per annum, were disposed of for £235. A freehold residence, known as Whitehall House, situated in Scholding Green Road, Cradley Heath, was withdrawn. Messrs. Thomas Cooksey and Co. were the solicitors for the vendors; auctioneer, Mr. A. H. Sidaway.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 24/10/1908

“Sporting Items.....

Small Heath Harriers have a combined run today with their Kings Heath and Cradley Heath branches, which takes place from TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath. Start 3.30pm. A large turn out is expected. A medal will be given for the first novice home in a mile run. Train 2.30 from Snow Hill; return fare, 1s.”

Tipton Herald 9/1/1909

“Mr. Harry Dingley, of the TALBOT HOTEL, High Street, on Thursday evening, entertained a number of friends to dinner to celebrate the coming of age of his third son, Bertram Dingley. After the meal a convivial evening was spent.....”

County Express 5/3/1910 - Advert

“Graingers Lane, Cradley Heath. Sale of Valuable Freehold Property.

E. O. Nightingale has received instructions to Sell by Auction, at the House of Mr. H. Dingley, the TALBOT HOTEL, Cradley Heath, on Monday, the 14th day of March, 1910, at 7 o'clock in the Evening, subject to Conditions of Sale then to be produced.....”

1911 Census

High Street – TALBOT HOTEL

- [1] Henry Dingley (63), licensed victualler, born Old Hill;
- [2] Sarah Ann Dingley (60), wife, married 39 years, born Ashby, Leicestershire;
- [3] Laurence Nelson Dingley (25), son, pianist, born Cradley Heath;
- [4] Clarence Bertram Dingley (23), son, engineer, cycle trade, born Cradley Heath;
- [5] Frank Gilbert Dingley (20), son, carpenter, born Cradley Heath;
- [6] Lydia Greenaway (25), servant, born Cradley Heath;
- [7] Polly Tibbetts (21), servant, born Old Hill:

The building was damaged when the High Street subsided on 18th and 19th February 1914.

Birmingham Mail 20/2/1914

“The position at Cradley Heath last night became worse, and the subsidence which has taken place in the last few days is regarded as the worst calamity which has befallen the Rowley Regis parish for many years. There have been a number of occurrences of this kind in the parish, but nothing of such a serious character. There was a gradual movement throughout yesterday afternoon, with the result that additional houses were affected. The main street seems to be the centre of subsidence, and the property is being drawn into a hole in the middle of the street. The roadway had sunk last evening to a depth of about five feet, the cracks in the footpath and road had become wider and more extensive, whilst there was evidence that the tram lines, which had up till then maintained a level position, were being pushed out of place. Up to a late hour last night workmen were employed in propping up those buildings which were in danger of falling, whilst residents were busily engaged in the removal of their furniture and goods to a place of safety.....

The street assumed a more sloping position towards night, and a peculiar spectacle was witnessed at the TALBOT HOTEL. The whole of the rooms were on the slope, and the customers were taking their refreshments under difficulties. In one of the rooms upstairs a billiard table is fixed, but this had assumed a slanting position, so that when the balls were placed on the table they ran into one pocket.”

Clarence Bertram Dingley – see also FIVE WAYS.

1939 Register

High Street – TALBOT HOTEL

- [1] Francis H. Tomlins, date of birth 25/11/1897, manager public house, married;
- [2] Gladys Tomlins, dob 9/2/1899, unpaid domestic duties, married:

The license renewal was referred to the Adjourned Licensing Meeting on 2nd March 1949.

The license renewal was not applied for by the brewery (Ind Coope) at the Brewster Sessions of 1959.

The property was sold and converted into a shop.

THREE FURNACES

78, (51), Waterfall Lane, (51, Slack Hillock), OLD HILL

OWNERS

William Millard [1868]
William Richard Cooper [1909]
Annie Bennett
William Alfred Bennett
Isaac Hughes
Julia Hanson and Sons Ltd. (acquired on 11th April 1934)
Wolverhampton and Dudley Breweries Ltd.

LICENSEES

William Millard [1861] – 1872);
Mrs. Emma Millard (1872 – [1875]
Darby [1880]
Edwin Cooper [1880] – [1887]
John Foley [1891] – 1896);
Mrs. Sarah Ann Foley (1896 – 1906);
William Richard Cooper (1906 – 1909);
Annie (Cooper) Bennett (1909 – 1921);
William Alfred Bennett (1921 – 1924);
Walter Edwin Cooper (1924 – 1926);
Isaac 'Ike' Hughes (1926 – 1934);
Charles Hickman (1934 – 1950);
William Henry Shuter (1950 – 1951);
Honor Elizabeth Shuter (1951 – 1952);
Bert Arthur Davies (1952 – [1970s]
Ian Robinson [1987]
Chris Davies [1995]
Nigel Brian Salsbury [2000s]

NOTES

51, Slack Hillock [1881]
51, Waterfall Lane [1904], [1908], [1912]
78, Waterfall Lane [1924], [1932], [1939], [1940]

Black Country Bugle - Pub of the Month

“.....One such establishment was Bennett’s Brickworks, in Waterfall Lane. The building later converted to the THREE FURNACES was the house of its proprietor, Simeon Bennett. A deep marl-hole was gouged from the farmland, almost to the retaining wall of his house. Many older readers will remember this when filled with water from the Drainage Pit, set up there, later Though not a great expanse of water, it was very deep and more than one local suicide was committed there. At one time it was stocked with fish and used by the THREE FURNACES fishing club In the days when old Tory Street stood, few outsiders used the tavern, for its customers were a rough and ready bunch and brawls were frequent.....”

Black Country Bugle 30/12/2020

A History of Waterfall Lane

“.....These brickworks stood where there currently stands a council depot and on a levelled section of Waterfall Lane just before the road rises and meets the canal bridge. These former brickworks probably originated during the 1850s and were owned by a gentleman called Simeon Bennett; part of the site was later redeveloped into the THREE FURNACES public house where Simeon Bennett once lived. The licensed premises continued to trade as recently as 2009 before its reversion and metamorphosis into a residential property once more.”

William Millard = William Millward

County Advertiser 25/8/1860

“The annual licensing meeting was held at Stewpony on Tuesday last.....

The applications numbered 25, of which only three were granted, viz, James Noden, Fenton Street, Brierley Hill; William Millward, Waterfall Lane, Rowley, and Humphrey Wellings, Bromley, Kingswinford.”

1861 Census

Waterfall Lane

- [1] William Millard (34), boat builder and victualler, born Bumblehole;
- [2] Emma Millard (32), wife, born Beech Lanes;
- [3] Ester Ann Millard (11), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] William Millard (10), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis:

County Advertiser 2/12/1865

“An inquest was held on Wednesday, before Mr. E. Hooper, Coroner, at the THREE FURNACES public house, Waterfall Lane, on the body of Elijah Baker, who was killed in the colliery belonging to the New British Iron Company. The deceased, a pikeman, had been employed in cutting through some stone to get coal, at the Top Beardmore, and having finished his day’s work, was holding a candle for the doggy to inspect the place. While so engaged a quantity of stone fell upon him, and so severe were the injuries he sustained that death took place in a few minutes after the fallen mass had been removed. The Jury were of opinion that blame could not be attached to anyone, and returned their verdict accordingly.”

William Millard was also a boat builder. [1868], [1870], [1872]

Stourbridge Observer 5/12/1868 - Advert

“Powke Lane, Old Hill, Rowley, in the County of Worcester.

Five Valuable Freehold Dwelling Houses.

To be Sold by Auction, by Mr. Samuel Insull, by the direction of the Mortgagee, on Monday, December 7th, 1868, at the house of Mr. William Millard, THREE FURNACES INN.....”

County Express 19/12/1868 - Advert

“Freehold Inn, Waterfall Lane, Rowley Regis.

To be Sold by Public Auction, by Mr. Samuel Insull, on the Premises, the THREE FURNACES INN, Waterfall Lane, on Wednesday, the 20th day of January, 1869, at Six o’clock for Seven in the Evening punctually, in one Lot, subject to the usual conditions. All that Old-licensed and Well-accustomed Freehold Inn, known by the sign of the THREE FURNACES, situate in Waterfall Lane, in the Parish of Rowley Regis, and now and for many years occupied by the Proprietor, Mr. William Millard. The Premises consist of a large Smoke Room, Bar, large Club Room, Cooking Kitchen, Two Chambers, Brewhouse, capital Cellaring, large Stable and other Outbuildings; together with an Apparatus for making Gas.

The Property is well supplied with Water.

The Fixtures are sold with the Freehold, but the Purchaser will have to take to the Stock and Effects at the price fixed by Two Valuers, one to be chosen by each party.

For further particulars apply to Messrs. Homfray and Holberton, Solicitors, Brierley Hill and Colman Hill; or to the Auctioneer, Brierley Hill.”

County Express 26/12/1868 - Advert

“Important to Persons about to Embark in the Public Business, Capitalists, and Others.

Sale of Freehold Inn and Premises, Waterfall Lane, Old Hill.

Mr. Samuel Insull begs to announce that he is favoured with instructions by Mr. William Millard to Sell by Auction, upon the Premises, on Wednesday, the 13th day of January, 1869, at Six for Seven o’clock in the Evening punctually, in one Lot, subject to conditions to be then produced.

All that Old-licensed and Well-accustomed Freehold Inn, known by the sign of the THREE FURNACES, situate in Waterfall Lane, in the Parish of Rowley Regis, and now and for many years occupied by the Proprietor, Mr. William Millard. The Premises consist of a large Smoke Room, spacious Bar, large Club Room, Tap Room, Cooking Kitchen, Two Chambers, Brewhouse, capital Cellaring, Stabling for eight horses, and other necessary Outbuildings; the Property having a frontage to Waterfall Lane of 12 yards 1 foot 6 inches, and containing in the whole by admeasurement 449 square yards or thereabouts, with a good supply of hard and soft water. The whole is well and substantially built, and enclosed, and is complete with every convenience for carrying on a first-class in and out-door trade, which has been successfully done by the present Proprietor for the last ten years, and who is disposing of the same owing to his declining Business.

There is a model Gas Works upon the Premises, capable of supplying 30 lights, which will be sold with the Freehold.

The Property will be sold with the option of the Purchaser taking to the Stock and Fixtures at a Valuation.

For further particulars apply to Messrs. Homfray and Holberton, Solicitors, Brierley Hill and Colman Hill; or to the Auctioneer, Brierley Hill, at whose respective Offices a Plan of the Property may be seen.”

County Express 17/12/1870

“On Tuesday evening last, a fatal occurrence took place at Waterfall Lane, by which a man named Henry Stonehall, a boatman, aged 45, lost his life. It appeared deceased was carelessly sitting on the side of a boat, when he over-balanced himself, and falling into the water, was drowned. The accident happened at 7 o’clock in the evening, and he was not got out until 7.30, Mr. Smith, and others, assisted in getting the body out. The inquest was held yesterday, at the house of Mr. Millward, THREE FURNACES INN, Waterfall Lane, before E. Hooper, Esq, Coroner, when the jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death.”

1871 Census

Waterfall Lane

[1] William Millard (44), boat builder, born Dudley;

[2] Emma Millard (42), wife, born Halesowen;

[3] William Millard (20), son, boat builder, born Rowley Regis:

William Millard died in the 2nd quarter of 1872.

Birmingham Daily Post 21/6/1872 - Advert

“Valuable Freehold Properties, Malthouse, and Dwelling Houses, situate at Bumble Hole, Waterfall Lane, and Springfield, near Rowley.

Mr. Hawkins will Sell by Auction, on Tuesday Next, at the House of Mr. Warby, the FOX AND GOOSE INN, Bumble Hole, at Six o’clock in the evening, in the following or such other Lots as may be determined at the time of Sale, subject to conditions to be then read.....

Lot 5. All that well-arranged, substantially-built, good accustomed, Old-licensed Public House and Premises, known as the THREE FURNACES INN, situate at Waterfall Lane, the Residence of the late Mr. William Millard, deceased, comprising Front Tap Room and Front Bar, large Parlour, Club Room, Chambers, two Cellars, Brewhouse, Office, Stabling, Coach-house, Piggeries, and Out-buildings, with the Gasholder, Mains, and Apparatus, in good working order, for lighting up the Premises.....”

County Advertiser 23/11/1872 - Advert

“Valuable Old-Licensed Public House, Waterfall Lane, Old Hill, Rowley Regis.

To be Sold by Auction, by Mr. Hawkins, on Tuesday, the 10th day of December, 1872, at the House of Mrs. Ruth Cooksey, the COOKSEY HOTEL, Old Hill, at Six o’clock in the Evening, subject to conditions to be then read.

All that well-arranged substantially-built good accustomed, Old-licensed Public House and Premises, known as the THREE FURNACES INN, situate at Waterfall Lane (the residence of the late William Millard deceased), comprising Front Tap Room, Front Bar, large Parlour, Club Room, Chambers, Cellars, Brewhouse, Office, Stabling, Coach-house, Piggeries, Outbuildings, Gas Holder, Mains, Apparatus, Piping and Gas Fittings throughout the Premises.

Further particulars may be obtained from Mr. Thomas Homer, Solicitor, Colley Gate and Brierley Hill; or from the Auctioneer, Dudley Street, Brierley Hill.”

Emma Millard = Emma Millward= Emma Miller

County Advertiser 13/12/1873

“Matthias Adams was charged with being drunk and refusing to quit the THREE FURNACES, Waterfall Lane, on the 6th inst. Defendant was also charged with destroying a jug and glass. Mr. Addison defended.

The landlady of the house said that the defendant came into her house about five o’clock on the night in question, and after staying in her house some time commenced gambling. Defendant fought with a man, and she heard a jug and glass fall

Enoch Evans said that the defendant knocked the jug out of his hand. Defendant refused to leave the house, but he was not drunk. Enoch Reed was called for the defence, and said that the landlady did not order the defendant out of the house. The defendant did not break the jug and glass.

Edwin Adams said Enoch Evans beat him with the jug, and broke it over his shoulder. The landlady knew that the men who were in the house were ‘cobbling,’ but she did not tell them to cease gambling.

George Jackson said that the defendant was told several times to leave the house, but he refused.

The defendant was fined 10s and costs for refusing to quit. The other case was dismissed.”

Stourbridge Observer 3/1/1874

“Emma Millward, landlady of the THREE FURNACES INN, Rowley, was charged with permitting gaming in her house on the 6th ult. Defendant pleaded not guilty.

Joseph Carr, said he went to defendant’s house in company with Enoch Reid on the above date. When he went in he saw some men in one corner of the room playing with some corks. They played for two or three quarts of ale. At the time they were playing defendant came into the room. She did not say anything about playing. There was a row in the house over the gambling. Defendant took a quart of ale to the men whilst they were gambling.

Enoch Reid said he was with last witness at defendant’s house, on the 6th ult. He saw some men playing for two or three quarts of ale. They were supplied with ale by the defendant. There was a dispute between the men as to which should pay for the ale that had been brought. When the landlady came in she did not order them to stop.

Mr. Hayes: You said last week that you heard her order them to stop.

Mr. Barrs to witness: You are a nice fellow to come here and swear things like this.

Witness continuing said they put one cork on the barrel and then threw the other pieces at it to try and knock it off.

Superintendent Mills said there were a great many complaints against gambling of that kind. He had been informed by masters of works that the men went into the public house and got gambling, instead of coming to work.

Defendant said when she went into the room they were playing and she asked them to leave off.

Mr. Hingley to defendant: You admit that you received the money from the men who had lost it. Defendant called George Jackson, who said he was in the house when the men were gambling. They were not gambling many minutes. When defendant saw them she told them to knock off and they began to swear at her. The man Adams said down the pit he would make it hot for defendant, because he was fined.

Mr. Barrs: He was fined 10s last week and now he says he will have vengeance.

Witness said defendant did not bring them ale.

Mr. Hingley: That is a story because she says she did.

Reid, recalled, said defendant brought the drink in but the men did not pay for it, and she took it back but the parties that were gambling had some drink out of the jug. The same ale they refused to pay for was afterwards brought back into the room and was paid for by one of the men that had been gambling.

Mr. Hingley: I think we are bound to convict we cannot dismiss it. It is time to put a stop to this gambling.

Mr. Barrs: I want to know what publicans can do if vagabonds come into their houses and begin to gamble.

Mr. Hayes: They can summons them.

Mr. Barrs: They ought to have summoned Adams for gambling and not for refusing to leave the house.

Mr. Hingley: It has been proved that the woman let them have the drink.

Superintendent Mills: If the servant had gone into the room instead of the landlady, it would have been all the same.

Mr. Barrs: If any one had a spite against a landlady they would go into the house and commence to gamble.

Superintendent Mills: I can produce several officers who have been in the house on different occasions and have seen the gambling going on, but as soon as the officers went inside it was stopped.

Mr. Barrs: It seems because she is a widow the public put upon her.

Mr. Hingley to defendant: Don't you let the gambling go on any more in your house; we cannot fine you less than 20s.

Mr. Barrs: Is it the least we can fine her.

Mr. Hayes: Yes, sir, 20s is the lowest.

Mr. Barrs to defendant: You are fined 20s and costs.

Superintendent Mills: I must make an application that the witnesses be allowed something for their expenses.

Mr. Barrs: I will never sanction that.

Mr. Hingley: No, nor me.

The case was ended."

County Advertiser 6/3/1875

"Emma Miller, landlady of the THREE FURNACES public house, Waterfall Lane, was charged with opening her house during prohibited hours on Sunday, the 7th ult. Police-constable Holland said that at twelve o'clock on the morning of Sunday he visited the defendant's house and found three men there. He called the attention of the defendant to the fact, and she said they had come in for some ale, and had stopped chatting. The ale was ordered the night before. Defendant, who now pleaded guilty, said the men were neighbours and good customers. The Bench inflicted a fine of 40s and costs."

County Advertiser 13/3/1875

"Jeremiah Hooper was charged with having been found on the premises of Emma Miller, the THREE FURNACES, on the 7th inst, during prohibited hours. The defence was that the defendant had for some time been in the habit of stabling a horse on the premises, and that on the morning in question he was there for the purpose of attending the horse, but no ale was supplied him. The case was dismissed."

County Express 20/3/1875

"Samson Beesley and Henry Pugh were charged with being on licensed premises during prohibited hours.

Defendants pleaded guilty.

It was shown that on Sunday, the 7th inst, a police officer visited the THREE FURNACES INN, Waterfall Lane, Old Hill, at twelve o'clock, where he found the defendants. The landlady of the house has been convicted and fined for keeping her house open during prohibited hours on the day in question.

The defendants were each fined 5s and the costs; or, in default of payment, seven days' imprisonment with hard labour."

Dudley Herald 30/9/1876

"Mr. Edwin Hooper, district coroner, held an inquest on Saturday, at the THREE FURNACES, Old Hill, on the body of John Perry, a child 5 years of age.

Deceased was last seen alive by his mother on Wednesday evening, and about an hour afterwards he was taken home dead, a lad named Joseph Booth having pulled deceased out of the arm of the canal near the THREE FURNACES. There being no evidence to show how the child got into the water, the jury returned a verdict of Found Dead."

County Express 13/9/1879

"On Monday last the members of Court Miners' Guide No. 5781 of the Ancient Order of Foresters held their anniversary at the TWO [sic] FURNACES INN, Waterfall Lane, Old Hill. An excellent spread was provided and after the cloth had been drawn Bro. Thomas Pulley, PCR, took the chair and Bro. Edward Evans, PCR, the vice chair. The usual toasts were given and responded to, and a very satisfactory account of the club was given by the secretary Mr. John Owen. The usual votes of thanks brought a pleasant evening to a close."

Dudley and District News 2/10/1880

“Adjourned Licensing Sessions. These sessions were held on Wednesday at Old Hill.....

Mr. Hayes applied for a license for a house in the course of erection, in place of the WHITE LION INN, which recently fell down. Mr. Waldron opposed on behalf of Mr. Darby, landlord of the THREE FURNACES INN, that gentleman being of opinion that there were public houses sufficient in the neighbourhood to supply the wants of the population.

The application was granted, the Bench stating that there was almost a promise at the time Mrs. Cole’s house fell down, that when she re-built it her license should be renewed.”

County Express 13/11/1880

“On Wednesday night a miners’ meeting, the special object of which was to discuss the Employers’ Liability Bill, was held at the THREE FURNACES INN, Waterfall Lane, Old Hill. There was but a small attendance.....”

Dudley and District News 27/11/1880

“Last night a meeting of miners was held at the house of Mr. E. Cooper, THREE FURNACES INN, Waterfall Lane, Old Hill, to discuss the clauses of the Employers’ Liability Bill and the low rate of wages.....”

1881 Census

51, Slack Hillock – THREE FURNACES INN

[1] Edwin Cooper (40), licensed victualler, born Kings Norton;

[2] Sarah Ann Cooper (35), wife, born Rowley Regis;

[3] William R. Cooper (13), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;

[4] Charles Cooper (11), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;

[5] Joseph H. Cooper (7), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;

[6] Albert E. Cooper (4), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;

[7] Mary Jane Cooper (14), daughter, domestic servant, born Rowley Regis:

County Express 9/4/1881

“The usual quarterly meeting of the Dudley and Cradley Heath district of the Ancient Order of Foresters, was held on Monday last, at the THREE FURNACES INN, Waterfall Lane, Old Hill, Bro. T. H. Smith, DCR, in the chair.....”

Dudley and District News 28/7/1883

“John Hodgetts, anchormith, Tory Street, Blackheath, was fined 20s and costs, with the alternative of one month’s imprisonment, for being drunk and refusing to quit the licensed premises of Edwin Cooper, known as the THREE FURNACES INN, Waterfall Lane, Old Hill.”

Dudley and District News 20/9/1884

“An inquest was held on Saturday afternoon last, before Mr. E. Hooper, coroner, at the THREE FURNACES INN, Waterfall Lane, Rowley, respecting the death of Edwin Albert Cooper (8), son of Mr. Edwin Cooper, landlord of the above-mentioned house, whose body was found in the canal near his parents’ residence on the 11th inst. Evidence was given to the effect that on the afternoon of the 10th inst, deceased was seen playing on the canal side with a brick tied to a piece of string, and it was supposed that he was accidentally pulled into the water.

The jury returned a verdict of Found Drowned.”

West Bromwich Weekly News 21/5/1887

“On Saturday afternoon, Mr. E. Hooper (coroner) held an inquest at the SPORTSMAN INN, Gorsty Hill, respecting the death of a single woman named Eliza Danks (25), daughter of Samuel Danks, blacksmith, of Netherton, who was found dead in a water ‘shoot’ at the side of the Birmingham Canal, near to Gorsty Hill tunnel, on the 13th inst. Inspector Smith appeared on behalf of the Great Western Railway Company.

Eliza Danks, grandmother, said that she saw the deceased alive on the 12th inst. Her granddaughter was in the habit of sleeping at her residence in St. Thomas Street. Deceased was subject to fits, and frequently used to have three or four violent turns in a week. She had distant relatives at Old Hill, but was not in the habit of visiting them.

Sarah Ann Cooper, landlady at the THREE FURNACES INN, Old Hill, said that the deceased visited their house on three separate occasions, and requested to have some beer supplied to her; but she was refused, witness seeing that she had had enough. Before she would leave witness had to threaten to send for the police. Deceased proceeded down Waterfall Lane, and she did not see her again.

Samuel Taylor, boatman, said that on the 13th inst, about 5.30am, he was proceeding to the Gorsty Hill tunnel, for the purpose of going out with a boat, when he saw the deceased lying in the water ‘shoot’ on her back. A short distance up the embankment he found her skirt. At the time there was very little water running down the stream.

Police-sergeant Salt stated that he had examined the place, and had traced the deceased’s footprints along the railway line, and to the spot where she was found. He was present when Dr. Standish examined the body, and said that the marks on the body might have been caused by falling, and were not sufficient to cause death.

The jury returned a verdict of Found Dead.”

County Advertiser 23/7/1887

“At the Rowley Regis Police Court, on Wednesday, before Mr. Walter Bassano and Mr. J. Walker, six publicans named Edwin Cooper, Waterfall Lane; James Southwick, Yew Tree Lane; Isaac Mullett, Ross, Blackheath; Thomas Tromans, Gorsty Hill; James Andrews Levett, Perry’s Lake; and Joseph Tibbetts, Cromwell Street, Blackheath, were each brought up for defrauding the Inland Revenue by using sugar in the beer after the Excise Officer had made an entry of the brewing. Mr. Shakespeare, of Oldbury, represented the first five-named defendants.

Mr. J. Blake Davies (supervisor of Excise) stated that the whole of the defendants were licensed victuallers. In April last Excise officers visited their cellars. After brewings had taken place and the entries been made, it was discovered that the defendants had put loaf sugar into the barrels. The sugar was found at the bottom of the barrels in a partly dissolved state. In each instance the beer was racked, and each offender said that the sugar had been used for the purpose of ‘fining’ the beer. Notices had from time to time been published to the effect that it was illegal to use sugar after entries had been taken by the Excise officers, because the Board of Inland Revenue was defrauded by the beer being increased in strength and no increased duty paid.

Mr. Bassano: Dose the use of sugar with beer that has been racked increase the gravity of the beer?

Mr. Davies: A brewer might by adding sugar increase his ‘twopenny’ into ‘sixpenny.’

Mr. Bassano: And are the consumers of beer any way prejudiced by the use of such beer as you have referred to?

Mr. Davies: It is heavy and certainly not wholesome.

Mr. Bassano: That is important.

Mr. Davies (continuing) said the illegal use of sugar was on the increase, and the Board of Inland Revenue desired to put a stop to the practice.

Mr. Shakespeare said the whole of his clients pleaded guilty, but had acted in ignorance, and as the Board of Inland Revenue had really sustained no loss he should with confidence ask the magistrates to only inflict nominal penalties. The Excise officers had in each instance seized the beer and utensils, and one of the defendants had had to pay as much as £3 14s for the purchase of his beer from the Excise officers. He also asked the magistrates to bear in mind that the publicans of the Black Country had been in the habit of using sugar to ‘fine’ the beer. He was assured the defendants had not used it for the purpose of increasing the gravity of the beer, and as a matter of fact had not gained a single farthing by what they had done.

Mr. Davies said he thought it only right that he should inform the magistrates and the public that the use of sugar in racked beer did not ‘fine’ the beer, but only increased its specific gravity. He must ask the magistrates to make examples of the defendants.

Mr. Bassano said it was important that the law should be observed, and that the public should be supplied with a wholesome article.

The defendant were each fined £20 including costs, which amounted to £120.”

Dudley Mercury 22/10/1887

“About eleven o’clock on Tuesday night last, a man named Samuel Baldwin (34), baker, Blackheath, was found drowned in the Birmingham Canal, at Waterfall Lane, by Police-sergeant Salt. The deceased had been to Great Bridge and returned home by the train which arrives at Old Hill at 9.28. He was seen to go along Waterfall Lane, but nothing more being seen of him, Police-sergeant Salt was communicated with, and upon dragging the canal for some time brought up the body of the unfortunate man. The place is open to the road, and is rather dangerous.

Mr. Hooper held an inquest on the body of the deceased at the THREE FURNACES INN, Waterfall Lane, on Thursday morning. The jury returned a verdict of Found Drowned, and recommended that Mr. Barnsley be called upon to forthwith fence the place. Mr. Barnsley said he would carry out the recommendations of the Coroner and jury as speedily as possible.”

County Advertiser 21/4/1888

“Yesterday afternoon an inquest was held at the THREE FURNACES INN Old Hill, before Mr. Hooper, coroner, respecting the death of Edward Evans (69), a watchman employed at Mr. Bassano’s Colliery, Haden Hill, who was found drowned in the canal wharf, at the colliery, on Thursday. Deceased, it is stated, went to his duty on Wednesday night as watchman at the colliery, and during the night he was missed. It is supposed that deceased accidentally fell into the water whilst going his rounds. The inquest was adjourned till Wednesday.”

Edwin Cooper died in the 3rd quarter of 1888 and was buried at St. Paul’s Church, Blackheath.

Edwin Cooper – see also HADEN CROSS.

John Foley married Sarah Ann Cooper in the 2nd quarter of 1890.

County Express 8/11/1890

“Mr. Edwin Hooper (district coroner) held an inquest on Tuesday, at the THREE FURNACES INN, Waterfall Lane, on the body of Mary Ann Johnson (72). The deceased was a widow, and lived alone in a cottage. On the 29th ult she fell on to the kitchen fire, and was found enveloped in flames. She died from her injuries on Monday. A verdict of Accidental Death was returned.”

1891 Census

Waterfall Lane – THREE FURNACES INN

[1] John Foley (52), licensed victualler, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Sarah Ann Foley (44), wife, born Rowley Regis;

[3] Charles Cooper (21), step-son, brewer’s assistant, born Rowley Regis;

[4] Anne Cooper (20), step-daughter, born Rowley Regis;

- [5] Walter Edwin Cooper (6 months), grand-son, born Rowley Regis;
[6] Joseph Henry Cooper (17), step-son, born Rowley Regis;
[7] Sidney Foley (4 months), son, born Rowley Regis:

County Advertiser 11/11/1893

“Samuel Grainger, fruiterer, Birmingham Street, Halesowen, was charged with obtaining 7½d, by means of a trick, from John Foley, on the 19th ult. Mr. Waldron defended.

Complainant, who lived in Waterfall Lane and kept a public house, alleged that on the date named, defendant came to his house and offered 3½ bags of potatoes for sale. Complainant said he would pay him 2s 9d for them, and defendant accepted it. Defendant said he would find the weight of all the bags correct. When the bags were weighed the next morning there were 43lbs short, and by this shortness defendant had defrauded him of 7½d.

In cross-examination, complainant admitted that defendant said if there was anything wrong with the potatoes he would make them right. Defendant’s master called on the 28th ult and said the reason why complainant had not received the potatoes which were short was because they had been working in another place. The potatoes had since been sent. The Bench dismissed the case.”

John Foley was a brewer and maltster.

He fell from the platform at Handsworth Station and was killed by a train on 21st March 1896.

County Advertiser 28/3/1896

“Information was received at Old Hill, on Saturday night, that Mr. John Foley, landlord of the THREE FURNACES INN, Waterfall Lane, Blackheath, Rowley, had died from injuries received at Handsworth Station, on the Great Western Railway. On Saturday morning deceased went to Perry Barr, to witness a football match, and as he has recently been unwell, and recommended by his medical adviser to have plenty of walking exercise, he walked with his step-son to Handsworth Station. On the platform there was a large number of passengers, and a difficulty was experienced in getting accommodation. By some means Mr. Foley slipped down between the platform and the train. He was speedily rescued, but not before he had sustained shocking injuries to his face and chest. Every possible assistance was rendered to Mr. Foley, but he died within twenty minutes of receiving the injuries. The body was removed to the Handsworth mortuary to await the coroner’s inquest. The deceased was about 56 years of age, was for many years a large brewer and well known throughout the Black Country. The deceased’s son, John Cooper Foley was journeying by the same train, but he did not hear of the accident to his father till he got home to Blackheath.

The inquest was held by Mr. Edwin Hooper, district coroner, at the Police Station, Thornhill Road, Handsworth, on Tuesday. Mr. Evers, of Stourbridge, watched the case on behalf of the Great Western Railway Company, and Mr. Thomas Cooksey, of Old Hill, appeared for the relatives of the deceased.

Charles Cooper, step-son of the deceased, and who managed the business, said that he accompanied the deceased and his son from Old Hill to Perry Barr on Saturday afternoon, to witness the football match. They journeyed from Old Hill to Soho by train, and then walked to the football ground. After the match they walked to Handsworth Railway Station, calling at the Stork Hotel on the way, on account of a heavy shower of rain. In the house they partook of refreshments. They booked by the 7.57 train back to Old Hill. When the train approached the station a bell was rung, and witness and deceased left the waiting room in which they had been sitting and went on to the platform. They walked towards the front of the train, but could find no accommodation, and turned towards the end of the train with the same result. A porter came and said there was no room. The porter was showing a lady into a first-class compartment, and deceased said, ‘We must get into this.’ The porter put out his hand to keep witness and deceased back, saying that it was a first-class. Deceased remonstrated, and the porter said, ‘You must try a second.’ Deceased said it was no good, and added that they must get in. He then took hold of the handle of the door of the first-class carriage, but his feet slipped from under him. Witness caught hold of his coat, but his legs slipped down between the platform and the train. The porter shouted for the train to stop, and it was stopped almost immediately. The end of the train had passed deceased, and witness looking down saw deceased lying by the side of the rails. He was carried into the waiting room. In reply to witness, deceased said he was hurt across the chest, and he was then placed on the company’s ambulance, and a doctor was sent for. Deceased succumbed to his injuries shortly after. Deceased was a steady man, and was perfectly sober at the time of the accident. Witness, in reply to Mr. Cooksey, said that scarcely any time elapsed between when the porter told them to try a second-class carriage and the train starting. The porter made no attempt to find them a seat. There was plenty of room in the first-class carriage. Cross-examined by Mr. Evers, witness said the train was just moving when deceased attempted to open the door.....

The Coroner said he had been impressed by the straightforward way in which the witnesses on both sides had given their evidence. Nevertheless there had been serious discrepancies; not that the witnesses intended to mislead the jury. When an accident occurred at a railway station everyone was excited, and wrong impressions were formed. He (the coroner) knew the deceased very well, and he was a man of excellent character. If the jury thought necessary he would adjourn the inquiry.

The jury returned a verdict to the effect that deceased met with his death accidentally by falling from the train, which he attempted to enter whilst it was in motion; and they added a rider, urging the railway company to have more porters on the platform on the arrival of passenger trains.”

John Foley – see also DUKE WILLIAM.

County Advertiser 22/8/1896

“John Skitt, Tory Street, Blackheath, was fined 10s and costs for refusing to quit the THREE FURNACES INN, Old Hill.”

Dudley Herald 27/8/1898

“The annual Licensing Sessions of the Rowley Regis Petty Sessional Division was held at the Old Hill Police Court on Wednesday.....

Mr. Cartland, Birmingham (instructed by Messrs. Redfern and Company) applied for the transferring of a full license from the NAVIGATION INN to the HORSE SHOE INN, Old Hill, and also for the beer license of the HORSE SHOE INN to be transferred to the NAVIGATION INN.

Mr. B. Shakespeare opposed on behalf of Mrs. Foley, of the THREE FURNACES INN.....”

County Advertiser 18/3/1899

“Mr. Pearson also held an inquest at the THREE FURNACES, respecting the death of Delilah Cole (59), formerly of Tory Street, who died suddenly on Monday. On Sunday deceased retired to rest apparently in good health. Early the next morning the landlady called for her rent, and found deceased dead on the floor. The jury returned a verdict of Death from Natural Causes.”

1901 Census

Waterfall Lane – THREE FURNACES INN

[1] Sarah Ann Foley (54), widow, innkeeper, born Rowley Regis;

[2] William Richard Cooper (33), son, manager of inn, born Rowley Regis:

AND

Waterfall Lane – THREE FURNACES INN

[1] Annie Cooper (30), widow, barmaid in inn, born Cradley Heath;

[2] Walter Edwin Cooper (10), son, born Old Hill;

[3] Beatrice Annie Cooper (8), daughter, born Old Hill:

County Advertiser 9/1/1904

“On Monday afternoon Mr. H. A. Pearson (coroner) held an inquest at the THREE FURNACES INN, Waterfall Lane, Blackheath, on the body of George Plant, aged one year and five months, son of Isaiah and Elizabeth Plant, of Tory Street, Blackheath, who died on the 3rd inst from the effects of severe burns received on the 17th ult. It appeared from the evidence that deceased was placed on a screen in the house whilst the mother was engaged in washing. The child fell off the screen on to the floor close to the fire grate, and his clothes were ignited by a cinder. He received severe burns, and was attended by Dr. McQueen, but died on the 3rd inst. The jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death.”

Sarah Ann Foley died in the 2nd quarter of 1906 and was buried at St. Paul’s Church, Blackheath.

County Advertiser 30/6/1906

“Licensing Business.....

An interim authority was granted in respect of the THREE FURNACES INN, Waterfall Lane, Blackheath, from Mrs. Sarah Ann Foley to William Richard Cooper.”

County Advertiser 18/8/1906

“The following licenses were transferred.....

THREE FURNACES INN, Waterfall Lane, Blackheath, from Sarah Ann Foley (deceased) to William Richard Cooper.”

County Advertiser 1/9/1906

“Thomas Plant, of Tory Street, Blackheath, was charged with being disorderly and refusing to quit the licensed premises of the THREE FURNACES INN, Waterfall Lane, Blackheath, on the 25th ult. The offence was admitted by defendant, who was fined 15s, including costs.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 4/9/1906

“Midland Wills.....

Mrs. Sarah Ann Foley, of the THREE FURNACES INN, Waterfall Lane, Old Hill, Stafford.

Gross £2,912. Net £591.

Only the gross amount of the whole of the estate and the net value of the personalty appear upon the official records. The net or actual value of the whole is not ascertainable.”

William Richard Cooper died in the 1st quarter of 1909 and was buried at St. Paul’s Church, Blackheath.

County Express 17/4/1909 - Advert

“Preliminary. Waterfall Lane, Old Hill, Staffs.

To Brewers, Maltsters, Wine and Spirit Merchants, Capitalists and Others.

Alfred Hill has been instructed by the Trustees of the late William Richard Cooper, to Sell By Public Auction, at the House of Mr. Albert E. Sidaway, the BRITISH OAK INN, High Street, Old Hill, on Wednesday, the 5th day of May, 1909.

All that Highly Valuable and Attractive Freehold, Fully Old-Licensed House and Premises, known as the THREE FURNACES INN, situate as above, and now in the occupation of Mrs. Annie Cooper. Full particulars next week.

Vendor’s Solicitors: Messrs Thomas Cooksey and Co, Old Hill and Blackheath. Auctioneer’s Offices: Halesowen.”

County Express 24/4/1909 - Advert

“Preliminary. Waterfall Lane, Old Hill, Staffs.

Notice Of Sale By Auction of a Highly Valuable and Attractive Freehold Fully Old-Licensed House and Premises.

To Brewers, Maltsters, Wine and Spirit Merchants, Capitalists and Others.

Alfred Hill has been instructed by the Trustees of the late William Richard Cooper, to Sell By Public Auction, at the House of Mr. Albert E. Sidaway, the BRITISH OAK INN, High Street, Old Hill, on Wednesday, the 5th day of May, 1909.

All that Highly Valuable and Attractive Freehold, Fully Old-Licensed House and Premises, known as the THREE FURNACES INN, situate at Waterfall Lane, Old Hill, now in the occupation of Mrs. Annie Cooper. The business accommodation comprises Bar and Smoke Room, Tap Room, very large Club Room, Two capital Cellars, 4-Stall Stable with Loft over same, Coach House, Pigstye, etc. The private accommodation consists of Breakfast Room, Dining Room, Three Bed Rooms, Box Room, large Kitchen and the usual outbuildings.

The above is well set back from the road, with Cartway entrance at side into a large Paved Yard, and is surrounded by a good brick wall, and entirely private. The House has always done a good business, and is well situated, and can, with every confidence, be recommended to the Trade and others as a good sound investment.

For any further particulars apply to: Messrs Thomas Cooksey and Co., Solicitors (offices at Old Hill and Blackheath). Or to the Auctioneer's Offices: Halesowen.”

County Express 5/6/1909

“At Old Hill, on Wednesday, the following licenses were transferred.....

THREE FURNACES, Waterfall Lane, Old Hill, from William Richard Cooper (deceased), to Annie Cooper.”

Tipton Herald 25/9/1909

“On Monday afternoon, Mr. G. C. Lewis (Coroner) held an inquest at the THREE FURNACES INN, Waterfall Lane, Blackheath, concerning the death of a newly born female child of Samuel and Hannah Plant, of Tory Street, Blackheath, whose death occurred on the 18th inst. After hearing the evidence of the parents, which showed that the child only lived ten minutes, the jury returned a verdict of Death from Natural Causes.”

County Express 11/6/1910

“A sad accident, resulting in the drowning of two girls, named Laura Withers (13), and Elsie Foster (11), of Tory Street, Blackheath, occurred at a canal basin belonging to the Station Colliery, Old Hill, on Saturday morning. The girls, together with Maggie Roden (8), of the same locality, left their homes shortly before eight o'clock, and at length found their way to the canal basin close to the Station Colliery, Old Hill, which is at present disused. The elder girls were on a wooden bridge, formerly used for the purposes of an endless rope, when the woodwork beneath them gave way, and they fell into the canal. Roden raised an alarm, and Elijah Evans, of Tory Street, Blackheath who was engaged at a local tube works, ran to the spot, and jumped into the water. He succeeded in getting out the body of Foster, which was at once removed to its home. Later he secured Withers' body, and PCs Longman and Pass and Mr. Harry Sample, of the HORSE SHOE INN, Station Road, Old Hill, tried artificial respiration. This was continued for 45 minutes, until Dr. McQueen arriving pronounced life extinct, and the body was removed home by the police. The inquest was held on Tuesday morning at the THREE FURNACES INN, Waterfall Lane, before Mr. G. C. Lewis (coroner).

Mr. J. L. Fellows represented the proprietors of the Station Colliery.

The parents stated that early on Saturday morning the children left their homes for the purpose of playing.

Maggie Roden, aged eight, said she accompanied the two girls to the Station Colliery for the purpose of picking coal. She saw them go on the bridge, which spans the canal, and suddenly the floor collapsed, and the girls fell into the water. She was frightened and ran away, and told the first man she met.

Elijah Evans (50), miner, stated that when the child Roden told him of the accident he hurried to the canal, and divesting himself of clothing jumped in. He soon recovered the body of Foster, but a considerable time elapsed before he could recover Withers.

The Coroner thanked Evans for his courageous efforts.

PC Longman stated that when he and PC Pass arrived at the colliery the body of Foster had been recovered and conveyed to her home. With the assistance of a man named Sample they tried artificial respiration with Withers for three-quarters of an hour without success.

The Coroner: Were the girls trespassing?

Witness: Yes, sir, they were. Trespassers had been warned many times not to go on the colliery estate. The floor of the canal bridge was decayed; it had, in fact, been fenced off.

The Coroner said it was a very sad accident, but the unfortunate girls were the authors of their own misfortune. The owners of the bridge were not to blame. PCs Longman and Pass and Mr. Sample were to be commended for what they had done. Bright features of the sad affair were the gallant efforts made to save life.

The jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death.”

Annie Cooper married William Alfred Bennett in the 3rd quarter of 1910.

Dudley Chronicle 10/12/1910

“Licenses Transferred. The following temporary transfers were agreed to.....

THREE FURNACES, Waterfall Lane, from Annie Cooper to Annie Bennett.”

1911 Census

51, Waterfall Lane

[1] William Alfred Bennett (26), bolt header, nut and bolt works, born Old Hill;

[2] Annie Bennett (40), wife, married under 1 year, born Cradley Forge;

[3] Beatrice Cooper (18), step-daughter, born Old Hill;

[4] Walter Edwin Cooper (20), step-son, architect and surveyor, born Old Hill:

Black Country Bugle

Letter from Mrs. I. H. Towersey, Totnes

“.....my great aunt was Mrs. Annie Bennett, the licensee of this inn. Previously she was married to my uncle, a Mr. Cooper, she still being the licensee. They had two children, Edward (Teddy) and Beatrice. Sometime after the death of my uncle she married a man by the name of Bennett, considerably younger I believe Aunt Annie was always so nicely dressed in black silk and lace. She was rather prim and proper in her ways, and I can hardly imagine rough and bawdy things going on.....”

Walsall Observer 28/3/1914

“The members of the Old Hill Ironworks Band on Saturday night entertained their bandmaster, Mr. Thomas Wood, to dinner at the THREE FURNACES INN, Old Hill, prior to his departure for Glasgow, where he has secured an important position. Mr. Harry Harborne, of Dudley, was in the chair. Mr. A. Walker, who has been chosen to succeed Mr. Wood as conductor of the band, presented that gentleman with an umbrella on behalf of the band, and complimentary speeches were made by Councillor J. E. Shaw and Mr. Harborne. In returning thanks, Mr. Wood said he had been head of the band for 29 years.”

1939 Register

78, Waterfall Lane

[1] Charles Hickman, date of birth 25/1/1903, licensed victualler, married;

[2] Elisa Hickman, dob 9/5/1905, household duties, married;

[4] Elizabeth Hickman, dob 19/4/1861, incapacitated, widowed;

[5] Rachel Hickman, dob 6/2/1889, chain maker, single:

Sandwell Evening Mail 4/8/1987

“A boxing match involving the fearsomely named Skull Crusher and The Tank will be held in the Black Country on Saturday – but no one will get hurt.

The Skull Crusher is Alan Fairclough, licensee at the WHARF pub, off Station Road in Old Hill, and he will be taking on Tommy Mills, of Grange Road, Old Hill, in a fancy dress match for charity.

Alan said that Tommy, a regular at the THREE FURNACES in Waterfall Lane, had often ‘threatened’ to get him in a boxing ring and sort him out. ‘Now’s his chance. It’s obviously not going to be too serious and we shall be in long johns and fancy dress,’ said Alan.

The two fighters will be aiming to raise cash for the Father Hudson’s Homes charity and are hoping to get Warley boxer Pat Cowdell to referee.

The match will be on the car park of the WHARF at 3pm.”

Sandwell Evening Mail 22/10/1987

“Old Hill drinking pals Tommy Mills and Alan Fairclough were black and blue after challenging each other to a fight – but it was all in a good cause. Alan, former licensee of the WHARFE public house off Station Road and Tommy, one of his regular customers, fought each other in a sponsored boxing match there – and for their pains they raised more than £200 for a children’s charity.

The two were sponsored by customers at the WHARFE and the THREE FURNACES public house in Waterfall Lane, Old Hill.

A cheque for £205 raised by the contest, along with some cuddly toys, was presented by Tommy at the THREE FURNACES to Mr. Charlie O’Malley, the local representative of Father Hudson’s Children’s Homes.

Mrs. Helen Robinson whose husband Ian is licensee of the THREE FURNACES, said the contest, refereed by another friend, Mr. Tony Jones, lasted several rounds and was declared a draw. She said, ‘It was all a bit of fun really. Alan and Tommy had always joked about fighting each other and when charity was mentioned they decided to do it for real.’”

The cellar was flooded after heavy rain on 30th October 2000.

[2000]

Nigel Brian Salisbury – check also BOAT.

Closed [2001]

A fire broke out in a storeroom in July 2001.

It was renamed OLD FURNACE [2006]

[2007]

Closed [2010], [2011]

Halesowen News 27/7/2011

“An eyesore fence around a boarded up pub which has blighted the view of Blackheath residents for several months could soon be pulled down. An application to turn the former THREE FURNACES pub on the Cradley Heath/Blackheath border into a three bedroom house has been submitted to Sandwell Council. Blackheath councillor Mary Docker said the plan was good news for residents in the Grange Road area, several of whom had contacted her to complain about the ugly fence which had been erected around the disused Waterfall Lane pub. She added, ‘Hopefully this will transform this area for the benefit of nearby residents.’”

It was converted into housing. [2014]

Halesowen News 31/4/2019

“A former Cradley Heath pub proved to be one of the hottest properties on offer at a recent Birmingham auction. The OLD FURNACE on Waterfall Lane – which has already been partially converted into a residential property – sold for far more than SDL Auctions Bigwood expected. Having been put up at a guide price of £145,000-£155,000, the property was bought for £210,000 after attracting enthusiastic bidding at the Villa Park auction.

Auctioneer Rory Daly said, ‘We were delighted to get such a good result for the seller of this former pub. It is a great example of why auction is a great way to sell property, particularly properties which are a little out of the ordinary, such as this one.’”

Halesowen News 4/5/2021

“Plans to flatten a former pub in Cradley Heath to make way for homes have been submitted to Sandwell Council. The OLD FURNACE on Waterfall Lane would be demolished and five houses built in its place, if plans get the go-ahead. The derelict pub sold at auction for £210k back in March 2019. It smashed its guide price of £145k, attracting enthusiastic bidding at the Villa Park auction. The proposal, from Mohammed Parvez, is for outline planning permission to build four three-bed semi-detached houses and one three-bed detached house. The site is next to Sandwell MBC Taxi Licensing Offices. The new homes would front onto Grange Road. The proposal states, ‘The scale of the proposed development has been carefully considered throughout the design process.’”

Express & Star 12/10/2021

“Plans to bulldoze a derelict Cradley Heath pub and replace it with homes have been submitted to planners. A developer wants to knock down the former OLD FURNACE pub on the corner of Waterfall Road and Grange Road and build three houses in its place. If the outline application gets the go-ahead three four-bedroom detached homes will be built on the site. A design and access statement notes that the site ‘is bounded by Sandwell MBC Taxi Licensing Offices with timber fence and trees behind and there are semi-detached houses on the north boundary separated with a timber fence. Currently the site is occupied by the derelict public house and associated yard.’ It goes on, ‘The proposed residential development has been carefully planned to provide layout which responds carefully to its setting.’ It states that the proposal ‘Represents a high quality environment both visually and environmentally.’

The application will be considered by Sandwell Council planners.”

Halesowen News 6/12/2021

“Plans to flatten a former pub in Cradley Heath to make way for homes have been given the go-ahead. The OLD FURNACE on Waterfall Lane will be demolished and three four-bedroom detached houses built in its place. The derelict pub sold at auction for £210k back in March 2019. It smashed its guide price of £145k, attracting enthusiastic bidding at the Villa Park auction. The proposal, from Mohammed Parvez, is for outline planning permission. He had previously submitted an application to build four three-bed semi-detached houses and one three-bed detached house, but plans were amended to feature just three detached houses. The site is next to Sandwell MBC Taxi Licensing Offices. The new homes will front onto Grange Road. The proposal states, ‘The proposed residential development has been carefully planned to provide layout which responds carefully to its setting.’ Sandwell Council planners approved the application.”

TIMBERTREE

Valley Road / Coppice Road, CRADLEY HEATH

OWNERS

Mitchells and Butlers Ltd.
Punch Taverns [2007]

LICENSEES

Harold Noah Homer (1962 – [1965])
J C Gormley-Carney [1983]

NOTES

Provisional Grant 1st March 1962
Final Order granted 9th May 1962.
It opened in 1962.

Birmingham Daily Post 7/12/1964

“When it comes to giving a helping hand to a worthy cause Black Country people are ready to pull their weight no matter what their social status. Resplendent in white aprons, members of Rowley Regis Borough Council, corporation officials, and professional men served traditional Christmas fare on Saturday night to more than 100 disabled people without spilling a drop of soup A social club at the TIMBERTREE public house, Old Hill, had raised more than £50.”

Harold Noah Homer – see also BLUE BALL.

Sandwell Evening Mail 4/6/1988

“Darts.....

Former Tipton Super League player Mick Merrick raised over £80 for a heart operation for Nicholas Thomas when he took on all comers at the TIMBERTREE, Valley Road, in Cradley Heath. The Cradley Heath pub started a darts marathon today in a bid to swell the fund even further as well as a knockout competition. Entrance for the knockout is £2 per player.”

Halesowen News 8/9/2010

“Police in Cradley Heath and Old Hill have promised to tackle anti-social behaviour and loutishness in Haden Hill Park and troublesome pubs. The Cradley Heath and Old Hill Neighbourhood Policing Team are acting upon complaints about gangs of yobs who are blighting residents’ lives.....

During the Summer the police executed a drugs warrant at the TIMBERTREE pub leading to six arrests and charges for drugs.....”

Dudley News 9/2/2011

“A Cradley Heath pub has been transformed from an anti-social behaviour hotspot into a family friendly pub after the community, politicians and the new landlord joined forces.

The TIMBERTREE pub, Valley Road, had caused local residents sleepless nights for years with constant late night parties and loud noise. Cradley Heath and Old Hill Councillor Liz Bowler and her husband Alan took up the challenge and started regular meetings with residents, the police and the pub’s management. After the issue was still not solved the pub closed down until a new licensee was found.

Cllr. Bowler said, ‘The meeting that we set up was a success from the point of view that it was an opportunity for all the residents living closest to the pub to talk directly to the police and particularly the pub’s Area Manager and explain exactly what they were being subjected to every weekend. Clearly the anti-social behaviour was totally unacceptable and should never have been allowed to carry on for so long.’ She added, ‘I felt really sorry for them all so I had to do something to help and at least we got some positive action from the pub management group who now realised how serious the problem had become.’

The TIMBERTREE pub’s new manager is now in place and has recently re-opened, is being refurbished and is now attracting customers old and new.

Cllr. Bowler added, ‘I’ve since spoken to some of the local residents and they seem much happier with the way the pub is now being managed. It has taken a long time to get to this point but I’m pleased that we were able to step in and help the residents to try and make a difference. As we all know it’s very difficult times for the pub trade and so, rather than see another pub have to close, I would hope that we will see the TIMBERTREE pub return to being a good well-run family pub that many of the local residents will want to use again.’”

It retained an anti-social order in 2013.

[2014]

Express & Star 3/10/2016

“A pub in Cradley Heath which has been blighted by anti-social behaviour is to be knocked down and replaced by 20 new flats. The TIMBERTREE, in Valley Road, will be bulldozed after plans for housing were given the go-ahead. A total of 17 one-bed and three two-bed apartments will be built on the site. The move has been welcomed by Councillor Anne Shackleton who covers the area. ‘The pub has continued to attract crime and anti-social behaviour and was said by experts to be becoming a nuisance of its own.’

But the development will breathe fresh life into the area after the plans were approved by planning bosses at Sandwell Council. Councillor Anne Shackleton said, ‘I welcome the move 100 per cent, and from talking to people in the neighbourhood, they do too. It has been one of our ‘grot’ spots, an eyesore, for a considerable length of time. I look forward to the development starting.

It will improve the look of the area and it will get rid of the anti-social behaviour there.’’

Closed [2017]

Demolished [2018]

TIVIALE

45-47 Regent Road, Tividale, ROWLEY REGIS

OWNERS

LICENSEES

Del Sharpe [2018] – [2019]

NOTES

It opened on 9th June 2018 in the premises of a former convenience store.

Del Sharpe was married to Lynn.

[2019]

TRAVELLERS REST

CRADLEY HEATH

OWNERS

LICENSEES

NOTES

[1840]

It became Chapman’s Electrical Store.

TRUE BRITON

Newtown, CRADLEY HEATH

OWNERS

LICENSEES

Benjamin Millward [1864] – 1865)

NOTES

Wolverhampton Chronicle 30/11/1864

“At the Petty Sessions, on Wednesday last, Benjamin Milward, beerhouse keeper, Cradley Heath, was summoned on two excise informations, which charged him with having in his possession, on the 30th of September last, a quantity of grains of paradise, and with using the same in the brewing of ale, for each of which offences he had forfeited the sum of £200.

Mr. Edward Thomas, supervisor, Stourbridge, proved visiting the premises of the defendant while brewing was going on, and taking from the boiler a quantity of hops containing grains of paradise.

Mr. James Moxon, assistant chemist at Somerset House, who had examined samples of the hops seized, proved that they contained grains of paradise. There was in grains of paradise a starch convertible into saccharine matter, and they were consequently capable of replacing malt to some extent. In answer to the Bench, witness said that grains of paradise gave a fictitious strength to beer, and would make inferior have the appearance of superior beer. There was about five per cent of grains of paradise in the samples of hops produced.

The defendant, in answer to the case, said that his daughter had bought some grains of paradise, but he was not aware that it was contrary to law to use them.

The Bench fined the defendant £50 and recommended the Commissioners of Inland Revenue to reduce the fine to £25.”

County Advertiser 28/1/1865

“At the Police Court, on Wednesday, before the sitting magistrates, Benjamin Millward, landlord of the TRUE BRITON public house, Newtown, Cradley Heath, was charged with having, on the 10th inst, unlawfully permitted gambling in his house. Mr. Addison defended.

Police-constable Daulman deposed that he visited the defendant’s house about seven o’clock on the evening in question, and there he saw four men playing at dominoes. At the conclusion of the game one of the men said, ‘We have lost,’ and paid the landlady for some ale which stood on the table.

The defence was that neither the landlord nor the landlady knew anything of the matter.

Defendant was fined 2s 6d and costs.”

County Advertiser 5/8/1865 - Advert

“TRUE BRITON INN, Cradley Heath.

To be Let, with immediate possession, the above well-accustomed House. It is situate close to a Mill, Forge, and large Chain and Brick Works, and is certain to command a large trade. Rent low. Coming-in about £30. Present proprietor is retiring. Apply to Mr. Chandler, Auctioneer and Valuer, Cradley Heath.”

County Advertiser 11/11/1865 - Advert

“TRUE BRITON INN, Newtown, Cradley Heath.

Coopers’ Made Casks, Tumps of Hops, Furniture, &c.

Mr. Chandler will Sell by Auction, on Monday Next, November 13th, 1865, at Eleven o’clock, the seasoned Coopers’ made Casks, Furniture, &c, including Hogshead, Six Half-hogshead, several Thirty-six Gallon and smaller Ale Casks, in good condition; Eight-strike Mash Tub, Oval and Round Coolers and Tubs, Four Cross-legged Drinking Tables, Strong Rail-back Seats and Forms, Set of Pewter Ale Measures, Ten Iron Spittoons, Two Tumps of prime Worcester Hops, 1864; Signboard, large Mastlin Kettle, Mahogany Centre and Oak Two-leaf Dining Tables, excellent Mahogany Sofa, with carved back, and seated in hair; Mahogany Chest of Drawers, capital Oak Linen Chest, with extra drawers; Eight-day Spring Clock, strong Wheelbarrow, and other useful Effects, at the TRUE BRITON INN, Newtown, Cradley Heath, being surplus Stock not taken to by in-coming Tenant.”

TWO FURNACES

107, (45), Powke Lane, (Dog Lane), OLD HILL

OWNERS

Burton Brewery Co. Ltd.

Ind Coope and Allsopp Ltd.

LICENSEES

Mary Edge [1861] – [1865]

Prudence Pugh [1871] – [1875]

Joseph Williams [] – 1876);

John Tunley (1876 – 1877);

Albert Nicholls* (1877 – []

Albert Nicklin* [1877]
Alfred Nicklin* [] – 1878);
Edward Millington (1878– 1879);
William Perry (1879 – 1880);
George Pearson (1880 – [1882]
Joseph Foley [1883] – [1889]
Philip Chatwin [1891] – [1896]
Dick Chambers [1901]
William Smith [1905] – 1912);
Mrs. Elizabeth Smith (1912 – 1924);
Charles Thomas Smith (1924 – 1926);
Mrs. Elizabeth Smith (1926 – 1928):

NOTES

Dog Lane [1861]
45, Powke Lane [1881], [1891], [1905], [1907], [1908], [1911], [1912]
107, Powke Lane [1924]

1861 Census

Dog Lane

- [1] Mary Edge (73), widow, mother, licensed victualler, born Cradley;
- [2] Thomas Pugh (28), son-in-law, furnaceman, born Rednall, Worcestershire;
- [3] Prudence Pugh (38), wife, born Rowley;
- [4] Joseph Williams (14), grandson, engine smith, born Rowley;
- [5] Richard Pugh (1), son, born Rowley:

County Advertiser 15/4/1865

“On Wednesday Mr. Edwin Hooper, Coroner, held an inquest on the body of William [sic] Pugh, a boat unloader, whose body was found in Barrs basin on the canal, on Monday morning, by William Southall, a boatman, who was passing along the bank. The evidence was to the effect that on Saturday, the 18th of March last, the deceased was living with his wife at the TWO FURNACES public house, Old Hill. He went home about half-past ten o’clock, and said he had not got any money. His wife said to him that he ought to give up the calling he followed, and try to get something better. He went out saying that he would make ‘a hole in the water’ and from that time till Monday morning, when Southall discovered his dead body in the canal, he was never seen. Of course, when his relations saw that he did not return within a reasonable time, they gave information to the police. The canal was dragged; but without any result. The body had sunk into a quantity of silt which had collected at the place where it was found, and it only rose to the surface after the process of decay had been considerably advanced. The body was in an upright position when found by Southall, and the spot where he discovered it was quite close to the residence of the deceased. Five shillings and sixpence in money, besides some keys and three pocket-books, were found in the pockets of the deceased’s clothes. There was no suspicion that the deceased had met with foul play.

Evidence was given to show that his manner was sometimes strange, and that he had once gone away from his wife, and remained away for a long time without communicating with her. He was in a sick club, and his wife would receive £10, unless it could be shown that he had committed suicide. The jury found that the deceased had been found drowned in the canal; but how he got there there was no evidence to show.”

AND

Staffordshire Advertiser 15/4/1865

“Mr. Hooper, coroner, held an inquest at Rowley, on Wednesday, on the body of Thomas Pugh, aged 32 A verdict of Found Drowned was returned.”

1871 Census

Powke Lane – THREE [sic] FURNACES

- [1] Prudence Pugh (48), widow, licensed victualler, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Richard Pugh (11), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] William Pugh (8), son, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Joseph Williams (24), boarder, engine tender, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Mary Williams (30), boarder, born Kingswinford;
- [6] Louise Southall (22), domestic servant, born Rowley Regis:

County Advertiser 13/3/1875

“Prudence Pugh, landlady of the TWO FURNACES public house, Old Hill, was charged with having, on the 5th inst, permitted drunkenness on her premises. Mr. Addison appeared for the defendant.

A man named John Bladen stated that on the above date he was at the defendant’s house, in company with two other men named Wylde and Sifford. They were supplied with seven quarts of ale, in which was a quantity of rum. He left Sifford in the house,

‘not drunk, but intoxicated.’ In answer to the Bench, witness said he did not think a man drunk unless ‘he went to the pump to light his pipe.’

William Wylde said he was at the defendant’s house on the night in question. Sifford was not intoxicated when witness left. Mrs. Pugh, however, asked Sifford to leave.

Benjamin Plant said that when the man Sifford left the house he was ‘topicated’ a little.

Police-constable Kettle said that when he served the summons the defendant said that Sifford was no worse than the other men.

Her son said it was the rum and ale which had made them drunk.

Mr. Addison having addressed the Bench, called the defendant, who said that the ale supplied to the men was but five quarts, with three quarters of rum. The men were all sober when they entered her house. On seeing that Sifford had had sufficient, she asked him to leave, and he did so immediately. The case was withdrawn on the payment of costs.”

County Advertiser 2/10/1875

“Adjourned Licensing Sessions.....

The following publicans who had been convicted during the year having been cautioned had their licenses renewed.....

Prudence Pugh, TWO FURNACES, Powke Lane.”

County Advertiser 30/9/1876

“Joseph Williams was charged with permitting drunkenness in his house, the TWO FURNACES INN, Old Hill. Mr. Hayes defended.

Police-constable Kettle said that on the night of the 21st inst the defendant came to the Police Station in a drunken condition, and asked that an officer might be sent to his house. Shortly afterwards witness and Police-constable Sylvester went to the house and found the defendant’s brother asleep in bed, very drunk. The defendant’s wife was also drunk.

In cross-examination the witness said that the reason he thought defendant’s brother was drunk was because he could not awake him.

The Bench considered there was no case, and dismissed it.

The above defendant, his wife (Mary Williams), and his brother (Richard Williams), were then charged with having been drunk on the licensed premises of the former. The facts were as above stated. The Bench dismissed all the summonses.”

John Tunley = John Tonley

County Advertiser 4/8/1877

“An interim transfer of the license of the TWO FURNACES INN, Old Hill, was allowed from John Tonley to Albert Nicholls.”

County Express 25/8/1877

“After the business of the Petty Sessions had been disposed of the Annual Licensing Sessions were held. The Black List was first called on, and it appeared that the following were the publicans who had been convicted of offences against the Licensing Laws during the past year.....

Albert Nicklin, TWO FURNACES, Old Hill.....

License renewed with a caution from the Magistrates.”

* possibly the same person

County Advertiser 16/11/1878

“Richard [sic] Millington, publican, was charged with unlawfully permitting drunkenness on his premises on the 4th inst. Mr. Hayes defended.

Police-constable Farnell stated that at a quarter past seven on the night of the 4th inst he visited the defendant’s house, TWO FURNACES, Powke Lane, Old Hill, and found a man leaning with his head down on a table in one of the rooms. The defendant was present, and he called his attention to the man whom they tried to get up. He was unable to stand, and had to hold the counter for support. Witness left after the landlord said he knew nothing about him; but returning subsequently found the man still standing at the counter. Witness had to help him away.

Mr. Hayes, in defence, called Mr. Millington, who said that when the man found by the policeman came into his house he had no appearance of being tipsy, and witness supplied him with a bottle of ginger beer. Directly afterwards the officer came in and called his (witness’s) attention to the man, on which witness told him he must leave. He refused to do so on the ground that he was sober, but left on witness telling him he would have to be ejected. He was not in the house more than ten minutes or so.

Cross-examined by Mr. Woollaston, defendant affirmed that he looked at the clock when the man entered and also when the policeman came in.

Mr. Hayes called other witnesses, and the magistrates, after hearing them, said they should not convict, although they entirely believed the officer as to the man being drunk, and also thought the landlord blameable for allowing him to stay on his premises. It was not proved, however, that he was supplied with anything intoxicating, and the case would therefore be dismissed.

John Devill was then charged with being drunk, and was fined 2s 6d and costs.”

Dudley Herald 11/9/1880 - Advert

“Freehold Old-Licensed Inn and Dwelling Houses, Powke Lane, Rowley Regis, Staffordshire.

Mr. H. King is instructed to Sell by Auction, on Monday, October 4th, 1880, at the TWO FURNACES INN, Powke Lane, at Six o'clock in the Evening, subject to conditions then to be produced.

All that well-accustomed Old-licensed Freehold Public House, the TWO FURNACES INN, with extensive Stabling, large Yard, and Premises, now in the occupation of Mr. George Pearson, at the very low rental of £20 per annum; and also the Four Dwelling Houses adjoining, with Four Brewhouses and Appurtenances thereto, occupied by Morton, Cash, Matthews, and Owen, producing per annum £30 14s.

The Property is situate in Powke Lane, having a long frontage thereto, adjoining Messrs. Hingley's Furnaces, the new works in course of erection, and opposite Messrs. Lowe's timber yard, and is well supplied with Hard and Soft Water.

The Public House being situate in the immediate vicinity of several large chain, anchor, and brickworks, is doing an excellent trade, which may be readily increased, as it is, with one exception, the only Old-licensed Inn within a radius of a quarter of a mile. The area of the property being 3,712 square yards, extending to the Birmingham Canal, with a good frontage to Powke Lane. The spare land is available for the erection of a small work or additional dwelling houses.

The Mines and Minerals are reserved.

For particulars and plan, apply to Mr. John Wright, Solicitor, Cradley Heath; or to the Auctioneer, Stourbridge."

1881 Census

45, Powke Lane – THREE [sic] FURNACES

[1] George Pearson (49), licensed victualler, born Brierley Hill;

[2] Jane Pearson (48), wife, born Worcester;

[3] Elisa E. Sanders (2), visitor, born Birmingham:

Dudley and District News 10/12/1881

"George Pearson, landlord of the TWO FURNACES INN, Old Hill, was charged with permitting drunkenness on his licensed premises. Mr. Cooksey defended.

On the previous Saturday night PCs Rowlands and Walkeden found in the defendant's liquor shop two men alleged to be drunk. Defendant, in the officers' presence, led one of the men out by the back door. When the officers returned to the house ten minutes later, defendant was in the act of leading the other man out. He was afterwards found sitting down in the brewhouse.

Witnesses for the defence were called to prove that one of the men, admitted to be drunk, had not been supplied with anything in defendant's house, and that the second man was not drunk, although he had had some beer.

The Bench considered the case proved, and fined defendant 40s and costs."

County Advertiser 17/12/1881

"Thomas Bryant, miner, and William Newnam, horse fletcher, both of Old Hill, were charged with being drunk on the licensed premises of George Pearson, TWO FURNACES INN, Old Hill, on the 3rd inst. Police-constable Rowlands gave evidence in support of the charge. It was stated that Bryant had been before the Court on three previous occasions during the present year. The Bench fined him 10s and costs; in default, twenty-one days. Newnam was fined 2s 6d and costs; in default, seven days."

Dudley and District News 2/9/1882

"Old Hill annual Brewster Sessions were held at the Police Court on Wednesday.....

The following is the black list, and in each of the cases the licenses were suspended till the adjourned licensing meeting.....

George Pearson, TWO FURNACES, Powke Lane, Old Hill, permitting drunkenness, fined 40s and costs."

Dudley and District News 30/9/1882

"This being the Old Hill adjourned licensing sessions the Bench granted a renewal of the licenses which were suspended at the last annual general sessions. The Chairman stated that the magistrates had very carefully considered each case, and they had decided to renew the licenses on the understanding that some assurance was given on the part of each defaulter, that their respective houses should be better conducted in the future. The Bench were determined that the law should be enforced, and if the defendants were guilty of any further offence against the Licensing Laws they would be severely punished and their licenses forfeited. The Chairman added that Henry Heath, who was convicted for selling ale during prohibited hours on Sunday, was now taking out a six days' license instead of a seven days', and his license was renewed on that condition; and if any of the others wished to have six days' licenses the Bench would be pleased to grant them."

Dudley and District News 1/9/1883

"Old Hill Annual Licensing Sessions.

Inspector Walters, in his annual report, stated that there were in the division 93 full-licensed houses, 49 beerhouses, 19 off-licenses, four wine and spirit licenses, and 10 houses licensed to sell refreshments. Since last licensing meeting there had been 16 transfers, and two licensed victuallers had been proceeded against for offences against the Licensing Act. One was fined 10s and cost for permitting drunkenness, and the other was ordered to pay costs for being drunk on his own premises. During the year, 157 males and five females had been proceeded against for drunkenness. Of these 159 were convicted, being a decrease of 36 compared with the previous year.

Joseph Brown, landlord of the MINERS ARMS, Tividale, and Joseph Foley, of the TWO FURNACES INN, Old Hill, whose names appeared in the blacklist, were called before the Bench and cautioned, and their licenses were renewed. There were no applications for fresh licenses or transfers."

Birmingham Daily Post 6/2/1886 - Advert

“Girl (good) Wanted, about 18 years of age, as General Servant.
Apply, Mrs. J. Foley, TWO FURNACES INN, Old Hill, near Dudley.”

County Advertiser 6/3/1886

“Joseph Foley, landlord of the TWO FURNACES INN, Old Hill, was charged with stealing 19s 9½d belonging to David Edmonde, cable chain maker. Mr. J. Wright defended.
Complainant’s evidence was that on Saturday night he went to defendant’s house and ordered a pint of ale, tendering a sovereign in payment. Defendant refused to give him the change, but gave him a receipt to the effect that the money had been received in part payment of an account of £2 which was owing on a drink score for ale consumed on the premises.
Mr. Wright admitted that his client had acted illegally in retaining the change, but had no intention of committing a felony. The Bench said defendant had acted illegally, but that they would allow the case to be withdrawn on defendant returning the change and paying the costs.
Case withdrawn.”

County Advertiser 23/2/1889

“Joseph Foley and Mary Foley, landlord and landlady of the TWO FURNACES INN, Old Hill, were charged with assaulting Frank Hubery, a furnaceman of Mouse Sweet Brook, on Saturday night. Mr. Thompson (Messrs. Warmington and Thompson, Dudley) prosecuted.
Shortly before ten o’clock complainant was in defendant’s house, along with some companions, and made some remark about Foley’s wife, whereupon defendants struck him, knocking him down, and, according to evidence called by complainant, defendant Joseph Foley also kicked him.
Inspector Walters said complainant came to the police station on the night of the assault, and appeared to have been badly assaulted.
Joseph Foley said he considered that defendant’s remark was an insult to his wife, and he (defendant) was in a passion when he assaulted complainant.
Mr. Hingley said it was certainly not a polite expression that complainant made use of, but people in public houses did say such things, and it did not justify the defendants in the assault they had committed. They considered the assault a brutal one, and fined the male defendant £1 and costs, and Mrs. Foley 10s and costs.”

1891 Census

45, Powke Lane
[1] P. Chatwin (41), licensed victualler, born Halesowen;
[2] Sarah Chatwin (37), wife, born Halesowen;
[3] Bertha Chatwin (7), niece, scholar, born Halesowen;
[4] William Partridge (30), boarder, general labourer, born Halesowen:

County Advertiser 22/12/1894

“Philip Chatwin, landlord of the TWO FURNACES INN, Powke Lane, Old Hill, was charged with permitting gaming on his licensed premises on the 10th inst. Mr. Wm. Waldron prosecuted on behalf of the police, and Mr. Foster, of Sedgley, appeared for defendant.
The evidence showed that Police-constable Rixson, disguised as a labourer, visited defendant’s house about 8.40pm. Upon going into the bar he saw thirteen men playing ‘tippet.’ When the game was ended, a quart of beer was ordered, and those who had lost paid for it. A game of ‘threes and fives’ was played, and more beer supplied, for which the losers paid. The landlord was present all the time, and could see perfectly well what was going on.
Mr. Foster pleaded guilty on behalf of the defendant, and urged in extenuation of the offence, that he had hitherto borne a most exemplary character. He had conducted the house for fourteen [sic] years, and during that time had not had a single complaint against the house. Inspector Raybould also informed him that defendant had conducted a house at Halesowen in a very satisfactory way. In view of these facts, and that the games were harmless and innocent in themselves, he asked the Bench to take a lenient view of the case.
Mr. Bassano said it was the principle of the thing they looked at more than the thing itself. Gaming was gaming, and must be put down. In consideration of defendant’s excellent character, however, they should only fine him 40s and costs.”

County Advertiser 23/3/1895 - Advert

“Highly Important Sale by Auction of Valuable Licensed Properties, at Old Hill.
Alfred W. Dando has received instructions from W. J. Hipwood, Esq, the Trustee under a Deed of Assignment for the benefit of Creditors, to Sell by Auction, at the QUEENS HEAD INN, Old Hill, on Tuesday, March 5th, 1895, at Seven o’clock in the Evening, subject to Conditions of Sale then to be produced, as follows.
Lot 1. All that Exceedingly-important Old-Established, Fully-Licensed Premises, known as the TWO FURNACES INN, Powke Lane, Old Hill, containing Smoke, Tap, and Sitting Rooms, Bar, Club Room, Three Bed Rooms, with spacious, dry Cellars, Stabling, Pigsties, and other Outbuildings in Yard; in the occupation of Mr. Beach, and his under-tenant, at the nominal rental of £28 per annum. Also adjoining are Four Well-built Dwelling Houses, in first-class tenantable order and repair, being Nos.41 to 44, Powke Lane; well supplied with Water, and having pleasant Gardens at rear, always well let, and now in the occupation of Matthews, Neat, and others, at rentals amounting to £32 12s 2d, the tenants paying water rate.
The TWO FURNACES is one of the best-known Houses in the Old Hill district, being in close proximity to several very extensive

Works, and must always command a large and extensive Trade. The Auctioneer invites the particular attention of Brewers and others to this House, as it is seldom so genuine a Property is in the market.....

Further particulars may be obtained of W. J. Hipwood, Esq, Chartered Accountant, 21, Lichfield Street, Wolverhampton; of S. Goodman, Esq, Solicitor, Halesowen; of Frank Deeley, Esq, Solicitor, or of the Auctioneer, both of Dudley.”

Birmingham Daily Post 26/9/1895

“The Old Hill adjourned annual Licensing Sessions were held yesterday. Mr. Waldron applied for a renewal of the licenses to Philip Chatwin which were adjourned from the annual licensing day. Mr. Bassano asked how the houses had been conducted in the meantime, and Inspector Given replied that everything had been satisfactory. The licenses were renewed.”

Philip Chatwin – see also VICTORIA.

1901 Census

Powke Lane

[1] Dick Chambers (33), licensed victualler, born Dudley;

[2] Elizabeth Chambers (27), sister, house keeper, born Dudley:

County Advertiser 7/3/1903

“Yesterday morning Mr. H. A. Pearson (coroner) held an inquest at the TWO FURNACES INN, Powke Lane, Old Hill, on the body of Mary Bramley (89), a widow, of Powke Lane, who had died from the effects of a fall. On going to bed she fell downstairs on the 23rd ult, and died from shock on the 4th inst. A verdict of Accidental Death was returned.”

St. Giles, Rowley - Parish Register - Baptisms

2nd April 1905 - Ada (b. 9/3/1905), daughter of William and Elizabeth Smith, publican, 45, Powke Lane.

22nd May 1907 - Adelaide Elizabeth (b. 29/4/1907), daughter of William and Elizabeth Smith, publican, 45, Powke Lane.

County Advertiser 16/3/1907

“A dinner in connection with the Old Hill Ironworks Brass Band was held on Saturday night at the TWO FURNACES INN, Powke Lane. A good company sat down to dinner, after which the chair was occupied by Mr. W. Neale. A capital musical programme was rendered.”

County Express 18/6/1910

“On Saturday evening, in connection with the money club at the TWO FURNACES INN, a supper was held, to which between 20 and 30 people assembled. Afterwards a most enjoyable evening was spent, Messrs. J. Head (bass), J. Stevens, Shaw, Round, and Cooper contributing to the entertainment. The features of the evening were the songs of Mr. Head, who rendered admirably ‘The wolf,’ ‘Asleep in the deep,’ ‘Anchored,’ and ‘The Flight of Ages.’”

1911 Census

45, Powke Lane

[1] William Smith (39), licensed victualler, born Tipton;

[2] Elizabeth Smith (39), wife, married 9 years, assisting in the business, born Rowley Regis;

[3] Sarah Smith (9), daughter, born Rowley Regis;

[4] Ada Smith (6), daughter, born Rowley Regis;

[5] Adelina Smith (3), daughter, born Rowley Regis;

[6] Martha Smith (1), daughter, born Rowley Regis:

County Express 9/3/1912

“The adjourned licensing sessions for Old Hill Petty Sessional Division were held on Wednesday, at the police court.....

The following licenses were transferred.....

TWO FURNACES INN, Powke Lane, Old Hill, from William Smith (deceased) to Elizabeth Smith.”

 possibly the same person

Dudley Chronicle 16/2/1928

“Annual Licensing Sessions for Rowley Regis.....

They had all the applications for renewals before them, and they had given consideration to them with a view to reducing their number. They had decided to defer until the adjourned licensing day the licenses of.....

TWO FURNACES, Old Hill, on the ground of redundancy.”

The license renewal was referred to the Compensation Authority, on 7th March 1928, on the grounds of redundancy.

Staffordshire Advertiser 21/7/1928

“The principal meeting of the Licensing Compensation Authority for the county was held at the Shirehall, Stafford, on Monday, when 14 licences which had been scheduled by the licensing justices, mostly from the South Staffordshire area, came under consideration. Of these three were renewed and the remainder were referred for compensation.....

The licence of the TWO FURNACES, an alehouse at Old Hill (licensee Elizabeth Smith) was referred for compensation.”

Staffordshire Advertiser 4/8/1928 - Notice

“The Licensing (Consolidation) Act, 1910. County Of Stafford.

Notice Is Hereby Given, that the Compensation Authority for the above area, having decided at their Principal Meeting, held on the 16th day of July, 1928, to Refuse the Renewal of the Licenses of the Premises specified below, all persons claiming to be interested in the said premises for the purpose of the payment of Compensation under the said Act (other than the Licensee, and the Registered Owner of the said Premises) are required to send to the Compensation Authority notice of their Claims before the 14th day of September, 1928, for the purpose of enabling the Compensation Authority to ascertain in manner provided by the Licensing Rules, 1910, the persons entitled to Compensation under the said Act in respect of the said Premises.....

TWO FURNACES, Powke Lane, Old Hill. Alehouse. Licensee, Elizabeth Smith. Registered Owners, Ind Coope & Co. Ltd.”

Compensation was paid on 22nd December 1928.

House closed on 29th December 1928.

Staffordshire Advertiser 5/1/1929

“County Quarter Sessions. Licensing Compensation Awards.

At the Supplemental meeting the committee awarded a total sum of £15,230 in compensation, and considered that the amounts agreed upon were satisfactory both from the point of view of the parties interested and the Compensation Fund. The amounts approved were as follows.....

TWO FURNACES, Old Hill, alehouse, £1,425.

The amounts awarded had been apportioned between the interested parties and paid.”

VICTORIA

Victoria Terrace, CRADLEY HEATH

OWNERS

LICENSEES

Elijah Jones [1841] – [1842]

Elijah Hill [1876]

NOTES

Dudley Herald 17/6/1876

“William Guest and David Robinson, miners, Lomey Town, Cradley Heath, were charged with stealing a silver Geneva watch and various other articles, the property of Elijah Hill, landlord of the VICTORIA INN, Cradley Heath, on the 12th inst.

Prosecutor having identified the articles as his property, called his wife who stated that at about 12 o'clock on the day in question the two prisoners went to her house, and having drunk three pints of ale left. They remained in the kitchen about half-an-hour, and during that time one of them must have gone up into her bedroom and took the watch and some money which she saw safe about ten minutes before the prisoners entered her house. She missed some money from the bedroom about two o'clock, but did not miss the watch until five o'clock.

Inspector Mapp stated that at about six o'clock in the evening of the same date he saw the prisoners looking at a ring in King Street. He watched them and followed them up the long entry, after which Guest went into Mr. Hannay's shop, and when he came out he (witness) went and asked Miss Hannay what Guest had pledged. Upon receiving her reply he followed the prisoners into the HEN AND CHICKENS INN, New Street, where he apprehended them, giving Robinson into the charge of PC Lake. Upon searching the prisoners at the station he found the chain, guard, and money upon them, each of them having 7s 6d in money in their pockets.

Martha Hannay stated that she lent Guest 15s upon the watch, produced.

The prisoners were committed for trial, Mr. Bagott observing there was some degree of credit attached to the police for their conduct in the matter.”

[At the Worcester Midsummer Quarter Sessions they were found guilty and sentenced to twelve months' hard labour with five years' police supervision. They had been previously convicted.]

VICTORIA

132, (44), (32), (30), Halesowen Road, OLD HILL

OWNERS

James Holcroft [1897]

John Rolinson and Son Ltd. (acquired on 28th September 1897 for £1,700) [1909]

Wolverhampton and Dudley Breweries Ltd.

LICENSEES

Mrs. Mary Stokes [1841] – [1849]

Mrs. Mary Talbot [1848] – 1867);

John Parkes (1867 – [1868]

William Robinson [1871] – 1873);

Enoch Morris* (1873 – []

Edward Morris* [] – 1879);

Sarah Morris (1879 – [1884]

Jonah Round [1889]

Mrs. Ellen Cartwright [1890] – [1897]

Philip Chatwin [1900] – 1903);

Sarah Chatwin [1903]

James Pearson (1903 – 1923);

James Johnson (1923 – 1926);

George Henry Smith (1926 – 1927);

Frederick 'Fred' Crumpton (1927 – 1932);

Arthur Owen Hickman (1932 – 1934);

John Samuel Walter Sidney Foley (1934 – 1936);

Jack Hudson (1936 – 1938);

Hugh Anyon Sherratt (1938 – 1941);

Ellen Bedford (1941 – 1945);

Percy Benjamin Hackett (1945 – 1950);

John William Benjamin Hurst (1950 – 1951);

Brian Mulcaster (1951 – 1954);

Frederick Arthur 'Freddie' Phillips (1954 – 1960);

William Harry Slack (1960 – 1961);

Reginald John Craggs (1961 – [1965]

Dave Walker [1983]

Alan Swaine [1993]

Wayne Davies (2002 – []

NOTES

30, Halesowen Road [1881], [1891]

32, Halesowen Road [1896], [1900], [1901]

44, Halesowen Road [1911], [1912], [1916], [1921], [1924], [1932], [1940]

132, Halesowen Road [1990], [2002]

It was originally the PIG AND WHISTLE.

It was known locally as the "Vic".

It had a boxing gym run by Bert Rollason.

Mrs. Mary Stokes, PIG AND WHISTLE, Old Hill. [1849]

Mary Talbot = Mary Talbott

St. Giles, Rowley - Parish Register - Baptisms

31st July 1825 - Benjamin, son of Benjamin and Mary Talbot, victualler, Old Hill.

22nd April 1827 - Mary, daughter of Benjamin and Mary Talbot, victualler, Old Hill.
12th October 1828 - Sarah, daughter of Benjamin and Mary Talbot, victualler, Old Hill.
9th April 1831 - Elizabeth, daughter of Benjamin and Mary Talbot, victualler, Old Hill.
28th April 1833 - William, son of Benjamin and Mary Talbot, victualler, Old Hill.

Wolverhampton Chronicle 6/9/1848

“On Monday, before the sitting magistrates, T. Badger, C. Cartwright, and J. Roberts, Esqs, two young men named Thomas Hackett (nailer) and David Ridley (collier) were charged with setting fire to a hay rick at Old Hill, in the parish of Rowley, the property of Mrs. Talbot, of the PIG AND WHISTLE, on the night of Wednesday last, the 30th ult.

Mrs. Talbot was first examined, but her evidence was not important.

William Talbot, son of the prosecutrix, deposed that he saw the rick safe about eight o'clock in the evening of Wednesday last, and about a quarter to twelve o'clock the same night he was called out of bed in consequence of the rick having been discovered to be on fire. He immediately got up and assisted in extinguishing the flames, which was accomplished in about an hour, and after about 10cwt of hay had been destroyed. On Monday, the 28th ult (two days previous to the fire) the witness stated that the two prisoners were at his mother's public house, where he played with them at a game called 'pitch and rattle,' and on that occasion he had some angry words with them about a leg of mutton, which it appeared had been stolen about six weeks before from witness's mother's house. The prisoner Ridley observed to witness, 'It shall be above £20 out of your road,' to which the other prisoner, Hackett, immediately added, 'Yes, I'll go to hell if it shan't.' This was said about midday on Monday. The prisoners, it appeared, lived next door to each other, at a distance of about sixty yards from the rick. The prisoner Hackett lodged with a nailer named Daniel Smart, and the other prisoner, Ridley, with a man named Abel Siviter. The prisoners did not assist in putting out the fire, and some time after the fire was extinguished Daniel Smart and his wife passed witness's house, crying out, 'Talbot's rick's on fire.' Witness saw Hackett come out of Smart's house about four o'clock in the morning of Thursday, he had neither shoes nor stockings on, and he then asked him how it was he did not render assistance to put out the fire, to which he made no reply. In about half an hour afterwards witness saw Ridley on the foot road near the rick, but he said nothing to him about the fire. There were footmarks in the direction of the rick from a gap in the hedge near to Smart's house. The rick was thatched about six weeks ago; it was of good hay, and did not fire spontaneously; there were three several places where the rick had been fired.

By the Bench: The prisoners and witness were often differing.

John Joynson, sub-inspector of police, said he was on duty at Old Hill about eleven o'clock on the night in question, and the rick then seemed perfectly safe; about four o'clock in the morning witness was again at Old Hill, when he observed the rick had been on fire; he was satisfied that the rick had been wilfully set fire to in three several places. Witness traced footsteps to the gap near Smart's house, but could not trace them further. About seven o'clock the same morning he saw the prisoners at Smart's house, and examined the soles of their shoes, which were wet, but the upper leathers were dry. Witness did not say anything to them about the fire.

Police-constable Shuker deposed to seeing the rick on fire in company with another officer named Wakefield, about a quarter to twelve on Wednesday night; there were two or three persons at the rick at that time, but witness did not know them, and could not tell them again. Young Talbot came up immediately after witness reached the spot. Witness went with Talbot to Smart's house, the door was shut, when Talbot looked through the window and said the two prisoners (mentioning their names) were sitting by the fire. Witness did not look through the window himself. Talbot said he suspected the two prisoners.

Talbot was recalled by the Bench and denied telling the police officer that he saw the prisoners through the window sitting by the fire as stated by him, when the Magistrates remarked that they were fearful that he (Talbot) had suppressed a portion of his evidence, and even that which he had given differed from the information received in the first instance on oath before the Magistrates.

Mrs. Talbot, the prosecutrix, stated that she was a widow and had been robbed many times, and she was afraid if she pressed the present charge that some further mischief or injury would be done to her.

Mr. Shipman, for the defence, called Daniel Smart, and proved that the prisoner Hackett went to bed about half-past nine o'clock on the night in question, and did not get up till wakened by him about four o'clock the following morning, at which time witness saw young Talbot and first heard of the fire. Talbot then said the prisoners had set the rick on fire.

Abel Siviter, with whom the other prisoner Ridley, lodged, likewise proved that Ridley went to bed about a quarter past nine o'clock on the Wednesday night, and got up about twelve o'clock, having been wakened by witness, who stated he was rapped up in consequence of the fire.

The Bench remarked that it was a case of very strong suspicion, and remanded the prisoners till Thursday next.”

Worcestershire Chronicle 3/10/1849

“Mary Talbot, of the PIG AND WHISTLE, Old Hill, in the parish of Rowley, was fined 5s and costs for keeping her house open for the sale of liquors during divine service in the afternoon of Sunday, the 16th ult. The police stated that the house was generally well conducted.”

1851 Census

Old Hill

- [1] Mary Talbott (57), widow, innkeeper, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Benjamin Talbott (25), son, corn and flour dealer, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] Mary Talbott (23), daughter, housemaid, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Sarah Talbott (21), daughter, housemaid, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Elizabeth Talbott (20), daughter, housemaid, born Rowley Regis;

[6] William Talbott (18), son, general labourer, born Rowley Regis;

[7] William Danks (7), grand-son, born Rowley Regis:

Bells Life in London and Sporting Chronicle 2/10/1853

“Edmunds and Malpass. We have received a further deposit of £2 10s a side for this match. The next is to be forwarded by Lucy Talbot, of the PIG AND WHISTLE, Old Hill, on Tuesday next.”

Bells Life in London and Sporting Chronicle 1/4/1855

“W. Talbot of the Angel and Trumpet, Old Hill, Rowley Regis (commonly called the Infant) will accept H. Aston’s challenge to run any man within 10 miles of Kingswinford, of 16 stone weight, 10 yards, for £5 a side. Money always ready at the PIG AND WHISTLE, Old Hill, Rowley.”

County Advertiser 25/6/1859 - Advert

“Valuable Freehold Building Land, part of the Pig and Whistle Estate, at Old Hill, in the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford.

To be Sold by Auction, by Mr. Bateman, on Wednesday, the 29th day of June, 1859, at Six o’clock in the Evening, at the house of Mrs. Talbot, the PIG AND WHISLE INN, at Old Hill, aforesaid, (and subject to conditions then to be produced).

Twenty Lots of very valuable Freehold Building Land, situate at Old Hill, in the Parish of Rowley Regis, being part of the Pig and Whistle Estate, having excellent frontages to the Dudley, Halesowen, and Bromsgrove Turnpike Roads, and varying in quantity from 200 to 500 square yards in each lot.

Lithographed plans and particulars will be distributed ten days prior to the sale, and may be had with any further information, from Messrs. W. & Brooke Robinson, Solicitors; or the Auctioneer, Dudley; and at the place of sale.”

County Advertiser 28/7/1860

“Joseph Crompton was charged with stealing a sovereign, the property of Enoch Westwood, on the 18th instant. The prosecutor stated that on the night in question he was in the PIG AND WHISTLE public house, at Old Hill, in company with the prisoner, Richard Taylor, and another man whom he did not know. The prisoner commenced ‘to chaff’ him that he could not show a sovereign; upon which he put his hand in his pocket and pulled one out. He was about to lay it on the table, when the prisoner snatched it out of his hand, and put it into his mouth. He (prosecutor) at once seized him by the collar, and thrust his finger into his mouth for the purpose of recovering the coin, but was glad to withdraw his digit without accomplishing his end, in consequence of the prisoner biting hard. He at once sent for a police-constable, and in the interim a search was made about the room for the sovereign, as the prisoner denied he had it. A man named Henry Pugh came to him last night, telling him that the prisoner would give him back the sovereign if he would not press the case.

Richard Taylor was called, and told a story substantially the same as the above.

Police-constable Farmer stated that he went to the public house about ten o’clock, and took the prisoner into custody. He searched him and found four half-crowns upon him and 2½d. He denied having the sovereign, and said that Taylor had taken some money from him, and he must have it. Witness had at the same time searched Taylor, but found only two shillings in his hand, which he admitted taking from the prisoner.

The prisoner, through his attorney, Mr. Burbury, denied having possession of the sovereign, and also that he had deputed any one to offer condonation to the prosecutor. The case was adjourned till next week, for the purpose of getting Pugh’s evidence.”

[At the adjourned hearing Henry Pugh said that he had gone to Westwood on his own account and made him the offer simply from a feeling of friendship to the prisoner. The case was dismissed.]

1861 Census

Old Hill – PIG AND WHISTLE

[1] Mary Talbott (68), widow, born Rowley;

[2] Benjamin Talbott (36), son, corn dealer, born Rowley;

[3] William Talbott (29), son, corn dealer, born Rowley;

[4] Mary A. Danks (18), grand-daughter, servant, born Rowley:

County Advertiser 25/8/1866

“At the Police Court, on Wednesday, Enoch Chambley, who some years ago was stationmaster at Brettell Lane, was brought up charged with stealing a silver watch, the property of Mary Talbot, of the PIG AND WHISTLE public house, Old Hill.

It appeared from the evidence brought forward that on Monday night the prisoner asked to be accommodated with a bed at the public house, and that early next morning he decamped without paying for the same. This excited some suspicion, and on a search of the room being made, it was discovered that one of two watches which had been placed in the looking-glass draw was missing. No one besides the prisoner had been in the room since the previous Friday. Prisoner returned to the neighbourhood of the public house about mid-day, and was at once taken into custody. He denied all knowledge of the watch. The police asked for a remand for a week, in order that a search for the watch might be instituted. The Bench granted the application, at the same time expressing their willingness to accept substantial bail.”

[At the adjourned hearing no evidence was offered and the prisoner was discharged – see below.]

County Advertiser 1/9/1866 - Letter

“To the Editor, of the Advertiser.

Sir, I wish to lay before your numerous readers the particulars of a case reported in your impression of Saturday last. The facts are as follow. On Monday evening, the 20th ult, being in the neighbourhood of Old Hill, in the parish of Rowley, I called at the house of Mary Talbot, sign of the PIG AND WHISTLE, and got a night's lodging. The next morning when I got up I saw a man sitting in the house, who, I believe, is the brewer. I asked for a glass of something to drink. He then went upstairs, I suppose either to get the mistress up as well as down stairs; but being some time away I went to another public house, in the same street, kept by a person named Morgan. I stopped there some time, and then walked as far as the National Schools, Netherton, with one of her daughters, who is a pupil teacher there, and whom I found to be very intelligent. I then retraced my steps towards where I had lodged, for I had not paid the 6d, the landlady, as I said before, not being up. I called at Mrs. Cooksey's, who keeps the HOTEL at Old Hill, and had a bit of dinner. Mrs. Cooksey's house adjoins the Police Station. I then went to find the house where I had slept, but missed it, and went to the next house. I had not been there long before I was rather roughly handled by a police officer, who collared me, his knuckles coming rather closer in contact with my ears than was pleasant, and dragged me to the police station, and locked me up. I then asked what offence I was charged with. He said for stealing a silver watch from Mary Talbot, at the PIG AND WHISTLE public house. I told him he was mistaken, quite. Oh no, he said, we know you well. There I was in 'durance vile,' and few can imagine or tell what my feelings were. This was on Tuesday, the 21st August, about twelve o'clock, noon. Well, the next day, Wednesday, I was taken from the lock-up before the magistrates, and a young girl produced a box, which I had never seen before, and said she had seen two watches in that box on the Friday previous – mind you, this was on the Wednesday following – and said that no person had been in the room from the said Friday till the Tuesday following. Now, there was not a particle of evidence to connect me with this watch, even if one was really missing, which I don't for a moment believe; but in steps the police (who are always paramount on these occasions), and states that the prisoner was only apprehended yesterday, and they wanted a remand for a week, only to find the property, of which they had no doubt. This was granted, and therefore I had the horrors of another eight days and nights before me on the bare boards.

Well, I wrote to my wife, who came, with my sister, on the Friday to see me; but they were only permitted to converse with me through an aperture of the door about six inches square. I thought this a great hardship, and what was said was obliged to be heard by a policeman. I wrote a letter on the Sunday to my wife, and gave it to the lock-up keeper, who promised to post it; but it never got to its destination (nor has yet even).

On Sunday afternoon my brother came to see me, from Westbromwich; but no conversation could be held without the presence of a policeman. I wrote to my brother on the Monday; but the police officer must read the letter before it went from the station.

On the Tuesday morning previous to the hearing on Wednesday, I had a little information from the police that no evidence would be offered against me the next day. What, said I, no evidence offered against me, after suffering all the discomforts and privations I have been put to? He replied that the watch (if ever lost) was not found; therefore there would be no evidence offered.

Well, the next day I went before the magistrates, and, as is very unusual in Courts of this nature, where assaults and other minor offences come off first, the course was altered on this occasion, and I was ordered merely to stand up and hear the words, 'Prisoner, you are discharged;' and all this after being dragged, shook, incarcerated, lying on bare boards for nine days and eight nights. You are discharged! Well, so much for the liberty of the subject in Old England.

Now, what is it to recompense me for all the inconvenience and uneasiness both to myself and family. I am rather of a stern temperament, and if it had not been for the conscious integrity of innocence, which was my stay and fortress under these trying circumstances, I don't even know what might have been the consequences; I must either have gone a maniac or a lunatic, for it is beyond my power to describe the mental anguish I endured during the time I was in the lock-up, besides inconvenience to wife and family, relations and friends; exposed in police reports to some persons who may see your next edition, ridicule from prejudiced parties, remarks made in the streets as you pass up and down, and other innumerable annoyances I have been subjected to. This demands some further explanation than merely to be discharged from a country lock-up.

However, I have laid the whole case before the Secretary of State for the Home Department, and, on his reply, shall take ulterior proceedings to vindicate my character, and to seek from a Jury of my countrymen those damages which, as an injured and most cruelly-treated person, I am entitled to.

Excuse me trespassing further on your space till next week, when I shall have the Secretary of State's reply, which I will forward as soon as received.

Your respectfully, Enoch Chambley, Wollaston, August 30th, 1866."

Mary Talbot died in the 2nd quarter of 1867.

County Express 10/8/1867

"The following licenses were allowed to be transferred.....

PIG AND WHISTLE from the executors of the late Mrs. Talbot to John Parks."

County Express 12/10/1867

"Maria Round was charged with assaulting John Parkes, on the 2nd instant, at the OLD PIG AND WHISTLE. Complainant said the defendant was coming across his premises for water. He ordered her back and afterwards pushed her, upon which she assaulted him, and pelted him with stones. The defendant said it was a public road and had been used for years, and the complainant had no right to stop her. The case was dismissed."

County Advertiser 18/1/1868

"Joseph Neal was charged with assaulting John Parkes, on the 7th inst. Complainant is landlord of the PIG AND WHISTLE, Old Hill, and on the day in question the defendant went to the house and asked to be supplied with some ale. Complainant refused to let him have any, upon which defendant became very violent, and assaulted the complainant. He also struck the servant girl, and broke a cup and glass. Fined 2s 6d and costs, or fourteen days.

There was a second charge against defendant of maliciously damaging the articles before-mentioned. In this case he was ordered to pay costs.”

County Advertiser 8/2/1868 - Advert

“To Let, with immediate possession, that well-known Old-licensed Public House, the PIG AND WHISTLE, Old Hill, with Two Cottages and about Ten Acres of Land, situate in a densely-populated chain-making district, and fronting the Dudley and Halesowen turnpike road. Coming-in about £60. Rent, £73 per annum.

For particulars, apply on the premises, or to Mr. Hawkins, Auctioneer, Publicans’ Valuer, &c, Brierley Hill and Oldbury.”

Stourbridge Observer 15/2/1868 - Advert

“Unreserved Sale at the PIG AND WHISTLE, Old Hill, Near the Turnpike Gate.

To be Sold by Auction, by Mr. John Stokes, on Monday Next, February 17th, 1868, the Licenses, Goodwill, and Possession of the above-named house, together with the Household Furniture, capital Brewing Plant, Casks, Stock, Cart (nearly new), Four-wheel Phaeton, and other Effects, belonging to Mr. John Parkes (under an authority).

The Licenses, Goodwill, and Possession will be offered for Sale at Twelve o’clock precisely.

The Sale to commence precisely at Eleven o’clock in the Morning.”

County Advertiser 29/5/1869

“Edward Weldon, collier, was charged with stealing a photograph portrait, on the 17th February, 1868, the property of John Parkes. In the early part of last year prosecutor was landlord of the PIG AND WHISTLE public house, and on or about the date named in the charge an execution for rent was put in. While the bailiffs were in possession, the portrait and a few other things were missed. A day or two ago prosecutor obtained a search warrant against the defendant, and found the portrait – which, by the by, was one of the prosecutor – hung up in his house. The Bench dismissed the case, on the ground that when the portrait was lost it was not the prosecutor’s own property.”

1871 Census

Halesowen Road – PIG AND WHISTLE

[1] William Robinson (46), publican, born Wickcoven, Herefordshire;

[2] Betsy Robinson (33), wife, born Yarkhill, Herefordshire;

[3] Alicamlea Gower (16), domestic servant, born Dudley;

[4] Joseph William Harper (3), boarder, born Dudley:

County Advertiser 29/7/1871

“A man named Benjamin Bates was charged with having obtained 30s from William Robinson, landlord of the PIG AND WHISTLE public house, Old Hill.

The prosecutor stated that on the previous Friday night the prisoner and another man went to his house about half-past ten o’clock, and asked if he could be provided with beds for four men and himself, and stabling for four horses. He said he had contracted for the ‘fetching in’ and ‘taking out’ for Mr. Chavasse, brickmaker, Old Hill, and on witness agreeing to accommodate him he stayed at the house. After having had breakfast on the following morning, he said he had to go to a bank at Birmingham and receive £48. As he was about to start he said he had some tonnage to pay on the way, and asked witness to give him half a sovereign’s worth of change. He expected to receive the half sovereign for the silver, but the prisoner went away, saying he would make it right when he returned in the evening. He came back about half-past five the same day and said he had to fetch some hay from Dudley. He then asked witness to lend him 25s more, and the latter lent him £1. Witness would not have advanced him that money had he not said that the men and horses would arrive that night. In consequence of something he heard about two hours after, he went to Mason’s public house, Reddall Hill, and found the prisoner with an empty half-gallon jug before him. He asked him for his money, and upon his doing so prisoner wanted to know what was the matter. Witness then sent for a policeman and gave him into custody.

John Tranter, manager of Mr. Chavasse’s Brick Works, denied all knowledge of prisoner.

Warwick Plant, a fishmonger, said that prisoner rode with him and his father to Birmingham on the 22nd inst. They started about five minutes past six in the morning, and on arriving at Oldbury prisoner purchased two pounds of beefsteak, which they had cooked at a public house. He also supplied them with plenty of ale and porter, and stood treat for the whole fourteen people then in the room. At night witness was with the prisoner at Mason’s public house. Prisoner was standing treat all round. He paid for two gallons of ale, two glasses of brandy, two glasses of whiskey, sixpennyworth of bread and butter, and five bottles of ginger beer.

Sergeant Powner apprehended the prisoner, and upon searching him found 16s 4½d.

Prisoner, who had been convicted twice for a similar offences, was committed for trial to the next Staffordshire Quarter Sessions.”

County Advertiser 21/10/1871

“Staffordshire Quarter Sessions.....

Benjamin Bate (38), boatman, was charged with obtaining by false pretences, from William Robinson, on 22nd July, 1871, the sum of £1 10s, with intent to defraud. Found guilty, and sentenced to six months’ imprisonment.”

County Advertiser 7/12/1872 - Advert

“The PIG AND WHISTLE, Old Hill. To Publicans, Brokers, and Others.

To be Sold by Auction, by Mr. John Bent, on Tuesday, December the 10th, 1872, the whole of the Pubic House Fixtures and Brewing Utensils, comprising excellent Pair of Cooling Vats, 14-bushel Mash Tub, Coolers, well-seasoned Hogshead and Half-hogshead Casks, Mash Rules, Wort Sieves, Rail-back Benches, 14 Drinking Tables, Four-pull Beer Machine, Cup Shelving, Tap Table, Pewter Ale Measures, Cups, Jugs, and Glasses; Malt Crusher, Hops, Three healthy Store Pigs, and other Effects, belonging to Mr. W. Robinson, who is declining business.

Sale to commence at Eleven o'clock.”

*probably the same person

Enoch Morris married Sarah Hodgetts.

They were the parents of Reuben (BUSH, Lower Gornal).

Birmingham Daily Post 11/10/1878 - Advert

“Dog. Found, at Old Hill, on the 5th, a half-bred black Retriever Dog. If not claimed in three days will be sold. Apply, PIG AND WHISTLE INN, Old Hill.”

County Express 22/11/1879

“A large number of persons were summoned for selling bread otherwise than by weight.

Sarah Morris, Halesowen Road, Old Hill, was charged with selling bread otherwise than by weight. Mr. Stokes, who defended, brought evidence to show in this case that the defendant told the purchaser that she had no bakers' bread, but she had 3d loaves, and he took one of these, paying 3d for it. Mr. Stokes in this case contended that if the purchaser did not ask for the loaf to be weighed the seller was not obliged to weigh it. The Clerk said they were not obliged to weight it, if it had been weighed before; but if it was afterwards found to be short weight the seller was liable. This case was also adjourned for seven days.”

County Express 29/11/1879

“Sarah Morris, publican, Old Hill, was ordered to pay costs for selling bread otherwise by weight.”

County Advertiser 6/12/1879

“The transfer of the license of the PIG AND WHISTLE, Old Hill, from Edward Morris (deceased) to Sarah Morris, was granted.”
OR

County Express 6/12/1879

“The following transfer was allowed: PIG AND WHISTLE INN, Old Hill, from Enoch Morris (deceased) to Sarah Morris.”

Dudley Herald 14/2/1880

“Sarah Morris, landlady of the PIG AND WHISTLE, Old Hill, was charged with unlawfully permitting drunkenness on the 31st ult. Mr. Stokes defended.

Inspector Walters said on the 31st ult he saw a man named William Grove led out of the house by defendant's son, and another young man. He was helplessly drunk.

William Grove said he was at defendant's house, and had two pints of fourpenny. He was not drunk, neither was he sober. He had been working double shifts all the week, and been sitting up every night with his wife. He was very tired and exhausted, and sat quietly in the room. About an hour after the landlord [sic] came into the kitchen, and, seeing he was sleepy, told him to go home. He did so.

The Bench said there was no doubt but that Grove got drunk on the defendant's premises, but the evidence was not strong enough for a conviction, and not wishing to do the defendant an injustice, who had kept the house eleven years without any complaint having been preferred against him [sic], they would dismiss the case.”

County Advertiser 4/12/1880

“The Miners and the Employers' Liability Act.

On Thursday night a meeting was held at the PIG AND WHISTLE INN, Old Hill, for the purpose of discussing the Employers' Liability Bill. Mr. William Breakwell attended and addressed the meeting, and a resolution, in keeping with those already passed in the district, affirming that it would not be desirable for miners to contract themselves out of the Act, was unanimously passed.”

Dudley and District News 5/3/1881

“A meeting of miners was held on Wednesday evening at the PIG AND WHISTLE, to receive a deputation from South Yorkshire. Mr. W. Breakwell presided, and in introducing the deputation said they came from a district where from 12,000 to 15,000 workmen were at play for an advance of wages to the extent of 10 per cent. The deputation, consisting of two delegates, then addressed the meeting, explaining their object, which was to raise funds to enable them to continue the strike until they obtained the rise sought. They in South Staffordshire had lately got a rise, and if the colliers in South Yorkshire were unsuccessful in the present struggle, South Staffordshire would be in danger of losing the advantage they had succeeded in getting. On that ground they asked for assistance, and also on the ground that South Yorkshire had always been ready to lend a helping hand to other districts when they were fighting their battles.”

1881 Census

30, Halesowen Road

[1] Sarah Morris (59), widow, publican, born Gornal;

[2] Susan Morris (15), daughter, dressmaker, born Gornal;

[3] Mary Weston (21), domestic servant, born Rowley Regis:

County Express 25/6/1881

“Thomas Morris, PIG AND WHISTLE INN, Old Hill, was charged by Police-constable Wickstead with being drunk and disorderly, and was fined 5s and costs, or fourteen days’ imprisonment.”

County Express 30/9/1882

“Thomas Morris was charged with being drunk on the licensed premises of his mother, Sarah Morris, the PIG AND WHISTLE INN, Old Hill. There were previous convictions against the defendant, and he was now fined 10s and costs, or fourteen days’ imprisonment.”

Dudley and District News 5/1/1884

“Sarah Morris, landlady of the PIG AND WHISTLE INN, Halesowen Road, Old Hill, was summoned for permitting drunkenness on the 15th ult. Mr. Waldron prosecuted, and Mr. Cooksey defended.

PS Williams stated that about nine o’clock on the night of the 15th ult he visited the defendant’s house, in company with PC Booth, in plain clothes, and remained there until ten o’clock. When he went into the room he saw there a man named Stevens who was drunk, and he was supplied with beer. Two other men who were drunk were supplied with beer by the servant girl.

PC Booth gave corroborative evidence.

Inspector Walters stated that on the night in question he received a communication from PC Booth, and went to the defendant’s premises. In the tap-room he found a man named Stevens drunk. He called the landlady’s attention to him, and she said that she did not know that there was a drunken man there; she had been in the bar the whole of the night. In answer to Mr. Cooksey, Inspector Walters said that as soon as the landlady’s attention was called to Stevens’ condition she ordered him to leave.

Mr. Cooksey, addressing the Bench, said that Stevens was only supplied with a pint of ale at the house, and that when he was supplied there was nothing to show that he was anything but sober.

Several witnesses were called for the defence, who stated that Stevens was not intoxicated, and there was no one drunk in the house. A fine of £5 and costs was imposed.”

Dudley and District News 12/1/1884

“Joseph Jones and Joseph Stevens, miners, of Old Hill, were fined 5s and costs for being drunk on the licensed premises of Sarah Morris, known as the PIG AND WHISTLE INN, Halesowen Road, Old Hill.

PS Williams and PC Booth proved both cases.”

County Advertiser 30/8/1884

“The annual brewster sessions for the Parish of Rowley Regis were held at the Police Court, Old Hill, on Wednesday.....

Inspector Walters presented the black list.....

Sarah Morris, PIG AND WHISTLE INN, Halesowen Road, Old Hill applied for the renewal of her license. The Bench refused the application.”

County Advertiser 27/9/1884

“The adjourned licensing sessions for the Old Hill Petty Sessional Division was held at Old Hill Police Court on Wednesday.....

The following persons, whose names appeared on the black list, and whose licenses were held over from the annual licensing session, now had their licenses renewed. James Willetts, BLUE BALL, Enoch Westwood, OLD ENGINE, Sarah Morris, PIG AND WHISTLE, Old Hill, Philip Mansell, BULLS HEAD, Windmill End, and Elisha Waring, SEVEN STARS, Tividale.”

County Advertiser 5/11/1887

“On Monday night a meeting of miners was held at the PIG AND WHISTLE INN, Old Hill. A miner presided. Mr. B. Winwood addressed the meeting upon the questions of the wages, restriction of labour, and the Mines Drainage Act. He contended that wages of the miners were miserably low, and inadequate to meet the social requirements of the miners’ households. When they asked for a little more wages they were told by the great iron and coal rings that trade was bad, and he thought if such men retained their position of monopoly it would always be the same, as it no doubt suited their purpose to keep the price of coal down. They must, therefore, unite and restrict the output. He condemned the action of the Mines Drainage Commissioners as humbug, being detrimental to the best interests of miners and the public. Afterwards resolutions were passed in favour of going in for an advance of wages, and restricting the output of coal by working less days per week, also protesting against the further borrowing of money by the Mines Drainage Commissioners.”

Dudley Mercury 7/1/1888

“On Wednesday night a mass meeting of miners was held at the PIG AND WHISTLE, Old Hill. A miner presided. Mr. B. Winwood addressed the meeting; and resolutions were passed in favour of steps being taken to secure the allowance coal, an automatic system to regulate miners’ wages and settling local disputes, and organisation. The meeting agreed to contribute funds to carry on the agitation.”

County Express 24/3/1888

“A meeting of miners was held at the PIG AND WHISTLE INN, Old Hill, on Tuesday evening, to consider the new rules. Mr. B. Winwood said during the last few days much disappointment and dissatisfaction had arisen amongst the miners, owing to the special rules not containing the alterations desired by the men. The altered condition of Rule 87, relating to the engine tender, was such that the miners could not understand. Rule 23 remained unaltered, but an intimation had been received to the effect that it assumed more the form of a contract than any thing else. The only course to take was to demand that they should have a voice in making the bye-laws which were to constitute a contract, and which, when made, the employers would expect them to obey; or they should obtain a definite answer as to how far contract men were expected to keep the roads secure.”

Walsall Observer 8/9/1888

“On Monday night a representative meeting of miners was held at the PIG AND WHISTLE INN, Old Hill, when delegates attended from Old Hill, Black Heath, Rowley, Hales Owen, Lye Waste, Quarry Bank, Cradley Heath, Netherton, and surrounding districts. It was decided to take action with a view to an advance in wages.”

County Express 25/5/1889

“Jonah Round, landlord of the PIG AND WHISTLE, Halesowen Road, Old Hill, was charged with being drunk and disorderly on the 17th inst, and also with being drunk on his licensed premises on the 18th inst.

Police-constable Pailing said he received a complaint that defendant had been assaulting his wife on the 17th inst, and upon going near the defendant’s house saw him drunk in the street.

Inspector Walters said he went to the defendant’s house on the 18th inst, and saw him helplessly drunk in the back kitchen. His wife complained to witness of his conduct. Defendant was very seldom sober.

In the first case defendant was fined 5s and costs, and in the second 10s and costs.”

Dudley Mercury 31/8/1889

“The annual licensing session was held on Wednesday.....

The Black List contained the names of.....

Jonah Round, PIG AND WHISLE, Old Hill, drunk and disorderly, fined 5s and costs, and for being drunk on his licensed premises 10s and costs.....

None of these licenses were renewed.”

Dudley Mercury 28/9/1889

“Adjourned Licensing Session. These sessions were held at Old Hill, on Wednesday. At the annual licensing sessions the magistrates decided to refuse to the licenses of those publicans who had been convicted during the past year, and at Wednesday’s meeting the persons referred to applied for their renewals.....

George Wakeman, of the PRINCE OF WALES INN, Wrights Lane, and Jonah Round, of the PIG AND WHISTLE INN, Halesowen Road, Old Hill, were granted renewals after being cautioned.”

Birmingham Daily Post 3/4/1890

“Bankruptcy Proceedings.....

Re Jonah Round, late publican, PIG AND WHISTLE, Halesowen Road, Old Hill.

Yesterday, at the Dudley County Court, a receiving order was made in the above matter.

Messrs. Warmington and Thompson are the solicitors to the debtor.”

County Express 2/8/1890

“The members of the lodge of the Old Hill and District Miners’ Association, who meet at the PIG AND WHISTLE INN, Old Hill, held a supper at their society house on Saturday night. After supper a meeting was held, at which a miner presided.....”

1891 Census

30, Halesowen Road – PIG AND WHISTLE

[1] Ellen Cartwright (45), widow, licensed victualler, born Kingswinford;

[2] David Cartwright (22), son, coal miner, born Kingswinford;

[3] Clara Cartwright (12), daughter, born Rowley Regis;

[4] Frederick Cartwright (10), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis:

Birmingham Daily Post 7/5/1891

“Yesterday, at Old Hill Police Court.....

Ellen Cartwright, landlady of the PIG AND WHISTLE INN, Halesowen Road, was charged with permitting drunkenness on her licensed premises on the 25th ult, and was fined £5 and costs. Thomas Stinton, Garratts Lane, was also fined 10s and costs for being drunk on the above licensed premises.”

AND

County Express 9/5/1891

“Ellen Cartwright, landlady of the PIG AND WHISTLE INN, Old Hill, was charged with permitting drunkenness on licensed premises. Mr. Waldron prosecuted, and Mr. Lawrence (Wolverhampton) defended.

Mr. Waldron said on April 25th Police-constables Insley and Davies visited the house at 10.30pm. In the bar there were two men named Tromans and Stinton. Tromans was staggering about the bar, and had a glass of ale in his hand, which he offered to the policemen to drink. Tromans drank the ale himself. Stinton was sitting down, with a jug in front of him half full of beer. The landlady's attention was called to the men. She said Stinton had only been served with twopenny worth of gin, and that he had knocked it off the table with his elbow. The defendant took Stinton outside, and when he got to the door he fell down, and it was with very great difficulty that the officers got him to the station. As to Tromans, the explanation was that he had been drinking club beer. Not only the law but common sense was against the people entrusted with licenses if they did not use due diligence to prevent drunkenness in their houses. Police-constables Insley and Davies, and Inspector Bishop gave evidence in support of the charge.

Mr. Lawrence said no doubt a technical offence had been committed, but this was the first time a complaint had been made against the defendant, and a very small penalty would meet the case.

Defendant was called, and said she had kept the house over twelve months.

Cross-examined: Tromans was sober, but Stinton was drunk.

The Bench were of opinion that drunkenness did take place, and they inflicted a fine of £5 and £1 13s 6d costs."

County Express 23/5/1891

"John Tromans, Garratts Lane, was charged with being drunk on the licensed premises of the PIG AND WHISTLE, Halesowen Road, Old Hill, and was fined 10s and the costs."

County Advertiser 29/8/1891

"The annual licensing sessions for Rowley Petty Sessional Division were held last Wednesday.....

The magistrates said they were pleased to learn that there had been a decrease in the drunken cases. They then proceeded to consider the 'black list'.....

Mr. Lawrence applied for a renewal of the license of the PIG AND WHISTLE INN, Old Hill, to Ellen Cartwright, who had been convicted on the 6th of May of this year for permitting drunkenness, and fined £5 and costs. He said the applicant's conduct before and after her conviction was good, and pointed out that there was no endorsement of the license Adjourned."

County Express 3/10/1891

"Old Hill Adjourned Licensing Sessions.....

Mr. W. Bassano said the only case in which they proposed not to renew the license was in the case of the CROSS INN, Old Hill.....

Mr. Ward asked if all the other licenses were granted without any special application being necessary. Mr. Bassano said this was so. Of course they had, in the exercise of their discretion, thought there were several cases in which they might reasonably withhold the license, and the Bench had had a long discussion that morning before coming into Court as to whether they should do so in the case of a man fined £10 and costs. However, they had decided to grant the whole of the licenses this year, and they gave an intimation that in future the Bench would deal very stringently in cases of conviction under the licensing laws, both as regards the amount of fines and endorsements, and in the cases of endorsements they would deal more stringently. In plain English, this meant that a person with an endorsement against the house would in future have a very small chance indeed of getting his license renewed. They hoped the licensed victuallers and other licensed persons in the district would take a warning from that."

County Express 25/9/1897 - Advert

"The Attention of Brewers, Syndicates, Spirit Merchants, Maltsters, Licensed Victuallers, and Others, is particularly directed to the undermentioned Valuable Freehold Licensed Properties.

Mr. Herbert Humphries, FAI, has pleasure in announcing instructions from the Trustees of the late James Holcroft, Esq, to Submit to Public Competition, at the DUDLEY ARMS HOTEL, Dudley, on Tuesday, September 28th, 1897, at Six for Seven o'clock in the Evening.....

Lot 2. All that Well-known Freehold Fully-Licensed Inn and Premises, the PIG AND WHISTLE, Halesowen Road, Old Hill, in the occupation of Mrs. Cartwright, which, without doubt, is one, if not the oldest-established Licensed Inn in the district, and which enjoys an unbroken record of prosperity.

The Premises comprise spacious Vaults, Tap Room, Smoke Room, Cooking Kitchen, Wash-house, Bed Chambers, Club Room, and the usual Out-buildings.

The total area of Land will be 1,800 square yards or thereabouts, including the site of the buildings, and a frontage of 30 yards to the main road.

The importance and value of the above Valuable Property will be considerably enhanced by the great development which will shortly be made, and it will be converted, in all probability, into a most commanding corner position. Early possession may be had."

County Express 2/10/1897

"On Tuesday evening Mr. Herbert Humphries, auctioneer, of Brierley Hill and Stourbridge, held a most successful sale of licensed property at the DUDLEY ARMS HOTEL, Dudley.

The first three lots submitted were by order of the trustees of the late Mr. James Holcroft.....

Lot 2, the PIG AND WHISTLE INN, Old Hill, was purchased by Mr. D. Rollinson at £1,700....."

Dudley Herald 27/8/1898

"The annual Licensing Sessions of the Rowley Regis Petty Sessional Division was held at the Old Hill Police Court on Wednesday.....

Mr. Ensor, of Dudley, applied for the sanction of the magistrates for the alterations to be carried out at the PIG AND WHISTLE INN, Halesowen Road, on behalf of Messrs. Rollason and Sons, brewers, who have acquired the premises.

The magistrates said according to the plans there would be more accommodation for holding concerts than the provision for the proper supply of refreshments. Certain alterations were suggested, and Mr. Ensor said he would see that they were carried out. Subject to the alterations being carried out as suggested the magistrates granted the application."

[1900]

Its name was changed to VICTORIA HOTEL. [1901]

County Express 9/3/1901

"The miners in the Old Hill district who are connected with the National Federation, celebrated the anniversary by a dinner at the VICTORIA HOTEL, on Saturday. After a number of toasts had been honoured, Mr. B. Winwood (miners' agent) said, whilst he admitted the fact that the Black Country miners' wages stood at that time higher directly than any period since 1873, when thick coal men were paid 5s 6d per day, as against the present rate of 5s 4d; he denied that piece-workers got 10s a day on the average, as it could easily be proved that there were more working at from 6s to 7s a day than over that amount, and there were others who were working for considerably less – (hear, hear). If Sir Alfred Hickman, MP, who had spoken so bitterly against the improvement in the miners' position, was forced to make up the difference in the amounts which were alleged to be paid in wages, he would no doubt sing another song or play a different tune – (hear, hear). He was glad the Eight Hour Bill had been carried with thirteen majority, in spite of the opposition raised against that Bill, and the untrue remarks made that men only worked from six to six and a half hours a day. Those who were responsible for such statements ought to be more accurate in future. He hoped in June next the Bill would pass its third reading. He urged the miners to stand firm to each other, so that if the employers called upon them to submit to an enormous reduction in wages, they would be in a position to refuse to accept the employers' terms. Resolution was passed in favour of combination and the Eight Hour Bill."

1901 Census

32, Halesowen Road

- [1] Philip Chatwin (51), publican, born Halesowen;
- [2] Sarah Chatwin (46), wife, born Halesowen;
- [3] Bertha Chatwin (17), daughter, born Halesowen;
- [4] Phineas Parsons (74), father-in-law, widower, born Halesowen;
- [5] Mary Blunt (25), domestic servant, born Old Hill;
- [6] William Partridge (40), lodger, born Halesowen:

County Advertiser 6/7/1901 - Advert

"Old Hill, Staffs. Monday, July 8th, 1901.

Important Sale of Horses, Carriages, Harness, &c.

Alfred Hill will Sell by Auction, on Monday Next, at the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, as under.

12 Useful and Valuable Cobs; 10 Capital Cart Horses and Vanners; 30 Vehicles, including Brakes, Wagonettes, Phaetons, Gigs, Dog Carts, and useful Business Carts, chiefly by eminent makers, with up-to-date appointments; 20 Sets of Second-hand Single and Double Harness, and Gent's Riding Saddle, all in good condition.

Sale to commence at 11.30 prompt.

For full particulars see Catalogues, which may be had of the Auctioneer, Old Hill, Staffs."

County Express 30/11/1901

"The first smoking concert in connection with the Old Hill Cricket Club was held at the VICTORIA HOTEL on Monday, and was in every way a success. Mr. J. Priest presided over a large attendance, to whom the following programme gave every satisfaction: Quartet, Messrs. H. and S. Cornock, and F. and H. Bridgwater; song, 'My first cricket match,' Mr. J. Pickard; recitation, Mr. S. Cross; song, 'Mary of Argyle,' Mr. G. Plimmer; ventriloquial sketch, Mr. S. Johnson; song, 'This is your train, sir,' Mr. J. Pickard; quartet, Messrs. H. and S. Cornock, and F. and H. Bridgwater; recitation, Mr. S. Cross; song, 'Flight of ages,' Mr. G. Plimmer; song, 'Out first smoker,' Mr. J. Pickard; quartet, Messrs. H. and S. Cornock, and F. and H. Bridgwater."

County Advertiser 14/12/1901

"On Saturday night a largely-attended meeting of miners was held at the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, with reference to an agitation which has arisen amongst the men in consequence of the posting up of notices at the various pits in the district respecting the South Staffordshire and East Worcestershire Workmen's Compensation Scheme.....

After considerable discussion, resolutions were passed unanimously protesting against the course pursued by the employers in posting the notices, and deciding in favour of working under the Compensation Act 1897 whenever it was found possible to do so."

County Express 15/2/1902

"There was a meeting of the Old Hill branch of the National Amalgamated Union of enginemen, cranemen, tram drivers, boiler-firemen, etc, at the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, on Saturday evening, when an address was given by Mr. G. H. Copley on 'Trades Unionism and the ca-canny correspondence of The Times.' There was large attendance, over which Mr. J. Harris presided....."

County Express 19/7/1902

"On Wednesday morning the Old Hill Police received information of the death of a young woman named Sarah Ann Shaw (23), wife of a postman residing at Wellington Street, Old Hill, which occurred at her home under sad circumstances. Upon her husband returning home from work about nine o'clock, he discovered his wife's body in a cistern containing four feet of water. The body was then quickly recovered from the water, and although still alive, the woman died before medical aid could be summoned. It is supposed that the deceased fell into the cistern.

The inquest was held on Thursday afternoon, at the VICTORIA HOTEL, before Mr. H. A. Pearson (coroner). It appeared that deceased arose early on Wednesday morning for the purpose of doing her washing, but when her husband, James Shaw, who is a postman, returned from his work shortly after nine o'clock, deceased was found by her husband in a cistern containing four feet of water. Dr. Mountford was called in, but he pronounced life extinct. It was supposed that while leaning over the cistern deceased overbalanced herself and fell in.

The jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death, and the coroner complimented the witness, McDonald, upon his plucky conduct in getting the body out of the cistern, remarking that he deserved their thanks and commendation."

County Advertiser 13/6/1903

"The following licenses were transferred.....

VICTORIA HOTEL, Halesowen Road, Old Hill, from Philip Chatwin (deceased) to his widow, Sarah Chatwin."

County Advertiser 27/8/1904

"On Sunday afternoon the eighth annual parade and service arranged by the various friendly societies in the Old Hill district took place under favourable circumstances. The proceedings commenced with a large procession.....

The Cradley Heath Town Prize Band started from COOKSEY'S HOTEL and proceeded along Halesowen Road, calling at the VICTORIA HOTEL for societies. Afterwards they marched to High Street, where they called at the DUKE WILLIAM INN for societies and afterwards went on to the field.....

Upon arrival at the field a grand procession was formed This paraded the principal streets of the locality for some time, after which they proceeded to a field in High Street, kindly lent for the occasion by Mr. A. E. Sidaway. Here a service was held, the chair being occupied by Dr. T. E. Mitchell. Notwithstanding the threatening state of the weather there was a large attendance..... A collection was made upon the route, and at the service, on behalf of the Dudley Guest Hospital, Dudley Dispensary, Birmingham Eye Hospital, Birmingham General Hospital, Birmingham Ear and Throat Hospital, and the Old Hill Nurses Fund."

Staffordshire Sentinel 17/10/1904

"On Saturday night, at the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, a meeting of ironworkers from all parts of the Midlands was held for the purpose of considering the wages question and also the proposal to revise the sliding scale. There was a large attendance of delegates, but the proceedings were conducted in private. The Chairman (Mr. Hill) informed the representatives that it had been decided to submit to the employers' section of the Wages Board a scheme for the revision of the sliding scale, after which it would be made public. It has been arranged for a series of meetings to be held in various parts of the country."

County Advertiser 9/12/1905 - Advert

"Sale at Short Notice, under an advance, at the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, on Monday Next, December 11th, 1905.

Sale at Twelve Noon sharp (if not previously disposed of).

Richard Nicklin will Sell by Auction, without Reserve, the remaining Portion of Household Furniture and Stock, removed for Convenience of Sale....."

County Advertiser 17/11/1906

"On Saturday last the annual dinner and prize distribution in connection with the Old Hill and District Homing Society was held at the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill. About a 150 persons sat down to an excellent repast provided by the host and hostess (Mr. and Mrs. Pearson). After dinner the chair was occupied by the president (Mr. J. Billingham)....."

County Advertiser 27/4/1907

"Last Saturday over thirty customers of the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, enjoyed a visit to London as their annual excursion. They left Old Hill at 5-50am, arriving in London at 9-45. The party then broke up, the majority of them paying a visit to the Crystal Palace for the cup final. They afterwards visited places of amusement in the city. Mr. J. Danks was the secretary."

County Advertiser 11/5/1907

"The first annual prize distribution and smoking concert of the Old Hill and District Conservative Billiard League was held on Saturday night at the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill. There was a large attendance, and Mr. H. Staveley-Hill, MP, who was accompanied by Mrs. Staveley-Hill, presided....."

Tipton Herald 9/1/1909

"On Saturday evening last the workmen and friends of Mr. John Hill, coal and breeze merchant, of the Darby End works, were invited to supper at the house of Mr. J. Pearson, the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, when upwards of 40 sat down to an excellent repast, to which ample justice was done. After the cloth had been drawn the company were entertained with songs, recitations &c. A hearty vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Hill for his generosity, and also to the host and hostess for the able manner in which they had catered for the company. Mr. Hill and Mr. Pearson briefly responded. The remainder of the evening was passed in conviviality.”

Tipton Herald 9/1/1909 - Advert

“Wanted, good General Servant; references required.
Apply Mrs. James Pearson, VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill.”

Tipton Herald 23/1/1909

“Councillor Rolinson, of Netherton, has announced his intention to retire from the directorate of Rolinson’s Brewery, and by way of marking the event and showing their esteem for him, the firm’s tenants have decided to make him a presentation. This will take place at the VICTORIA HOTEL next Wednesday evening. Councillor Rolinson was one of the successful Conservative candidates in the recent municipal election in the Netherton Ward of Dudley.

At the Old Hill Court House on Wednesday, Mr. James Pearson, landlord of the hotel mentioned, applied for a music license and an extension of time. The license was granted, but extension of time was refused.”

Tipton Herald 30/1/1909

“A gathering of a highly interesting character took place at the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, on Wednesday evening last, the occasion being a pleasing presentation, consisting of very handsome silver coffee and tea services to Councillor Daniel Rolinson, who for many years past has occupied the position of managing director of the well-known brewing firm of Messrs. John Rollinson and Son Ltd, Five Ways, Netherton.

A very excellent dinner was served up by Mr. J. Pearson, the host, and his efforts in this direction were highly appreciated in every respect.”

Tipton Herald 3/4/1909

“A meeting under the auspices of the Old Hill and District Homing Society was held on Saturday in the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, the occasion being the closing of last season’s account and prize distribution. The president (Mr. James Billingham) was unable to attend, and the prizes were distributed by Mr. John Wheeler, the chairman of the committee.”

Tipton Herald 5/6/1909

“Readers will regret to hear of the serious illness of Mr. Joseph Woodhall, of Netherton, who for some years was the landlord of the CASTLE INN, Old Hill. Since he went to live at Netherton Mr. Woodhall has suffered from gangrene in the foot, and is being attended by Dr. Mitchell. In view of the circumstances in which he and his wife are placed a number of Old Hill friends have agreed to arrange a benefit concert, to be held in the clubroom at the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, on June 30th. A subscription list will be opened this weekend, and in the course of a few days tickets for the concert will be on sale. A committee has been appointed to carry out the arrangements.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 17/8/1910

“A large meeting of clay workers was held last night at the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, under the auspices of the National Union of Gasworkers and General Labourers, and it was decided to form a branch of the union for the Rowley and Old Hill districts. Several workmen referred to the strike that had taken place at Messrs. Doulton’s Pottery Works, Springfield, Rowley, and complaints were made that the Labour Exchange had provided ‘blacklegs’ to take the places of some of the strikers. Mr. J. Firth (District Secretary of the National Union of Gasworkers and General Labourers) stated that he did not think the Labour Exchange officials would knowingly send men to works to take the places of strikers. A speaker said he knew that the supply of men to Messrs. Doulton’s works had been stopped. The men who have come out on strike at Messrs. Doulton’s works against the new system of working, which, they allege, imposes a reduction in wages, will hold a meeting today to decide upon future action. It was stated last night that owing to the strike upwards of 400 men in other parts of the works have been thrown out of employment.”

1911 Census

44, Halesowen Road

[1] James Pearson (58), hotel proprietor, born Brierley Hill;

[2] Zipporah Pearson (51), wife, married 22 years, assisting in business, born Stourbridge;

[3] Ethel E. Pearson (21), daughter, assistant teacher, born Old Hill;

[4] Edith Bradley (24), domestic servant, born Old Hill:

County Express 9/9/1911

“A meeting of the Old Hill branch of the Enginemen’s And Firemen’s Society was held at the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, on Saturday night, and was addressed by Mr. J. Wright (general secretary), who said he thought it was quite time that winding enginemen of this district were put on an eight hours’ day in view of the great responsibility that was attached to them. He thought also that the working of twenty-four hours every week, which was done on purpose for winding enginemen to change turns, ought not to be allowed.

The members passed a resolution to the effect that the colliery enginemen and firemen of the Old Hill and Dudley districts should not be left out of the Bill now before the House of Commons for the safety of the mines and miners, and expressing the opinion that it was most essential both for the safety of the mines and also the miners who have to be lowered and raised from the pit every day.

Copies of this resolution were sent to all local members of Parliament, and also to the Prime Minister, the Home Secretary, and others.”

County Express 15/6/1912 - Advert

“Old Hill and Netherton. Sale of Highly Valuable Freehold Properties and Land.

E. O. Nightingale has received instructions to Sell by Auction, at the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, on Monday, the 17th day of June, 1912, at 7 o'clock in the Evening, subject to Conditions of Sale then to be produced.....”

Staffordshire Sentinel 5/3/1914

“A meeting of miners and engine-winders was held at the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, on Wednesday night, to discuss the question of the amalgamation of the two associations. Mr. J. W. Wright, who presided, moved a resolution welcoming the amalgamation, and said they were not combining for the purpose of carrying out a policy of strikes, but to prevent them. Mr. G. Thomas seconded the motion, which was supported by the miners' agent (Mr. S. Edwards), and carried.”

Evening Despatch 27/1/1915

“A meeting of the licensed victuallers of Rowley Regis was held last night at the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, when the curtailment of hours in the district was again considered. The closing of licensed houses and clubs between the hours of 10pm and 8am has, it is stated, caused great inconvenience to license-holders, especially to those who chance to live on the borders of Staffordshire and Worcestershire. The chairman of the Dudley Licensed Victuallers' Association, Councillor J. W. J. George, himself a licensed victualler in Tipton, declares that some of the houses in that district have dropped £20 a week in their takings. License-holders in Rowley Regis complain bitterly of the hardship, and emphatically declare that there is no need for the curtailment. A well-known barrister has been engaged to fight their case next Wednesday, when the annual licensing sessions will be held, and a petition against the decision of the magistrates is being extensively signed.”

George Henry Smith – check also GRAPES, Tipton.

Boxing matches were held here in the 1930s.

Frederick Crumpton = Frederick Crampton

Birmingham Daily Gazette 9/10/1930

“Many further contributions towards the Birmingham Gazette and Evening Despatch fund for the relief of the dependants – 12 widows and 24 children – of the miners who lost their lives in the explosion at Grove Pit, Norton Canes, reached our offices yesterday.....

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Crampton, VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, £0 10s 0d.”

Dudley Herald 28/11/1931 - Advert

“The Annual General Meeting of the Netherton & Old Hill Iron Works State Benefit Society will be held in the Assembly Rooms (VICTORIA HOTEL), Old Hill, on Saturday, December 12th, at 6.30pm.

Business: Report of the Committee. Election of Officers. Committee of Management and Visitors. Any Other Business.

By Order, Geo. Holmes, Secretary.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 23/11/1933

“The Assembly Rooms at the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, echoed last night with the song of birds. It was the occasion of the annual show of the South Staffordshire Roller Canary Club, and no fewer than 330 sweet-throated singers, from all parts of the country, were staged.....”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 23/1/1935

“At a meeting of business and professional men held last night at the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, it was unanimously decided to form a Rotary Club for Rowley Regis area.....”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 25/2/1935

“Cups won in connection with the South Staffordshire Roller Canary Club were presented at the annual dinner of the club, held at the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, on Saturday night.....”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 23/7/1935

“I prophesy that this will be one of the best Rotary Clubs in No.6 district,’ said Ald. Frank Jones, of Smethwick, yesterday, when presenting the Rotary Charter to the Mayor of Rowley Regis (Ald. B. Hobbs), who is president of the Rowley Regis Rotary Club. There were about 100 Rotarians present at a luncheon at the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill. ‘You have got together a bunch of fellows who have so absorbed the spirit of Rotary that it is bound to do good for this district,’ said Ald. Jones. ‘This club will assuredly be a great help to the local authority and the district in general.’

Speaking of the effect of Rotary in international affairs, Ald. Jones said Rotary eschewed party politics and sectarian religion, but pursued a policy of goodwill and understanding between all peoples. Such a policy would be the greatest movement towards world peace.

Particular mention was made of Mr. T. T. Dineen, who has been responsible for all the spade work in the formation of the Rowley Regis Rotary Club.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 19/12/1935

“An entry of 338 birds in the annual two-day exhibition of the South Staffordshire Roller Canary Club, which opened at the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, yesterday, is the biggest since the inception of the club 16 years ago.....”

John Samuel Walter Sidney Foley – see also ALBION, Tividale.

Birmingham Daily Gazette 7/1/1937

“There are entries from as far afield as London, Leeds, Carlisle, Gateshead-on-Tyne and Dunfermline at the annual open exhibition of roller canaries held in connection with the South Staffordshire Roller Canary Club at the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill.....”

Jack Hudson – see also HOLLY BUSH, Cradley Heath.

Sports Argus 18/2/1939 - Advert

“Smethwick, Warley and District 8th Annual Amateur Championship Show, Saturday, March 4th, VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, near GWR Station. Buses also to door.

Particulars: Dog Show Secretary, 30, Downing Street, Handsworth, Birmingham 29. Splendid Trophies.”

Evening Despatch 7/3/1939

“The Smethwick, Warley, and District eighth annual dog show, held at the VICTORIA HOTEL, Halesowen Road, Old Hill, attracted more than 200 entries. Twenty-six classes were run, and high-class exhibits from many districts were on view.....”

Evening Despatch 5/7/1939

“At last night’s annual smoking concert of the Cradley Heath and District Football League, held at the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, seven large cups, 12 sets each of a dozen miniatures, and two sets of medals and two shields were distributed.....”

1939 Register

Halesowen Road – VICTORIA HOTEL

[1] Hugh A. Sherratt, date of birth 9/10/1892, licensed victualler manager, married;

[2] Martha L. J. Sherratt, dob 5/10/1901, hotel manageress, married;

Birmingham Daily Post 4/7/1942 - Advert

“Halesowen & Springfield, Rowley Regis, Announcement of Sale by Auction of an exceedingly Valuable Freehold Estate, known as the Lodgefield Farm, Halesowen.....

Ernest L. Fletcher, FAI, will offer the above at the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, on Wednesday, July 22, at Seven pm.

Plans and detailed particulars may be had from the Auctioneer, High Street, Cradley Heath (Tel.6470).”

Ben Homer, a local pig breeder, kept his pigs in a rented sty at the rear of the pub, during World War 2.

Percy Benjamin Hackett – see also BRITISH OAK.

The Victoria Bird Auction was held here in its early days.

Ex-boxer Henry Attwood worked as a doorman here, in the 1950s.

Birmingham Daily Post 1/4/1954 - Advert

“Auction Sale at VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, Staffs, on Monday Next, April 5, at 7pm.

By Messrs. Taylor & Taylor, who will offer Freehold Investment Properties at Cradley, Netherton and Dudley.....”

Tipton Herald 6/10/1956

“A cup valued at 60 guineas is the main prize in a darts competition to be run in aid of the Old Hill Hot Pot Fund, for which entries are now invited. Applications should be sent to the Hon. Secretary, Mr. W. Rock, at 2, Dudley Street, Old Hill or to the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill. The teams comprise five players and two reserves and there is a competition fee of 7s 6d. There are 14 prizes in all for winners and runners-up.

Sunday is the closing date for entries.”

Birmingham Daily Post 9/2/1959

“Today’s Events.....

Rowley Regis Rotary Club, VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill 1.0.”

Birmingham Daily Post 17/4/1959 - Advert

“Musical Instruments.

Selmer Clavoline for Sale.

Apply VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill. Phone Cradley Heath 69860.”

Birmingham Daily Post 13/4/1963 - Advert

“By Instructions from the West Midlands Gas Board.

T. Leslie Tibbetts & Company have received instructions to Sell by Auction at the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, on Friday, 26th April, 1963, at 7 o'clock prompt.

A very important Freehold Property known as Rowley Regis Gas Works.....”

A team from here took part in the Cradley Heath Darts League. [1970]

Halesowen News 15/7/1999 - Advert

“Car Boot. VICTORIA Pub, Halesowen Road, Oldhill. Sunday 18th July. 7am Start.”

[2003]

Closed

It was demolished in April 2004.

A shop was built on the site.

VINE

11, High Street, BLACKHEATH

OWNERS

City Brewery Co. (Lichfield) Ltd. [1949]

Wolverhampton and Dudley Breweries Ltd.

LICENSEES

George Taylor [1865] – [1881]

William Henry Taylor [1890] – 1922);

Fred Thomas (1922 – 1926);

Thomas Dudley (1926 – 1931);

William Tansley (1931);

Guy Hunt Robey (1931 – 1933);

Harold Biddle (1933 – 1948);

William Henry Marshall (1948 – 1955);

Bertie Sheef (1955 – 1958);

Albert Clifford Hawkins (1958 – 1960);

Albert Frank Major Comley (1960 – 1965);

Henry Slim (1965 – [])

Kenneth ‘Ken’ Platt (1968 – 1986)

Ben Bloomer [1986]

Jacqueline Dipple [2007]

Paul Shepherd [2019]

NOTES

It had an ante ‘69 beerhouse license.

Stourbridge Observer 7/10/1865

“At the Petty Sessions at Old Hill, on Wednesday, before F. W. G. Barrs and J. Pursey, Esqrs, a man named William Adams, a rivet maker, was charged with violently assaulting one David Bennett, on the 13th ult. Mr. Addison appeared for the complainant, and

Mr. Shakespeare for the defendant.

The statement of the prosecutor was to the effect that he, on the afternoon of the above day, walked into the VINE INN, Blackheath, where he saw one of his companions, named Joe Gadd, pitching for some ale. He tapped Gadd on the shoulder, which interrupted his pitching.

The landlord, Mr. Taylor, was then sitting in the kitchen, but he immediately got up and caught hold of complainant and was putting him out, when the defendant Adams came in the passage and struck him a violent blow upon the face, and when they got outside the landlord threw complainant down, upon which defendant came and kicked him several times on the face, breaking his jaw and bruising him on other parts of the body. Complainant called three witnesses, the first of which named Gadd, directly corroborated his statement, but the other two said they saw the kick but could not tell what part of the body was kicked. One of them, an old woman, when asked if complainant was drunk, replied that he did not seem 'toxicated'.

For the defence, Mr. Shakespeare urged that the complainant did not receive the injuries complained of at the hands of the defendant, but at the hands of his companion, Gadd. Mr. Shakespeare owned that defendant did strike complainant once in self-defence. He said the landlord when putting out complainant, was assaulted by complainant, and was necessitated to call help out of the house. Adams came out and got the complainant off the landlord, whereupon the complainant in a moment commenced an assault upon Adams, who in self-defence struck complainant, but only once. Four witnesses were examined for the defence. Their evidence was in direct contradiction to that given on behalf of the complainant; so much so that the Bench intimated that wilful and direct perjury was being committed on one side or the other. They swore that defendant received the injuries at Bowater's public house, Rowley.

The Bench thought that the charge of brutal assault had not been proved, but they thought that defendant was guilty of a common assault, they should therefore fine him 1s and costs, amounting to 3s 6d; in default 14 days' hard labour."

George Taylor, beer retailer, High Street, Blackheath. [1868], [1870], [1872]

He was also described as a boot and shoe maker. [1868], [1870]

Birmingham Daily Gazette 30/8/1869

"The annual licensing meeting for Rowley Regis division was held on Friday, at COOKSEY'S HOTEL, Old Hill.....

The following applications were made for alehouse licenses.....

George Taylor, VINE, Blackheath. Application refused."

County Advertiser 27/8/1870

"The annual licensing meeting for the Old Hill Petty Sessional Division was held yesterday.....

There were eight applications for spirit licenses made by the following beerhouse keepers.....

George Taylor, Blackheath. Refused."

Stourbridge Observer 18/3/1871

"Mary Plant was charged with obtaining four pairs of boots by false pretences on the 9th inst, the property of James Bennett, at Blackheath.

Mary Bennett, wife of prosecutor, said she lived at Blackheath. Prosecutor is a master shoemaker. On the above date prisoner went to their shop, and asked witness if she would send Mrs. Taylor, at the public house, some boots to look at. She said she wanted kid elastics, and a pair for her grandchild. She said the girl was 18, and would take about the same size as she (prisoner) would. Witness sent a pair No.1. Prisoner said she had nothing to put them in, and witness lent her a handkerchief. She took four pairs away. The two pairs produced were their property. She identified them by the mark 'CH' on the bottom. The value of the boots was £1 4s 3d. She had never seen prisoner since. Mrs. Taylor had sent for shoes.

Prisoner said she had three pairs out of the shop, but did not have them under false pretences.

Mrs. Taylor, of the VINE INN, Blackheath, said she knew the prisoner when she lived at Blackheath. She was not living with her on the 9th of March. She lived at Blackheath about four years ago. Did not send her to Mr. Bennett's for shoes. Witness had sent to prosecutor's for shoes, but not lately.

Joseph Hackett, pawnbroker, Old Hill, said on the evening of the 9th inst prisoner went to his shop, and pledged a pair of boots.

He gave her 2s 2½d. The boots produced are the same. She gave the name of Maria Davis, Old Hill.

Annie Gardener said she lived with Richard Raybould, pawnbroker, at Netherton. She was assistant. On the morning of the 10th March, about nine o'clock, prisoner went to their shop. She offered the pair of boots produced for pledge. She asked 3s 6d on the boots, and witness gave her 3s 2½d. She gave the name of Susan Palmer.

Police-constable Ison proved apprehending prisoner on the 12th instant, at Netherton, and in reply to the charge, she said she had not had any boots, and did not know anything about them. He found the purse produced on her, containing a pawn ticket.

Prisoner did not make any defence.

Police-sergeant Powner said prisoner was convicted at Stafford Sessions in January for a similar offence.

Prisoner was committed to take her trial at the next Stafford Sessions."

[At Staffordshire Quarter Sessions Mary Plant pleaded guilty and was sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment.]

1871 Census

High Street

[1] George Taylor (54), beer seller, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Elizabeth Taylor (55), wife, born Halesowen;

[3] Ellen Rose (12), grandchild, scholar, born Rowley Regis;

[4] William Taylor (5), grandson, scholar, born Rowley Regis:

County Advertiser 13/10/1877

“On Tuesday evening a fairly-attended meeting of the local miners was held at Mr. Taylor's, VINE INN, Blackheath, under the presidency of Mr. Ashman. Resolutions were agreed to (1) That we do not accept the 3d on the 1s advance of coal, which the masters have offered; (2) That we do not have any scale except on a proper basis.”

Birmingham Daily Post 4/11/1878 - Advert

“Blackheath, Rowley. To Let double-fronted shop, situate Short Street.
Apply, G. Taylor, VINE, Blackheath.”

Dudley and District News 23/10/1880

“A meeting of ratepayers was held on Tuesday night, at the VINE HOTEL, Blackheath, to consider the advisability of forming a Ratepayers' Protection Society for the parish of Rowley. Mr. T. Emery presided, and stated that it was proposed to form the association for the consideration of parochial matters only, to the exclusion of both religious and political questions. A branch had already been formed at Tividale, and thirty members had been enrolled there. (Hear, hear.) Mr. S. Cave (Cradley Heath) addressed the meeting, urging the desirability of dividing the parish into wards. Mr. B. Hadley moved that a branch of the Rowley Ratepayers' Protection Society be formed at Blackheath. This was seconded by Mr. Grove, and carried.”

Dudley and District News 20/11/1880

“On Wednesday night last a miners' meeting was held at the VINE INN, Blackheath, to consider the necessity of unity among the men. A miner was voted to the chair, who, after explaining the object of the meeting, called upon Mr. Brakewell to address the meeting. Mr. Brakewell said the meeting was called for discussing three things which materially affected the mining population of that district. One was the low wages miners were receiving, which might be altered if the men were thoroughly united; another was the Employers' Liability Bill, which had been passed not only for the benefit of miners, but for all classes of working men. He was afraid there were thousands of miners who did not understand, who were totally ignorant of the essence of this bill. He was there that night to throw some light upon the benefits they would derive from this measure if they were united. To illustrate this point, he said, as the law stood now, if a man lost his life the widow could get no compensation, but if they were united when the bill became law the masters would have to pay compensation, just the same as if he lost his life on the railway. Mr. Brakewell then went on to enumerate the privileges they once enjoyed, but which were now lost for want of unity. Formerly, he said, the custom of giving coal was, for every twenty-four days a young man worked, one ton of coal; whereas now it was only the elderly men who had it, and they had to work forty-eight days before it was granted.

The following resolutions were passed: ‘That, in the opinion of this meeting, no insurance be acceptable to us, and we use all our efforts to prevent the miners in this district making mutual insurance with the masters,’ and ‘That every effort be used to get the men united.’

A similar meeting was held on the Thursday night at the house of Mr. John Talbot, Garratts Lane, Old Hill, at which the same resolutions were passed.”

1881 Census

11, High Street

[1] George Taylor (65), publican, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Elizabeth Taylor (64), wife, born Rowley Regis;

[3] William Taylor (15), grandson, scholar, born Rowley Regis:

Dudley and District News 22/4/1882

“On Thursday evening a very numerous meeting of miner was held at the VINE INN, Blackheath. A miner was voted to preside, and Mr. William Breakwell (miners' agent) and others addressed the meeting.

Mr. Breakwell, who was received with loud applause, remarking upon the masters having said that the coal trade was not remunerative to them, pointed out that the fault lay entirely with themselves; for if the masters had a coalmasters' association, instead of the coal trade being ruled by a few ironmasters, as it was now, then, he thought, the prices would be better than they were at the present time. Another thing which caused the coal trade to be unremunerative was the liability coal companies underselling the private firms, and so bringing down the price of coal, and then calling on their men to make sacrifices for their foolish acts in the market. (Hear, hear.) To prevent this he urged the men to get thoroughly organised, as they who produced the commodity had a greater interest than the capitalists in the matter; and his opinion was that if the employers were so foolish as to give the material away, the mines ought to be so organised as to prevent over-production in the market. (Applause.)

The following resolutions were then unanimously carried: 1st That the miners' representatives be requested to take the necessary steps for the formation of a Board of Conciliation, to be composed of an equal number of employers and workmen. 2nd That the men of the South Staffordshire and East Worcestershire districts be urged to play on Mondays, with a view of preventing over-production, and the consequent lowering of wages; and, for the purpose of effecting this, all pledge themselves to join the Union.

The meeting was very enthusiastic, and terminated with the customary votes of thanks.”

Birmingham Daily Post 31/10/1888

“A meeting of nailers' delegates was held at the VINE INN, Blackheath, on Monday night, Mr. H. Lee presiding, for the purpose of receiving reports from the various districts as to the prices being paid. It was reported that one large firm had not been paying the price agreed upon at the meeting of masters in Birmingham, the difference being 2d and 3d per bundle. The firm in question had been waited upon by representatives of the association, and they at once agreed to refund the money, and to pay the list price in future to their operatives. It was also reported that some of the employers were keeping their employes short of work. It was intimated that it was the intention of the delegates to agitate shortly for another advance of wages, as it was contended that nailers could not live upon the present rate of wages, as the price of coal and other articles was increasing, and had already swallowed up the 10 per cent advance recently conceded. It was decided that a public testimonial fund should be opened with a view to recognising the services rendered by the late president, Mr. John Price, who has been chairman of the association for over forty years."

Birmingham Daily Post 5/2/1889

"At a meeting of Liberals in the North-East division of Rowley, held at the VINE INN, High Street, Black Heath, it was decided to form a working men's Liberal club similar to the one recently established at Old Hill. Addresses were delivered by Messrs. B. Hadley and I. Cashmore, and a large committee was appointed to carry out the proposal."

Birmingham Daily Post 24/5/1889

"Last night a meeting of rivetmakers was held at the VINE INN, Blackheath, under the presidency of Mr. Cashmore. The Chairman explained that a short time ago notice was given for a return to the 4s list, but arrangements were made and a price fixed upon for a period of three months. The arrangement would terminate on the 8th ult. It was the intention of the operatives to give notice next Saturday for a reconsideration of the list of prices. The men would claim the 4s list, which represented an increase of between 10 and 12 per cent upon the prices at present paid. During the time the notice was running endeavours would be made to arrange a conference between masters and men, for the purpose of settling the matter in an amicable manner, and thus prevent one of those disastrous strikes which had frequently taken place in the trade. It was decided to give the notice referred to by the chairman tomorrow."

Birmingham Daily Post 24/6/1889

"On Saturday Mr. I. Cashmore waited upon the employers in the rivet trade in the Rowley, Blackheath, and Old Hill districts, and presented an appeal, prepared by Mr. Green, of Old Hill, with regard to the claim of the operatives for an advance of wages. The whole of the masters, with one exception, signed the appeal, and thereby agreed to pay their workmen the 4s list prices, which represents an increase of about 10 per cent. On Saturday afternoon a meeting of the men on strike was held at the VINE INN, High Street, Blackheath, when Mr. Cashmore reported the result of his interview with the employers. His report was considered highly satisfactory, and it was resolved to resume work today."

County Express 11/1/1890

"William Henry Taylor, VINE INN, Blackheath, was charged with permitting drunkenness on his licensed premises on the 11th December.

Police-sergeant Hayward deposed to visiting the house at 11.5 on the night named, and to finding man named Evans drunk, and lying asleep across a table. On the table there was a large can containing beer, and also a jug containing beer near too. Witness found the defendant in the smoke room playing cards. He called his attention to the man, and the defendant ordered him off. Mr. Waldron, for the defence said that assuming all the prosecution had said was true, there was no case against his client, inasmuch as the latter had not the slightest knowledge that the man Evans was on the premises. In support of this he proposed to call defendant and several witnesses. The witnesses would state that the man Evans went into the house drunk, and lay down and fell asleep upon the premises. The case was dismissed."

1891 Census

11, High Street – VINE INN

- [1] William H. Taylor (25), publican, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Mary Taylor (27), wife, born West Bromwich;
- [3] Mabel Taylor (1), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Frederick Sippitts (66), father-in-law, widower, assistant brewer, born Grinstead, Sussex;
- [5] Flora Sippitts (5), niece, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] Mary Priest (15), domestic servant (nurse), born Rowley Regis:

William Henry Taylor, beer retailer, 11, High Street. [1896], [1912]

Worcestershire Chronicle 25/11/1899 - Advert

"General Wanted, thoroughly experienced, 20 to 25, for business house; fond of children; girl kept; no washing or baking; good reference required; commence at £15.

Taylor, VINE INN, Blackheath, Dudley."

1901 Census

12, High Street – VINE INN

- [1] William H. Taylor (35), widower, publican, born Blackheath;
- [2] Mabel M. Taylor (11), daughter, born Blackheath;
- [3] Frederick G. Taylor (9), son, born Blackheath;
- [4] Jessie Taylor (8), daughter, born Blackheath;

- [5] William H. Taylor (5), son, born Blackheath;
[6] Joseph Taylor (4), son, born Blackheath;
[7] Mary Wharton (22), housekeeper, born Blackheath:

County Advertiser 15/8/1903

“Blackheath. VINE INN Angling Society. A contest recently took place amongst the members of this society at Wyre Piddle, near Pershore, under very favourable conditions. The prize winners were: 1st Mr. Rawbone; 2nd Mr. Hampton; 3rd Mr. Woolrich; 4th Mr. Nicholls; 5th Mr. Mason; 6th Mr. Hatton; and 7th Mr. Jones. Mr. Rawbone captured fish weighing 2lb 13oz, and an extra prize was awarded to Mr. Hampton for the largest fish.”

County Advertiser 23/4/1904

“On Monday night Mr. H. A. Pearson (coroner) held an inquest at the VINE INN, High Street, respecting the death of John William Jinks (15), whose parents reside at Beet Street, and whose death occurred under singular circumstances. It appeared from the evidence of the mother of the deceased and a fellow workman, that the youth was employed at Messrs. Stewart and Lloyd’s tube works at Coombs Wood, in the paint department. On February 22nd deceased scratched his knee against an iron paint can. Three days later he complained to his mother of pain in his knee. Dr. McQueen attended him, and he left his work on February 26th. Blood poisoning set in, and although an operation was performed, he gradually sank, and died on Saturday. Dr. McQueen attributed death to exhaustion, following blood poisoning, the result of the scratch on the knee. The jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death.”

County Advertiser 14/5/1904

“Recently, in connection with the A.O.F. at Blackheath, a very pleasant evening was spent by the members of court Mistletoe Bough, held at the VINE INN, High Street. Bro. W. Lewis, CR, presided, and there was a good attendance of members. Addresses were given by Bro. D. M. Chapman, DS, and Bro. S. Priest, PDCR. During the proceedings Bro. W. Nock, the court secretary, presented to Bro. S. Portman, the retiring CR, with an emblem of the Order, very handsomely framed in oak; and the DS further presented to Bro. Portman a PCR ribbon. Other speeches followed, and the evening passed very pleasantly.”

County Advertiser 2/7/1904

“A sensation was caused in Blackheath district on Tuesday evening by the arrest of a man named William Windsor (26), nut and bolt maker, of High Street, Blackheath, on a charge of attempting to murder his wife, Emily Windsor. It appears that the parties have been married about four years, but have, it is said, lived rather unhappily together for some considerable time past. On Tuesday afternoon Windsor left his employment at Messrs. Lench’s shortly after two o’clock, but before going home he called at the VINE INN, High Street, Blackheath. Mrs. Windsor apparently got to know that her husband was at the public house, for she sent a lad to the premises with a message for him to come home. Prisoner absolutely refused to go home, and subsequently Mrs. Windsor went to the public house and repeated her request in person. Some words passed between the parties, as a result of which the prisoner told his wife to go home. She did so, and was followed a little later by her husband. Mrs. Windsor carries on business as a greengrocer and general dealer, and upon arrival at the shop the quarrel appears to have been renewed. Then it is alleged that Windsor suddenly seized a large carving knife, used for the purpose of cutting bacon, and drew it across his wife’s throat. Fortunately, the knife was not very sharp, or else the woman must have been badly wounded, if not killed outright. However, a wound was inflicted on the side of the neck. The wound is rather deep, is about two inches in length, and approaches close to the jugular vein. The woman escaped from the house, and made her way to the Police Station in Halesowen Street, where she was seen by Police-constable Orme. The police-constable bandaged the woman’s wound, from which blood was flowing freely. In the meantime Dr. McQueen was called, and after the wound had been dressed the woman was removed to her home. The wound is not of a dangerous character. Immediately afterwards Police-sergeant Bentley and Police-constable Orme arrested the husband in Halesowen Street, and he was charged with attempting to murder his wife. In reply to the charge he made a statement. He was then locked up.

Prisoner was brought before Messrs. J. Green and C. A. Lloyd at the Police Court on Wednesday morning, and was charged with the attempted murder of his wife. Police-sergeant Bentley stated that from information he received he apprehended the prisoner on Tuesday night. He was charged with attempting to murder his wife, and made the following statement in reply, ‘I came home from work at two o’clock. I called in Mr. Taylor’s at the VINE INN. My wife sent a lad after me. Then my wife came whilst I was talking to a party. She drank my beer. I said to her, ‘Go on up home.’ We went home, my wife struck me. I went into the front place to cut some bacon, and I must have slung the knife which cut her.’ Sergeant Bentley added that the woman had received a deep wound in the side of the neck, but that it was not of a dangerous character. She was under the care of Dr. McQueen, and was unable to be present at the Court.

Superintendent Hodgkinson applied for a remand for seven days which was granted by the magistrates. No application was made for bail by the prisoner.”

Oxford Times 9/7/1904

“Charged with drawing a carving-knife across his wife’s throat because she sent for him from a public house, William Windsor was on Wednesday ordered three months’ imprisonment at Rowley, Staffordshire.”

County Advertiser 9/9/1905

“On Wednesday night, Mr. William Taylor, landlord of the VINE INN, High Street, Blackheath, gave a supper to about 90 of his customers and friends. An excellent repast was provided to which full justice was done by the company. Afterwards Mr. J. Dingley presided over the gathering, and the vice-chair was occupied by Mr. W. Lewis. After the loyal toast had been honoured, the chairman proposed the health of the host and also moved a vote of thanks to him for his generosity. He remarked that Mr. Taylor was a capital host and also a friend of the poor in the Blackheath district. He always endeavoured to do his duty, and was ready and willing to assist in any charitable movement in the district. The toast was supported by the vice-chairman and Messrs. G. Swain and W. Hewitt, and was received in an enthusiastic manner. Mr. Taylor, in responding, thanked the chairman and others for their remarks. He was very proud and pleased to meet them and hoped they had all spent an enjoyable time. During the evening a capital music programme was gone through. Songs were rendered by Messrs. Enoch Moore, W. Holloway, R. Ashman, C. Hadley, H. Wood, J. Mole, F. Wood, C. Whitehouse, S. Smith, J. Williams, J. Haywood, and W. Ashman, whilst recitations were given by Mr. E. Westwood.”

1911 Census

11, High Street – VINE INN

- [1] William Henry Taylor (45), brewer, born Blackheath;
- [2] Mary Taylor (32), wife, married 9 years, assisting in the business, born Blackheath;
- [3] Mabel Mary Taylor (21), daughter, assisting in the business, born Blackheath;
- [4] Jessie Taylor (18), daughter, assisting in the business, born Blackheath;
- [5] William Henry Taylor (15), son, assisting in the business, born Blackheath;
- [6] Joseph Taylor (14), son, school, born Blackheath;
- [7] Albert Edward Taylor (9), son, born Blackheath;
- [8] May Taylor (8), daughter, born Blackheath;
- [9] Samuel Taylor (6), son, born Blackheath;
- [10] Hugh Cecil Taylor (4), son, born Blackheath;
- [11] Howard Taylor (3), son, born Blackheath;
- [12] Charles Taylor (1), son, born Blackheath:

William Henry Taylor was also a brewer. [1921]

Fred Thomas, beer retailer, 11, High Street. [1924]

Thomas Dudley – check also BULLS HEAD.

Birmingham Daily Gazette 8/10/1932

“People among the aristocracy and in humble walks of life will now be in a state of varying degrees of suspense till next Wednesday (when the race is to be run) as a result of the draw yesterday for horses in connection with the Irish Hospitals Sweepstake on the Cesarewitch. The luck of the Midlands – as in former Irish Sweepstakes – has held good. Of the 621 counterfoils drawn yesterday for horses nearly 40 belong to the Midlands, including nine in Birmingham. The total amount available for prizes is £2,378, 939 – £481,622 less than in the Derby draw. There are again romantic stories behind the holding of some of the winning tickets.....

Blackheath. ‘Rummy’ which covers the identity of Mr. Guy Robey, licensee of the VINE INN, Blackheath, has drawn Saphir with the only ticket he purchased. He had previously bought tickets in sweeps, without having luck. His former nom-de-plume was ‘Black Cat’ and he changed this to ‘Rummy’ on the suggestion of Mrs. Robey, who had played rummy at cards.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 4/10/1934

“Old Hill Licensing Justice yesterday granted a music and dancing license in respect of the new Liberal Club, Cradley Heath. Permission was also given for structural alterations at the VINE INN, Blackheath, the OLD DUN COW, Gorsty Hill, and the BULLS HEAD, Rowley.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 7/3/1935

“Plans for structural alterations at the VINE INN, Blackheath, were approved at yesterday’s adjourned meeting of the Rowley Regis Licensing Justices.”

Demolished

Rebuilt

A wine license was granted on 3rd March 1937.

Birmingham Daily Gazette 4/3/1937

“Rowley Regis licensing justices’ adjourned meeting at Old Hill yesterday.....

‘Wine licenses are of importance because it is common knowledge that at Christmas time a great deal of drunkenness was due to the terrible stuff which people were getting from cheap so-called British wines,’ said Mr. W. H. Thompson, solicitor, when applying for a wine license for the VINE INN, High Street, Blackheath.

The application was granted, as was also a similar one in respect of the MANCHESTER HOUSE, High Street, Blackheath.”

Staffordshire Advertiser 1/5/1937

“County justices attending a meeting of the Staffordshire Licensing Confirmation Committee at the Shirehall, Stafford, on Tuesday, had to deal with the heaviest agenda for many years, and it was found impossible to get through the whole of the business in the day. There were no fewer than 36 applications for the confirmation of either provisional licences or removal orders.....

Application was made for confirmation of the granting of wine licenses to the following beerhouses.....

VINE INN, Blackheath, Rowley Regis.....

After hearing evidence by the individual applicants the justices retired, and on their return the Chairman said they had given careful consideration to the applications. It would be appreciated that it was their duty to see that the public were protected to a certain extent. They wished to give all the accommodation, comfort and satisfaction that they could, but at the same time they had to bear in mind their responsibility as a licensing authority. In some of the cases they felt the evidence showed the application was much more justifiable than in others, but they had decided that in all the cases there was sufficient evidence to justify the granting of the application. The licenses would, therefore, be confirmed in every case.”

1939 Register

11, High Street

[1] Harold Biddle, date of birth 4/4/1898, licensee, married;

[2] Ruby Biddle, dob 17/11/1898, unpaid domestic duties, married;

Birmingham Daily Gazette 25/11/1943

“A cheque for £72 has been handed to the Red Cross by Mrs. H. Biddle, proprietress of the VINE INN, Blackheath, as a result of a special ‘Effort Week’ organised by the customers.

On the final Tuesday night a concert was staged, thanks being extended to all concerned for giving their services. The chairman was Mr. L Bird and those taking part were Harper and Blaydon, Mrs. Barratt, Reg King, Bill Field, Bill Cumley, Mrs. Pigot, Ivy Fletcher, A. Dearn, and C. Parkes.”

William Henry Marshall – see also COOKSEY.

A Publican’s license was granted on 2nd February 1949.

It was transferred to a Full License on 27th April 1949.

Ken Platt was married to Maureen.

See also BEECH TREE, Blackheath and BIRD IN HAND, Netherton.

Halesowen News 12/4/2007

“A 64-year-old man suffered injuries to his nose after being repeatedly kicked in the face during a brutal attack in Blackheath.

The man was assaulted by three men shortly after leaving the VINE public house at 11.15pm on Thursday April 5. Officers say the man fell to the floor after being hit on the head as he walked down Short Street and was then kicked several times. His attackers stole £40 before running off in the direction of Henderson Way. Police are hoping to trace a person who dialled the emergency services after witnessing the attack.”

Express & Star 22/3/2021

“Pubs group Marston’s has issued a list of pubs set to reopen in the Black Country on April 12th. In the Express & Star circulation area this takes in 93. Due to coronavirus restrictions they will only be able to accommodate customers in outdoor areas including beer gardens and seated areas. To accompany table service, Marston’s has introduced an online ordering system called ‘Marston’s Tap’. The online platform is available across the majority of Marston’s pubs for guests to use. Bookings are being accepted and guests can reserve a table via each pub’s website. Wolverhampton-based Marston’s has an estate of around 1,400 pubs across the UK and not all in England are able to reopen in April due to not having an outdoor space.....

VINE INN, High Street, Rowley Regis.

[2019]

VINE

Corngreaves Road / Prince Street, (20, King Street), CRADLEY HEATH

OWNERS

Mrs. Barley, Cradley Heath

Hereford and Tredegar Breweries Ltd.

Wolverhampton and Dudley Breweries Ltd. (acquired on 14th January 1939)

LICENSEES

Edward Probert [1865]
Wilkins [1866]
Herbert Hingley [1868] – [1870]
John Poole [1871] – 1882;
Joseph Foley (1882 – [1893]
Mrs. Louisa Foley [1894] – [1901]
Frances Ellen Foley (1904);
James Brown (1904 – 1909);
Nelson Watts (1909 – 1918)
Garnett Watts []
John Watts [1919] – 1921);
John Turner (1921 – 1923);
George Frederick Wale (1923 – 1925);
Richard Jones (1925 – 1929);
Frank Coley (1929 – 1930);
William Alfred Baker (1930);
Reginald 'Reg' Johnson (1930 – 1935);
Alf Burnell [c.1934] ?
Henry John Parkes (1935 – 1940);
George Lewis (1940 – 1947);
Annie Eliza Lewis (1947 – 1951);
Martin Ridley Barnsley (1951);
George Arthur Edge (1951 – [1981]
Stephen James Morley [] – 1985);
Martin Andrew Ritchie (1985 – 1988);
George Lacey (1988 – []

NOTES

King Street [1866], [1871], [1891], [1951]
20, King Street [1881], [1881], [1891], [1911], [1912], [1916], [1921], [1924], [1939], [1940]

It had a beerhouse license.

Wolverhampton Chronicle 25/4/1855

“An adjourned inquest was held on Monday evening (April 23), before G. H. Hinchliffe, Esq, coroner, at the VINE INN, Cradley Heath, Rowley Regis, on the body of Joseph Westwood. The deceased was a chainmaker, and on the 14th April he was at work in his usual good health. He quitted the shop for a few minutes, when he was found in the garden, a short distance from the shop, quite insensible and frothing from the mouth. He was immediately conveyed into the house, and expired in a few minutes. Mr. Higgs, surgeon, who was called in, afterwards made a post mortem examination, stated the death was produced by apoplexy. Verdict in accordance with medical evidence.”

County Advertiser 15/4/1865

“On Monday last Joseph Guest, aged 29, was killed by a fall of coal in a pit belonging to Mr. W. H. Dawes, at Withymoor, near Dudley. On Wednesday an inquest was held on his body by Mr. E. Hooper, Coroner, at the VINE INN, Cradley Heath. Mr. J. P. Baker, Government Mine Inspector, was present, and Mr. Gill attended on behalf of Mr. Dawes. The evidence was to the effect that on the day in question the deceased and another man were at work in the gate-road, and that about twenty minutes to eleven o'clock a lump of coal, about two hundred weight, fell upon deceased's neck, and killed him on the spot. The gate-road was nine feet wide at the bottom, and six feet six at the top; no timber was required at the working. A 'bumping' had been heard in the pit that morning, but the 'deputy' had carefully examined all the workings. It was shown that the rules of the colliery were frequently read over to the men. Mr. Inspector Baker stated that he had examined the pit, and found that the fall of coal was caused by the superincumbent weight. He considered that the pit was well and properly worked, but recommended that there should always be a liberal supply of timber. Mr. Gill, on behalf of Mr. Dawes, said that this suggestion should be carried out. The jury immediately returned a verdict of Accidental Death.”

London Gazette 30/1/1866

“Edward Probert, formerly of the Woolpack Inn, Saint Nicholas-street, Hereford, in the county of Hereford, Licensed Victualler, but now of the VINE INN, Fourways, Cradley Heath, in the county of Stafford, Beerhouse Keeper, adjudicated bankrupt on the 12th day of December, 1865. An Order of Discharge was granted by the County Court of Herefordshire, holden at Hereford, on the 26th day of January, 1866.”

Stourbridge Observer 5/5/1866

“VINE INN, King Street, Cradley Heath.

Mr. W. Hinton will Sell by Auction on Monday Next, May 7th 1866, on the Premises as above, the Stock and Fixtures, consisting of 160 and 60 gallon Iron Boilers, 16-strike Mash Tub, Gathering Tubs, 6 Rum Puncheons, 4 half hogsheads, and several smaller casks, part of a Pocket of Hops, Malt Crusher, several pieces of Furniture and a large quantity of Useful Effects, belonging to Mr. Wilkins, under a Bill of Sale.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 28/5/1866 - Advert

“To be Let, with immediate possession, VINE INN, Cradley Heath, near Corngreaves Iron Works. Coming-in low; and is situated in a well populated neighbourhood, and fitted up with every convenience. A Person of business habits would find this a good opportunity.

Apply, T. Burley, and Mr. Chandler, Auctioneer.”

County Advertiser 22/9/1866 - Advert

“VINE INN, King Street, Cradley Heath.

To be Let, with immediate possession, the above Corner House, which is situate at the junction of three roads, and near to Corngreaves Iron Works. A pushing man of business would find this a good investment, the house being very roomy and admirably adapted, from its excellent situation, for the business. Coming-in about £25. Present proprietor is retiring from the trade.

Apply to Mr. Chandler, Publicans' Valuer, &c, Cradley Heath.”

Hereford Journal 20/10/1866 - Advert

“Advertisement of Dividend Meeting in Newspaper. The Bankruptcy Act, 1861.

In the County Court of Herefordshire, holden at Hereford, in the matter of Edward Probert, formerly of the Wool Pack Inn, Saint Nicholas Street, Hereford, in the County of Hereford, Licensed Victualler, but now of the VINE INN, Fourways, Cradley Heath, in the County of Stafford, Beerhouse keeper, adjudicated Bankrupt on the Twelfth day of December, 185. A meeting of the Creditors of this Bankrupt will be held before the Registrar, at the County Court Office, Hereford, on the Sixth day of November, 1866, at Eleven o'clock in the Forenoon precisely, for the purpose of declaring a dividend, and also whether any allowance shall be made to the bankrupt. Proofs of debts will be received, and Creditors who have not yet proved, and do not then prove, will be excluded the benefit of the dividend.

John James Reynolds, Registrar.”

County Express 6/7/1867 - Advert

“VINE INN, King Street, Cradley Heath.

To be Let, with immediate possession, the above Corner House, which is situate at the junction of three roads, and near to Corngreaves Ironworks. The House being very roomy is admirably adapted from its excellent position for the business. Coming-in low.

Apply to Mr. Chandler, Publicans' Valuer, &c, Cradley Heath.”

Stourbridge Observer 26/9/1868

“Herbert Hingley, landlord of the VINE INN, Cradley Heath, was charged by Superintendent Mills with keeping his house open for the sale of beer on the 21st ult, at twelve o'clock. Mr. Ponton defended.

Police-constable Thompson said that he visited the house a few minutes past twelve o'clock. He saw a gallon bottle and another bottle filled with ale, and carried away.

Mr. Ponton addressed the Bench for the defence, and contended that it had not been proved in evidence that any sale took place, and that it was the defendant's brother who was there, and he (defendant) gave him the beer in the two bottles to take home.

Ordered to pay costs.”

Stourbridge Observer 28/1/1871

“On Wednesday last one of those gatherings took place at the house of Mr. John Poole, VINE INN, which are rather popular in this district, known as a 'Housewarming,' which is understood to be a warming or benefit to the worthy host. In this instance the housewarming was fully carried out. A goodly number mustered at 2.30, amongst whom we noticed Mr. B. Bissell, Mr. Henry Barber, Mr. B. Danks, Mr. W. Willetts, Mr. T. Poole, Mr. I. Hall, Mr. T. Parsons, Mr. Sturman, Mr. W. Smith, Mr. T. Burley, Mr. W. Field, Mr. J. Bunn, &c, &c, the number increasing during the afternoon to about 40. An excellent spread having been duly honoured, Mr. W. Field was voted to the chair, and Mr. H. Priest to the vice chair. The Queen and the Royal Family were toasted. As usual the remaining portion of the list was of a more general character.

We should not close this notice without remarking that an excellent sprinkling of vocal talent was present; in fact, it was an evening of enjoyment long to be remembered by those present.”

Stourbridge Observer 11/3/1871 - Advert

“The VINE INN, Corngreaves, Cradley Heath.

John Poole Begg to inform the Public that he has taken to the above Old-Established Inn, where he will be glad to see his Old and New Friends.

Home-Brewed and Burton Ales, and Dublin Stout, Of the Best Quality.

Free and Easy Every Night.

Don't Forget the Address.”

1871 Census

King Street – VINE INN

[1] John Poole (50), engine driver at colliery and beer seller, born Netherton;

[2] Phebe Poole (48), wife, born Netherton;

[3] David Poole (22), son, labourer, born Netherton;

[4] Thomas Poole (20), son, engine driver, born Netherton:

County Advertiser 8/7/1871

“On Tuesday evening about thirty friends met at the house of Mr. John Poole, the VINE INN, where a capital dinner was served up. The cloth being removed, a chairman was appointed, and the usual loyal toasts and sentiments given and responded to. The musical proceedings were opened by the Netherton String Band, consisting of the following: Mr. David Poole, 1st violin; Mr. Jesse Poole, 2nd violin; Mr. John Prince, violincello; Mr. Thomas Poole, double bass; and Mr. William Cooper ably assisted on the pianoforte. The overture to the ‘Caliph of Bagdad’ was the first performance, and was followed through the evening by other overtures, airs, solos, &c, which were executed in a masterly manner. At intervals Mr. John Poole, Mr. Thomas Poole, and Mr. Samuel Sturman, sang some popular songs; and these were interspersed with recitations. A very enjoyable evening was spent by all present.”

Stourbridge Observer 10/2/1872

“John Poole, landlord of the VINE INN beerhouse, was charged with selling drink during prohibited hours on the 26th ult. Police-constable Craddock proved seeing two lads come out of defendant’s house with some ale on the night in question, a few minutes to twelve. He went inside, and found two men in the back kitchen. They had a quart jug and a glass before them. The glass was half full of ale.

This was the first case against the defendant, who was ordered to pay costs.”

Stourbridge Herald 14/12/1872

“John Poole, beerhouse keeper, was summoned by Superintendent Miss for permitting gambling in his house, on the 30th. Mr. Shakespeare defended.

Police-constable Bailey said he visited the defendant’s house at 9.45. As soon as he got into the kitchen he saw some scuffling going on with two boys. Heard ‘ten’ called out, and saw defendant’s son-in-law putting something down on a raffle sheet. Witness then took the two dice now produced out of one of the boy’s hands, and the cup out of the other boy’s pocket. Witness asked the landlord to let him look at the sheet. He showed it to witness, who took possession of it, and told him he should report it. Defendant said he hoped not. Did not see any gambling or anything on the table.

Defendant was dismissed with a caution, and the dice and cup forfeited.”

County Express 3/1/1874

“Joseph Williams was charged with having been, upon the 14th ult, disorderly upon licenses premises, and refusing to quit, when requested by the landlord, John Poole. The complainant said he kept the VINE INN, Cradley Heath, and upon the night in question the defendant refused to leave his house when he requested him to do so. Complainant would not press the charge and the defendant was fined 1s and costs, or seven days’ hard labour.”

County Advertiser 13/3/1875 - Advert

“On Sale, a good serviceable Trap. Price £4 10s.

Apply at Mr. John Poole’s, VINE INN, Cradley.”

County Advertiser 27/3/1875 - Deaths

“On the 23rd inst, Phoebe, wife of Mr. John Poole, of the VINE INN, King Street, Cradley Heath, aged 51 years; deeply regretted.”

County Express 14/8/1875

“The anniversary of the No.2 Court of the Independent Order of Foresters, was held at the court house, Mr. John Poole’s, VINE INN, on Monday last. Dinner was served up in Mr. Poole’s usually excellent style. Thirty members sat down.....”

County Advertiser 18/3/1876 - Advert

“Independent Order of Foresters.

The Committee of No.2 Court of the above Order, beg to announce that they have made arrangements for a Grand Evening Concert (under the Patronage of the Nobility of the district), on Tuesday Evening, March 28th, 1876, in the High Town Ragged School, Cradley, for the benefit of the Widows and Orphans Fund in connection with the above Court.

Principal Vocalists: Miss Hampton; Miss Court; Mr. Jno. Poole; Mr. Jos. Poole; Mr. T. Poole; and Mr. J. Fry.

A Glee Party will also be in attendance.

Solo Flautist, Mr. T. Bryant; Solo Cornet, Mr. J. Westwood; Solo Pianoforte, Miss M. Broughall; Accompanist, Mr. Billingham.

Chair to be taken by J. Broughall, Esq, Colley Gate.

Prices of Admission – Reserved Seats, 1s; Unreserved Seats, 6d. Doors open at 6.30, Concert to commence at 7pm.

Tickets may be had of J. Broughall, Esq, Colley Gate; Messrs. J. Poole, VINE INN; T. Homer, D, Cordwell, High Street; J.

Thompson, Queen Street, Cradley Heath; or any Members of the Court.”

County Advertiser 6/5/1876

“Benjamin Hodgetts was charged with bring disorderly on the licensed premises of John Poole, and refusing to quit when ordered to do so, on the 26th ult. Prosecutor said defendant came into his house, the VINE INN, Cradley Heath, drunk, and was very disorderly. He refused to quit the house when witness ordered him to do so, and was finally ejected by force. Fined 2s 6d and costs.”

County Express 12/8/1876

“On Monday last No.2 Court of the Ancient Order of Foresters, held their annual meeting at their Court House, Mr. John Poole’s, VINE INN, Cradley Heath. At two o’clock a large number of members sat down to dinner, bountifully supplied, and served up in good style. The balance sheet presented by the Secretary showed the Society to be in a flourishing condition, the funds and number of members being considerably larger than last year. The evening was spent in a very pleasing manner. The usual toasts were proposed and drunk with musical honours. After supper, songs, solos, glees, &c, were given by several of the members, concluding with the National Anthem.”

County Express 30/12/1876

“Charles Westwood was charged with having refused to quit a licensed house kept by John Poole. The landlord supplied defendant with some ale, but finding he had had enough already, refused to allow him to drink, and ordered him to leave. Defendant refused to do so and created a disturbance. Defendant was fined 5s and costs or 14 days.”

County Express 3/8/1878

“On Monday last, the members of No.2 Court of the Ancient Order of Foresters, held their annual meeting at the court house, Mr. J. Poole’s, VINE INN, Cradley Heath. Dinner was served up in the host’s usually excellent style.....”

County Express 16/8/1879

“On Monday last the annual meeting of the Independent Order of Foresters, Court No.2, was held at the house of Mr. John Poole, VINE INN. A sumptuous dinner was prepared by the host for which the most hearty thanks of the members – about fifty in number – were tendered him. After dinner the court was opened for the transaction of business. The various officers were elected for the ensuing year, Mr. H. B. Thompson, surgeon of Cradley, being unanimously appointed medical attendant. The Secretary then read the financial statement, which revealed the society as being in a state of prosperity. Business over and the court declared closed, the members proceeded to enjoy themselves. Songs and recitations were given by various members, and the National Anthem terminated a very pleasantly spent evening.”

1881 Census

20, King Street – VINE INN

[1] John Poole (59), widower, commercial traveller, born Dudley;

[2] Anne Round (17), general servant, born Dudley:

AND

[1] Thomas Poole (30), brewer’s agent, born Dudley;

[2] Harriet Poole (30), wife, born Dudley;

[3] Phebe Hannah Poole (8), daughter, scholar born Dudley;

[4] John Thomas Poole (7), son, scholar, born Dudley;

[5] Anne Beatris Poole (4), daughter, scholar, born Dudley;

[6] Florence Elizabeth Poole (1), daughter, born Dudley;

AND

Inn Timber Yard

[1] Caroline Elizabeth Burley (48), widow, coach builder, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Samuel Foley (20), nephew, coach wheelwright, born Rowley Regis;

[3] Lewis Jones (17), apprentice wheelwright’s smith, born Dudley;

[4] Walter Stewart Hingley (15), nephew, assistant wheelwright’s smith, born Rowley Regis;

[5] Judy Ruby Hingley (7), visitor, scholar, born Rowley Regis:

Ford’s Household Almanack for 1881 - Advert

“VINE INN Concert Hall, 20, King Street, Cradley Heath. Proprietor John Poole.

A Good Company will Appear each Evening at the above Hall.

A Change of Artistes Every Week.

No Charge for Admission.

Refreshments of Superior Quality.

Agent for Charrington and Co’s Burton Ales.

London Stout.

Cigars of the Best Brands.

Ale Fining Manufacturer.”

County Advertiser 24/6/1882 - Advert

“To Publicans, Brokers, and Others.

To be Sold by Auction, by Mr. T. Homer, on Wednesday Next, the 28th day of June, 1882, at the VINE INN, King Street, Cradley Heath, several Half-hogsheads and other Casks, in good condition; Drinking Tables, Village Dog Cart (nearly new), Two Spring Traps, Chestnut Horse, Set of Harness, capital Sewing Machine, &c, &c, belonging to Mr. J. Poole, who is leaving the premises. Sale to commence at Two o'clock.”

County Advertiser 12/11/1887

“The members of the Judge and Jury Club held their harvest festival at the house of Mr. Joseph Foley, VINE INN, King Street, on the 6th and 7th inst. The sale of goods took place on Tuesday, and the proceeds, amounting to £2 2s, were forwarded to the Guest Hospital, on Wednesday evening.”

County Advertiser 26/4/1890

“Joseph Foley, landlord of the VINE INN, Corngreaves Road, was charged with permitting drunkenness on his licensed premises on the 8th inst. Mr. Waldron prosecuted, and Mr. Tanfield defended.

The facts were that on the date named Police-constables Davis and Collier visited defendant’s spirit vaults, and found there a number of men who were drinking, among whom were four men very much under the influence of drink. One of them was named Hingley. The landlord was present. They went away and reported to their inspector, who returned with Police-constable Davies and Wynn. He (the inspector) asked the men to stand up, but it was with great difficulty that they could do so. They saw the men come out and they staggered.

Inspector Bishop, Police-sergeant Hayward, and Police-constables Wynn and Collier corroborated.

Mr. Tanfield urged that the men had only had three pints of ale between them, and that there was nothing in their manner to show that they were drunk. A number of witnesses were called, who stated that the men were sober. Inspector Bishop stated that defendant had kept the house satisfactorily to the police for a good many years. The Bench inflicted a penalty of £5 and costs.”

Birmingham Daily Post 28/8/1890

“Old Hill. The Licensing Session for the division was held yesterday.....

Police-inspector Bishop reported that there were 163 license-holders in the division. Thirty-eight transfers had taken place since last licensing meeting. Five licensed victuallers and four beerhouse keepers had been fined, and 403 persons had been charged with drunkenness, three of whom were discharged. Mr. Bassano (presiding magistrate) said The report for the year was not at all satisfactory, as it reflected discreditably upon the licensed victuallers. He pointed out that it was becoming a very serious matter to have an increase of 138 cases of drunkenness in one year. All the licenses would be renewed with the exception of..... Joseph Foley, of the VINE INN, Cradley Heath.”

[The license was renewed at the Adjourned Licensing Sessions in September.]

County Advertiser 4/10/1890

“On Tuesday afternoon Mr. E. Hooper, coroner, held an inquest at the VINE INN, Corngreaves Road, respecting the death of William Norwood (63), chainmaker of Corngreaves Road, who was found dead in bed on Sunday afternoon. It was stated that deceased received 4s a week as wages and had to pay 1s for lodgings. The jury returned a verdict of Death from Natural Causes.”

1891 Census

20, King Street – VINE INN

- [1] Joseph Foley (58), publican, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Laura Foley (55), wife, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] Thomas Foley (29), son, brewer, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Marion Foley (25), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Joseph Edward Foley (18), son, wheelwright, born Stoke Edith, Herefordshire;
- [6] Amy Priscilla Foley (13), daughter, born Stoke Edith, Herefordshire:

AND

- [1] Caroline E. Burley (60), widow, master coach builder, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Sarah Hancox (59), boarder, born Dudley;
- [3] Walter Stuart Hingley (26), nephew, journeyman painter, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Joseph Price (22), boarder, journeyman blacksmith, born Dudley:

County Express 15/8/1891

“At the Police Court, on Wednesday, Joseph Foley, landlord of the VINE INN, King Street, Cradley Heath, was charged with permitting drunkenness on his licensed premises on the 26th ult. Mr. Waldron prosecuted, and Mr. Ward defended.

Mr. Waldron, in opening the case, said Police-constables Wynn and Collier visited the defendant’s house at 9.30 on the above evening. In the bar they saw a man named Thomas Price, who was very drunk, leaning on the counter, and dozing – apparently asleep. In front of Price was a pint cup containing a quantity of ale. Wynn called the defendant’s attention and his wife’s to Price’s state. They were both in the bar, and both conversant with what was going on. Mrs. Foley, in the presence of her husband, said she had only filled the man a pint of ale, and that she had not noticed he was so drunk as he was. She also said he had only been in a little time. Price was then ordered out by the defendant, who, whilst going down the passage, had to steady himself against the wall. Having regard to the day, and the condition of the man, it appeared to him to be rather a bad case against the defendant. The defendant evidently knew he had committed an offence, because on the next day, about twelve o’clock, he went to Wynn and said he hoped 'nothing would come of the job at his house.' Defendant had no right to say that to the officer. He asked for an exemplary punishment for this offence, because publicans must know, and must be taught that a public house was licensed for the sale and consumption of liquors, but not to be a drinking shop, and to allow working people to drink every penny they had for the enrichment of the publican.

Police-constable Wynn gave evidence bearing out Mr. Waldron's statement.

In answer to Mr. Ward, witness said he went to the house in consequence of a complaint he received from Price's wife, and a person named Homer. Defendant did not say he was not aware that there was nothing the matter with the man. Price asked if he was drunk and witness informed him that he was.

Police-constable Collier corroborated.

Mr. Ward said there was a peculiarity in this case which would possibly justify, in a great measure, the action of the police in bringing the case for investigation to that Court, while, at the same time, he ventured to hope it would enable him to prove to the satisfaction of the Court that while the officers were doing their duty they went to the house expecting to find a drunken person, and also that their judgement as to Price's condition was, to put in mildly, exaggerated. Many cases which had come before the Court had arisen in consequence of the complaints of wives, and no doubt in many cases had it not been for these complaints no police officer would have noticed the case. Landlords in that district were being persecuted, or he should say were being looked up very smartly. Publicans were entitled to justice. Mrs. Homer, one of the persons who made the complaint, had been subpoenaed by the police, and had not been called to give evidence.

Mr. Waldron said the whole thing was a fabrication.

Mr. Ward: Those are my instructions.

Mr. Waldron: It only shows how inaccurately you are instructed then.

Defendant was then called, and said Price was perfectly sober when he came in and when he went out. He did not ask Wynn to look the matter over the next day.

Cross-examined: On April 23rd witness was convicted and fined £5 and costs for permitting drunkenness.

Mr. Waldron: Do you consider that you have been at all persecuted by the police?

Mr. Ward: I object.

Mr. Waldron: You introduced it, and said this was a persecuted district.

Inspector Bishop: I consider it is most unbecoming of a professional gentleman like Mr. Ward to make such a statement. I am responsible for this place.

Mr. Ward: The Court will agree that I used that expression and moderated it immediately.

Mr. Waldron: Do you withdraw it or not?

Mr. Hickman said the Bench at that place looked to the police to go to public houses to find where drunkenness was encouraged. If publicans did not supply poor working men with a lot of beer, there would not be any necessity for them to be brought before the magistrates and fined heavily for drunkenness. The police were entitled to take every opportunity of tracing it to the publicans. The Bench had nothing at all against publicans. The majority of them, no doubt, were a most respectable body of men.

Mr. Ward: I agree with that, and I am entitled to say this, that in using that word persecuted I immediately moderated it.

Mr. Waldron: Do you withdraw it?

Mr. Ward: I am making a statement to the Bench.

Mr. Hickman: The shorthand writers have got it, and it goes forth to the public.

Mr. Ward: I said the police did their duty only, and I moderated the other word I used.

Mr. Waldron: You said it was a persecuted district.

Mr. Ward: It was a word that slipped, and I moderated it.

Mr. Waldron: Do you withdraw it?

Mr. Ward: Don't ask me any questions.

Inspector Bishop: I must ask Mr. Ward to withdraw those remarks, or state a single case where there has been persecution.

Mr. Ward: I immediately moderated that. In using the word persecuted I did not mean to say for a moment that the police went beyond their duty.

Mr. Hickman: There is only one meaning of the word persecution, and that goes to the public,

Mr. Ward: I say unreservedly the police did not go beyond their duty, and they cannot have anything more ample than that.

Inspector Bishop: I cannot say I am satisfied with that. I want Mr. Ward to quote a case, if he persists in saying the publicans have been persecuted. I am responsible for this district, and am surprised to hear such a remark fall from a gentleman like Mr. Ward.

Mr. Ward: If it can be any personal relief to the inspector I'll say that he has done no more than his duty, and therefore there can be no persecution.

Mr. Hickman: I think such a remark should be withdrawn.

Mr. Ward: It was purely a slip, and I immediately moderated it.

Mr. Hickman: We have never heard anything in Court like this before.

Mr. Ward: I hope it will not prejudice this case. For Inspector Bishop's satisfaction I say he always does his duty.

Mr. Goodman: The word persecution, no doubt, ought not to have been used.

Mr. Ward: Oh, no; and I immediately moderated it.

Louisa Foley, wife of defendant; Joseph Brettell, George Attwood, and William Hackett, swore that Price was perfectly sober.

Zipporah Richards said she saw Price at 9.30, and he then appeared sober.

Cross-examined: She had not told the inspector that Price was helplessly drunk.

Elizabeth Homer said she accompanied Mrs. Price to the police station on the Sunday night in question. At half-past seven Price was sober.

Thomas Price was called, and said in consequence of a quarrel with his wife, she did not come home all day on Sunday. He went to the defendant's house shortly before two, and had a pint of beer, and also took a pint home. He went again and had a pint of ale which was paid for by Brettell.

Cross-examined: He went to bed and got up at seven. When he came downstairs he was in a good temper. He threw the sugar on the fire.

Inspector Bishop said since the previous convection defendant had conducted the house exceedingly well. and he had not received a complaint.

Mr. Ward: I hope the press will take it.

The Bench said they had carefully considered the case, and they came to the conclusion that there was a case against the defendant, but as the police said the house had been well conducted, they would not endorse the license. They would not increase the fine, and defendant would be fined £5 and £1 19s costs.

The Bench desired to say after what had occurred in reference to the police, that the magistrates were anxious for the police to take up cases against publicans who allowed drunkenness. It would save a great deal of the cases of drunk and disorderly which came before the Bench every week.

Mr. Ward: Inspector Bishop knows I always consider he does his duty.

Inspector Bishop: Thank you.

Thomas Price, Corngreaves Road, Cradley Heath, was fined 2s 6d and costs, for being drunk on the licensed premises."

County Express 29/8/1891

"The annual licensing sessions for the Rowley Regis division of Staffordshire were held at the Police Court, Old Hill, on Wednesday.....

Mr. Waldron appeared for Joseph Foley, of the VINE INN, who was fined £5 and costs in August last, and £5 and costs for permitting drunkenness in September last. Adjourned."

AND

County Advertiser 29/8/1891

"The annual licensing sessions for Rowley Petty Sessional Division were held last Wednesday.....

The magistrates said they were pleased to learn that there had been a decrease in the drunken cases. They then proceeded to consider the 'black list'.....

Joseph Foley, of the VINE INN, was fined £5 and costs on the 30th April, 1890, for permitting drunkenness, and there was another conviction against him....."

County Express 3/10/1891

"Old Hill Adjourned Licensing Sessions.....

Mr. W. Bassano said the only case in which they proposed not to renew the license was in the case of the CROSS INN, Old Hill.....

Mr. Ward asked if all the other licenses were granted without any special application being necessary. Mr. Bassano said this was so. Of course they had, in the exercise of their discretion, thought there were several cases in which they might reasonably withhold the license, and the Bench had had a long discussion that morning before coming into Court as to whether they should do so in the case of a man fined £10 and costs. However, they had decided to grant the whole of the licenses this year, and they gave an intimation that in future the Bench would deal very stringently in cases of conviction under the licensing laws, both as regards the amount of fines and endorsements, and in the cases of endorsements they would deal more stringently. In plain English, this meant that a person with an endorsement against the house would in future have a very small chance indeed of getting his license renewed. They hoped the licensed victuallers and other licensed persons in the district would take a warning from that."

Joseph Foley died on 20th May 1893 and was buried at St. Luke's Church, Cradley Heath.

County Advertiser 27/5/1893

"On Saturday Joseph Foley, of the VINE INN, King Street, Cradley Heath, died suddenly. Deceased was conveying a load of coal from Whitley Wharf, and while passing near Overend he fell off the cart. He was speedily conveyed home, but life was found to be extinct, death being attributable to heart disease."

County Advertiser 13/1/1894

"On Monday night a well-attended meeting of representatives from football clubs in the Staffordshire district was held at the VINE INN, Cradley Heath, under the presidency of Mr. Giles, for the purpose of considering a proposal to establish a junior league for Staffordshire. It was decided to form a league for junior clubs in South Staffordshire, and 7s 6d per club was fixed as the entrance fee. It was stated that about thirteen clubs had joined the league. The following officers were elected: President, Councillor Round; secretary, J. Dearns; treasurer, S. Griffiths."

County Advertiser 12/5/1894

"John Westwood, chainmaker, Cradley Heath, was charged with being drunk on the licensed premises of Louisa Foley, VINE INN, Cradley Heath, on the 5th inst. Police-constable Bennett proved the case, and defendant was fined 10s and costs."

County Advertiser 26/5/1894 - In Memoriam

"In loving memory of Joseph Foley, the beloved husband of Louisa Foley, of Cradley Heath, who died May 20th, 1893."

Birmingham Daily Post 4/9/1894

“The Closing of Corngreaves Ironworks.

Yesterday a meeting of the promoters of the scheme for the relief of the men who have been thrown out of employment through the closing of the above works was held at the VINE INN, Cradley Heath. About £14, which has been collected from manufacturers and tradesmen in the district, was divided amongst the men. There were over a hundred recipients, and each man was paid 2s 9d, whilst the lads received 1s 4½d each. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the subscribers to the fund.”

County Advertiser 29/9/1894

“The Closing of Corngreaves Ironworks.

A meeting of the men who have been thrown of employment through the closing of these works was held on Monday last, at the VINE INN, King Street, Cradley Heath, Mr. B. Homer presiding. Complaints were made that several of the workmen had been collecting subscriptions without their books, and the public were requested to see that their donations were entered in a properly registered book. Altogether about £21, which had been collected from the various manufacturers, tradesmen, and others in the district was distributed amongst 112 men as follows: married men, 4s; single men, 3s; boys, 1s. This shows an increase of 1s in the cases of the married and single men upon last week’s relief. Votes of thanks were accorded the subscribers.”

Birmingham Daily Post 11/12//1894

“The Closing of Corngreaves Ironworks.

Yesterday a meeting of the operatives who have been thrown out of work through the closing of the above works was held at the VINE INN, Cradley Heath, Mr. Homer presiding. It was reported that the amount subscribed during the last week was £30, and this was distributed in the usual ratio amongst 140 men and youths.”

Birmingham Daily Post 23/4/1895

“The Unemployed at Cradley Heath.

Yesterday a meeting of the operatives thrown out of employment through the closing of the Corngreaves Ironworks was held at the VINE INN, Cradley Heath. Mr. B. Homer, who presided, remarked that they had now reached a sad crisis, and the total amount which could be granted to married men was 2s worth of provisions. The men were getting tired of living upon and craving for charity, and unless some employment was found for them they would be compelled to seek parish relief. This week they had only £10 9s 1d to distribute amongst nearly 100 men. It was decided to give married men provisions of the value of 2s and single men 1s worth each. The former were also presented with a packet of tea, and the latter with a packet of Cadbury’s cocoa. It is expected that the ranks of the unemployed in the district will be still further increased shortly by the stoppages of another industry.”

County Advertiser 25/5/1895

“The Closing of Corngreaves Ironworks.

On Monday a meeting of the men thrown out of employment through the closing of the above works was held at the VINE INN, King Street, Cradley Heath. Mr. B. Homer presided. The chairman announced another decrease in the subscriptions. The number of men seeking the relief had also decreased, some of them having found temporary employment. The number of applicants this week was 70, amongst whom £7 10s 4d was divided.”

County Advertiser 8/2/1896 - Advert

“Advertisement of Cancelling.

Notice is Hereby Given, that the Chief Registrar of Friendly Societies has, pursuant to 38 and 39 Vic. c.60, s.12, by writing under his hand, dated the 5th day of February, 1896, Cancelled the Registry of the Equitable Loan and Investment Society (Register No.2282), held at the VINE INN, King Street, Cradley Heath, in the County of Stafford, at its request.

The Society (subject to the right of appeal given by the said Act) ceases to enjoy the privileges of a Registered Society, but without prejudice to any liability incurred by the Society, which may be enforced against it as if such cancelling had not taken place. E. W. Brabrook, Chief Registrar.”

County Advertiser 14/8/1897

“Yesterday afternoon Mr. E. Hooper (coroner) held an inquest at the VINE INN, King Street, Cradley Heath, concerning the death of Joseph Oldacre (3), who resided with his mother in Corngreaves Road, Cradley Heath, and who was found drowned in a cistern near his home on Wednesday last. The child went out to play and was subsequently missed. On search being made his dead body was found in a cistern, which was covered with an iron plate. Sophia Lander, who discovered the body, said she had ten children, and the coroner reminded her she might have lost one in the same way, and that as she never complained to the landlord about the danger of the cistern, nor left the locality, she might in case of the loss of a child be in an awkward position. Police-constable Hughes described the place as dangerous. The covering plate weighed 107lbs. The property belonged to Mr. William Tibbetts. The jury found a verdict of Accidental Death.”

County Advertiser 19/2/1898

“A very successful smoking concert was held at the VINE INN, King Street, on Monday last, Mr. Oliver, of Stourbridge, presiding. The following gentlemen took part in a good programme: Messrs. S. Foley, D. Richards, J. Taylor, J. Stringer, J. Hackett, Farmer, J. E. Foley, E. Butler, S. Evans, and T. Foley.”

Worcestershire Chronicle 18/11/1899

“Worcestershire Autumn Assizes.....

William Lambkin (19), barman, was indicted for burglariously entering the dwelling house of William Feller, at Dudley, on August 9, and stealing therefrom £15 10s, the monies of the Wolverhampton and Dudley Breweries' Company Ltd. Mr. J. R. V. Marchant prosecuted.

Prosecutor, manager of the STATION HOTEL, Dudley, one of the Company's houses, stated that at one time prisoner was in his employ as 'boots,' and in that capacity had access to witness's room. On the morning of August 9 prosecutor found that a desk in his room had been opened and the money abstracted. The lock had been burned out. He found a pencil on the floor, which was afterwards identified as the property of prisoner.

William Whitehouse, tram guard, said that prisoner left the car opposite the STATION HOTEL on the night in question.

Mary Ann Pearson, barmaid at the VINE INN, Cradley Heath, said that prisoner was engaged there also for 13 days, leaving on August 6th. She identified the lead pencil found near the rifled desk.

Caleb Harris, puddler, Cradley Heath, said that prisoner lived next door to him in August last, leaving on the 7th. He lent him 6s, and had not yet been repaid.

Dr. Higgs gave evidence to the effect that PS White, a witness, could not attend, as he was confined to his bed with a broken leg. His depositions were read. In them he stated that he found evidence from which he drew the inference that prisoner had effected an entrance by means of the window in the manager's room.

PC Shilvock produced tickets, etc, which showed that prisoner went to London after August 9th, attended several places of amusement, and had his photograph taken. In reply to the charge, prisoner said he had only committed the offence out of spite.

Prisoner put in a long written statement, in which he denied the offence, but admitted having taken a few shillings 'by mistake.' When he went to London he tried to get work, and applied to the Captain of the Church Army, who advertised for several Christian young men. He was rejected, however, as he had not had sufficient experience.

The Jury returned a verdict of guilty. He had been previously convicted, and Inspector Hinde said that for some years prisoner had been in trouble with the police, and was the associate of convicted thieves. Prisoner recently committed a robbery and afterwards set fire to the premises. He was sent to penal servitude for three years.”

County Advertiser 12/1/1901

“The members of the Cradley Heath St. Luke's Football Club had a supper on Saturday evening last at the VINE HOTEL, Cradley Heath. About forty members sat down to a substantial repast provided by Mrs. Foley, and there were also present the Rev. E. A. Cooke (vicar of the parish), W. L. O. Ward (curate), H. L. Langley (Leicester, and former curate at St. Luke's), and Mr. Stanley Smith (Handsworth League secretary). After supper the Rev. E. A. Cooke occupied the chair, and submitted the toast of 'The Queen.' He referred to the success the club had gained since its formation, and noted the fact that they had not been beaten on their own ground since the club started, which was, in his opinion, a splendid record. They had also drawn that afternoon with one of the strongest clubs in the Handsworth League. The speaker also alluded to the advantages to be derived from such clubs if properly managed. The games were conducive to the moral and physical training of the men engaged in them. He assured the club of his hearty wishes and support. The toast was duly honoured.

Appropriate speeches were also given by the Revs. W. L. Ward and H. L. Langley, and the League Secretary.

A musical programme, arranged by Mr. T. Grice, followed, and was heartily enjoyed. The following members and friends contributed to the programme: Messrs. J. Foley, T. Grice, E. Davis, Butler, Round, Dingley, and Smith (ventriloquist).

A vote of thanks to the clergy and to Mr. Grice closed a very enjoyable evening.”

1901 Census

King Street – VINE INN

[1] Louisa Foley (65), widow, publican, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Marion Foley (35), daughter, born Rowley Regis;

[3] Emily Foley (33), daughter, milliner, born Rowley Regis;

[4] Frances E. Foley (25), daughter, dressmaker, born Stoke Edith, Herefordshire;

[5] Amy P. Foley (23), daughter, dressmaker, born Stoke Edith, Herefordshire:

AND

20, King Street

[1] Caroline E. Burley (70), wheelwright, born Cradley Heath;

[2] Sarah Hancox (68), visitor, born Cradley Heath:

Tipton Herald 22/8/1903

“Mr. H. A. Pearson (Coroner) held an inquest at the VINE INN, Cradley Heath, on Wednesday afternoon relative to the death of Lucy Willetts, who resided with her parents at 27, Corngreaves Road, and who was supposed to have committed suicide on Tuesday night by jumping down the well at the rear of her home. The details are given in the following evidence.

Lucy Willetts, wife of Solomon Willetts, and mother of the deceased, stated that her husband was a chainmaker, and the deceased was 29 years of age. She lived with them at Corngreaves Road. She assisted witness in her household duties. She enjoyed good health. On the 17th inst she did her work as usual.

The Coroner: Had she any trouble? – Witness: None that I know of.

Continuing, witness said that about 11.15pm on the 17th they were talking before going to bed when the deceased got up and went out of the house.

Coroner: Where do you think she was going to? – Witness: We thought she was going to the brewhouse.

The Coroner: How did you miss her? – Witness: She was a long time away, so her two sisters, Lois and Alice, went after her, but could not find her.

The Coroner: Did you find any shoes in the house the next day? – Witness: Yes sir.

The Coroner: There is a well at the back of your house? – Witness: Yes sir.

In answer to further questions witness said her husband and other daughters went up the yard and found one of the doors of the well open. This door was always kept shut.

The Coroner: Has there been anything strange in her manner? – Witness: Yes sir. She has been very strange of late. My husband said he thought she was going the wrong way.

The Coroner: In what way was she strange? – Witness: She would not dine with us, nor go to bed. She would sit up all night.

The Coroner: Has she ever threatened to commit suicide? – Witness: Never to my knowledge.

Continuing, witness said that deceased was recovered from the well two hours later by PS Pitcher.

Lois Willetts, sister of the deceased, and daughter of the last witness, stated that she was a domestic servant at Cradley Vicarage, but at the time was on holiday. They were, on the night in question, having a chat before going to bed, when the deceased left the house. She went by the back door, and they thought she had gone to the brewhouse. As she did not return witness and another sister went in search of her. She knew of no trouble that would cause the deceased to commit suicide.

Police Sergeant Pitcher stated that he was passing the house in Corngreaves Road about a quarter past twelve in the early part of Wednesday morning, and hearing the last witness crying, asked them what was the matter. They informed him that deceased was missing, and that they thought she might be down the well. He at once began dragging the well and found the body after half an hour. She was fully dressed with the exception of her shoes. There was a slight bruise on the left elbow. The well was 21 yards deep, and there were eight yards of water in it.

A Juryman: No people went to this well at night, for water, to your knowledge.

Witness: I think not. The water in the well is not used for drinking purposes, but for cleaning.

The mother, recalled, stated that the deceased had no need to go to the well as they had a tap in the brewhouse. They did not use the water in the well for drinking purposes, in fact, they never went to it only when the brewhouse tap was off.

PS Pitcher further stated that the drag caught in the heel of the deceased, so he judged from that she must have fell in head first.

Dr. E. Fryer, of Cradley Heath, stated that he had that day made a post-mortem. Death, in his opinion, was due to drowning.

The Coroner, in summing up, said there was no evidence to show what was the cause of the girl being in the well. The jury saw by the evidence that she had no trouble. The question was whether the deceased accidentally fell in, or whether she committed suicide. They had evidence of the boots being found in the brewhouse, and the door of the well being open, and further, the evidence of the police officer that she was found head downwards.

The jury returned a verdict of Suicide whilst of Unsound Mind.”

Louisa Foley died in the 1st quarter of 1904 and was buried at St. Luke’s Church, Cradley Heath.

County Advertiser 5/11/1904 - Advert

“On Tuesday Next. VINE INN, King Street, Cradley Heath.

Unreserved Sale of the Household Furniture, Pianofortes, Harmonium, and Effects, by order of the Exors. of the late Mrs. Louisa Foley.

E. O. Nightingale will Sell by Auction, as above, on Tuesday, 8th November, 1904, at 11am, the Household Furniture, including Birch and Iron Bedsteads, Palliasses, Bedding, Wash Stands and Dressing Tables, Mahogany and other Swing Glasses, Toilet Ware, Towel Rail, Mahogany and other Chests of Drawers, Night Chair, Cane-seated, Arm, and other Chairs; Mahogany Sofa, Oak-grained Screen, Mahogany Loo and other Tables, Overmantel in gilt frame; Full-Compass Trichord Pianoforte, by Murdoch and Co., London, in light Walnut Case; ditto by Leakey and Co., London, in Burr Walnut Case; Large Harmonium, with Organ Pedals, by Sames; Two 30-hour Grand-father’s Clocks in Oak Cases, Clocks, Barometer, Excellent Treadle Sewing Machine, Bassinette, Fenders and Fire-irons, Pictures, Books, Ornaments, Crockery and Glassware, Hanging and other Lamps, Water Filter, Urn, Oil Stove, Cooking Utensils, Wringer, Pair Steps, Counter, Flour Scales and Weights, 14 Tea Cannisters, Carpenter’s Bench with Vice, Grindstone, large Pig Bench, 4 Iron Pig Troughs, Set of Harness, Cart Tackle, Chains, large Iron Street Lamp Bracket, quantity Iron, Wood, Firebricks, and other Effects.

Auctioneer’s Offices: High Street, Cradley Heath.”

Nelson Watts was also a chainmaker.

1911 Census

20, King Street – VINE INN

[1] Nelson Watts (28), publican, born Cradley Heath;

[2] Rachel Watts (28), wife, married 8 years, born Cradley;

[3] Alice May Watts (7), daughter, school, born Cradley;

[4] Ernest Watts (2), son, born Cradley Heath;

[5] Garnett Watts (16), brother, brewer, born Cradley;

[6] Lily Brown (12), adopted daughter, school, born Cradley Heath;

[7] Sarah Ann Cox (16), domestic servant, born Cradley Heath:

AND

King Street

- [1] Caroline Burley (80), widow, born Cradley Heath;
- [2] Walter Stuart Hingley (45), nephew, married, coach builder, born Cradley Heath;
- [3] Sarah Hingley (41), niece, married 17 years, born Cradley Heath;
- [4] Edwin J. P. Hingley (14), grand-nephew, born Cradley Heath;
- [5] Walter Stuart Hingley (11), grand-nephew, born Cradley Heath;
- [6] Caroline E. Hingley (8), grand-niece, born Cradley Heath;
- [7] Louisa E. Hingley (6), grand-niece, born Cradley Heath:

County Express 13/1/1912

“Dividend Clubs..... VINE INN, Corngreaves Road, Cradley Heath.

On Monday week between 30 and 40 members assembling. Afterwards Mr. S. Woodhouse was voted to the chair, with Mr. Alex Mallen vice-chairman. Mr. W. Morris (secretary) presented a satisfactory report, and a dividend of 17s 4d was declared. Songs were rendered by Messrs. J. Smith, Joe Mallen, J. Green, H. Brookes, W. Dunn, and Sam Cole; and gramophone selections added to the pleasure of the evening. Thanks were accorded to the host and hostess (Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Watts), the supper being voted the best they had ever had.”

Staffordshire Advertiser 10/2/1912

“The Sessions for Old Hill division were held on Wednesday. Supt. Johnson reported that the number of licenses for renewal was 147, showing a decrease of two alehouses and one beerhouse, dealt with by the Compensation Authority. The Bench renewed the licenses of the WAGGON AND HORSES, Old Hill, the HOLLY BUSH, High Street, Cradley Heath, and the VINE INN, Cradley Heath, but the Chairman warned the holders to be more careful about the manner in which the houses were managed.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 16/12/1914

“Thee Days More To Say ‘Thank You’ by Sending a Cheery Message with a Gazette Christmas Box.

Three Days More and the opportunity will be lost. Send today one of the famous Gazette Christmas Boxes and a cheery greeting to a friend or to a lonely soldier in the fighting line, or a sailor facing the dangers of the sea.....

The Box weighs four pounds and is worth 12s 9d. The duty is saved on the Cigarettes and Tobacco and the goods are supplied at cost. The gift will only cost you 5s.....

The articles will be enclosed in a Special Box with a Christmas Label, and an addressed postcard enclosed with each gift for the soldiers’ or sailors’ acknowledgement.

The contents of the Christmas Box: Life Ray Cigarettes, Black Cat Cigarettes, Black Cat Tobacco, Briar Pipe, Eating Chocolate, Box of Peppermints, Stationery and Matches.

Subscriptions.....

Mr. Nelson Watts, VINE INN, Cradley Heath, 2 Boxes, 10s.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 26/12/1914

“The Closing Day. Midlands’ Gifts for Soldiers and Sailors on Service.

Many readers of the Gazette will earn the deep thanks of the soldiers at the front. Over 3,000 very acceptable Christmas Boxes have been sent off, and the majority were in possession of the soldiers and sailors yesterday. One can imagine the feeling of the men in the trenches upon receiving the gift from home.

Late subscriptions will be used to send gifts which will arrive for the New Year. These should reach us not later than today, when the lists will close. So, if you have not sent already, and feel that something is due to the men who have made Christmas possible, you should send at once.

Subscriptions.....

Nelson Watts, VINE INN, King Street, Cradley Heath, 1 Box, 5s.”

Garnett Watts brewed his own beer, and was also the local bookmaker.

County Express 10/9/1921

“At Old Hill Police Court on Wednesday, Mr. E. W. Waldron made an application on behalf of Messrs Plants Brewery Co. for the transfer of the license of the VINE INN, Cradley Heath, from Walter [sic] Watts to John Turner. Mr. Waldron explained that there was a particular reason why they must have possession of the house, and applicant’s wife was now serving at the house. The outgoing manager said he had no desire to stop in the house, but complained that he had tried to obtain fresh premises, and had been unable to do so, and he and his family looked like being turned out. This was a matter between the outgoing tenant and his clients. The company had offered to allow the man to remain at the house as a lodger, but Watts wanted them to give a definite arrangement in writing, which they would not do.

It was stated that Watts had declined to sign the transfer papers, and he replied that it was only because he was likely to be thrown out of the house. If they would give him an undertaking not to turn him out he would sign the papers.

The Bench granted the application, and Watts was advised to sign the papers.

The Chairman (Mr. C. W. Bassano) said the Bench had nothing to do with the question of housing Watts, and it was a matter of arrangement between the parties.”

John Turner – see also BELL.

George F. Wale, beer retailer, 20, King Street. [1924]

Dudley Chronicle 13/2/1924

“The Adjourned Licensing Sessions for the Old Hill Petty Session Division was held at the Police Court on March 5.....
The licenses of the VINE INN, Cradley Heath which had been adjourned from the annual sessions, would be renewed.”

Richard Jones – see also BELL.

Reg Johnson played football for Cradley Heath St. Lukes [1925/1926], Fulham and Swindon Town.

1939 Register

20, King Street

[1] Henry J. Parkes, date of birth 22/1/1903, machinist (engineer), married;

[2] May Parkes, dob 26/1/1906, unpaid domestic duties, married;

George Lewis married Annie Harris.

A Publican's license was granted on 7th February 1951.

A team from here took part in the Cradley Heath Domino League. [1960]

A team from here took part in the Cradley Heath Darts League. [1970]

News Telephone 10/9/1970

“Large families usually get together ‘once in a blue moon’ to celebrate some great happening – but not so the Taylors of Cradley Heath.

All 15 of them – Mum and Dad, five daughters and eight sons – meet regularly at the VINE INN.

They have been locals at the pub in Prince Street, Cradley Heath, ever since eldest daughter Nancy and her husband, George Edge, took over nearly 20 years ago. But although family ties first attracted the rest to drink at the VINE, Nancy has remained a non-drinker and non-smoker.....”

Sports Argus 28/4/1973

“Glade, the powerful Coventry outfit won the M&B darts championship when they defeated VINE INN, Cradley Heath, 5-4 in the final at the New Inns, Handsworth. They left the stage after the presentation ceremony with the silver cup they will hold for 12 months, a replica of the trophy for each player, and a £400 cheque. It was the richest prize in West Midlands darts history and even the runners-up received £200.....”

[1990]

Closed

Converted into flats. [1993]

VINE

Highgate Street, (22, High Street), (98, Garratts Lane) / Regent Street, (Queen Street), OLD HILL

OWNERS

Shadrach Talbot [1874]

Elizabeth Talbot [1886]

Shadrach Benjamin Talbot [1910]

Mitchells and Butlers Ltd.

A. E. Sidaway, Old Hill

Wolverhampton and Dudley Breweries Ltd. (acquired on 14th August 1941)

LICENSEES

Shadrach Benjamin Talbot [1874] – [1910]

Mrs. Emily Talbot [1911]

William Scriven [] – 1914);

Harry Jones (1914 – 1941);
Clarence Edward ‘Clarry’ Price (1941 – 1958);
Harry Beasley (1958 – 1959);
Albert Raymond Parkes (1959 – 1965);
Albert Alan Comley (1965 – []
L W D Stirling [1976]
Mrs. M Smith [1993]

NOTES

98, Garratts Lane [1881], [1891], [1901]
22, High Street [1911], [1940]
22, Highgate Street

It had an ante '69 beerhouse license.

It had a double frontage directly on the footpath.

Birmingham Daily Gazette 30/8/1869

“The annual licensing meeting for Rowley Regis division was held on Friday, at COOKSEY’S HOTEL, Old Hill.....
The following persons made applications for beerhouse licenses.....
Shadrack Benjamin Talbot, Old Hill They were all refused.”

County Advertiser 30/8/1873

“The annual licensing meeting for the division of Rowley Regis, was held at COOKSEY’S HOTEL, yesterday.....
Shadrach Benjamin Talbot, provision dealer, High Street, Old Hill, made an application for a license to sell beer and cider by retail to be drunk on the premises. Mr. Stokes appeared to support the application, and in doing so said his client was known as a very respectable man, and one who was likely to conduct a house well. Mr. Addison, in opposing on behalf of Mr. Allport, the application, said than there was no necessity for this application being granted. The object of the act was to prevent these licenses being so easily obtained, and the multiplication of beerhouses. There were already too many houses in the neighbourhood. The application was refused.”

County Express 8/8/1874 - Notice

“To the Overseers of the Poor, and the Superintendent of Police, of the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford, and to all whom it may concern.
I, Shadrach Benjamin Talbot, Provision Dealer, Chainmaker, and the holder of a License to sell beer by Retail to be consumed off the premises, now residing at High Street, Old Hill, in the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford, do Hereby Give Notice that it is my intention to Apply, at the General Annual Licensing Meeting, for the Division of Rowley Regis, to be holden at COOKSEY’S HOTEL, at Old Hill, in the said County, on the 28th day of August, next ensuing, at the hour of Eleven o’clock in the forenoon of the same day, for a Six Days License to hold an Excise License to Sell Beer and Cider by retail, to be drunk and consumed in and upon the house and premises thereunto belonging, situate at High Street, Old Hill, in the parish of Rowley Regis aforesaid, in pursuance of the Acts II Geo.IV, and I Wm.IV c.64, and Acts amending the same, and which said premises are duly rated for the relief of the poor as by law is required, of which house and premises (a) one Shadrach Talbot is the owner, and the same are now in my occupation.
Given under my hand this 20th day of July, 1874.
Shadrach Benjamin Talbot.”

County Express 29/8/1874

“The annual Brewster Sessions was held at COOKSEY’S HOTEL yesterday morning.....
Shadrach Benjamin Talbot, a provision dealer, High Street, Old Hill, applied for a six days license to sell beer by retail off [sic] the premises which was granted.”

County Express 7/10/1876

“David Williams was charged with being disorderly and refusing to quit a licensed house kept by Benjamin Talbot. Complainant said defendant came into his house drunk and refused to quit on being requested so to do. He did not wish to press the case as the defendant’s wife said defendant had received injury to the head and was unable to control himself when under the influence of drink.

Mr. Hingley: I am afraid there are too many of those cases, but if people would drink more water and less ale their heads would be stronger.

Defendant: I had been at work in the wet, and I had a drop to keep the wet out.

Mr. Hingley: And that made it too wet. (Laughter.) I must fine you 1s and costs.”

County Express 1/12/1877

“On Monday last the members of the Old Hill Cricket Club held their annual dinner at the VINE INN. The dinner, which was given by the host (Mr. Benjamin Talbot) was served up in excellent style. After the withdrawal of the cloth Mr. W. Jones was voted to the chair, and Mr. Joseph Weston to the vice-chair. The Secretary, Mr. S. Smith, read the report of the past season, and this showed that 17 matches had been arranged, of which 10 had been won, 3 lost, 1 drawn, and 3 not played. There remained in the Treasurer’s hands a balance of £1 4s 6d to be carried to next year’s account. The officers for the next year having been elected, and a vote of thanks to the Chairman, Vice-chairman, Secretary, and retiring officers having been given, the remainder of the evening was spent convivially.”

County Express 23/11/1878

“On Monday evening, November 11th, the members of the Beaconsfield Cricket Club held their annual dinner at Mr. Benjamin Talbot’s, VINE INN. The repast, which was served up in Mr. Talbot’s well-known style, gave satisfaction to all present. After the withdrawal of the cloth Mr. W. Jones was voted to the chair, and Mr. William Lewis to the vice-chair. The secretary, Mr. Wesson, read the report for the past year. This showed the club to be in a good condition, and with a fair balance in treasurer’s hands. Thirteen matches had been played during the season; out of these four had been won, two drawn in favour of the Club, and seven lost. During the year the members had increased 15. Votes of thanks were passed to the retiring officers, and new ones were elected. During the evening several toasts were duly honoured, including ‘The Queen and Royal Family’ and ‘Success to the Beaconsfield Cricket Club,’ and songs, recitations, &c were given by the members.”

Dudley Herald 15/11/1879

“Noah Allport was charged with being drunk on the licensed premises of S. B. Talbot, landlord of the VINE INN, High Street, Old Hill, on the 3rd inst. PC Johnson said he visited the VINE INN and saw the defendant there drunk. Fined 1s and costs, or in default, 14 days.”

Dudley Herald 26/6/1880

“The Local Colliers and the Birmingham Agreement.....

On Thursday, another numerously-attended meeting was held at the VINE INN, Old Hill, when a working man was appointed chairman. After a few remarks by the Chairman, he called upon Mr. Southall to address the meeting.

Mr. Southall gave an account of the conference held at Great Bridge, on May 3rd, of which he was the chairman, and remarked that a resolution was arrived at to terminate the Birmingham agreement by 38 votes to 10, but on the 20th May the Council met and refused to comply with the resolution of the conference. He advised the men to continue to agitate until notice be given to terminate the Birmingham agreement, after which the following resolution was unanimously carried: ‘That it is the opinion of this meeting that we condemn the action of the Council in not carrying out the resolution of the conference, and that we ask the miners of other districts to co-operate with us in carrying out the same object.’

The Chairman called upon Mr. W. Breakwell to address the meeting.

Mr. Breakwell pointed out the necessity of better organisation to assist the miners of other districts to get the Employers’ Liability Bill passed in its present form.

After which the following resolutions were passed: ‘That no compensation bill would be satisfactory to the miners that did away with the principle of common employment.’ ‘That all the miners subscribe at the pits to form a fund to carry on the agitation, and are kindly requested to forward all moneys collected to the WHITE HORSE INN, Quarry Bank.’”

Stourbridge Observer 11/2/1881

“A meeting of miners in the Old Hill district was held on Thursday evening, at the VINE INN, there.

Mr. W. Breakwell (miners’ agent) addressed those present, and afterwards a resolution was passed disapproving of the sliding scale in its present form, and resolving to agitate with different parts of the district to get it altered.

Another resolution expressed approval of a general miners’ association being formed for South Staffordshire, East Worcestershire, North Staffordshire, Salop, and Cannock Chase; and a third resolution set forth that there was a necessity for additional mines inspectors, to be appointed out of the ranks of the working men.”

Dudley and District News 12/3/1881

“On Tuesday night, at ROYAL EXCHANGE, Netherton, a capital meeting of miners was held, Mr. Breakwell occupying the chair. A deputation from South Yorkshire attended to solicit aid for those on strike in that district. The Chairman briefly introduced the deputation, and called upon Mr. George Cragg, Chairman of the South Yorkshire Miners’ Association, who gave an interesting account of the condition of his association, and entered fully into the merits of the dispute at present prevailing.

Mr. John Bowen added a few remarks bearing upon the dispute.

Mr. Fletcher, another member of the deputation, delivered a powerful address upon the absolute necessity for, and the benefits arising from organization; he clearly demonstrated the evils which were growing among the men of various districts from the want of proper union, and made an urgent appeal on behalf of their fellow-craftsmen in South Yorkshire.

Mr. Bowen supported the appeal, and the following resolution was unanimously passed ‘That a contribution be raised at the various pits throughout this district on behalf of the men now on strike in the district of South Yorkshire; such subscriptions be forwarded to the committee every Saturday evening, at the house of Mr. William Foley, SWAN INN, Old Hill.’

A similar meeting was held at the house of Benjamin Talbot, VINE INN, Old Hill, last night, when a similar resolution was passed.”

1881 Census

98, Garratts Lane

[1] Shadrach Talbot (34), innkeeper, born Rowley;

[2] Emily Talbot (34), wife, born Netherton;

[3] Edith Talbot (10), daughter, scholar, born Rowley;

[4] Elizabeth Talbot (8), daughter, scholar, born Rowley:

Dudley and District News 10/9/1881

“At a meeting of miners, held on Wednesday evening, at the VINE INN, Old Hill, it was resolved, after an address from Mr. Breakwell, to solicit the miners of other districts to co-operate with them with the view of calling a conference for the purpose of getting those points in the sliding scale changed which do not give the miners a fair share in the rise of coal; and also to ask the masters for an advance of wages at once. The meeting, at the same time, determined to support and assist a case about to be tried in the Oldbury County Court, contending that a disabled miner is entitled to coal.”

Dudley and District News 22/10/1881

“Noah Allport, miner, Elbow Street, Old Hill, was charged with being drunk and refusing to quit the licensed premises of Shadrach Benjamin Talbot, Garratts Lane, on the previous Saturday night.

Mr. Talbot stated that prisoner came into his house drunk about half-past ten, and he ordered him out.

Prisoner: Tell the truth now, Benjamin.

Witness: I refused to supply him with anything. I have been continually pestered with him of late. He always persists in coming to my house when he gets drunk. He actually gets his drink at other places and comes to my house to drink it when I won't supply him.

Prisoner: Didn't I come to you house to pay my club when you set on to me.

The magistrates said prisoner was a very troublesome fellow, having been about 40 times previously convicted. This time he would be fined 40s and costs, or one month's hard labour.”

County Advertiser 18/3/1882

“A well-attended meeting of miners was held at the VINE INN, Old Hill, on Thursday evening, when a resolution was passed endorsing the notice which had been issued to the local miners, requesting them to give, on the 18th inst, fourteen days' notice to their employers for an advance in their wages of 6d and 3d per day respectively for thick and thin coal miners, in accordance with the resolution arrived at by the representative conference held on the 6th inst.”

Dudley and District News 13/1/1883

“Colliers' Strike at Old Hill.

On Thursday night a mass meeting of miners in the Old Hill district was held at the VINE INN, Garratts Lane, for the purpose of deciding what action should be taken in the above dispute. A working collier was called upon to preside, and the proceedings commenced with the assemblage, with uncovered heads, singing with great gusto, the 'Old '64 strike melody,' commencing Britannia's sons, though slaves you be,

God, your Creator, made you free;

He life to all and being gave,

But never, never, made a slave.

The Chairman stated that on Wednesday their employer told them that they might all go to work whenever they liked, and he would bear no malice against any of them, for 'he was not a man of that sort.' That morning, however, when they went to work, only six pikemen, five oddmen, and three bondsmen were allowed to work, and the others told to go home till they were sent for. Mr. Breakwell (delegate) spoke in indignant terms of the conduct of Mr. Collis, who, he said, had time after time tried to infringe the eight hours' system, thus occasioning the present dispute.

Another collier remarked that Mr. Collis agreed to concede their demands, and had stated plainly that all the men would have a share of what work there was; but this promise he had broken. Mr. Collis had set on a lot of blacklegs, and would soon dismiss the few men he had taken back as well as their comrades.

Mr. Breakwell said that until the men were legally discharged their employer was bound to employ them or pay them if there was no work. What sort of men was the pit filled with? – A voice: 'They be farm labourers.' – Another, 'They come from Rooshian Row.'

A resolution was passed by the 'outsiders' to support the Granville men, who in their turn agreed to turn out on strike again.”

Dudley and District News 2/6/1883 - Letter

“To the Editor of the Dudley and District News.

Sir. The object of writing this letter is to complain of the action of a great number of the Dudley miners. You know, sir, there has been considerable expense in connection with the arbitration case. Now, as all participate in the benefit, we at Netherton and Old Hill consider all ought to bear their share of the expense. And as a considerable sum of money will be required to do so, we hope and trust all will take the hint, and subscribe their pence, and forward them to Mr. B. Talbot, the VINE INN, Old Hill. All know, or should know, that a Wages' Board has to be formed at the expiration of the Birmingham agreement. We hope this hint will be enough, and that those we complain of will look after their own interest, and send what they can to the above address. Hoping you will give this an insertion in your next issue.

I remain, yours truly, Will-O-The Wisp. Netherton, May 29th, 1883.”

Birmingham Mail 14/1/1884

“Today a meeting of the miners who are on strike in the Old Hill district against the introduction of new rules was held at the VINE INN, Old Hill, Mr. Henry Southall presiding. Mr. B. Winwood said he had heard nothing about a settlement being made. He denied a statement which had been made by Messrs. Swindell and Colliss to the effect that the men employed at the Rowley Station Colliery and the Sandwell Colliery were working under the same rules as Messrs. Swindell and Colliss wish to enforce. He pointed out that the men employed at the above-mentioned collieries paid no field-pay. He observed that he was pleased to see that the subscriptions had come in well for the first week, and he believed if they contributed to the men and helped them in their fight they would be victorious. The Chairman addressed the men on the question of the Wages Board, and explained why their representatives withdrew from it. At the close of the meeting the following resolutions were unanimously passed: ‘That we play on until the old rules are reinstated, and that we do not contribute to the Wages Board’.”

County Advertiser 10/5/1884

“In connection with the British Mutual Loan and Investment Society, a supper was served up at the VINE INN, Garratts Lane, on Tuesday evening, Mr. Philemon Baker in the chair. Mr. R. Turner, secretary, announced that the society now numbered eighty-two members.”

Dudley and District News 20/9/1884

“A meeting of heathen-coal miners employed at the Pig and Whistle Colliery was held at the VINE INN, Old Hill, on Monday, for the purpose of considering alterations recently introduced, which it is alleged have had the effect of reducing the men’s wages. Mr. B. Winwood, agent, addressed the meeting, and pointed out that the pit had been at work during the strike at the old rate of wages, and now the masters wanted to make an alteration in the wages. It was unanimously resolved to strike against the reduction, or any other alterations.”

County Advertiser 4/7/1885

“At the Stourbridge Police Court yesterday, the following persons were fined in the sums after their names for drunkenness.....
Benjamin Talbot, publican, Old Hill, 2s 6d and costs.”

County Express 19/12/1885

“Forestry. On Tuesday evening the members of Court Benjamin (Dudley and Cradley Heath District A.O.F.) were entertained to a repast by their host, Mr. Benjamin Talbot, VINE INN, Old Hill. The chair was occupied by PDCR Bro. Isaac Cashmore; the vice-chair by Bro. Sadler, PCR, of Court Robin Hood’s Cave.

After the usual loyal and patriotic toasts of ‘Our Noble Order,’ and ‘Court Benjamin,’ were proposed by Bro. Benj. Palmer, and responded to by the Chairman, who at some length reviewed the history and progress of Forestry, showing many of its social advantages; and gave some excellent advice to the members present.

The Secretary (Bro. E. Lewis) wished the court every success.

The ‘Health of the Host and Hostess’ was next given with musical honours. The Host, in reply, said it gave him exceeding pleasure to entertain them; and in return he hoped that every member would do his utmost to make the society what he sincerely wished it to be – one of the best in the district. They might rest assured he would do all he possibly could to give them encouragement.

Songs, recitations, etc, followed, and a most enjoyable evening was spent.”

County Express 11/9/1886 - Notice

“To the Overseers of the Poor of the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford, and to the Superintendent of Police of the District or Division of Rowley Regis, in the said County, and to all whom it may concern.

I, Shadrach Benjamin Talbot, Beerhouse Keeper, the holder of a Six Days’ License, now residing at Garratts Lane, Old Hill, in the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford, Do Hereby Give Notice that it is my intention to apply, at the Adjourned General Annual Licensing Meeting, for the Division of Rowley Regis, to be holden at the Public Office, at Old Hill, in the said County, on the 29th day of September next ensuing, for a Seven Days’ License to hold an Excise License to Sell Beer and Cider by Retail, to be consumed on and off the Premises, situate at Garratts Lane, Old Hill, in the Parish of Rowley Regis aforesaid, known as the VINE, in pursuance of the Act 11 Geo.IV and Will.IV cap.64, and the Acts amending the same, of which said premises one Elizabeth Talbot is the owner, and the same are of the annual value by law required, and are now in my own occupation.

Given under my hand this 31st day of August, 1886.

Shadrach Benjamin Talbot.”

County Advertiser 2/10/1886

“Adjourned Licensing Day.....

Mr. Waldron applied for a seven days’ license for Shadrach Benjamin Talbot, landlord of the VINE INN, Blackheath. Mr. Waldron said that the facts in this case were similar to those in the last case [HANDEL HOTEL], with the addition that there had been five new streets made, and ninety-six new houses erected near to the applicant’s house. He had kept the house sixteen years, and bore an excellent character.

The applicant having given evidence, Mr. Bassano said he should be glad when the law was passed that no public houses should be opened on Sundays, but they would grant the license, though very unwillingly.”

County Express 8/6/1889

“On Saturday morning Mr. E. Hooper (coroner) held an enquiry on the body of David Cartwright (48), miner, Bank Street, Old Hill, at the VINE INN, Old Hill, who met with an accident whilst employed in Messrs. Pearson’s colliery, on the 28th ult. Mr. W. H. Pickering, assistant inspector, was present.

David Cartwright said that the deceased was his father, and worked at Messrs. Pearson’s Colliery as an overman. On Tuesday morning, the 28th, he was down the pit with his father at the time of the accident. He was in the back of the mine. Witness was getting up a piece of stone, and deceased was telling him how to do it. A piece of coal about 1cwt fell on the back of deceased’s neck, and knocked him down. It was deceased’s place to examine the pit, but witness did not see him do it. It was in a gate road, which was about six feet high. There were a few bars and trees set about the road. The fall of coal did not knock any of the trees out. There was a slip behind the coal, but it was not visible before the coal fell. There was no bump.

In answer to Mr. Pickering witness said that his father sent him to work there. If any timber had been required there were plenty to be had. Continuing, witness said his father was taken to the bottom of the pit on a stretcher. He was attended by Dr. Standish, and died on the following day.

Daniel Skidmore, Heath, Stourbridge, underground manager at the pit, said he was close to the deceased when the accident occurred, and was speaking to him about the working of the colliery. Witness heard something and saw the coal sliding off. He shouted to deceased, ‘Jump David.’ Deceased then jumped into witness’s arms, and said. ‘My neck is broke.’ Deceased could not walk, and had to be taken on a stretcher. He attributed the cause of the fall to a slip, which could be seen after the fall. Witness did not think he was hurt much at the time, and deceased spoke to him on several occasions. He (witness) produced a book which had the entry made by deceased that he had examined the colliery at half-past six on the same morning, and reported that he found the sides and roof all safe. There was no timber close to where the accident took place, because it was not large enough, and was being made larger to be timbered.

Mr. Pickering said he examined the pit on the 30th, and found that the accident happened in an air heading, which was being made into a gate road. There was a distinct slip behind it which would cause the accident. There was no infringement of the Mines Regulation Act.

A verdict of Accidental Death was returned.”

County Express 14/9/1889

“At the Rowley Police Court, on Wednesday, Benjamin Price, chain-master, Cradley Heath, was charged with furiously driving a horse and trap in High Street, Cradley Heath, on Sunday, the 1st inst.

Samuel Woodward stated that on the 1st September, at about 10.5, he was standing near the Cross, in company with a party of other men, suddenly he saw a horse and trap coming towards them at a furious pace – he should think about twelve miles an hour. He moved to get out of the way, when, before he knew where he was, the trap dashed on the pavement and passed over his body. He knew no more until he found himself at home some time after this, and had done no work since then.

A man named James Smart stated that he was by the Cross on the night named and saw all that took place. He was standing talking with Woodward and several others in the gutter, when a trap came dashing towards them at from ten to twelve miles an hour. They moved to avoid it, but it suddenly dashed to the pathway and knocked Woodward over.

Evidence was also given by a man named Mansell and others to the effect that the trap was being furiously driven.

Mr. Holberton (Messrs. Homfray and Holberton) defended, and called upon a man named Talbot, landlord of the VINE INN, High Street, who said that defendant was in his house on the night in question with another man, and after staying there a short time, left at about five minutes to ten o’clock. He saw them drive away in their trap, and were then going at about five miles an hour. The horse was only a small one, and not capable, he thought, of doing more than five or six miles an hour.

James Tromans said he was driving with defendant on the Sunday night, and also went to the VINE INN with him, but they both left that house about ten minutes to ten. He got home before ten o’clock. After leaving the VINE INN they passed down by the Cross, but were only driving at the rate of about five miles and hour. He also denied that they drove over anyone.

The Bench were satisfied that defendant did drive furiously, and they fined him 20s and costs.”

Birmingham Daily Post 31/10/1889

“Mr. E. Hooper (coroner) held an inquest at the VINE INN, Old Hill, yesterday, concerning the death of William Smith, aged four years and ten months, whose parents reside at Dudley Street, Old Hill, who was killed on the 28th inst by being caught in the spokes of a wheel of a wagon whilst swinging behind it in the Hales Owen Road. The jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death.”

County Express 8/11/1890

“Shadrach Benjamin Talbot, landlord of the VINE INN, Garratts Lane, Old Hill, was charged with permitting drunkenness on his licensed premises on the 25th ult. Mr. Waldron defended.

The Bench considered they could not convict, and dismissed the case.”

County Express 17/1/1891 - Advert

“Notice Is Hereby Given that the Old Hill Industrial Mutual Loan and Investment Society, Register No.2280, held at the VINE INN, Old Hill, in the County of Stafford, is Dissolved by Instrument, registered at this office, the 13th day of January, 1891, unless within three months from the date of the Gazette in which this advertisement appears, proceedings be commenced by a member or other person interested in or having any Claim on the funds of the Society to set aside such dissolution, and the same be set aside accordingly.

G. M. Ludlow, Chief Registrar of Friendly Societies.

28, Abingdon Street, Westminster, the 13th day of January, 1891.”

1891 Census

98, Garratts Lane

- [1] Shadrach B. Talbot (44), beerseller, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Emily Talbot (43), wife, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] Shadrach Talbot (22), son, boot and shoe maker, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Edith Talbot (20), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Laura S. Talbot (9), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis:

County Advertiser 27/8/1892

“The annual Brewster Sessions for the Rowley Regis Petty Sessional Division, were held at Old Hill Police Court on Wednesday.....

Inspector Bishop presented his report Appended is a list of publicans who have been convicted during the year....

Shadrach B. Talbot, VINE, Old Hill, permitting drunkenness March 9th, 1892, fined £5 and costs.....

The renewal to Shadrach Benjamin Talbot was also granted, the Bench telling him to be careful in future.”

Birmingham Daily Post 12/1/1894

“At the Stourbridge County Court, yesterday, His Honour Sir Richard Harington, Bart, had before him a case in which Shadrach Benjamin Talbot, innkeeper and butcher, Old Hill, and his wife Emily Talbot sued James Bridge, horse-breaker, Hales Owen, for £50 damages for injuries alleged to be due to defendant’s negligence. There was also a separate action by Shadrach B. Talbot alone to recover £25 damages. Mr. R. H. Amphlett, instructed by Mr. Cooksey, appeared for the plaintiffs, and Mr. Vachell, instructed by Mr. Wright for defendant.

The plaintiff’s case was that while walking his horse and trap down Haden Hill, on August Bank Holiday, a man named Jones, who was in another vehicle, overtook and passed him. Afterwards he passed Jones, and soon after defendant, who it was alleged was driving a colt negligently in a horse-breaker’s vehicle, allowed the colt to run into plaintiffs’ trap, which was overturned. Plaintiff and his wife were both injured, Mrs. Talbot having her shoulder dislocated and receiving other hurts.

The defence, as far as it was gone into, was that the plaintiff and Jones were racing, that plaintiff’s horse was frightened thereby, and that this led to the accident.

After lasting several hours, the case was adjourned till next court.”

County Advertiser 12/1/1895

“The quarterly meeting of the Dudley and Cradley Heath District of the Ancient Order of Foresters’ Friendly Society, was held on Monday last, at the VINE INN, Old Hill, when a statement of the accounts was submitted, showing that there had been £195 paid for funeral allowance of sixteen members and seven members’ wives who had died during the past quarter, and also the sum of £311 13s paid for the reduced sickness allowance for members who had been on their Court funds for twelve months previously. The total worth of the District Funds is now £2,756 3s 5d. After the usual routine business an appeal was made on behalf of the members who were thrown out of employment by the stoppage of the Corngreaves Iron Works, and thereby unable to pay their contributions, when a statement was submitted by Bro. John Rock, of Cradley Heath, the valuer to the district, showing that there were 175 members affected in various courts, and it was unanimously resolved that a donation of £50 should be granted to assist them to retain their membership.”

County Express 21/8/1897

“The first of what is intended to be an annual demonstration of the friendly societies in the Old Hill district, was held on Sunday, the object in view being to help the funds of the Dudley Guest Hospital, Dudley Dispensary, and Birmingham Eye Hospital the day was bright and promising, and there were large numbers of people all along the route.

At one o’clock the 1st Worcestershire Volunteer Band started from the CROSS INN, proceeded across Halesowen Road, calling at Trinity Schools and GEORGE HOTEL; then across Lawrence Lane into Reddal Hill Road, calling at the ROSE AND CROWN INN, and proceeding to the Cross, where the final procession was formed. Meanwhile the Old Hill Brass and Red Band started from the WHITE LION INN, proceeded by way of Powke Lane and Garratts Lane to Wrights Lane (as far as the PRINCE OF WALES INN), and returned to Garratts Lane, calling for lodges at the BRITISH OAK INN, FOX HUNT INN, Tabernacle, DUKE WILLIAM INN, VINE INN, to the Cross. On the arrival of this contingent a huge line was formed, and very pretty it looked. Members of the various lodges wore their regalia, and these being interspersed with the more elaborate honorary members’ scarves, gave the line a very bright appearance.....”

County Advertiser 27/8/1898

“On Sunday afternoon the annual hospital parade and open-air service, arranged by the various friendly societies in Old Hill and the surrounding district took place. Processions were formed at different points of members of the Foresters, the Free Gardeners, and provident societies, numbering altogether about 1,000, and these, accompanied by the Blackheath, Halesowen Temperance, and Old Hill Bands, paraded the principal streets of the locality, after which they marched to a field in Garratts Lane, lent for the occasion by Mr. A. Sidaway, where a special service was held. Addresses were delivered by the Revs. E. Brewer, MA (vicar of Old Hill), and W. B. Cheshire (Primitive Methodist). A collection was made along the route and at the service in aid of the Guest Hospital, Dudley Dispensary, and Birmingham Eye Hospital, this realising £25 14s 5³/₄d.

The following was the order of procession issued by the committee. The Blackheath Village Band will start from the WHITE LION INN, Powke Lane, at 1-45 prompt, proceed down Garratts Lane, calling for societies at the BRITISH OAK INN, Tabernacle, DUKE WILLIAM INN, and VINE INN, turning across Queen Street on to the old football ground (by kind permission of Mr. W. H. Jarvis). The Halesowen Temperance Band will start from the PRINCE OF WALES INN, Wrights Lane, at 1-45 prompt, proceed round Cherry Orchard Street, into Wrights Lane, turning down Wagon Street, calling at the OLD ENGINE INN, proceeding down Elbow Street and King Street, across Halesowen Road, to the old football ground. The Old Hill Band will start from the CROSS INN at 1-45 prompt, calling for societies at Trinity Schools and GEORGE HOTEL, proceed across Lawrence Lane, turning up New Street, Ridding Street, Pear Tree Street, Pear Tree Lane, thence into Reddal Hill Road, calling at the ROSE AND CROWN INN, and proceeding to the old football ground. A grand procession will be formed as follows.....”

1901 Census

98, Garratts Lane

[1] Shadrack B. Talbot (55), publican, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Emily Talbot (55), wife, born Rowley Regis;

[3] Shadrack Talbot (32), son, butcher, born Rowley Regis;

[4] Beatrice Cavalier (19), domestic servant, born Dudley:

Staffordshire Advertiser 19/6/1909

“The principal meeting of the Staffordshire County Compensation Authority, adjourned from the 11th inst.

The decision of the local licensing magistrates to refuse the renewal of the FOX HUNT alehouse, Old Hill, tenant, Arthur E. Jew, was opposed.

Police Inspector John R. Needham admitted that there was another beerhouse, called the VINE, only 250 yards away from the FOX HUNT, which was also a butcher’s shop. The beerpulls were all among the meat. (Laughter.)

Mr. Milward: Then it is a question of whether you have a mutton-chop or a glass of beer? – Witness: Yes.

Witness also admitted that the FOX HUNT did a good trade. Mr. Waldron made a formal application for the renewal of the licence, and Mr. Milward called Mr. A. W. Dando, auctioneer and valuer, who said that there were other beerhouses – the VINE and the BEEHIVE – in the locality, which were much inferior to the FOX HUNT.”

County Express 25/2/1911 - Advert

“Preliminary. Old Hill, Staffs.

Alfred Hill has been instructed by the Trustees of the late Mr. Shadrach Benjamin Talbot, to Sell by Public Auction, on the Premises, on Monday, March 13th, 1911.

All that Well-known, Capitally-built, Commodious, Freehold Beerhouse, known as the VINE INN, High Street, Old Hill.

Also Plot of Excellent Building Land, situate at Garratts Lane, Old Hill.

One House, High Street, Old Hill.

One House, Wagon Street, Old Hill.

One House, Wellington Street, Old Hill.

Full particulars in due course.

Vendor’s Solicitors: Messrs. Thomas Cooksey and Co., Old Hill.”

County Express 11/3/1911- Advert

“On Monday Next. Old Hill, Staffs. To Brewers, Maltsters, The Trade, Investors and Others.

Alfred Hill, has been instructed by the Trustees of the late Mr. Shadrach Benjamin Talbot, and others, to Sell By Public Auction, at the house of Mrs. Talbot, the VINE INN, High Street, Old Hill, on Monday, March 13th, 1911, at 7.30 in the Evening precisely, subject to Conditions of Sale to be then read.

Lot 1. All that Highly Valuable, well-known, Commodious, Freehold Beerhouse, known as the VINE INN, situate at the corner of High Street and Queen Street, Old Hill, with a frontage of 31ft to High Street and a frontage of 78ft to Queen Street, and now occupied by Mrs. Talbot. The business accommodation comprises Entrance Hall with Vestibule; excellent Bar, 28ft by 12ft; large Club room, 29ft 6in by 14ft; Three good Cellars. Capital Retail Butcher’s Shop, Registered Slaughter House, 3-Stall Stable, with Loft over same; Coachhouse, Cartway into Paved Yard with Rolling-way to Cellars. The Private Accommodation comprises Two large Bed Rooms, Landing, Sitting Room, Living Kitchen, with Glass Top, Private Cellar-way, Scullery, and usual outbuildings. Special attention to the Trade and others are called to this excellent House (which is being Sold solely on account of death), its situation for business being one of the best in Old Hill, is entirely Free, in capital condition, and has been in the occupation of the late Mr. Talbot upwards of 42 years. Possession on completion.”

1911 Census

22, High Street

[1] Emily Talbot (63), widow, public business, born Rowley Regis;

[2] May Barnsley (15), general servant, born Darby End:

Birmingham Mail 20/4/1911

“Midland Wills.....

Mr. Shadrach Benjamin Talbot, of High Street, Old Hill, who died on October 9, left estate valued by the widow (Mrs. Emily Talbot), his son (Mr. Shadrach Talbot), both of High Street, and his daughters (Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Darby, of Blackheath, and Mrs. Laura Sophia Albut, of Spinners End, Cradley Heath), at £8,799.”

County Express 13/5/1911 - Advert

“On Monday Next. VINE INN, High Street, Old Hill.

To Furniture Buyers, Butchers, Brokers and Others.

Alfred Hill has been instructed by the Trustees of the late Mr. Shadrach Benjamin Talbot, to Sell by Public Auction, on the Premises as above, on Monday, the 15th day of May, 1911, the whole of the Excellent Household Furniture, Butcher’s Shop Fixtures, Horse, Vehicles, and Effects, comprising capital Mahogany Bureau Bookcase, Mahogany Leather-covered Sofa, Oak Corner Cupboard, Oak Folding Table, superior large Mahogany Chests of Drawers, Pairs of excellent Mahogany Dressing Tables, with plate-glass Mirrors, Jewel and other Drawers, Mahogany Marble-top Washstands, 8-Day Wall Clocks, Mahogany, Birch and Brass-rail Bedsteads, Prime Feather Beds, Wool Overlays, Straw Mattresses, Mahogany Swing Glasses, Windsor and other Chairs, large Mirror, Pictures, 2 expensive Edison Phonographs and Records, capital Over-strung Iron Frame Pianoforte (by Burling and Burling, London), Steel Fenders, Two Gas Stoves, Iron Stove and Piping, Linoleums, quantity of Cutlery and Crockeryware, Kitchen Dresser, etc;

Contents of Butcher’s Shop, comprising Counter, Window Board, Shelving with three large Drawers, Writing Desk, Butcher’s Scales and Weights, 4-Pull Beer Machine, Iron Hooks and Rods, large Meat Tins, etc;

Three Sets of Silver and Brass-mounted Harness, well-known Brown Cob (14-2, 6 years old), quiet, good worker, and believed to be sound; Two capital Rubber-tyred Dog Carts, suit cob 14-2 to 15 hands, one by Ridge’s, Wolverhampton; Excellent Four-wheel Rubber-tyred Dog Cart, suit cob 15 hands, by Butcher’s, Birmingham; Sound Business Trap, with cover; capital Lady’s Bicycle, Two Wheelbarrows, and other miscellaneous articles.

Sale to commence at 11 o’clock prompt.

Auctioneer’s Offices: Old Hill and Halesowen.”

1939 Register

High Street – VINE INN

[1] Harry Jones, date of birth 16/12/1875, publican, married;

[2] Amy P. Jones, dob 11/6/1877, unpaid domestic duties, married;

[3] Edna F. Jones, dob 15/8/1910, shorthand typist, Birmingham Canal transport, single:

A Publican’s license was granted on 1st February 1950.

[1996]

Closed

Demolished

VINE

Waterfall Lane, OLD HILL

OWNERS

LICENSEES

Mark Parsons [1851]

VINE

28, Rowley Village, ROWLEY REGIS

OWNERS

LICENSEES

Ann Walters [1857] – 1860);

John Joseph Walters (1860 – 1867);

Joseph Walters (1867 – [1892])

Mrs. Phoebe Walters [1896]

John Walters [1899] – 1906);
Noah Harris (1906 – 1931):

NOTES

Brierley Hill Advertiser 21/3/1857

“Ann Walters, licensed victualler, VINE INN, Rowley Regis, was charged by PO Barton, with having her house open for the sale of beer before one o’clock on Sunday morning, the 8th inst. The case was proved, and she was fined 10s and costs.”

County Advertiser 14/11/1857

“Ann Walters, licensed victualler, of the VINE INN, Rowley Regis, appeared to answer a charge preferred against her of allowing drunkenness and other disorderly conduct in her house, on Monday night, the 2nd inst.

PS Burton, in evidence, said that, at half-past ten o’clock on the above-named night, he found about forty or fifty men and women in defendant’s house, some of whom were drunk and uttering very bad language. He then left the place, and went again to it at twenty minutes before twelve o’clock, when the same parties were in the house, and similar conduct was seen as on the first occasion. He told defendant that she had a very disorderly house, and that she had better get the parties out of it, who appeared to be the cause. After a few more observations he left the house a second time. At a quarter past twelve o’clock he again went, but no alteration was visible; there was as much disorder and drunkenness as before, and it did not subside till about two o’clock.

This was, in a rather novel manner, corroborated by another officer, who had been with the last witness during his several visits to defendant’s house on the night in question.

Mr. Burbury, solicitor, who was present for defendant cross-examined the corroborating witness at considerable length, after which he contended that there had been a supper at defendant’s house on the night – that many persons were present, simply for the purpose of enjoying themselves – that no drunkenness or disorderly conduct transpired on the occasion. The bench considered the case proved, and defendant was fined, as it was the second offence, 20s with costs.”

Worcestershire Chronicle 18/1/1860

“Wordsley Public Office, Monday, Jan. 16.

The following transfers of licences were allowed.

VINE INN, Rowley Regis, from the late Ann Walters to John Joseph Walters.”

1861 Census

Rowley Village – VINE INN

[1] John Walters (31), married, victualler, born Lye;

[2] Eliza Scringe (45), general servant, born Queens County, Ireland:

Birmingham Journal 21/9/1861

“Fatal Accidents in Pits.

We may take this opportunity of referring to another fatal accident. A miner, named Joseph Whilde, whist at work at Messrs. Harper and Moore’s, Rowley Regis, was killed by a fall of coal. Mr. Hooper will hold an inquest today on the body, at Mr. J. Walter’s, the VINE INN.”

Stourbridge Observer 9/4/1870

“An inquest was held on Thursday last, at the VINE INN, Rowley, before E. Hooper, Esq, Coroner, on the body of William Bailey, three years of age, who met with his death on the previous Friday.

It appears deceased was playing with some other children, when he fell into a lot of boiling hot water.

After hearing the evidence, the jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death.”

Stourbridge Observer 17/12/1870

“Thomas Ross, alias Turner, was charged with assaulting Joseph Walters, landlord of the VINE INN, Rowley, on Sunday last.

Complainant said defendant was in his house drunk, on the day in question. He went to turn him out, when defendant struck him, made his nose bleed, and blackened his eye.

Defendant pleaded guilty, and was fined 20s; in default one month.”

1871 Census

Rowley Village – VINE INN

[1] Joseph Walters (37), unmarried, licensed victualler, born Lye;

[2] Caroline Hill (24), domestic servant, born Rowley Regis:

St. Giles, Rowley - Parish Register - Baptisms

29th March 1874 - John, son of Joseph and Phoebe Walters, publican, Village.

18th May 1875 - Joseph, son of Joseph and Phoebe Walters, publican, Village.

7th July 1876 - Joseph, son of Joseph and Phoebe Walters, publican, victualler, Village.

7th July 1876 - Hannah - daughter of Joseph and Phoebe Walters, victualler, Village.

13th September 1877 - William, son of Joseph and Phoebe Walters, publican, Village.

1st May 1879 - Anne, daughter of Joseph and Phoebe Walters, victualler, Village.

23rd July 1880 - George, son of Joseph and Phoebe Walters, victualler, Village.

12th July 1883 - William, son of Joseph and Phoebe Walters, licensed victualler, Village.

County Advertiser 14/4/1877

“Benjamin Sidaway was charged by Joseph Walters with being disorderly and refusing to leave his premises, the VINE INN, Rowley, on the 31st ult. The case was not pressed, and the defendant was discharged on paying costs. A charge against him of drunkenness in the highway was withdrawn by Mr. Superintendent Wollaston.”

1881 Census

28, Rowley Village – VINE INN

[1] Joseph Walters (47), licensed victualler, born Lye;

[2] Phoebe Walters (39), wife, born Halesowen;

[3] John Walters (7), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;

[4] Ann Walters (1), daughter, born Rowley Regis;

[5] George Walters (9 months), son, born Rowley Regis;

[6] Sarah Houghton (17), domestic servant, born Halesowen;

[7] Zella Preece (12), nurse, born Rowley Regis:

Lancashire Evening Post 8/9/1887

“Joseph Walters, brewer, was, at Rowley, yesterday, fined £10 for defrauding the inland revenue of fourpence. It was shown that after the defendant had used 28lbs of sugar in a brewing he used more after fermentation had taken place, and thus defrauded the inland revenue of fourpence. The defendant denied that he added the sugar, and the solicitor who defended said the question of officers receiving rewards for getting brewers convicted would be brought before the House of Commons.”

County Express 10/9/1887

“It will be news to most people that the Inland Revenue officers are in receipt of bonuses regulated according to the number of prosecutions they bring. This important fact was elicited by Mr. Waldron during the hearing of an excise case at Rowley on Wednesday last. We have now, of course, a key to the singular and hitherto inexplicable activity displayed by these officials in proceeding against licensed victuallers for infraction of the law which it is hardly too much to say are often more supposed than real. Take the case heard this week at Rowley. On what does the case for the prosecution rest? The evidence of the analysts of Somerset House – trained and expert persons no doubt – but like even more distinguished men liable to err. There is, be it remembered, no subject about which rival chemists will differ emphatically than the results of an analysis. The skilled chemist rarely dogmatizes on the matter. At the best he can but offer an opinion. Hence the Somerset House analyst who gave evidence on Wednesday, did not positively assert anything. Here is the opening sentence of his evidence as given in our report. ‘He considered (!) that the beer contained added sugar equal to three pounds per barrel of 36 gallons.’ Now we ask, is it fair, is it right, does it appeal to an Englishman’s sense of justice that a respectable licensed victualler’s good name and reputation should be at the mercy of what a bonus-paid Inland Revenue officer merely considers his beer may consist of. For a conviction to be recorded the evidence should be absolutely clear and conclusive, especially when, as is the present case, the defendant, a licensed victualler of long and unblemished reputation, who has kept the VINE INN, Rowley, for upwards of thirty years, emphatically denied the offence with which he was charged, viz, the illicit mixing of sugar with worts and beer.

Mr. J. B. Davies, supervisor of Inland Revenue, who prosecuted, boasted that the Somerset House analysts have never been known to make a mistake. Mr. Davies must imagine that licensed victuallers and the public generally are extremely verdant if he thinks they will swallow so rash a statement. We have ourselves heard the analysis of Somerset House officials strongly taken exception to by some of the first chemists in the kingdom. In the Roper prosecution at Stourbridge the evidence given by the analysts who had the advantage of being disassociated from Somerset House differed, it will be remembered, materially from that of the Government officials. In the case heard this week, however, no independent analysis appears to have been made. But the case is remarkable for the confession elicited from one of the witnesses that Inland Revenue officers are paid bonuses to bring these paltry prosecutions – in the present instance the amount alleged to be defrauded the Revenue was what Mr. Waldron happily called the miserable sum of fourpence! A system of premium-paid prosecutions is rotten to the core. Why are the magistrates’ clerks no longer paid by fees? Simply in order that they may not have an interest in trumped up prosecutions. Yet, strange to say, in the case of excise officers this pernicious principle still survives. A double wrong is done. The Inland Revenue officers are insulted by being offered an official bribe, and one of the most important trades in the country is exposed to all the abuses inevitable to an organised system of bonus-paid prosecutions. Nothing but evidence in a court of justice would ever have convinced us of the existence of so vicious a practice stamped with the seal of Somerset House! What if our police officers were paid the same way? The injustice of so scandalous a system would then come home sharply and swiftly to the general public. To the lasting disgrace of Somerset House the admission has gone forth that the motto of the Inland Revenue Commissioners is, ‘No prosecution, no bonus.’”

1891 Census

28, Village

[1] Joseph Walters (57), licensed victualler, born Lye;

[2] Phoebe Walters (49), wife, born Oldbury;

[3] John Walters (17), son, carpenter’s apprentice, born Rowley Regis;

- [4] Ann Walters (12), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] George Walters (10), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] William Walters (7), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [7] Hannah Simpson (14), domestic servant, born Rowley Regis:

County Advertiser 6/1/1894 - Deaths

“Walters. On the 1st inst, at his residence, the VINE INN, Rowley Regis, in his 60th year. Deeply lamented by wife, children, and friends.”

St. Giles, Rowley - Parish Register - Baptisms

6th March 1899 - John Reginald Charles (b. 31/1/1899), son of John and Elizabeth Walters, publican and joiner, Rowley Village.
31st January 1900 - Phoebe Davis (b. 1/1/1900), daughter of John and Elizabeth Walters, joiner and publican, Rowley Village.
16th September 1901 - Alice (b. 11/8/1901), daughter of John and Elizabeth Walters, joiner and publican, Rowley Village.

County Advertiser 4/8/1900

“On Thursday morning Mr. H. A. A. Pearson (coroner), held an inquest at the VINE INN, Rowley, concerning the death of James Norman Hutton (4), whose parents reside at Rose Cottages, Cakemore, Blackheath, and who was accidentally suffocated on Tuesday afternoon. The evidence showed that the deceased, who was on a visit to his grandmother’s house at Rowley Village, was playing with a glass marble, out of a ginger beer bottle, when he accidentally swallowed it. The marble got jammed in the windpipe, and all efforts the mother of the lad and a woman named Elizabeth Parkes to remove it were unsuccessful. Mr. Walshe, the dispenser at Dr. Beasley’s surgery, was called in, and he extracted the marble, but death had then taken place some time. The Jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death.”

1901 Census

28, Rowley Village

- [1] John Walters (27), publican, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Elizabeth Walters (27), wife, born Quinton;
- [3] Joseph Walters (3), son, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Phoebe Doris Walters (1), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Mary Ann Law (13), domestic servant, born Blackheath:

County Advertiser 30/6/1906

“Licensing Business.

An interim authority was granted to Noah Harris in respect to the VINE INN, Rowley Regis, from John Walters.”

1911 Census

28, Village – VINE INN

- [1] Noah Harris (34), blacksmith, born Halesowen;
- [2] Alice Harris (35), wife, married 16 years, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] Joseph Harris (15), son, apprentice fitter, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Mary Jane Harris (13), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Isaac Harris (11), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] Thomas Harris (6), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [7] Noah Harris (1), son, born Rowley Regis;
- [8] Mary Jane Whittall (43), domestic servant, born Perry’s Lake:

The license renewal was referred to the Compensation Authority on 4th February 1931.

Dudley Herald 7/3/1931

“The licensing justices, besides renewing several licenses, heard three cases in which the police recommended that the house should be referred to the Compensation Committee for closure. In two cases – those of the VINE INN, Rowley, and the BRITANNIA INN, Springfield – they referred to the committee, and in that of the ROYAL OAK INN, Banner Street, Cradley Heath, Mr. J. T. Higgs appeared on behalf of the licensee (Mr. Joseph Bennett) and opposed the closure of the house. Inspector Davison said the application was being made by the police on the grounds of redundancy. He considered that there were enough houses of a better class to serve that locality. After further statements had been made the Chairman said the Bench felt that there was no likelihood of the Compensation Committee entertaining the case, and the license would be renewed.”

Staffordshire Advertiser 23/5/1931

“The Licensing (Consolidation) Act, 1910. Notice of Principal Meeting. County of Stafford.

Notice is Hereby Given, that the Principal Meeting to be held pursuant to the Licensing Rules, 1901, by the Compensation Authority for the above Area, will be held at the Shire Hall, Stafford, on Monday, the 27th day of July, 1931, at 11 o’clock am.

And Notice Is Hereby Also Given, that the Compensation Authority will at the Meeting be prepared to hear, with reference to the Renewal of the Licences of the several Premises specified in the subjoined list, all those Persons to whom under the Licensing (Consolidation) Act, 1910, they are bound to give an opportunity of being heard.....

List of Licensed Premises.....

VINE INN, Rowley Village. Alehouse. Licensee, Noah Harris.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 28/7/1931

“The County of Staffordshire Compensation Authority, at their principal meeting at Stafford, yesterday, refused to renew the licenses of the following seven houses.....

VINE INN, Rowley Village.”

Compensation paid.

The house closed in 1931.

Lichfield Mercury 8/1/1932

“At Staffordshire Quarter Sessions, held at Stafford on Tuesday, the County Licensing Committee reported that the number of licences referred last year from seven divisions and boroughs was ten, seven of which the committee refused to renew, compensation being fixed as follows.....

Rowley Regis Division: VINE INN, Rowley Village, alehouse, £1,800.”

VINE AND RAILWAY

1, Chester Road, (66, Lomey Town), (Lower High Street), CRADLEY HEATH

OWNERS

Showells Brewery Ltd.

Ind Coope and Allsopp Ltd. (leased) (acquired on 3rd July 1935)

LICENSEES

Mrs. Sophia Amelia Cartwright [1851] – [1885]

Edward Cartwright (1885 – [1887])

Thomas Cartwright [1889]

Thomas R Roodhouse [1890] – [1891]

Beasley [1891]

Sherwood J Richards [c.1893]

L Blackband (1893 – [])

Harry Mercer [1896]

Benjamin Wilkinson []

Frederick William Frost [1898] – 1902);

James Rowlands (1902 – 1908);

Henry Frederick Machin (1908 – 1910);

John Freeman (1910 – [1912])

Daniel Westwood [1916] – 1919);

Edward Gough (1919 – 1922);

Samuel Griffiths (1922);

Herbert Thomas Dixon (1922 – 1926);

John William Hallam (1926 – 1930);

Alice Hallam (1930);

John Kingdon (1930 – 1933);

John Henry Fletcher (1933 – 1938);

Walter Frederick Meir (1938 – 1952);

William Henry Hadley (1952 – 1953);

Richard Davies (1953);

Philip William White (1953 – 1954);

George Houghton (1954 – 1955);

Cyril Smith (1955 – 1958);

Leonard Bacon (1958 – 1961);

Arthur George Lucas (1961 – 1964);

Irene Mary Harrison (1964 – 1965);

Alfred George Davis (1965 – 1966);

NOTES

Lomey Town [1896], [1904], [1924], [1932]

1, Chester Road [1940]

VINE [1853], [1861], [1862], [1865], [1869], [1871]

VINE INN AND RAILWAY HOTEL [1868]

RAILWAY [1867], [1881], [1900]

RAILWAY HOTEL [1876], [1878], [1883], [1885], [1891], [1900]

RAILWAY AND VINE HOTEL [1889], [1890], [1893], [1897]

VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL [1868], [1871], [1872], [1873], [1880s], [1890s], [1896], [1904], [1908], [1900s], [1912], [1916], [1921], [1932], [1940]

Sophia Amelia Cartwright = Sophia Ann Cartwright

1851 Census

Lomey Town

[1] Sophia Amelia Cartwright (37), widow, retail brewer and grocer, born Rowley;

[2] Henrietta Cartwright (18), daughter, born Rowley;

[3] Mary Cartwright (16), daughter, born Rowley;

[4] Sophia Amelia Cartwright (14), daughter, born Rowley;

[5] Thomas Cartwright (12), son, born Rowley;

[6] Edwin Cartwright (10), son, born Rowley;

[7] John Cartwright (8), son, born Rowley;

[8] Samuel Walter Cartwright (4), son, born Rowley:

Worcestershire Chronicle 30/11/1853 - Married

“John Cox, eldest son of Mr. John Cox, Brierley Hill, to Henrietta, eldest daughter of Mrs. Cartwright, VINE INN, Cradley Heath.”

1861 Census

VINE INN – Lomey Town

[1] Sophia Cartwright (47), widow, publican and huxter, born Rowley;

[2] Thomas Cartwright (22), son, furnaceman, born Rowley;

[3] Edwin Cartwright (20), son, brewer, born Rowley;

[4] John Cartwright (18), son, furnaceman, born Rowley;

[5] Walter Cartwright (14), son, scholar, born Rowley:

Sophia A. Cartwright was also a shopkeeper. [1864], [1865]

Stourbridge Observer 6/8/1864

“The anniversary of the Court Foresters’ Home, No.4196, of the Ancient Order of Foresters, was held on Monday last. The members to the number of 54 sat down to dinner, accompanied by their surgeon, H. F. Hodgson, Esq. An excellent dinner was provided by Hostess Mrs. Sophia Amelia Cartwright, of the VINE AND RAILWAY INN, Lower Town, Cradley Heath. The cloth being removed, and the business of the Court over, the remains of the evening was spent in conviviality, several songs and glees were sung in good style.....”

Stourbridge Observer 15/4/1865

“On Wednesday last, an inquest was held at the VINE AND RAILWAY INN, Lomey Town, on the body of Joseph Guest, who lived in the neighbourhood, and who was killed on Monday last in Mr. Dawes’s colliery at Withymore under circumstances explained in the evidence.

A fellow labourer named Perry deposed to being at work with the deceased at the time of the accident. What is known with colliers as a ‘bump’ took place, about 2cwt of coal falling from the roof, a portion of which fell on the deceased’s head and killed him instantaneously. This witness on being asked by Mr. Baker, the Government Inspector, if he considered the pit was in good working order, answered in the affirmative.

Mr. Baker considered that proper precautions had been taken in the pit and explained that in the best regulated these ‘bumps’ would occur.

The Coroner having summed up, the jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death.

Three jurors, Messrs. C. Skelding, John Griffiths, and Noah Homer were fined each 10s for not being present to answer to their names.”

Stourbridge Observer 22/4/1865

“On Saturday last, an inquest was held at the house of Mrs. Sophia Cartwright, VINE INN, before E. Hooper, Esq, on the body of Clara Thompson, whose death resulted from a fall. The following witnesses were examined.

Mrs. Stenson deposed that on Friday the 7th inst she saw the deceased swinging with some other children, she also saw her fall off; the distance she fell was about one yard and a half. There were two others on the same end of the plank as the deceased, they all fell off upon some cast metal. The mother of the deceased went and picked her up. The deceased was not pushed off. She saw the deceased the next morning after the accident, and then she said that one of the girls pushed her off, but she afterwards contradicted this statement.

Mrs. Harris said she heard of the accident, and went to attend on the girl. She was with her the whole night after the accident. The only bruise she had was on the side of the temple. Mr. Hodgson and Mr. Morrow attended her till her death. They paid her every attention. The deceased said, while she was deranged, that a little girl pushed her off, but she afterwards said that she fell off herself.

Mrs. Thompson, the mother of the deceased, said her daughter fell upon some stone that had been brought out of the foundry. After consideration the jury found a verdict of Accidental Death.”

Stourbridge Observer 12/8/1865

“On Monday the members of Court Foresters’ Home, No.4196, met at the house of Mrs. S. A. Cartwright, Lomey Town, to partake of their annual dinner. The dinner consisted of beef and mutton, with the necessary accompaniments, and was served in the usual good style of the worthy landlord.....”

Birmingham Daily Post 4/9/1865

“A dinner was held at Mrs. Cartwright’s, VINE AND RAILWAY INN, Cradley, on Tuesday last, on the occasion of Mr. Joseph Bailey, late station master, retiring from the service of the Great Western Railway Company.”

Stourbridge Observer 11/8/1866

“The anniversary of Court Foresters’ Home (No.4196), of the Ancient Order of Foresters, was celebrated on Monday last, August 6th, at hostess’s S. A. Cartwright’s, of the VINE AND RAILWAY INN, Lomey Town. The court room was neatly decorated, and the dinner was served in the hostess’s usual excellent style.....”

Stourbridge Observer 13/7/1867

“On Saturday last, the 6th inst, the officers and members of Court Foresters’ Home, No.4196, assembled at their Court House, the VINE AND RAILWAY INN, Lomey Town, Cradley Heath, for the purpose of presenting a testimonial (consisting of a splendid emblematical silver medal, with a bow and crossed arrows and a horn suspended therefrom) purchased by their medical officer, H. F. Hodgson, Esq, and the members of the Court; also a beautiful PCR’s ribbon and badge purchased by the worthy hostess, Mrs. S. A. Cartwright, to PCR Brother Joseph Homer, as a memento of their esteem for his untiring zeal, and upright and honourable behaviour whilst occupying the chair for three and a half years.....”

County Advertiser 31/8/1867

“Rowley. The Annual Licensing Meeting.....

The license of Sophia Cartwright, of the VINE AND RAILWAY INN, Cradley Heath, was transferred from an old house to a new one.”

Stourbridge Observer 28/9/1867

“A supper took place at the house of Mrs. Cartwright, the RAILWAY INN, on Monday last. This supper was in connection with Mr. Smart’s raffle at Christmas last, had been long looked for.....”

Stourbridge Observer 4/1/1868

“On the morning of the 22nd ult, the body of a man was discovered lying in the Stour, near to Messrs. Evers’s works. His heels were on the bank, and the rest of his body was submerged.

The police were instantly communicated with, and the body removed to the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, when upon examination it proved to be a man named John Williams, of Birmingham Street, Stourbridge, aged 63, who has for some years carried baskets &c for sale.

An inquest was held on the 24th ultimo, at the above Hotel, before Mr. Hooper, Coroner, and from the evidence adduced it appears the deceased was last seen alive about half past eight on the previous Saturday evening, in a state of intoxication. He must have wandered from the Railway Station into the private road leading to the above works, and, missing his way, rolled down the embankment into the river. In the lining of his coat 8s were found, carefully tied up, and in his pocket 11½d were found.

The jury after hearing the above evidence, returned a verdict of Found Drowned.”

Stourbridge Observer 28/3/1868

“Mrs. Sophia Cartwright having entered the large and commodious Hotel near the railway station, gave a supper on Monday evening to a large number of friends Full justice was done to an excellent spread, served with all the usual success of the hostess. Afterwards Mr. Alfred Taylor was voted to the chair, and J. Leonard to the vice chair. The worthy chairman opened the meeting by singing one of his characteristic songs in his own characteristic style, and afterwards conducted the meeting in the most jolly manner possible, making everybody, himself included, as happy as possible.....”

Stourbridge Observer 11/7/1868

“On Monday last a number of friends sat down to an excellent supper at the VINE INN AND RAILWAY HOTEL, under the presidency of Mr. Alfred Taylor.

After the cloth had been withdrawn, which it is needless to say was laid in the usual sumptuous style of Mrs. Cartwright, various toasts were proposed, and amongst them ‘Success to the Local Government Act,’ which was drunk with great satisfaction.”

Stourbridge Observer 29/8/1868

“The anniversary of Court Foresters’ Home, No.4196, of the Ancient Order of Foresters, having been deferred from August 3rd, to enable the members to attend at the High Court demonstration at Wolverhampton, was held on Monday, August 17th, at their Court House, the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Lomey Town, Cradley Heath, when the members sat down to a good substantial dinner provided by the worthy hostess in her usual style.....”

Stourbridge Observer 11/12/1869

“An accident of an alarming character occurred on the railway on Wednesday last, resulting in the death of the stoker, Charles Tasker, and injury to several others. The accident occurred at Cradley Forge, about 200 yards from the Cradley Station, on the part of the line leading to Stourbridge. The railway belongs to the Great Western Company, and is called the Stourbridge Extension line.

It appears that the express train left Birmingham at 4.45, and was due at Stourbridge at 5.13, only stopping once at Smethwick Junction, at which place it duly arrived at 4.54. On the train arriving at Cradley the signals were all right for the line being clear, but, on arriving at Cradley Forge, opposite Messrs. Swindell’s ironworks, a goods train was on the line and a fearful collision took place, the engine of the express train being thrown off the line down an embankment, and much damaged, and six carriages being literally smashed, four of them being locked in with each other. The engine of the goods train was also injured, and some of the trucks upset by the collision, completely blocking up the line, the traffic being stopped for some time. A number of railway officials were at once communicated with, and a large staff of platelayers from Dudley, Stourbridge, and the district, were soon on the spot, under the direction of Mr. J. Wood, Mr. Andrews, Mr. Masters, Mr. Ledbrook (of Birmingham, District Inspector), Mr. J. Phillips (Station Master, Stourbridge), Mr. Wilkinson (Goods Station Master, Cradley), Mr. Lock (Inspector), Mr. Biggs (Station Master, Cradley), and others; the whole being under the direction of Mr. Ledbrook. All worked indefatigably, and the whole of the debris was cleared off the line by 9.40. The one line of rails was not injured, but the other was torn up. Some of the trains were sent via Dudley. The train leaving Birmingham at 11.10 arrived at Cradley, and went to Stourbridge on the other line of rails without any delay.

From what we can learn it appears that the goods train laden with coal and other things, came out of a siding called the Hayes Siding, and had got on to the main line, and was in the act of shunting when the express, which was going at a rate of thirty miles an hour, ran into it. Fortunately, the passengers were few in number or the loss of life would have been fearful. Of course, full enquiry will be made as to the cause of the accident, it being very apparent that some one is to blame.

The passengers not injured got out of the carriages as soon as possible, and rendered all the assistance they could; some were taken to Cradley. Those seriously injured were conveyed to Mrs. Cartwright’s, the VINE INN, and Dr. Hodgson and Dr. Morrow were in immediate attendance, and tendered every assistance in their power. The following are the persons injured.

Charles Tasker, stoker of Wolverhampton, killed; leaves a wife and family. His body was cut in two, and the right leg was not found for more than half an hour. His body now lies at Mrs. Cartwright’s, awaiting a Coroner’s inquest.

Henry Richardson, engine driver, also at Cartwright’s. Injuries serious.

Thomas Hall, of Burford, Oxfordshire, scalp wound, and injuries to his arm and leg.

Mrs. Peel, of Bewdley, slightly injured.

A man named Farmer, a farmer, slight injuries.

The stoker of the goods train was also injured, and received medical attendance, and was the same night conveyed to his home at Dudley, in a cab.

The whole of the persons injured are going on well.

An inquest was held yesterday, at the VINE HOTEL, before Mr. Bailey, Deputy Coroner, on the body of Charles Tasker, a stoker, in the employ of the Great Western Railway Company, who came to his death on the previous Wednesday. Mr. Sermon, from the firm of Messrs Whateley, solicitors, Birmingham, attended on behalf of the company; and Mr. Crump on behalf of the deceased. Mr. William Clayton Barker was the foreman of the jury.

The first witness called was Ann Bamford, who said: I am a single woman, and live at Cannock Road, Wolverhampton. Am sister in law to deceased. It is his body the jury have just viewed. He was 26 years of age.

William Marston, the signalman, said: I live at Quarry Bank, and am a pointsman, in the employ of the Great Western Railway Company, at Cradley Station. Was so employed on the 8th of December, at 5.15pm. Went in at 7am, and left at 7pm. Signalled the trains properly all day. Signalled the 4.45 train from Birmingham by telegraph, ‘line clear.’ Signalled two trains between four and half past five. One at 4.13, a goods train, and a passenger train at 4.51, and another at 5.7, also a passenger train. Signalled line clear in each case. No coal passed between four and half past five. The 4.38 goods train went up to Smethwick Junction. Signalled line clear in that case. Before I signalled I received a signal from the next box, and in each case received the usual signal that the line was clear. After I signalled the 4.45 passenger train passed my box. Cannot say how far the place where the accident occurred is from my box.

At this stage of the proceedings the jury went to view the scene of the accident. On returning Marston continued: The special instructions produced are the same as delivered to me as a signalman, by which I am told to work the line. I thoroughly understand the instructions contained there. Witness declined to state whether he had keys to lock the switches and stop blocks.

Inspector John Lock said: I live at Stamber Mill, near Stourbridge. I am Inspector of the Great Western Railway on the Stourbridge Extension district. My duties are to give instructions to the men, including signalmen. Have given the instructions referred to, to Marston. Received them from him after the accident. He was supplied with them on the 15th of May. These instructions contain an order to retain all keys of switches and stop blocks, and no train to leave the station while they were absent. It is the usual order given to signalmen. In case the keys were not there, it would be his duty to stop the train from proceeding as long as they were absent. The instructions would remain in force until further notice. The instructions were in force on Wednesday, the 8th inst, at the time of the accident. Have seen the instructions in Marston's possession. Saw them about two hours after the accident. I asked him to sign them, and he did so. Do not know that the keys were in the box at the time the 4.45 train arrived at Cradley.

William Davies said: I am yard-foreman at Cradley Station, and live at Bower Lane. Have been employed by the company at Cradley for about three years. My duties were to see to the loading up in the yard, and to mind the points. Have control of the sidings, without the interference of any other person. If I wanted to shunt a goods train on the main line, I should have to get the signal from the signalman. Marston was the signalman at the station. The signal he would give me would be by his hand; a lamp and a white flag being a signal that the line was clear. I get the keys of the points and blocks from the signalman, before I shunt. The stop blocks are used to prevent the shunting of trains so long as they are locked. Have a book of rules delivered to me. After I have received the signal I consider I have authority to shunt a train on the main line. On the 8th inst I had a signal from Marston when I shunted the train down into Evers' siding. I know the rule 54. Received the keys from George Civill, a chequer, a man who was doing shunting whilst I was at my dinner, about half past three. Had a goods train loaded, and received a signal from Marston before shunting. He signalled it with his hand. It would be a few minutes after four. It was a usual signal. The danger signals were shown at the box. I left the train standing on the siding. Do not know who shunted it on to the main line. This would be about half an hour before the accident. Cannot give any evidence as to who had control over the train when it was shunted on to the main line. Did not see the accident.

By Mr. Sermon: Gave instructions to the driver, Thomas Page, as to remaining in the siding, and told him not to move off the line until the passenger train had gone down. One of them, I cannot say whether it was the fireman or the driver said, 'How is it?' and I told them they could not go out until the express had gone by. This would be about five minutes before the express passed.

By Page, the driver: I did not come to the side of your engine when the mineral train had gone. You did not ask me what you were to do. I asked you if you could see a signal. I had my lamp in my hand when I was there.

By Mr. Sermon: Have been in the employ of the company for 13 years. Do not know how long Marston has been there.

George Civill said: I live at Quarry Bank, and am a chequer, in the employ of the Great Western Railway Company, at Cradley Station. Was on duty in the shed on the afternoon of the 8th inst. Received the keys from Marston, between one and two o'clock. The keys belong to the stop blocks and the main line switches. Gave the keys to Davis, the foreman, about half past three. Assisted in shunting the goods train in the afternoon. Unlocked the blocks when I loosed the train out, and locked them again. They were locked when I gave the keys up to Davis. Did not keep the keys more than an hour and a half. Cannot give any evidence as to the shunting of the train immediately before the accident.

Davis recalled: I had the keys all the afternoon, and gave them up after the accident. Had kept the keys for three hours.

By the Foreman: I unlocked the block. Page could not have got through if the blocks had been locked. I unlocked the blocks when I had the signals from Marston. I put them over, but did not lock them afterwards.

By a Juryman: I did not lock them and the train had gone clear.

By another Juryman: I do not think the accident could have happened if the blocks had been locked.

By the Coroner: Could not see that Page was about to shunt. I was in the yard weighing goods.

By a Juryman: Do not know who took the blocks off. No one has a right to take them off but me.

Philip Smart said: I live in Church Street, Dudley, and am a fireman in the employ of the Great Western Railway Company. Was at Cradley Station on the 8th inst. Was acting as fireman on the goods engine, No.251. Thomas Page was the driver. When the train was loaded Daniel Porter, the guard, came up to the train about ten minutes to five. He said, 'What are you sanding there for?' and Page said for a signal, and the guard said blow up for one, meaning the whistle. The driver came on to my side, and I moved out of his way, and the guard then told me he could get no signal, and told me to blow up again, and I did so. I afterwards saw a white light on the platform, near to the watchman's box. The light was stationary. It was in the place where we usually see the signal. The white light means go on. Page came on to his own side, and he saw the white light. He said, 'All right, Tom.' The guard stood at the side of the engine, and waved his lamp, saying, 'All right, go on.' Did not see any one do anything to the stop blocks. Neither Page or myself touched the stop blocks. Know that the yardsman has control over the stop blocks. If we found the stop blocks unlocked, and we received the signal, 'right,' we have a right to go out in the absence of the yard foreman. Did not see Davis after the mineral train had gone. Saw him before it went. Did not hear Davis say he could not hear a signal. Davis might have been there talking to Page, but I did not see him. After we received the signal from the guard, my mate drew steadily out from the siding, across both lines of metals. As soon as we were over the points I put the brake on, and whilst I was putting it on my mate said, 'Oh, look here, what is coming.' I went to his side, and saw it coming myself. I made to my own side, in order to get off, when the train rushed into us and knocked me down the bank. Did not see deceased. Do not remember anything else.

By Mr. Sermon: I never knew guards of a goods train give us a signal to go without the blocks being unlocked.

By Mr. Crump: Do not know whether the stop blocks were locked. We are compelled to obey the orders of the guard when going out, and he ordered us to go out of the siding that night. Had no idea what trains were due.

Thomas Page, driver of the goods train, said: I live at 16, Priory Street, Dudley, and am the driver of 251 engine, in the employ of the Great Western Railway Company. On the 8th inst, we were at Cradley Station. Was standing on a siding with a loaded train, waiting for a mineral train to pass. Saw it pass, and Davis, the yard foreman, came to the side of my engine about a quarter to 5. I said, 'What is to be done now?' He said, 'Can you see a signal?' I looked and told him I could not. He told me to wait till the train had passed. I understood him to mean the passenger train that stopped at Cradley. It was the down train. I got off to oil the engine, and whilst walking round the tender oiling the axle boxes, I perceived that the stop block was off. That was after the passenger train had gone. I got on the engine immediately afterwards. Daniel Porter, the goods guard, came up, and asked me what I was standing there for. I told him I was waiting for a signal. He requested me to whistle for one. I blew the whistle several times, but could not get any signal from the signal box. I went to my mate's side to see if I could perceive the yardsman. The guard asked my mate to whistle, and he did so. I then went to my own side, and saw a white light at the signal box. The guard said, 'all right, go on,' and gave me a signal with his lamp to go on. The light at the signal was stationary. I took it to be the all right signal. The all right signal is generally moved. I took it to be the finish of the signal as my mate and the guard saw it before I did. Did not interfere with the stop block. Never touched or moved it, I obeyed the guard's signal, and drew gently out of the siding. I asked my mate if he could see the pointsman, and he said he could not. I went on that side to look if I could see him, and I could not. I came on my own side, and touched the whistle. I had a signal, a white light calling me ahead. Then I had a red light shown me. As soon as I saw that I immediately saw a white light coming towards me. That was the passenger train, I called my mate's attention to it, and then jumped off. Cannot give any other particulars. Had the stop block been on, we could not have come out. By Mr. Sermon: Have a book of the rules. Have had the time book, but not for this month. The book produced is the same. Witness declined to answer any more questions.

By Marston, the signalman: It is customary to give a waving signal from the signal box.

By Mr. Sermon: I did not see the pointsman.

By Mr. Crump: I blew the whistle for the signal several times. The stop block was off.

Witness declined to answer a question by the foreman, asking him if he did not know there was a passenger train due in 5 minutes, when the guard called him on.

By the Coroner: Could not say who showed me the light.

William Brinton, said: I live at Spring Bank House, Kidderminster, and am a commercial clerk. I was a passenger by the train leaving Birmingham at 4.45, on the 8th inst. I was in the first compartment of a carriage numbered 161. We stopped at Smethwick Junction to pick up some London and North Western carriages. Did not experience anything extraordinary until we passed Cradley Station, when I felt a sensation as though we were going over grooved rails. An instant afterwards the collision took place. I looked out of the window, and saw the engine on its side. I got out of the window, and ran back to the station to give information to the authorities there. Saw two waggons were smashed, and extended across both lines.

Daniel Porter said: I live at Dudley, and am a goods guard in the employ of the Great Western Railway Company. On the 8th inst, in the afternoon was at Cradley Station. Did not see Davis, the foreman, go up to the engine. Asked the driver to whistle for a signal. It was about a quarter past 5. He blew the whistle once. He said he could see a white light on the platform. I then told him the stop block was off, and asked him to go on, making sure that all was right. Gave the order for him to go on, and told him to draw out. Did not use any signal to him. The train then went out of the siding across both lines of rails. Saw a white light in the platform. I stood between both lines in the six foot. Saw the passenger train coming, and ran towards it with a red light in my hand. Was not present when Tasker was taken from under the engine. Saw Davis in the yard about the time when the mineral train passed. Did not see him do anything to the stop block. I have the control of the train, and the engine driver would have to obey my orders if I told him to go on. Have a service timetable showing what time the trains are due. Know there was an express train due at Cradley at that time, but knew that it ought to have gone before then. The train is due into Stourbridge at 5.12. Do not know how far Stourbridge is from there. Had been in the yard the whole of the afternoon. Had been busy at work, and did not take any notice of the trains that passed. Did not know for certain whether the express had passed or not. It would be my duty to see that it had passed before I let them out. Only told them to whistle once. When I asked them to whistle they said they saw a white light on the platform, and I saw it as well. The light was near the signal box. Did not see it waved. It appeared as though a man was carrying it. We take a signal from a white light whether it is waved or not. Saw that the stop block was off, and thought that all was right. Did not touch or move the stop block. The stop blocks were in such a way that the driver could move out. Did not see Davis unlock the stop blocks. Have got a rule book and have read rule 54. Do not know whether the danger signals were up or not.

By Mr. Sermon: Have a book of the rules, and have read rule 174, stating that all guards at a station are under control of the officer in charge. Asked the men to whistle.

By Marston: A waving light is a danger signal. A light shown whether waved or not is a signal.

By Mr. Crump: Saw the lights at the Station and saw that the blocks were unlocked. I made sure that the express had passed because the stop blocks were unlocked.

Thomas Hodgson said: I live at Cradley Heath, and am a medical assistant. Was called about five o'clock on the 8th inst to the scene of the accident, at Cradley Station. I went down the line, and met the driver coming from the place. My brother assisted him. The place where the body was found was in Worcestershire. Found the body of Tasker under the engine. Saw the broken carriages. The engine was turned over on its side. Saw the body removed. It was severed in two, and death must have been instantaneous. His body would be found in the township of Cradley, in the parish of Halesowen. His death would be caused by the overturning of the engine.

The inquest was adjourned until Tuesday, the 21st inst, for the purpose of having the evidence of Richardson (the driver) and Hall (the passenger), the two injured men, who, we hear, are going on very well. All the witnesses were bound over to appear on the above date."

Oxfordshire Weekly News 19/1/1870

"The coroner's inquiry into the death of Charles Tasker, who was lately killed by a railway collision at Cradley, near Stourbridge, terminated on Monday night in a verdict of Manslaughter against Porter, the guard of the goods train."

[Daniel Porter appeared at Stafford charged with manslaughter on 11th March 1870, and was found not guilty.]

Stourbridge Observer 22/10/1870

“A meeting of the gas consumers of Cradley, Cradley Heath, and Old Hill, took place on Thursday evening, at Mrs. Cartwright's, the VINE AND RAILWAY INN, Lomey Town, when the committee appointed by the gas consumers were to inform them of their negotiations with the directors of the Gas Company, and also to propose a plan, which, if adopted, will result in having the gas supplied at a materially less price than the present.....”

1871 Census

Lomey Town – VINE AND RAILWAY INN

- [1] Sophia A. Cartwright (57), licensed victualler, born Cradley Heath;
- [2] Samuel W. Cartwright (23), son, engine driver at iron works, born Cradley Heath;
- [3] Emma Harris (23), general servant, born Tipton;
- [4] Elizabeth Stevens (14), general servant, born Quarry Bank;
- [5] Benjamin Billingham (48), lodger, drover, born Rowley Regis:

County Advertiser 17/6/1871 - Advert

“HARE AND HOUNDS INN, Careless Green, near Wassell Green.

The Proprietor, Mr. G. Newnham, begs to announce that he intends to hold a Grand Gala, Pic-Nic, and Fete, on the Beautiful Grounds, adjoining the above Inn, on Monday, June, 19th, 1871, and has secured the services of the Cradley Heath Brass Band! To perform a choice selection of Vocal and Instrumental Music at intervals, under the leadership of Mr. W. Bennett.

Myers Barnett, the splendid Serio-Comic Singer, from the London Music Hall, will appear.

The following amusements will take place: Dancing on the Green, Foot Racing, Foot-balling, Climbing the Pine Pole, and all the Old English Sports.

Balloon Ascents at intervals; and at Nine o'clock a Monster Balloon will ascend, surrounded with a Blaze of Fireworks and Coloured Fires, by a celebrated Artiste.

A large tent will be erected on the Grounds, and refreshments of the best quality will be provided for the occasion. The Grounds will be open at Two o'clock.

Tickets 4d each, if purchased before the day; at Gate 6d each.

Tickets may be had at the above Inn, and of Messrs. W. Rhodes, RAILWAY INN, Lye; W. Wallins, HOLLY BUSH INN, Lye; W. Westwood, WAGGON AND HORSES INN, Cradley Forge; S. Cartwright, VINE AND RAILWAY INN, Cradley Heath; H. Heaton, FIVE WAYS, Cradley Heath; John Stafford, BLUE BALL INN, Old Hill; and any Member of the Band.”

Stourbridge Observer 19/8/1871

“Early on Monday morning Cradley Heath was all astir and hundreds of persons could be seen wending their way towards the Five Ways to witness the procession of Foresters, which was announced to take place that day. The weather being fine thousands of persons were present to witness the procession through the various streets. Ten o'clock was the appointed time for starting, but it was nearly half-past eleven before they got away, owing to their having to wait for some of the Courts from a distance.

The various Courts assembled at the Five Ways, and then formed themselves into order of procession. The following Courts were represented: No.3068, Hope and Anchor, QUEENS HEAD, Corngreaves Street, Cradley Heath; No.3595, Cable and Anchor, BIRD IN HAND, Cradley Heath; 4127, Good Samaritan, BEEHIVE, Corngreaves Road, Cradley Heath; 4196, Foresters' Home, VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath; 4233, Loyal Shenstone; 4340, Loyal Marlborough, COOKSEY'S HOTEL, Old Hill; 4398, Moss Rose, ROYAL OAK INN, New Town; 4546, Robin Hood's Merry Rangers, CROWN INN, Five Ways; 4970, Lye Reformed, WINDMILL INN, Lye. Although the district of Cradley Heath and Halesowen comprises 36 Courts, only nine took part in getting up the Fete.

The procession started from the Five Ways, headed by the Cradley Heath Brass Band. The Pensnett Victoria Brass and Reed Band and the Halesowen Drum and Fife Band also took part in the procession. Each band played lively quick steps passing through Lomey Town, Five Ways, Four Ways, Reddal Hill, Old Hill, and Haden Hill, en route for Halesowen, passing through the principal streets and then to the Leasowes. The procession was three-quarters of a mile in length, and was accompanied with three magnificent banners bearing suitable mottoes of the Order, and a large number of flags, the members wearing the various badges of the Order, and accompanied by Robin Hood, Little John, Will Scarlet, Friar Tuck, Shepherds, &c, &c.

On arriving at the beautiful and classic grounds, famed as having been the seat of the poet Shenstone, the procession passed round the house of B. Gibbons, Esq, who had kindly placed the whole of the grounds at the disposal of the Committee.....

There was a number of shooting galleries, Aunt Sallys, and other things to amuse all classes. During the day a number of balloon ascents took place.....

It is estimated that between six and seven thousand persons were present, upwards of £100 being taken at the gates, and it is expected there will be a good surplus in aid of the funds of the Order and General Hospital.

We must not close without a word of praise to the Committee, who were indefatigable in carrying out the arrangements according to the programme. The refreshments were provided by Mrs. S. Cartwright of Cradley Heath, and the tea and confectionery by Mr. J. Corns of Wolverhampton.”

Stourbridge Observer 14/10/1871

“Sophia A. Cartwright, landlady of the VINE AND RAILWAY INN, Cradley Heath, was charged with keeping her house open for the sale of drink during prohibited hours, on the 8th inst.

Police-constables Griffin and Johnson visited the defendant's house in plain clothes, on the above date, and found two men in the employ of the Great Western Railway Company in the house, each with a glass of liquors.

In defence, Mrs. Cartwright said she had given her servant orders not to fill anything to any one on a Sunday morning, but this morning, before she was up, the men had come into the house and asked for a glass of something, as they had been at work all night, and the girl let them have the liquors unknown to her.

The Bench ordered defendant to pay costs, and advised her to lock the bar up on a Sunday morning.”

Stourbridge Observer 4/11/1871

“On Sunday Morning, about three o’clock, the inmates of the VINE INN, near the Railway Station, fortunately discovered that the kitchen ceiling was in flames owing to the bursting of the gas pipe and its consequent ignition. Prompt measures were taken to put it out and the house was thus saved from almost sure destruction. The damage done is inconsiderable.”

Stourbridge Observer 29/6/1872

“On Tuesday morning the dead body of a man named Joseph Priest was found lying in his own house at the bottom of the stairs. The deceased person was single, and resided near the VINE HOTEL. His mind, it is said, was affected by some domestic affairs, and to get out of them he, on Monday night, hung himself. Tying two garters and a piece of string together, he fastened them to a nail at the top of the stairs, and placing the noose around his neck he must have stepped off the landing. His weight broke the string, and he was found lying at the bottom of the stairs.

Dr. Hodgson was in immediate attendance, and affirmed that the man had been dead some hours. The string had cut a depth of two inches into his neck; in fact his head was nearly severed, so that death must have been instantaneous.

An inquest was held on the body at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, on Wednesday, before Mr. E. Hooper, Coroner.

The first witness called was Thomas Priest, who said: I am a chainmaker by trade, but am no relation to the deceased. I knew him to be a chainmaker at Lomey Town. He is about 50 years of age, and it is his corpse the jury have just viewed. I have known him ever since I can recollect. I last saw him on Monday night about twenty minutes to twelve. I came to his house door with him. He was very quiet. He was quite sober. He seemed very low on Sunday. He said he had a troubled mind. He was very close-minded. He was a bachelor, and his niece lived with him during the day time. He went to unload some iron on Monday. The next morning I was fetched by one of his workmen, who told me he was found dead. They thought he had fallen down stairs. The niece found him. I saw him go into the house, but did not hear him lock the door, as I went straight away.

Henrietta Shaw said: I am niece of the deceased. He was 48 years of age. I have been in the habit of looking after his house for him. I came in the afternoon, and left in the evening. I last saw him late on Monday night about half past eleven, at our house.

He came to our house about half past nine o’clock. He seemed to have great trouble on his mind. He had been in a nervous state for a long time. He has been rather low for the last fortnight, and very strange for the last few days. He was not able to go to work on Monday. My father has always looked after him and his affairs. We have heard him complain of his heart and brain. I went to his house on Tuesday morning just as the clock struck eight. The back door was not locked. I put the milk on the table, and as I saw no fire in the grate I went towards the stairs to call my uncle, when I found him lying at the bottom of the steps. He was dead, and was quite cold. I did not see any cord at the time. Everything in the room was in its proper place. There was nothing to lead me to suppose that any one had been in the house with him. I believe he committed the act himself.

Thomas Priest (re-called) said when he got to the house on Tuesday morning he saw deceased lying on the ground with a piece of string round his neck, and he saw a piece of string hanging by a nail at the head of the stairs. The string was broken.

The jury returned a verdict that deceased committed Suicide whilst in a state of Temporary Insanity.”

Stourbridge Observer 10/8/1872

“On Monday last, the ninth anniversary of Court Foresters’ Home, No.4196, of the Ancient Order of Foresters, was celebrated at their Court House, the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Lomey Town, Cradley Heath, when 70 of the members sat down to a bountiful dinner provided by the worthy hostess, Mrs. S. A. Cartwright, in her well known substantial style. Bro. Stephen Dunn, CR, presided, and Bro. James Woodhouse, SCR, occupied the vice chair.....”

Stourbridge Observer 9/8/1873

“On Monday last, the members of Court Foresters’ Home, No.4196, of the Ancient Order of Foresters, celebrated their tenth anniversary by a procession of the members and a good substantial dinner. The members numbering upwards of a hundred met at the Court house, the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Lomey Town, at nine o’clock am, and paraded through Cradley Heath headed by Maid Marian, Robin Hood, and various other Foresters characters, accompanied by the Cradley Heath Brass Band, which enlivened the march by the performance of some first-class music. Also a large number of children (dressed in white) in a waggon splendidly decorated, and by the members of the Shepherds Sanctuary, connected with the Court, dressed in their pastoral costumes and a splendid new banner purchased by the members of the Court.

After winding their way through Cradley Heath and Cradley, the procession attended the Park Lane Chapel, and were favoured by the Rev. W. Cochrane with an able and impressive discourse on the duties and obligations of a Christian Life.

The members then proceeded through Quarry Bank to their Court House, and sat down to an excellent dinner provided by the worthy hostess Mrs. S. A. Cartwright, in her accustomed good style. After the cloth was removed, the secretary produced the auditors’ report showing they now numbered 105, and were possessed of funds to the amount of £276 0s 2½d; being an increase for the year of 8 members, and of £36 5s 9½d. The worthy and respected surgeon to the Court, Mr. H. F. Hodgson, was then re-elected, and was presented with an elegant neck ribbon by Bro. John Rock, on behalf of the members as a slight token of the respect he was held in by them. Mr. Hodgson responded in a very feeling manner, and assured the members he would endeavour to preserve their respect by strict and diligent attention to their ailment, when required, and also congratulated them on their uniform good health. Selections of music were then given by the Band under the leadership of Mr. E. Kernock, and songs and glees became the order of the day until closing time. The whole proceedings passed off with eclat.”

County Advertiser 28/10/1876 - Advert

“Lost on the 1st inst, Brown and White Spaniel Dog.
Apply, E. Cartwright, RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath.”

County Advertiser 30/3/1878 - Advert

“Wanted, a respectable Servant Girl, one used to a Public House.
Apply, Mrs. Cartwright, VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath.”

County Advertiser 2/11/1878 - Advert

“Sale Of Freehold Butcher’s Shop, Dwelling Houses, and Premises, Five Ways, Cradley Heath.
Messrs. Rollinson and Beckley are instructed to Offer for Sale by Auction, on Tuesday, November 19th, at the house of Mrs. Cartwright, RAILWAY HOTEL (opposite Cradley railway Station) at Six for Seven o’clock in the Evening, and subject to conditions to be then read.....”

County Advertiser 18/1/1879

“On Thursday the employés of the Great Western Railway held their annual dinner at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL. Mrs. Cartwright provided an excellent dinner. Mr. Roach, the stationmaster, was voted to the chair, and Mr. J. Beacham to the vice-chair. The usual toasts were drunk, and a convivial evening was spent.”

1881 Census

66, Lomey Town – RAILWAY INN

- [1] Sophia Cartwright (67), widow, publican, born Cradley Heath;
- [2] Samuel Cartwright (33), son, brewer, born Cradley Heath;
- [3] Sarah Stevens (20), general servant, born Quarry Bank;
- [4] Rose Shaw (20), general servant, born Quarry Bank;
- [5] Clara Whinhall (17), general servant, born Cradley Heath:

County Advertiser 19/11/1881 - Advert

“Notice to Spade Makers. A General Meeting of the Operatives of this trade will be held on Monday Next, November 31st, at Cartwright’s, VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, at Two o’clock, to consider what further steps shall be taken respecting the wages question.”

County Advertiser 26/11/1881

“At a meeting of spademakers, held on Monday, at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, it was resolved to continue the agitation for an advance of 3d per dozen, and a deputation was appointed to wait on all the masters, and to discuss the matter with them to induce them if possible, to pay the advance on the first reckoning in the new year. If they failed this a strike will have to be resorted to, which the men are anxious to avoid.”

County Advertiser 4/2/1882 - Advert

“The Operatives’ Spade and Shovel Makers’ Trade Society. Stourbridge District.
Notice To Spade Makers. A General Meeting of the Operatives of this Trade will be held at Cartwright’s VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, on Monday Next, Feb. 6th, 1882, at Two o’clock precisely, when it is hoped all will attend, as business of great importance will be under consideration.”

County Express 3/6/1882 - Advert

“Withdrawal of Sale.
The Sale of Freehold Nail Warehouse, Galvanising Works and Residence, in Station Street, Cradley Heath, announced to take place on the 6th inst, at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, is withdrawn.
T. Pateshall, Auctioneer, Cradley Heath.”

County Express 29/7/1882

“On the 17th inst the members of Court Foresters’ Home, No.4196, A.O.F., held their anniversary at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL. Ample justice was done to an excellent dinner, and on the withdrawal of the cloth, Bro. B. Grove was voted to the chair and Bro. A. Cartwright to the vice-chair. They spoke of the prosperous condition of the Court. Song, toast, and sentiment enlivened the proceedings of the evening, which was enjoyably spent.”

County Advertiser 14/10/1882 - Advert

“Freehold Dwelling Houses, Cradley Heath.
To be Sold by Auction, by Mr. Thomas Pateshall (pursuant to an Order made by His Honour Sir Rupert Kettle, the Judge for the County Court holden at Dudley, in the action of Pierey v. Rose and others), at the house of Mrs. Sophia Cartwright, the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, on Tuesday, the 17th day of October, 1882, at Seven o’clock in the Evening.....”

County Advertiser 24/3/1883 - Advert

“Withdrawal of Sale.

The Sale of Property at Reddall Hill, Cradley Heath, and Windmill Hill, Cradley, announced to take place at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, on the 2nd of April Next, is Withdrawn.

T. Pateshall, Auctioneer, Cradley Heath.”

Dudley and District News 7/7/1883

“The members of Court Foresters Home, No.4196, at their meeting on Saturday evening last, at the RAILWAY HOTEL, Lomey Town, presented to Bro. David Chapman, a PCR silk neck ribbon with an emblematic badge, and a large handsome silver medal, with gilt emblem centrepiece, surmounted by a stag’s head with branching horns of frosted silver, and a silver bow, crossed arrows, and silver horn as pendants; also a suitable inscription engraved on back of medal, as a mark of esteem and appreciation of his services during the past three years, and for his general urbanity. The gift was suitably acknowledged by Bro. Chapman, who said he had only fulfilled his duties to the best of his abilities and what he done for the court was done because he had its interests at heart, and without any expectation of receiving such a handsome and valuable reward, and hoped that it would be an incentive to other members to work and study the interests of the court, and merit future approbation.”

County Advertiser 23/2/1884 - Advert

“Cradley Heath. Valuable Freehold Property in Graingers Lane.

Mr. T. Pateshall is instructed to Sell by Auction, at the house of Mrs. Cartwright, the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, on Wednesday, the 19th day of March, 1884, at Six for Seven o’clock in the Evening.....”

Birmingham Daily Post 2/1/1885

“Old Hill Police Court. At this court, yesterday – before Messrs. H. T. Hickman, N. Bassano, and B. Hingley, magistrates – Sophia Cartwright of the RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, was summoned for permitting drunkenness on the night of the 10th inst. The evidence of three police-constables was to the effect that on the night in question they visited the defendant’s house and found about twelve persons there, all being more or less under the influence of drink. Several men were struggling together, and one of them had handcuffs on his wrists, and it was necessary for him to go to the police station to have them taken off. Defendant was fined 40s and costs.”

County Advertiser 18/7/1885 - Deaths

“On the 9th inst, at the RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, Sophia Amelia Cartwright, aged 72 years.”

County Advertiser 29/8/1885

“On Wednesday the annual Brewster sessions for the Petty Sessional Division of Rowley Regis, were held at the Court House, Old Hill.....

The following was the black list Licensed victuallers.....

Sophia Cartwright, RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, permitting drunkenness, 21st January, 1885, fined 40s and costs.....

The Bench said they would not now renew the licenses of those who had been convicted, but would reserve them for consideration till the adjourned licensing day.”

County Advertiser 17/10/1885

“Transfer Of Licenses.

An interim authority was granted to Edward Cartwright, the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley.”

County Express 16/1/1886 - Advert

“1st V. B. The Worcestershire Regiment, ‘F’ (Halesowen) Company.

Grand Amateur Dramatic Performances will be given in the Drill Hall, Halesowen, on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 26th and 27th January, of ‘ICI On Parle Francais,’ and ‘Whitebait At Greenwich,’ by a company of Local Ladies and Gentlemen.

Admission on Tuesday, the 26th January – Reserved Seats, 2s 6d (Five for 10s); Unreserved, 1s. Wednesday, the 27th January – Front Seats 1s; Second Seats, 6d; Third Seats, 3d.

Tickets may be obtained from the Post Office, Halesowen, where the plan of the Hall may be seen and Seats booked on and after Tuesday, January 5th.

Doors open at 7.30 each night, to commence at 8. Carriages may be ordered for 10.30.

On Tuesday, holders of Reserved Tickets from Nos.1 to 216 are requested to enter by the Side Door in the Parade Ground; Nos.217 to 421, by the Side Door in the road.

An arrangement has been made with Mr. Cartwright, of the RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, to Run Conveyances at the following charges per head: From Cradley Heath, one way 9d, both ways 1s; Old Hill, one way 6d, both ways 9d; Colley Gate, one way 6d, both ways 9d; Cradley, one way 9d, both ways 1s.

Notice to Call to be given to Mr. Cartwright.”

County Advertiser 1/5/1886 - Advert

“Preliminary Announcement.

Highly Important and Valuable Freehold Old Licensed Premises, the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, with Land adjoining.

Mr. T. Pateshall is favoured with instructions from the Trustees of the late Mrs. Sophia A. Cartwright, to offer for Sale by Auction, the above mentioned Property.

Full particulars will be given in due course, and in the meantime further information may be obtained from John Wright, Esq, Solicitor, or the Auctioneer, both of Cradley Heath.”

County Advertiser 3/7/1886 - Advert

“To Brewers, Capitalists, and Others.

Highly Important Sale of Valuable Freehold Property, Cradley Heath.

Mr. T. Pateshall is favoured with instructions from the Trustees of the late Mrs. S. A. Cartwright, to Sell by Auction, at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, on Wednesday, the 21st day of July, 1886 (instead of the date previously announced), at Six for Seven o’clock in the Evening, subject to conditions.

Lot 1. All that truly valuable Freehold Old-Licensed Premises, the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, with Plot of Land adjoining, late in the occupation of Mrs. S. A. Cartwright.

The Property occupies a singularly commanding position in an exceptionally busy neighbourhood, having frontages to two good thoroughfares, being immediately opposite Cradley Railway Station and in close proximity to extensive Manufactories and Iron-works. The Premises are well arranged and contain commodious and lofty Bar, Smoke Room and Tap Room, Parlour, Kitchen, Scullery, spacious Club Room, Four Bed Rooms, and extensive Cellaring. The Outbuildings comprise Stabling, Harness Room, Brewhouse, and the usual Appurtenances. The Premises are in good order and repair, and fitted with the latest improvements. Several large Clubs are attached to the House, and the Auctioneer respectfully invites the attention of parties requiring a first-class Business Premises.....”

County Advertiser 19/2/1887 - Advert

“Excellent Freehold Business Premises, Cradley Heath.

Mr. T. Pateshall is instructed to Sell by Auction, at the house of Mr. Edward Cartwright, the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, on Friday, the 18th day of February, 1887, at Six for Seven o’clock in the Evening, subject to conditions.....”

Dudley Mercury 6/7/1889 - Advert

“VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath.

Mr. T. Pateshall will Sell by Auction, upon the Premises, as above on Monday, July 6th, 1889, the whole of the valuable Brewing Plant, Casks, Whitechapel Dog Cart, Spring Trap, and other Effects, belonging to Mr. Thomas Cartwright, who is leaving the Premises.

Sale at Twelve o’clock.”

Dudley Mercury 23/11/1889 - Advert

“The RAILWAY AND VINE HOTEL, Adjoining Cradley Station.

Under Entire New Management.

Good Accommodation For Commercial Travellers.

An Ordinary Daily at One o’clock. Teas, &c, Provided.

Showell’s Splendid Ales On Draught.

Wines, Spirits, and Cigars of the Finest Quality.

New Stabling. Good Beds.”

Birmingham Daily Post 20/8/1890 - Advert

“Barmaid. Wanted a smart young lady, for bar and smoke room.

Roodhouse, VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley.”

County Express 22/11/1890

“Court Leet at Cradley.

The view of Frankpledge, with the Court Baron of the Right Honourable Charles George, Viscount Cobham, Baron Cobham, Baron of Frankley, in the County of Worcester, for his manor aforesaid, was holden at the MAYPOLE INN, Cradley, on Wednesday.

The jury were empanelled and duly sworn, Mr. George Hartshorn Anderson being elected foreman. The usual presentments were made. After the business was over the annual dinner was held, at which there was a good attendance, among those present being J. Roodhouse and friends, RAILWAY AND VINE HOTEL, Cradley Heath (representing Messrs. Showell and Co.).....”

Birmingham Daily Post 3/12/1890 - Advert

“General (respectable) Wanted, at once 25 to 30, Strong; must understand cooking.

VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath.”

1891 Census

66, Lomey Town – RAILWAY HOTEL

[1] Thomas R. Roodhouse (27), hotel manager, born Great Barr;

[2] Florence M. Roodhouse (25), wife, born Leicester;

[3] Elizabeth Loche (20), boarder, barmaid, born Wolverhampton:

Birmingham Daily Post 6/5/1891 - Advert

“Man (good useful) Wanted, also Housemaid-Waitress, for Hotel.
Apply, Beasley, VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath.”

Birmingham Daily Post 31/8/1891 - Advert

“Youth Wanted, about 18 to 20, as Billiard-marker, and to make himself generally useful.
Apply, VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath.”

Birmingham Daily Post 19/9/1891 - Advert

“Youth, about 19 or 20, Wanted, as Billiard-marker.
Apply, VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath.”

Birmingham Daily Post 14/1/1893 - Advert

“General Servant (good) Wanted, not afraid of work, with good knowledge of plain cooking, to wait at table if required. Good wages.
Apply, VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath.”

County Advertiser 15/4/1893

“County Court. Cartwright v Cartwright.

George Cartwright, landlord of the FORTUNE OF WAR, Round Oak, Brierley Hill, was the plaintiff in this case, and he sought to recover £5 10s, money lent, from his brother, Charles Cartwright, commission agent, of Bower Lane, Quarry Bank. Mr. Waldron was for the plaintiff.

Evidence was given by plaintiff that on July 16th, 1889, he was living at the VINE AND RAILWAY INN, Cradley Heath. The defendant came there and borrowed £6 from him, saying that he was about to get married, and wanted the money to buy goods with. Defendant promised to pay the whole of the money back in three months. He had, however, only paid one instalment of 10s. Annie Cartwright, sister of the plaintiff and defendant, deposed to the lending of the money by the plaintiff to the defendant. Defendant denied having borrowed the money.

His Honour: And you mean to say that your brother and sister have told a tissue of lies? – Defendant: Yes.

In answer to further questions, defendant denied that he was at the VINE with his sister shortly before his marriage. He did not know why his brother and sister should tell this story. He had never been in a position to want money from either of them. A demand for repayment was made in December last, but witness took no notice of it, and had not got the letter. He did not consider it necessary for him to answer it.

By Mr. Waldron: He did not borrow £3 from his sister Caroline the same day.

His Honour gave judgement for plaintiff. There was direct conflict of testimony between plaintiff and defendant, but the probabilities were in favour of the money having been lent rather than that two persons should conspire together to make false statements. Even the defendant could give no reason why they should do so. The judgement would be for plaintiff for the amount claimed to be paid in monthly instalments.”

Midland Sun 17/6/1893

“On Tuesday afternoon, Mr. F. W. Topham (deputy coroner), held an inquest at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, respecting the death of Joseph Stout (25), of Fenton Street, Brierley Hill, who was killed on the Great Western Railway, at Cradley Station, on the 10th inst.

Chief Inspector Ledbrooke and Inspector Lock represented the railway Company.

Stephen Stout, of High Street, Brockmoor, brother of deceased said he died on Saturday morning on the bridge near Cradley Station. He last saw him alive on Friday night, when he was in good health. Deceased was not subject to fits, and he did not think he had destroyed himself.

Isaac Clarke, bricklayer, of Corngreaves, said the deceased was working with him erecting a scaffold for the purpose of tarring a bridge at Cradley Station. About 9.40 on Saturday morning he saw the deceased coming from where he had been melting with a bucket of tar in his hand. Deceased, in trying to get out of the way of one train, stepped in front of the South Wales express. He was knocked down and dragged almost 25 yards. The train was stopped, and deceased was got out of the six foot, but he was quite dead. He had his legs and hands cut off, and he was terribly mutilated. The driver could not possibly help the accident happening. He blew the whistle before he saw the deceased, and there was no blame attached to him. It was a straight line. When witness saw the deceased in danger he shouted to him. He did not think deceased had the least intention of destroying himself. Deceased had been talking about buying himself out of the militia.

Inspector Bishop said he had made enquiries and found that the deceased entered the service of the company five weeks ago, and at the time he was given a book which contained how to keep away from the trains. The deceased was a very steady and sober man, and was well aware of the circumstances if he broke the rule.

The jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death.”

County Advertiser 21/10/1893 - Advert

“Cradley Heath Stock Sale and Repository (Adjoining the RAILWAY AND VINE HOTEL).
Next Sale of Cattle, Sheep, Pigs, and Horses, Wednesday, October 25th, 1893, at One o'clock.
Further Entries respectfully solicited.
E. H. Boilstone, Auctioneer, Old Hill.”

County Advertiser 16/12/1893 - Advert

“Sherwood J. Richards (Late VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath), begs to inform the Inhabitants of Netherton, Cradley Heath, and District that he taken to the EAGLE HOTEL, High Street, Netherton, where he will be pleased to see all old and new Friends.

Ales, Wines, Spirits, and Cigars of the best quality.

Chops and Steaks on the Shortest Notice.

Good Stabling Free.”

Sherwood Richards – see also QUEENS HEAD, Garratts Lane.

County Advertiser 30/12/1893 - Advert

“Under New Tenancy.

VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL (Adjoining Cradley Station).

The Public and Travellers pronounce generally that the Ordinary held Daily at the above Hotel is the best they have ever had in this District. Price 1s 3d. Time 1-15.

Cigars, Wines and Spirits of the Finest Quality.

Special Scotch Whisky, Martell’s Brandy. Billiards, Good Stabling.

Large Parties catered For on the Shortest Notice.

Proprietor. L. Blackband, late of the Sheridan Hotel, Stafford.”

Birmingham Daily Post 2/5/1894

“Yesterday afternoon Mr. E. Hooper (coroner) held an inquest at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Lomey Town, concerning the death of Mary Jones, aged thirty-nine, who formerly resided in Solihull Street, Handsworth. Emily Cragg, sister of the deceased, stated that the latter, who had been in a delicate state of health for some time, came to her house on the 25th ult and died on the 29th. The jury returned a verdict of Death from Natural Causes.”

County Advertiser 13/10/1894

“On Saturday last Mr. Hooper, coroner, held an inquest at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, touching the death of Lavinia Rowley (62), domestic servant, formerly employed at the Castle Restaurant, Warwick, who died on the previous Wednesday at the VINE HOTEL, under circumstances already reported. The evidence showed that deceased had a half-holiday on Sunday the 30th, and went to see some of her friends at Stourbridge. When coming back, she alighted at Cradley and went to see the landlady of the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL whom she knew. She afterwards went up into Cradley Heath to see other friends and was afterwards taken ill with vomiting. She returned to the VINE and as she got no better, decided to stay the night; her daughter-in-law, who was with her, going home by the last train. Deceased, however, grew worse on Wednesday morning and died before Dr. Tibbetts, who was sent for, arrived. The jury returned a verdict of Death from Natural Causes.”

County Advertiser 17/10/1896

“Annie Bennett, a girl, of Langley, was charged with stealing a quantity of jewellery and other articles, valued at over £3, the property of Alice Jones, who lives at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, between the 2nd and the 6th inst. It was alleged that whilst defendant was engaged as a servant at the hotel mentioned, she stole the articles out of complainant’s bed room. Defendant denied the theft. The Bench did not consider the case proved, and they dismissed it.”

County Advertiser 17/4/1897

“At the Dudley County Court, on Saturday, on debtor’s petition, a receiving order was made against the estate of Harry Mercer, living in lodgings at Park Road, Colley Gate, Cradley, and formerly manager of the RAILWAY AND VINE HOTEL, Cradley Heath. Messrs. Blackham and Taylor, Birmingham, are the solicitors in the matter.”

County Advertiser 29/1/1898

“Cradley G.W.R. Staff at Dinner.

The annual dinner of the officers and staff of the goods department took place on Saturday last, at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, and, thanks to the admirable catering of the proprietor, Mr. Frost, an excellent repast was provided. The gathering was a representative one.....”

County Advertiser 26/11/1898

“On Tuesday evening, a number of the merchants and manufacturers of Cradley Heath, together with a few friends, met to dinner at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath. A good company sat down, and addressed themselves to a capital dinner provided by the host, Mr. Frost. The repast was laid out in most attractive style, and the quality of the cooking of the viands were each complimentary to the catering. Mr. Robert Fellows occupied the chair.....”

County Advertiser 14/1/1899 - Advert

“General Wanted, Respectable; wages 5s. Good home.

VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath.”

County Advertiser 6/5/1899

“Cradley Heath Cricket Club has arranged a very high-class series of fixtures, giving two matches every Saturday, with Holiday and several Thursday matches. The same players, to a great extent, are available for next season, there having only been one bona fide resignation – and all resignations to be legal should have been in by April 1st – hence the committee hope that the club, which had such an auspicious opening last year, may not be far behind again. It is sincerely to be hoped that the club, with its pleasantly situated ground, its modern pavilion, seats for spectators, and everything conducive to the encouragement of local cricket, will still receive every assistance from the tradesmen and influential residents in the neighbourhood. The committee are thoroughly united, and they would like to see more players coming forward, so that a thoroughly good club may be established in the district. Amalgamation not separation should be the cry. Mr. F. W. Frost, of the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, has undertaken to supply refreshments (non-intoxicants) from his stall in the grounds every Saturday, and all who know his abilities as a caterer are looking forward to his genial presence. The first match is today against the neighbouring team, Cradley Heath Mutual, and though the Town has not its full strength available, a pleasant game may be expected.”

County Advertiser 6/5/1899 - Advert

“Parish Exhibition, 1900. Cook’s Excursion Club.

Join Frost’s Whitsuntide Party, Saturday to Wednesday.

Railways, Steamboats, Hotels, Exhibition Tickets, Guides, Interpreters, Conductors. No Extra Charge Whatever. 60s Inclusive.

Subscriptions, 1s per Week for 60 Weeks. All Come and Join at Once.

Frost, who is Cook’s authorised Collector, will give you every Information and Particulars.

Club commences on Saturday, April 29th, 1899, at 9pm.

VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath.

What is I.P.A.?”

County Advertiser 6/5/1899

“The Paris Exhibition of 1900.

All the world will be at this exhibition next year, and among the arrangements now being made to enable people to see the exhibition of Paris for little money, none can compete with that announced by Frost’s Whitsuntide party. All particulars can be obtained from Mr. F. W. Frost, of the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath; but here it may suffice to state that by the payment of one shilling a week for sixty weeks (£3) any one may go to Paris at Whitsuntide next year. This payment includes railways, steam boats, exhibition ticket, guides, interpreters, and conductors. The club began on Saturday last, but is still open to subscribers. Who would not, with such facilities, take advantage of the opportunity of seeing the French capital?”

County Advertiser 7/10/1899 - Advert

“Frost’s Trip To Paris.

Members and Friends are Invited to Supper, on Monday, October 23rd, 1899.

Tickets One Shilling each.

VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath.”

County Advertiser 14/10/1899

“Daniel Billingham, of Woods Lane, Cradley Heath, was charged with being disorderly on the licensed premises of Fred. W.

Frost, of the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, on the 5th inst.

Sarah Ann Frost, wife of complainant, said that on the date in question defendant was on the premises. Defendant was drunk, and she therefore refused serve him with beer. Witness ordered him out, but he would not go, and they sent for the police. Defendant was fined 10s and costs.”

County Advertiser 28/10/1899

“An important sale of freehold properties belonging to the late Mrs. Thompson was held at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, on Monday last, by Mr. W. Fiddian. The company was a large one and biddings very satisfactory, all the eleven lots being sold. The total amount realised was £3,526. Mr. W. Stanley Mobberley acted as solicitor for the vendors.”

County Express 10/2/1900

“On Tuesday, at the WHITE HORSE INN, a concert was given in aid of the local Reservist Fund. It is hoped to hand over £7 to the fund. The host (Mr. Tranter) bore all the expenses of engaging the talent. Mr. F. W. Frost, of the RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, presided. The following took part in the concert, The Orpheus Glee Singers (Messrs. A. Yardley, G. Evans, S. Yardley, and H. Stevens), Messrs. J. Hughes (Tipton), J. Singleton (Kate’s Hill), W. King (Quarry Bank), S. Bladen (Colley Gate), S. Southall (Lye), Pat Tyrone (Colley Gate), Mr. J. Norris (Tipton) was accompanist.”

County Express 10/2/1900

“The annual dinner of the officers and staff of the Great Western Railway Goods Department took place on Saturday at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Mr. F. W. Frost’s catering being all that could be desired. Between 60 and 70 attended.....”

Dudley Herald 24/4/1900

“A very successful smoking concert was promoted at the VINE AND RAILWAY, Cradley Heath, on Thursday night, on behalf of the local reservists. Thanks to Mr. Frost, the large room had been tastefully decorated by Messrs. E. Gould and Sons. Capt. Whitmore Garratt occupied the chair and made a few suitable remarks. The following programme was gone through: Piano solo, Mr. Arthur Taylor; song, 'Let me like a soldier fall,' Mr. G. Powell; recitation, 'The Dandy Fifth,' Corporal Cross; song, 'She alone charmeth my soul,' Mr. Roland Cole; song, 'Oh. How rude,' Mr. Harry Green; dance, Mr. Wm. Sheldon; duet, 'The moon hath raised,' Messrs, Powell and Cole; ventriocial entertainment, Mr. David Poole; song, 'Once again,' Mr. Geo. Powell; song, 'Off to Philadelphia,' Mr. Hatfield; song, 'You 'ave to 'ave 'em,' Mr. H. Green; song, 'Soldiers of the Queen,' Mr. R. Cole; recitation, 'Old Issacher,' Mr. R. Underwood; and song, Mr. Powell. There was a large attendance, and no doubt a substantial sum will be handed over to the fund named."

Dudley Herald 19/5/1900 - Advert

"Valuable Freehold Residence, Clyde House, Coleman Hill, Cradley Heath.

H. King & Son are favoured with instructions from the surviving trustee of the late Dr. Thompson, to offer for Sale by Auction, at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, on Monday, May 21st, 1900, at Six o'clock in the evening, subject to Conditions of Sale then to be produced....."

County Express 7/7/1900

"Mr. E. O. Nightingale, of Cradley Heath, held a most successful property sale at the VINE AND RAILWAY, Cradley Heath, on Tuesday evening....."

County Express 28/7/1900

"Frederick Harris, scrap dealer, Lomey Town, Cradley Heath, was charged with being disorderly on the licensed premises of Frederick William Frost, and refusing to leave on July 20th; also with assaulting Herbert Cox, barman, and with wilfully damaging a bottle of sherry and two bottles of bitters, of the value 11s 3d.

Mr. Waldron, who prosecuted, said on the night named at 10.35, the defendant went into the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, managed by Mr. Frost. Defendant asked for a stout and bitter, which was supplied him. He was perfectly sober. Upon being applied to for payment of the liquor supplied to him, defendant said that a man named Kale would pay. Whoever Kale was he refused, and the barman told defendant that the landlord did not allow strap, and that the stout and bitter would be taken away. Thereupon the defendant struck Cox at the back of the head. Mr. Frost told him to leave, and the defendant commenced to use very bad language, and remained for ten minutes. At the expiration of that time, defendant picked up a glass and shied it at the barman. It missed the barman, and glanced off Mrs. Frost's shoulder and struck some bottles, three of which were broken. Defendant then assaulted the barman seriously, and ultimately he left threatening to meet the barman later. Cox did not sleep on the premises, and when he left after eleven o'clock defendant again met him and gave him two black eyes.

Mrs. Frost and Herbert Cox gave evidence bearing out this statement.

Defendant pleaded guilty to the three offences, and had nothing to say.

For being disorderly and refusing to quit defendant was fined 10s, and costs, for assault 20s, and costs, and for the wilful damage 10s, and costs, and 11s 3d damage."

[Is Frederick Harris the son of the landlord of the ROYAL OAK?]

County Express 3/11/1900

"Richard Johnson, chainmaker, Lomey Town, Cradley Heath, was charged with being disorderly on the premises of, and refusing to quit, the VINE AND RAILWAY, when requested, on October 13th.

Mr. F. W. Frost, landlord, said defendant and several of his friends went into the house half drunk, and commenced a disturbance. Although there had been a great many customers in the house just before these men came in, the house was cleared in a few minutes, as they interfered with the customers. Johnson threatened to knock witness's head off, and would not leave until the police came.

Inspector Given said it was a very bad case, and these men were continually annoying the landlord of this house.

Defendant was fined 10s, and costs."

County Advertiser 23/3/1901 - Advert

"Respectable Boy wanted (live indoors), to clean plate and useful generally.

VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath."

1901 Census

Lomey Town

[1] Frederick William Frost (39), hotel manager, born Horncastle, Lincolnshire;

[2] Amy Woolstencroft (24), housekeeper, born Manchester;

[3] Frances Hall (21), barmaid, born Stourbridge;

[4] Elizabeth Sharp (21), housemaid, born Coventry;

[5] Myra Brace (19), cook, born Quarry Bank;

[6] Harry Vincent (23), groom, born West Bromwich;

[7] Annie B. Sharp (19), waitress, born Dudley;

County Advertiser 13/4/1901 - Advert

"Wanted, Housemaid to assist generally. Wages 7s per week.

Apply, VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath."

County Express 25/5/1901

“At Old Hill Police Court on Wednesday, Henry Joseph Martin, Excise officer stationed at Cradley Heath, was charged with assaulting Frederick William Frost, manager of the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, on May 16th. Mr. Ward appeared for complainant, and Mr. Waldron defended.

Mr. Ward said on the previous Thursday his client was standing near the RAILWAY HOTEL when defendant came up the road. He was carrying a thick walking stick, and was flourishing it about. He crossed over to near where Frost was, and Frost said, ‘When you wrote to Showells’ you did not tell them about that what you did to my wife.’ The defendant exclaimed, ‘You dog,’ and struck Frost violently across the face, and partially stunned him. Defendant repeated the blows until the stick broke. To prevent defendant doing him any further violence complainant grappled with him, and they fell on the ground, but were separated. Defendant lived at the complainant’s house for some two years, and complainant had had to complain of his familiarity with his wife, in consequence of which he and his wife had separated. Threats had been made by the defendant that he would hound complainant out of his situation and would publicly horsewhip him, and it was a fact that defendant had written Messrs. Showells, complainant’s employers. He would ask the Bench if they believed his story to mark their sense of the assault by inflicting a heavy penalty.

Complainant was then examined, and said he was standing near the RAILWAY HOTEL talking to Mr. Tromans, when he saw the defendant crossing the road. Defendant had a walking stick in his hand, which he flourished. Directly witness saw defendant, he said, ‘Martin, when you wrote to Showells’ Brewery, you did not tell them of the incident with my wife on that Saturday night.’ Defendant took a step forward, then turned round, and said, ‘You dog.’ Witness retorted, ‘You dirty dog,’ and then defendant struck him on the head with the stick. Witness partly met the blow with his arm, but defendant struck him again on the head twice, each blow partly stunning him, and he fell in the gutter. Defendant then took two running cuts at witness, and the stick broke. Witness recovered himself as best he could, and closed with the defendant, and they fell, in the fall witness having the better of it. He tried to strike defendant on the ground, but could not do so for exhaustion.

Cross-examined: Martin lived at his house about two years, and left on November 9th. They had not lived in perfect amity. He denied being on the look-out for Martin on the day of the assault. The postcard dated May 8th was in his handwriting, and was addressed to defendant. It said, ‘Mrs. Frost came last week to fetch you to box my ears. You have not brought your dog whip to whip me as you promised.’ It also contained a reference to an incident which occurred at Frost’s house on September 8th, and to which Frost had referred immediately before the assault, when he asked the defendant about writing to Showells. He also admitted writing the postcard, also dated May 8th, which was addressed ‘Mrs. Martin Frost.’ He had been in the habit of calling his wife a great many things with a great many adjectives to. They had been married eight years, and had fought each other. She fought him in the morning and he fought her at night. The next two days he had a stick with him, because he could not walk without it. He was not vowing vengeance upon the defendant. He admitted calling defendant ‘a dirty dog.’ He did not square off when he saw Martin, and had not threatened to smash his ‘napper.’ He admitted fetching a poker out of the house and putting it by the door on one of the nights of October last year. That was when defendant had a thick stick with him, and in poker v. stick witness thought he would have won.

Re-examined as to the postcards: Defendant had threatened to whip witness many times. His wife did go away to fetch the defendant to box witness’s ears. He had told his wife to send accounts to Martin to be paid. His wife left witness because Martin offered to find her a home. He would never have spoken to Martin had he not interfered with witness and his servants.

Emma Plant said she was in their shop on the day in question, and saw the assault committed. Martin hit Frost four or five times, and the stick was broken. Frost did not attempt to assault Martin, but tried to ward off the blows with his hand.

Mr. Waldron, for the defence, said if one thing was clearer or more certain than another, it was that Mr. Frost was a violent and a despicable sort of man, inasmuch as he admitted that for eight ears he had been constantly quarrelling with and beating his wife. (Frost: I have not said so, sir.) He submitted that after the evidence given by the complainant it was impudence for complainant to say to the Bench he was a peaceful and law abiding subject. Did not the postcards show that Frost was pugnacious and determined at all hazards to create a row and bring on an affray with Martin. It was also a cowardly device to address a postcard to his wife in the way complainant did. He argued the words used by Frost before the affray were provocation, and that if they were used to anyone that person would be likely to retort and to follow that up with a blow. That was what they said happened in consequence of the words the complainant used.

The Bench said they considered a violent assault had been committed, and fined defendant £3 and costs. An application for the allowance of solicitor’s fee was refused.”

County Express 12/10/1901

“At the annual conference of the Midland Counties Trade Federation in July, directions were given that Mr. Sitch’s labours as Treasurer of this organisation should be recognised by the presentation of an address and a gold watch and chain. The presentation will take place at a complimentary dinner at the VINE AND RAILWAY on Monday night, and there will be a very representative company of the public and commercial life of the district to show its appreciation of Mr. Sitch. The speakers include Messrs. George Green, James Billingham, L. Connop, John Fellows, John Taylor, J. H. Smith, W. Millerchip, S. Webb, and T. Jones.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 15/10/1901

“Last night, under the auspices of the Midland Counties Trades Federation, Councillor T. Sitch was entertained at dinner at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath. Councillor James Billingham presided, and on behalf of the Federation presented Councillor T. Sitch with an illuminated address in recognition of his services as treasurer for six years. Mr. John Taylor also presented Mr. Sitch with a gold watch and chain.”

County Advertiser 2/11/1901 - Advert

“Wanted, good Servant as House Maid General; wages 7s.
VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath.”

County Advertiser 23/8/1902 - Advert

“VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath.

Mr. T. Patshall is instructed by Mr. Fred W. Frost, who is leaving, to Sell by Auction, on the Premises as above, on Monday Next, August 25th, 1902, the Superior Household Furniture, and Effects, comprising Pollard Oak Dining Room Suite, Dining Table, splendid Overmantel, Pair of Mirrors, Ornamental Fire Screen, American Roll-top Writing Desk, Handsome Set of Brass Parisian Bedsteads, Horsehair and Wire Spring Mattresses, Capital Mahogany Chests of Drawers, Mahogany and Birch Oval Toilet Glasses, Splendid Mahogany Duchesse Toilet Table, with Washstand to match; Toilet Services, Antique Mirror, Alarm Clock, Electroplated Ware, Quantity of Jams, Pickles, and high-class Sauces, Cooking Utensils, capital Brown Pony, Dog Cart, Harness, &c, &c. Sale at One o'clock prompt.”

County Express 23/8/1902

“VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL Money Society.

The members of this society held a supper on Thursday evening, and advantage was taken of the occasion to make a presentation to Mr. F. W. Frost, who has resigned the management of the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL. There was a large attendance, including Messrs. H. F. Shaw (chairman), E. J. Kinsey (vice-chairman), Frank Webb, C.C., L. Flavell, F. Connop, L. Connop, A. J. Hingley, M. Burns, T. Pateshall, J. Rowlands, W. Bannister, Butler, C. Pritchard, Thomas, A. Griffiths, E. Stringer, B. Bladen, J. Williams, J. Birch, R. Mason, E. Willetts, C. Green, J. Hampton, W. E. Harris, F. Griffiths, Mills, J. T. Yates, W. Wylde, E. Gould, and F. Gould.

The Chairman submitted the loyal toast, which was received with musical honours.

Later in the evening, in making the presentation of an illuminated address and Gladstone bag to Mr. Frost, the Chairman regretted they were going to lose him. Since that was inevitable, it was with great pleasure to the members of the society to be afforded an opportunity of showing in a tangible manner their appreciation of his services in trying to make them comfortable.

The address, which as beautifully written and framed, was as follows:-

‘Cradley Heath, Staffs, August, 1902.

Frederick William Frost. Having heard that our esteemed friend, Mr. Frederick William Frost, of the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, is about to leave the district, we desire to place on record our deep sense of appreciation of the unfailing courtesy, uniform civility, and warm-hearted fellowship with which he always welcomed his guests. As a host he had always been of that jovial nature which pleases and places one's guests at ease, making them feel comfortable and at home, and he had always striven to do his utmost to satisfy and please those for whom he catered. His departure will be a distinct loss to the district, where he is thoroughly well known and most highly esteemed.’

Words of appreciation followed by the vice-chairman, Mr. L. Connop, Mr. Flavell, and Mr. Joseph Williams.

Mr. Frost thanked the speakers for the kindly and flattering remarks they had made concerning him. The five-and-a-half years he had spent at Cradley Heath were amongst the most pleasant of his life, and in leaving them he was severing many friendships, he would have liked to maintain. During the evening songs were given by Messrs. J. Price, J. Shaw, G. Mallen, and a recitation by Mr. F. Griffiths. Mr. Shaw presided at the piano.”

James Rowlands = James Rowland

County Express 6/12/1902

“The players of the Cradley Heath Cricket Club, together with a few friends were entertained to dinner at the VINE AND RAILWAY INN, on Monday evening, by the president, Mr. R. Fellows. An excellent repast was provided by Mr. J. Rowland, and subsequently a smoking concert was held. The toast of ‘The President’ was proposed by Mr. Harold Bloomer, and was acknowledged by Mr. Fellows. The president afterwards submitted the toast ‘The Cradley Heath Cricket Club,’ and this was received with enthusiasm. Songs were given by Messrs. L. Connop, G. Powell, H. F. Shaw, D. Mallen, T. L. Round, G. H. Mason, and F. Fosbroke. Mr. T. Hancox presided at the piano, and the evening was spent very pleasantly.”

County Advertiser 19/12/1903

“The Cricket Club. The annual dinner was held on Monday evening last at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, and an excellent repast provided by Mr. and Mrs. Rowlands. Mr. R. Fellows (president) was in the chair, and about forty members and friends were present. A satisfactory report of the doings of the club was given, and several toasts were submitted and honoured.”

County Advertiser 26/12/1903

“The eleventh annual dinner of the adult section of the Evening Council School was held at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, on Saturday, when some 30 sat down to enjoy the ample repast laid before them by Mr. J. Rowlands.....”

County Advertiser 9/4/1904

“Midland Counties Trades Federation. Annual Conference at Cradley Heath.....

The way in which the delegates were subsequently entertained at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL was, as Mr. Sitch would say, ‘Up to Cradley Heath reputation.’ Mr. and Mrs. Rowlands catered a most inviting repast, the viands being well cooked and expeditiously served. Mr. W. Millerchip (president of the Federation) headed the table, and Mr. J. P. Price was vice-chairman.....”

County Advertiser 21/5/1904

“The Old Hill district staff of the British Workman’s and General Assurance Company and their wives met at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, on Thursday last week, and after partaking of a tasty meat tea, served by Mr. Rowlands, held a meeting to make a presentation to Mr. Davis (district superintendent). . . .”

County Advertiser 3/12/1904

“The annual dinner of the Cradley Heath Cricket Club was held on Monday evening at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL An excellent repast was served by the host, Mr. J. Rowland. . . .”

County Advertiser 19/8/1905

“The annual meeting of the Cradley Heath St. Luke’s Football Club was held on Monday evening at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL. Previous to the meeting the playing members were entertained to dinner which was provided in an excellent manner by the host Mr. J. Rowland. . . .”

County Advertiser 21/4/1906

“So happily successful was the fancy dress ball held in Reddal Hill Church Schools, Newtown Lane, in January last, that it was arranged to hold another before the end of the season. This duly came off on Thursday evening, and in every respect, excepting that of numbers, was the more successful of the two. . . .

A classroom had been fitted up for refreshments, and Mr. James Rowlands of the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL catered in dainty and attractive fashion. Mr. H. H. Gould, and Dr. Gillespie acted as the MCs.”

Birmingham Mail 25/7/1906 - Advert

“Barmaid (experienced) Wanted, good references.
Rowland, VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley.”

County Advertiser 25/8/1906 - Advert

“Notice Of Sale By Auction, of Two Fully-Licensed Properties, 20 Freehold Dwelling Houses, and Building Land at Quarry Bank, Netherend and Lye.

Alfred W. Dando has received instructions from the Executors of the late Mr. Thomas Fellows, to Sell by Auction, at the house of Mr. J. Rowland, the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley, on Monday, September 3rd, 1906, at Seven o’clock in the Evening precisely. . . .”

County Express 25/4/1908

“In the evening the officials of the Federation and the delegates at the conference were the guests of the Block-chain Makers’ Society, at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL. Mr. and Mrs. James Rowlands, the host and hostess, whose catering abilities are so well-known, appeared to excel themselves, and all present were delighted with the provision made. Mr. J. P. Price presided, supported by Mr. William Cooper (president of the Federation, and president of the Block-chain Makers’ Society), Mr. J. Taylor, Mr. T. Jones, Mr. W. Millerchip, and Mr. Thos. Sitch (secretary to the Chainmakers’ and Strikers’ Association), Mr. W. Fell (vice president of the Federation), etc. The Chairman gave the loyal toast ‘The Federation’”

County Express 16/5/1908 - Advert

“Newtown Lane, Cradley Heath. Important Sale of Highly Valuable Freehold Property.

E. O. Nightingale has received instructions from the Executors of the late Mr. John Aston, to Sell By Auction at the house of Mr. J. Rowlands, the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, on Tuesday, the 26th day of May, 1908, at 7 o’clock in the Evening. . . .”

County Express 12/9/1908

“Friendly Societies’ Parade. On Wednesday evening the committee of the above met at the PLOUGH AND HARROW INN, Mr. W. Coley presiding over a large attendance. The following was a complete list of those boxes which contained amounts of 1s and upwards. . . .

Mr. J. Rowlands, VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, 1s 4½d.”

County Express 5/9/1908 - Notice

“To My Friends In Cradley Heath.

Dear Sirs.

The notice of my leaving the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, having been so short, I was unable to express to all of you my Sincere Thanks for the kindness and courtesy you have always shown me during the time I have resided in Cradley Heath, and I, therefore wish to take this opportunity of doing so. My connection with the district has always been most pleasant, and I can assure you I regret having to leave. I have, however, at the urgent request of my firm, taken over the Market Hotel, Birmingham, where you will always have a warm welcome when in the vicinity. Thanking you for the kind sentiments expressed towards me on my departure, I remain, yours faithfully.

J. Rowland. September 2nd, 1908.”

Tipton Herald 13/2/1909

“During his stay in Cradley Heath Mr. James Rowlands won a host of friends and admirers. His jovial countenance, his continual smile, earned for himself the name of ‘Happy Jimmy,’ a title of which he was as mine host justly proud. When he first went to Cradley Heath he took up the position of landlord of the ANCHOR HOTEL at Five Ways. Some few years ago, however, he transferred his energies to the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, near the station, where he carried on a successful business. Towards the end of last year, however, Messrs. Showell and Co, recognizing Mr. Rowlands’ superior ability, asked him to take over the Market Hotel, Birmingham. It was with great regret that Mr. Rowlands left his many friends at Cradley Heath, and the presentations to him and his good lady on Tuesday evening are proof of the esteem in which he is held.

The presents consisted of a gold watch to Mr. Rowlands (the gift of his friends) and a gold-mounted umbrella (the gift of Mr. Machin, his successor at the VINE AND RAILWAY), and a gold diamond brooch to Mrs. Rowlands. The inscription on the watch read, ‘Presented to Mr. James Rowlands, as a mark of esteem by his many friends upon leaving the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, September 1st, 1908.’

There was a large attendance at the ceremony.....”

James Rowlands – see also ANCHOR.

Tipton Herald 17/7/1909

“A capital supper was partaken of on Friday evening at the FIVE WAYS HOTEL, Cradley Heath, the house of Mr. E. Slinn. It was the outcome of a couple of billiard matches between teams chosen by Mr. Fred Machin, of the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, and Mr. Slinn.....”

Tipton Herald 14/8/1909

“A meeting of the committee who have had in hand the management of the recent parade in Cradley Heath was held on Tuesday evening in the smoke room at the HOLLY BUSH INN, Newtown Lane. There was a large attendance. Mr. Walter Coley was in the chair.....

A vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Fred Machin, of the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, for his generous treatment of the band and the committee on the occasion of the recent benefit at the Theatre It was the best twopenny show they had seen in their lives.....”

Tipton Herald 24/7/1909

“Mr. H. F. Machin, landlord of the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, made an application on Wednesday morning at the Old Hill Police Court for permission to sell intoxicants on the ground at Haden Hill, on the occasion of the annual sports, on August 3rd, between the hours of 12 till 10pm.

Superintendent Johnson: When did you serve the notice? – About 9.30 yesterday.

It did not get in the hands of the police till 12 o’clock – There must be some mistake.

To whom did you serve the notice? – To the Inspector of Police. I sent it up by messenger.

Don’t you know it is customary to send the notice to the Superintendent and not the Inspector – I did not know.

I must protest against this sort of procedure. The Act says a license shall not be granted unless notice has been served on the superintendent of police in the district in which the applicant resides. Here we have one which does not reach me till last night. It was rather loose business. He had no objection to the application nor the applicant if it were made in proper order. There is time for the application to be made next week.

The Clerk: The best course then will be for the application to be made next week.

Mr. Machin: I want to make it clear to the Superintendent that I have done wrong in ignorance, and not out of disrespect to the Superintendent.

Superintendent Johnson: Oh, I don’t suggest that, Mr. Machin. There is a right way and a wrong way, and we want these things done the right way.

The Chairman: We must make the procedure of the Court known. You must make your application next week.”

Tipton Herald 14/8/1909

“Messrs. C. W. Bassano and C. A. Lloyd were the magistrates at the Old Hill Police Court on Wednesday, when Mr. Fred Machin, of the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, applied for a license from 12 to 10 to sell intoxicants on the Cradley Heath Football Ground today (Saturday) on the occasion of the annual sports.

Superintendent Johnson: What is the difference between these sports and the last? – Mr. Machin: I can’t say.

Last year it was 2 to 8 – But this year the band will play till 9.15.

There are no fireworks? – I don’t think so.

Why do you want the license from 12 o’clock? – Well there will be a goodly number of men at work on the ground prior to the gates opening, and they may want refreshments.

There is a public not far away? – But I have to pay for this.

I can’t help that. I think 2 to 9 will be long enough.

Will you make it one o’clock? – The Chairman: We will grant it from 2 till 9.

Thank you.”

Tipton Herald 25/12/1909

“The members of the Cradley Heath Private Bowling Club held their annual dinner in the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, on Monday evening. About 60 members and friends partook of a splendid meal, which was excellently served by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Machin and staff. Afterwards the President (Mr. T. M. Tibbetts) took the chair.....”

Tipton Herald 25/12/1909

“The annual dinner in connection with the Rowley Regis Urban District Fire Brigade was held on Saturday evening at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath. A capital meal was served by Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Machin (the host and hostess), and after full justice had been done to the good things provided, Councillor Thomas Crew (the chairman of the District Council) took the chair.....”

County Express 15/1/1910

“Election Results.

The County Express have arranged for a complete service of Election Results between today (Saturday) and January 29th, by night and day.

Night Results tonight (Saturday) and on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week will be shown by limelight lantern (worked by Mr. W. A. Dallow of Stourbridge) from the windows of the Head Office, High Street, Stourbridge.

Day Results as received will be posted in the following places:

County Express Head Office, High Street, Stourbridge.

BRIDGE INN, Reddal Hill, Cradley Heath.

Mr. U. Beddall’s (County Express Branch Office, Brierley Hill).

VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath.

Mr. G. Evans, High Street, Quarry Bank.”

County Express 16/4/1910

“The annual meeting of the Stourbridge and District Master Builders’ Association was held at Cradley Heath on Monday.....

The annual dinner was held at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, on Monday, Mr. C. Griffiths (president) occupying the chair. A party numbering some 35 enjoyed the excellent catering.....”

County Express 30/7/1910

“On Wednesday, at Old Hill Police Court.....

Mr. H. F. Machin, of the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, was granted an occasional license for the Old Hill Cricket Club fete on Thursday next.”

Henry Frederick Machin – see also TALBOT, Talbot Street, Oldbury.

County Express 10/9/1910

“A meeting of the Central Committee of the Imperial Tariff Committee for Cradley Heath, Cradley, Lye, Stambermill, Wollescote, and Old Hill, was held on Wednesday in the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath. Mr. Langford Griffiths was in the chair.....”

1911 Census

1, Chester Road – VINE AND RAILWAY INN

[1] John Freeman (39), licensed victualler, hotel manager, born Saltney, Birmingham;

[2] Clara Freeman (36), wife, married 16 years, assisting in the business, born Birmingham;

[3] Gladys Hypatia Freeman (15), daughter, born Sparkhill, Worcestershire;

[4] Elsie Beatrice Freeman (13), daughter, school, born Sparkhill, Worcestershire;

[5] Albert John Freeman (10), son, school, born Sparkhill, Worcestershire;

[6] Clara Hildegard Gertrude Freeman (8), daughter, school, born Sparkhill, Worcestershire;

[7] Constance Virginia Freeman (4), daughter, born Sparkhill, Worcestershire;

[8] Stanley Paul Freeman (2), son, born Kidderminster;

[9] Betsy Kerry (81), widow, aunt, born Birmingham;

[10] Clara Brokington (74), widow, mother in law, born Birmingham;

[11] Emma Jane Heath (23), hotel waitress, born Cradley Heath;

[12] Christopher William Cradders Stokes (20), billiard marker, born Northampton;

[13] Fred Harrold (14), stable lad, born Old Hill:

County Express 1/7/1911

“.....Luncheon was served by Mr. Freeman, of the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath following which there was an entertainment. Mr. Stitch, who was accompanied by Mrs. Stitch, presided over the gathering.”

County Express 8/7/1911 - Advert

“Ben Wilkinson (late of the HORSE SHOE and STAR, Brierley Hill, VINE AND RAILWAY, Cradley Heath), is now at the FOUNTAIN INN, Hagley Road, Stourbridge, and presents for sale his Pure Home-Brew’d Ales, brewed at Will George’s, JOLLY BREWER, Tipton, old and new friends heartily welcome.”

Birmingham Mail 9/8/1911 - Advert

“Trap for Sale, splendid condition, for cob, 15 or 16 hands; cheap. Apply, VINE AND RAILWAY, Cradley Heath.”

County Express 16/12/1911

“A sale of property was held at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, on Monday, a good company being present. Lot 1 comprised the premises formerly known as the OLD CROWN INN, Halesowen Road, Netherton; lot 2 the dwelling house known as the LODGE FORGE INN, Cradley. Both the properties were sold at prices satisfactory to the vendors. The solicitors were Messrs. Homfray, Holberton, and Mellor, Brierley Hill, and Messrs Whetstone and Frost, Leicester; auctioneer, Mr. R. Glanville Slater (of the firm Humphries, Slater, and Co. Brierley Hill).”

Birmingham Daily Post 18/1/1915

“The annual dinner in connection with the Old Hill and District Miners’ Association was held on Saturday at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath....”

Dudley Chronicle 9/10/1915

“Saturday proved a wretched day for the cycle and fancy dress parade promoted by the Cradley Heath Patriotic Committee. For the first day for many weeks the sun decided to remain indoors, and from start to finish there was a steady downpour of rain which made it very uncomfortable for exhibitors and spectators alike.....

Others in the procession were Albert Oakley, from the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, was a Japanese collector.....

Mr. Edwards said he was sorry the weather had been so unfavourable. Still a good show had been made, and they would be able to hand over a good sum for the benefit of local soldiers and sailors.”

Birmingham Daily Post 26/1/1918 - Advert

“Cradley Heath.

Highly-Important Sale of Two Villa Residences, with Ranges of Two-Storied Warehouses, at Rear, and Plot of Ripe Building Land.

To Corn Merchants, Fruit Merchants, Manufacturers, Investors, and Others.

Alfred Hill has been instructed to Sell by Public Auction, at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, on Tuesday, February 5, 1918, at Seven o’clock sharp in the Evening, subject to conditions of sale to be then read.....”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 30/9/1922 - Advert

“Sale At The VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Lomey Town, Cradley Heath (opposite the G.W.R. Station), on Tuesday, October 3rd, 1922, at Eleven o’clock prompt.

Hubert R. Twist has been favoured with instructions to Sell by Auction as above, entirely without reserve, the Household Furniture & Effects comprising Kerbs, Lace Curtains, Toilet and Trinket Sets, Water Colours, Fenders, Valuable and Solid All Brass Full-Size Bedsteads with silk tapestry hangings, Box Spring Mattresses, Hair Overlay, Feather Bolsters and Pillows, Medicine Chest, 3ft 6in, Solid Oak Bedroom Suite, Chairs, adjustable Bed Table, Hearthrugs, Single Bedsteads, Hand Sewing Machine, Kitchen Table, Satinwood Chest of Drawers, Child’s Cot, Folding Baby Car, Satin Walnut Dressing Table and Washstand, Oak Bedsteads, Wire Spring Mattress, Solid Mahogany Dressing Table and Washstand, Swing Toilet Glass, Plants, Chinaware, Cooking Utensils, Glassware, Kitchen Utensils and numerous other items.

On View Morning Of Sale. No Porters Admitted.

Auctioneer’s Offices: 9, Union Street, Birmingham. Telephone 5866 Central.”

Birmingham Gazette 3/1/1925

“70 Mile-An-Hour Gale’s Trail of Disaster.....

The position in the Midlands is described in the following messages from Gazette correspondents.....

Cradley Heath. A large plate-glass window in the VINE AND RAILWAY public house, Lomey Town, was shattered by the wind last night. The window measured 16ft by 6ft, and the force with which the glass was hurled into the bar caused numerous fragments to be embedded in the tables. The room was practically deserted at the time, and the licensee, Mr. H. T. Dixon, who was standing some distance away, was struck by several splinters, and was cut about the hands.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 3/11/1930

“Time does not seem to lessen the poignancy of the case of the bereaved dependants of those who were killed in the Norton Canes pit disaster.

The Birmingham Gazette and Evening Despatch relief fund continues to grow steadily.....

The Subscription List....

Customers, VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Cradley Heath, per Mrs. Kingdom 11s 6d.”

Walter Frank Meir = Walter Frank Moir

1939 Register

Chester Road – VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL

[1] Walter F. Meir, date of birth 14/9/1911, tenant of licensed hotel, married;

- [2] Jessie Meir, dob 15/6/1912, unpaid domestic duties, married;
[3] Janet M. (Meir) Norman, dob 9/1/1935, under school age, single;
[4] Thomas D. Fox, dob 20/10/1917, general fitter, omnibus department, single:

Birmingham Daily Gazette 18/3/1943

“The War Charities Act 1940.

Notice Is Hereby Given that it is proposed to apply to the Rowley Regis Council for the registration under the above-mentioned Act of The VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL Services Fund, the objects of which are to give Gifts or Money to Customers and Relatives of same serving in H.M. Forces and the administrative centre of which is situate at the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Chester Road, Cradley Heath, Staffs. Any Objections to the Proposed Registration should be sent in writing to the above-named Council within 14 days from the date of this notice.

H. Dunn, Secretary. Dated 20th March, 1943.”

Birmingham Daily Post 9/4/1959

“Rowley Regis magistrates yesterday awarded £4 costs against the police to one of the youths who had been prosecuted for stealing a pint beer glass and maliciously damaging a motor-cycle with it. They were alleged to have thrown the glass at a motor-cycle damaging its petrol tank.

The youth awarded costs was Allan James Ball, aged 19, of Saltwells Road, Dudley Wood, Cradley Heath. His solicitor Mr. G. Green said that there must have been considerable doubt in the minds of the prosecution from the beginning as to whether or not Ball was guilty.

The second youth, John Henry Roach, aged 19, of Saltwells Estate, Dudley Wood, who like Ball had denied the charges, was fined £20 and ordered to pay £11 17s 6d costs. The chairman, Mr. H. M. Ashmore told him, ‘This was a stupid and dangerous act which might have had serious repercussions. I cannot understand you; you have been before the court previously for assault.’

It was alleged that after a group of youths had set about another motor-cyclist outside the VINE AND RAILWAY INN, Lower High Street, Cradley Heath, on March 14 – a pint beer glass was thrown at Mr. J. G. Humphries, of Wallheath, as he rode his motor-cycle past the group. He had nothing to do with the youths.

Mr. N. Bayley, prosecuting said the prosecution appreciated that two men could not have thrown the glass at the same time but it was thought proper to bring both youths to court.”

Tipton Herald 18/6/1960

“‘We are not all infallible – even the police.’ This was stated to have been the explanation given to a police officer by Leonard Bacon (60), of the VINE AND RAILWAY HOTEL, 1, Chester Road, Cradley Heath, who was summoned at Old Hill Magistrates Court on Wednesday for parking his car in a portion of Lower High Street, Cradley Heath, where waiting was not allowed on May 10th. Bacon was fined £1.”

Plans for proposed alterations were approved on 7th February 1962.

Birmingham Daily Post 13/10/1967

“Mr. Bert Weedon, the guitarist, last night pushed over a 2ft 6in pile of pennies which had been collected by patrons of the VINE AND RAILWAY INN, Cradley Heath. The money will go to the Spastics Society.”

[1968]

Closed
Demolished

WAGGON AND HORSES

CRADLEY HEATH

OWNERS

LICENSEES

George Talbot [1862]

NOTES

WAGGON AND HORSES

100, (73), Reddal Hill Road, Spinners End, (Fox Oak), (Plants Green), OLD HILL

OWNERS

John Rolinson and Son (acquired in 1899 for £4,000), [1907]
Wolverhampton and Dudley Breweries Ltd.
Marstons plc [2008]
Ostlers Alehouses Ltd. [2018]

LICENSEES

Jeremiah Laister []
Mary Penn [1851]
Isaac Hall [1856] – 1872);
Joseph Hall [1861]
Jacob Coley (1872 – 1881);
Eliza Coley (1881 – []
Charles Henry Sneath [1889] – [1891]
Mrs. Mabel Sneath [1892] – [1896]
Charles Davies [1900] – 1910);
Joseph Bloomer (1910 – 1911);
Frank Murdoch Tibbetts (1911 – [1912]
George Adrian Slim (1913 – 1921);
George William Frederick Glaze (1921 – 1922);
Ezra Crampton (1922 – 1932);
Harry Pritchard (1932 – 1936);
George Lewis (1936 – 1937);
Jonathan Malpass (1937 – 1938);
Bert Adrian Slim (1938 – 1955);
William Bertram Bradley (1955 – [1965]
George John Garbett (1986 – [2011]
Patrick Dunne [2015]
Zoe Baxter [2018]

NOTES

Fox Oak, Reddal Hall [1865]
73, Reddal Hill Road [1881], [1891], [1901], [1904], [1908]
100, Reddal Hill Road [1911], [1932], [1939], [1940]

Black Country Bugle (March 1993) - Pub of the Month

“.....for Mr. Jeremiah Laister set up his Fox Oak Brewery at Reddal Hill in the 1840s and opened a tavern-cum-pawnshop which he called the WAGGON AND HORSES (the first licensed house on the site). One long taproom accommodated drinkers whilst a smaller apartment on the side was used by Laister's ‘pop shop’ clients.”

1851 Census

Red Hall Hill

[1] Mary Penn (71), widow, victualler, born Rowley;
[2] Emma Harper (23), housemaid, born Cradley:

County Advertiser 22/3/1856 - Advert.

“Sale at the WAGGON AND HORSES INN Reddal Hill, Rowley Regis

To be Sold by Auction, by Mr. Detheridge, on Monday Next, the whole of the Household Furniture, consisting of a Set of Tent Bedsteads, Mattresses, Flock Bed, Chairs, Tables, Painted Wash-hand Stand, 30-hour Clock, Swing Glasses, Chimney Glass, 3 Oil Paintings, Set of Fireirons, 2 Fenders, Oval Iron Pot, Saucepan, sundry lot of Tin-ware, Oak Linen Chest, Wood and Iron Buckets, lot of Garden Tools, and other effects, belonging to Mrs. Sarah Perks.

Sale to commence at Twelve o'clock in the Morning.”

Brierley Hill Advertiser 9/1/1858

“Isaac Hall, landlord of the WAGGON AND HORSES INN, Cradley Heath, was charged with having his house open at an illegal hour, on the 25th ult. PC Lucas stated that past eleven o’clock on the above night, he heard a great noise in defendant’s house, and, upon entering, found a number of men and women in the house. Defendant said, in defence, that they were entertaining a number of friendly visitors. As this was the first offence, the Bench fined defendant 2s 6d, with costs.”

Wolverhampton Chronicle 27/1/1858 - Advert

“Old-Licensed Public House, Land, and Cottages, Reddall Hill, Rowley Regis, Staffordshire.

Messrs. Oates & Perrens will Offer for Sale by Auction, by order of the Mortgagees, on Wednesday, the 10th day of February, 1858, at six o’clock in the afternoon, at the house of Mr. William Nock, the FOUR WAYS LIQUOR VAULTS, Reddall Hill, Rowley Regis, either together, or in such lots as may be determined upon by the Vendors at the time of sale, and subject to conditions then to be produced.

All that well-accustomed Old-Licensed Public House, called the WAGGON AND HORSES, with the Brewhouse, Stable, Out-buildings, and Garden, and three desirable Closes of Pasture Land adjoining thereto, situate at Reddall Hill, Fox Oak, in the parish of Rowley Regis, now in the occupation of Isaac Hall, together with three Cottages, with Nail Shops and Gardens, fronting to the road leading from Cradley to Rowley, now in the occupation of Thomas Perry, James Perry, and Abel Surter, the whole containing by admeasurement 4a 0r 31p or thereabouts.

The Property is well adapted for Building purposes. It is Copyhold of the Manor of Rowley Regis.

The Tenants will point out the same, and for further information apply to Mr. Thomas Wight, Jun., Solicitor, Brettel Lane, Brierley Hill, or to the Auctioneers, Stourbridge, at whose offices a plan of the premises may be seen.”

County Advertiser 6/2/1858 - Advert

“Old-Licensed Public House, Land, and Cottages. Reddall Hill, Rowley Regis, Staffordshire.

Messrs. Oates & Perrens will Offer for Sale by Auction (by order of the Mortgagees), on Wednesday Next, the 10th day of February, at Six o’clock in the afternoon, at the house of Mr. William Nock, the FOUR WAYS LIQUOR VAULTS, Reddall Hill, Rowley, either together, or in such lots as may be determined upon by the Vendors at the time of sale, and subject to conditions then to be produced.

All that well-accustomed Old-Licensed Public House, called the WAGGON AND HORSES, with the Brewhouse, Stable, Out-buildings, and Garden, and Three desirable Closes of Pasture Land adjoining thereto; situated at Reddall Hill, Fox Oak, in the parish of Rowley Regis, now in the occupation of Isaac Hall.....”

County Advertiser 28/8/1858

“Stewpony Annual Licensing Meeting. This meeting was held on Tuesday last.....

Forty complaints were made against licensed victuallers for having been convicted since the last license day for keeping open house during divine service, &c. The following were suspended.....

Isaac Hall, WAGGON AND HORSES, Reddall Hill.”

1861 Census

Plants Green – WAGON AND HORSES INN

- [1] Isaac Hall (36), victualler, born Cardington, Shropshire;
- [2] Martha Hall (33), wife, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] Ann Hall (4), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] James Hall (1), son, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Sarah J. Preece (17), house servant, born Stoke, Shropshire:

County Advertiser 4/11/1865 - Advert

“Reddall Hill, in the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford.

To be Sold by Auction, by Mr. Bateman, at COOKSEY’S HOTEL, Old Hill, in Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford, on Tuesday, November 7th, 1865, at Six o’clock in the evening, either together or in such lots as shall be agreed on at the time of Sale, the under-mentioned Valuable Property, with the Reversionary Interest in the Mines and Minerals thereunder.

All that Inn, called or known by the name of the WAGGON AND HORSES, with Three Cottages, Orchard, Gardens, and Out-buildings thereto adjoining, situate at Reddall Hill aforesaid, together with all those Three Closes of Land thereto adjoining, and belonging, called, or known by the names or descriptions following, that is to say: the Little Hilly Piece, Orchard Piece, and the Sling, and containing, together with the site of the Messuages and Buildings and the Gardens and Orchard thereto, 4a 0r 31p, or thereabouts, more or less, which said Premises are now in the occupation of Isaac Hall, Thomas Perry, James Perry, and Joseph Siviter. And also the Copyhold Reversionary Interest in all the ungoten Mines and Minerals, at the expiration of the present lease to the Trustees of the New British Iron Company, for Twenty-four years from the 29th day of September, 1853, under which Lease the present Lessees can only work the Mines from their adjacent lands.

The above Property is Copyhold of the Manor of Rowley.

For further information apply to Mr. Wight, Solicitor, or to the Auctioneer, Dudley.”

1871 Census

Reddall Hill Road – WAGON AND HORSES INN

- [1] Isaac Hall (47), licensed victualler, born Cardingtow, Shropshire;

- [2] Martha Hall (44), wife, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] Annie Hall (14), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Elizabeth Hall (8), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Martha J. Hall (3), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] Elizabeth Bradbury (16), domestic servant, born Stourbridge:

County Advertiser 22/4/1871

“A very sudden death occurred at Darby Hand Colliery, on the 18th inst. Mr. Benjamin Gould, 43 years of age, chartermaster of the colliery, was in his office about half-past three on the day named, when he was suddenly taken ill, and died in a few minutes. An inquest was held on Thursday afternoon, at the WAGGON AND HORSES, Reddal Hill, before the Coroner, Mr. Edwin Hooper. A verdict of Died from Natural Causes was returned.”

County Advertiser 13/4/1872

“On Easter Tuesday a number of the workmen in the employ of Mr. T. P. Jones, Dudley, met at the WAGGON AND HORSES INN, Reddal Hill, for the purpose of presenting to Mr. John Green, late manager for the above-named gentleman, a testimonial of esteem. Upwards of 30 sat down to dinner, which was served up in first-class style by the worthy host, Mr. Jacob Coley. Mr. George Allbut was appointed chairman, and Mr. Josh. Shaw occupied the vice-chair. After the usual loyal toasts had been duly honoured, the health of Mr. John Green was proposed by the Vice-chairman, in suitable terms. The Chairman then presented him with the testimonial, consisting of an address, a silver cup, and a very handsome timepiece, with suitable inscriptions upon each. The toast of the ‘Chain and Anchor Trade,’ coupled with the name of Mr. T. P. Jones, met with a hearty response. Mr. John Green then replied in very feeling terms; and some excellent songs were sung, Mr. Samuel Wright presiding at the piano. The party broke up at an early hour, highly delighted with their evening’s entertainment.”

County Advertiser 18/3/1876

“Jacob Coley, WAGON AND HORSES INN, Old Hill, was charged with permitting drunkenness upon his premises on the 28th ult. Mr. Stokes defended.

Police-constable Blackmore said he saw a man named Willets near to the defendant’s house on the day in question. At his (witness’s) instance, he was charged with drunkenness, and fined at the preceding sessions.

Timothy Willets said he went into defendant’s house at about 7 o’clock on the night of the 28th ult, and stayed there until between 9 and 10 o’clock. Was sober enough when he went into the house, although he had had some ale previously. Had some club ale in the house.

Cross-examined: Was a member of a money club held at defendant’s house, and went there to pay his money. He had one quart of ale, which was the usual allowance, and left the house right enough.

The case was dismissed.”

County Express 17/6/1876

“Mr. Superintendent Mills is retiring from the Police Force after a service extending over 36 years, of which upwards of 25 have been spent as Superintendent of this District, and it has been deemed a fitting time to present him with a substantial Testimonial in recognition of his faithful services.

The Committee now publish the subscription list up to the 16th day of June instant.....

Jacob Coley, Reddal Hill, £1 1s 0d.”

Dudley Herald 22/7/1876

“Jacob Coley, landlord of the WAGON AND HORSES INN, Reddal Hill, was charged with having in his possession on the 4th May, 28lbs of sugar, not being for the necessary or ordinary use of his family, he not being licensed to brew with sugar. Mr. Stokes appeared for the defendant, who pleaded not guilty.

Mr. Stokes, in addressing the magistrates for the defence, hoped they would make a special recommendation for mitigation of the penalty on account of the sugar not being saccharine.

The Magistrates fined the defendant £50, being one-fourth the penalty, and refused to make any recommendation for mitigation.”

Dudley and District News 22/1/1881

“John Dean (27), horse dealer, of The Thorne, Brierley Hill, and Henry Everson (21), spade tree maker, Lye Waste, Stourbridge, was brought up in custody and charged with uttering counterfeit coin at Old Hill and Cradley Heath, on the 14th inst. Mr. Waldron defended Everson.

Evidence was given which went to show that on the day in question the prisoner Everson visited the shops of Jane Westwood, in Waterfall Lane, and Harriet Pearson, Halesowen Road, Old Hill, purchasing at the former a pennyworth of apples and at the latter a pennyworth of lozenges, and at each place tendering in payment a spurious two-shilling piece. Next he visited the WAGON AND HORSES, Reddal Hill, and called for a twopenny cigar, which was supplied him, and for which he tendered another counterfeit florin. As he was leaving the house the landlady saw that the coin was a bad one, and called to a man to stop the prisoner who, however, ran away and could not be overtaken. Later both of the prisoners were seen near to another shop kept by a man named Jeffcoot, in Laurences Lane, and at which shop it was alleged that Dean passed a base florin. Afterwards, it was stated, Everson passed a counterfeit florin at the shop of Samuel Mansell Cooper, provision dealer, Cradley Heath, Dean a bad florin at the HOLLY BUSH INN, and Everson a bad half-crown at the shop of Mr. Bishop. In the meantime, the police received information that the shopkeepers were being victimised, and the prisoners were arrested at their homes by PS Shaw and PC Mountford, and the following day were identified by the above-named persons. Dean had been previously convicted for uttering base coin, and was now under police supervision.

The prisoners were again brought up on Wednesday and further remanded until the 21st inst.”

Dudley and District News 29/1/1881

“At the Staffordshire Assizes, on Thursday, John Dean (27), horse dealer, of The Thorne, Brierley Hill, and Henry Everson (26), spade tree maker, Lye Waste, committed from Old Hill Police Court, last week, were each sentenced to be imprisoned for twelve months with hard labour, for uttering counterfeit coin at Old Hill and Cradley Heath, on the 14th inst.”

1881 Census

73, Reddall Hill Road

- [1] Jacob Coley (48), innkeeper, born Oldbury;
- [2] Eliza Coley (48), wife, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] Agnes Colvin (15), general servant, born London:

Jacob Coley died in the 2nd quarter of 1881.

See also WHITE SWAN, Old Hill.

Birmingham Daily Post 23/3/1889

“Yesterday, a well-attended meeting of miners employed at the Earl of Dudley’s No.30 Saltwells Colliery was held at the WAGON AND HORSES INN, Cradley Heath, under the presidency of Mr. B. Winwood. The Chairman explained that the strike had now terminated, the grievances the men complained of having been abolished. He had had an interview with the chartermaster of the colliery, and he had promised to remedy the evils that existed. The men would enter the mine at 7am and cease work at 4pm. A resolution was carried unanimously agreeing to resume work on Monday next.”

Charles Henry Sneath = Henry Charles Sneath

Birmingham Daily Post 25/5/1889 - Advert

“Found, black-and-fawn coloured Collie Dog. Owner can have him by paying expenses; in three days will be sold. Apply, Mr. Sneath, WAGON AND HORSES, Reddal Hill, Old Hill, near Dudley.”

1891 Census

73, Reddal Hill Road

- [1] Charles Henry Sneath (57), licensed victualler, born Westmorland;
- [2] Mabel Sneath (34), wife, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] Eliza Wetherford (18), domestic servant, born Dudley:

County Advertiser 24/9/1892

“The Sad End of an Old Hill Tradesman.

inquest was held on Saturday afternoon last at the WAGON AND HORSES INN, Reddal Hill Road, Old Hill, before Mr. Edwin Hooper, touching the death of Mr. William Tromans, builder, of Lawrence Lane, Old Hill, who committed suicide last Thursday week by hanging himself. Mr. John Wright, Halesowen, represented the friends of the deceased.

Annie Tromans, the widow, said her husband was 36 years of age, and that ever since April he had been suffering from an over-taxed brain. He had been in a low, desponding state of mind, and rather strange at times. Recently he had been in financial difficulties, and these distressed him very much. On the 7th inst his stock was sold, and this preyed upon his mind; deceased being greatly put about, and complained that he was a ruined man and had no home. He had not threatened to commit suicide, but she thought it advisable to get medical aid for him. She last saw her husband alive on Thursday morning at six o’clock, when he said he was going to his brother’s house at Spring Meadow. She came down stairs about 7.30, and her little boy who had gone into the coalhouse to brush his boots, came screaming back, saying ‘Oh! mamma do come.’ She then saw what had happened. Deceased’s mother had been in an asylum. The affairs of deceased were placed some weeks ago in the hands of Mr. John Wright, and a meeting of his creditors was called. At this a composition of 6s in the pound was offered, but this arrangement fell through owing to some of the larger creditors refusing to consent. They insisted upon a deed of assignment being executed by the deceased and the estate was sold by the trustees to Mr. Thomas Hill, at a sum sufficient to pay the creditors 10s in the pound. The purchase money had been paid over. Reports reached deceased’s ears that he would be made a bankrupt, and that worried him terribly. There was no ground as far as she knew for such rumours.

The coroner said it was a most distressing case, and there was very little doubt that the difficulties which beset deceased had unhinged his mind.

Joseph Tromans, son of deceased, said he went into the coalhouse to black his boots, and saw his father hanging by means of a sash rope from a hook in the beam.

John Yates said he was passing by the house when he heard screams. He immediately jumped off his cart and ran into the house. When he saw deceased hanging in the coalhouse, he pulled out his knife and cut the rope. The body was just warm; he had known the deceased well.

A juryman remarked that he saw the deceased on the previous day and he appeared then to be in great trouble, saying that his burden was too heavy for him to bear.

The Coroner said that bore out the evidence which they had heard, and which showed that the mind of deceased had given way under his trouble.

The jury returned a verdict that deceased committed Suicide whilst in a state of Temporary Insanity.”

Henry Charles Sneath died in the 4th quarter of 1892.

County Express 14/7/1900

“An inquest was held on Saturday by Mr. A. H. Pearson (coroner), at the REINDEER INN, King Street, on Mary Ann Weaver (14), of Tibbetts Gardens, who had died from injuries received through being run over in the High Street.

Elizabeth Ann Weaver, the mother, stated that on the 4th inst she sent deceased to get some fish for supper, and afterwards she was brought home in an unconscious state, and died the next morning.

Ada Lane stated that when walking down High Street she saw deceased crossing the street, when a horse and trap was being driven up the road. She heard the driver (Mr. Charles Davies) shout out, and at the same time deceased was knocked down, the wheel of the vehicle passing over her head.

Police-sergeant Picher said he also witnessed the accident. Mr. Davies was driving at a modest pace, and was quite sober.

Charles Davies, landlord of the WAGON AND HORSES, Reddal Hill, said when driving through the High Street he saw the deceased about fifteen yards in front of him. Deceased afterwards became confused, and, the woman shouting her, she stopped right in front of the horse. She was knocked down by the horse, and a wheel passed over her head. He assisted in removing the unfortunate girl to her home.

The jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death, being of the opinion that Mr. Davies was in no way to blame.”

1901 Census

73, Reddal Hill Road – WAGGON AND HORSES INN

- [1] Charles Davies (45), anchor forgerman and publican, born Tipton;
- [2] Sarah Davies (44), wife, born Tipton;
- [3] Ernest Davies (26), son, iron chain worker, born Halesowen;
- [4] Rose Davies (17), daughter, born Halesowen;
- [5] Enoch Davies (15), son, born Halesowen;
- [6] Thomas Davies (13), son, born Rowley Regis;
- [7] Walter Davies (10), son, born Rowley Regis;
- [8] Clara Smith (15), domestic servant, born Quarry Bank:

Charles Davies was also a brewer.

County Advertiser 18/2/1905

“John Harris, of Stones Yard, Cradley Heath, was charged with refusing to quit the licensed premises of the WAGON AND HORSES INN, Reddal Hill, on the 4th inst.

The landlord, Charles Davies, stated that defendant visited his house on the date named, and commenced to quarrel with another customer, and he ordered them both to leave. Defendant, however, refused to go.

He now expressed sorrow for his conduct, and he was fined 5s and costs.”

County Advertiser 9/2/1907

“The annual licensing session for the Rowley Regis Petty Sessional Division were held on Wednesday at the Police Court.

Mr. Marshall applied for sanction to rebuild the WAGON AND HORSES INN, Reddal Hill, Old Hill, but this was deferred until the adjourned sessions.”

County Advertiser 9/3/1907

“The adjourned annual licensing sessions for the Rowley Regis Petty Sessional Division were held on Wednesday at the Police Court.

Mr. Marshall, of Dudley, applied for the permission of the Bench to rebuild the WAGON AND HORSES INN, Old Hill, and the WAGON AND HORSES INN, Tividale. He mentioned that at the annual sessions he submitted plans for the alteration of the houses, but the consideration of them was deferred until that day. Since his clients had put in amended plans which had received the approval of the police. The owners were Messrs. J. Rolinson and Son, of Netherton, and they proposed to rebuild upon the site of the old houses, and not to increase the drinking area. The alterations would afford better facilities for police supervision, provide improved sanitary accommodation, increase the rateable value, and also the amount to be contributed from the trade for compensation purposes. The PEAR TREE INN, Tividale, another of his client’s houses, was being dealt with on the ground of redundancy, and if the present applications to rebuild were favourably considered they would offer no opposition to the non-renewal of the license of the PEAR TREE INN.

Mr. Bassano said the plans were satisfactory, and subject to an agreement for the PEAR TREE INN to be sent for compensation they would be approved.”

Tipton Herald 12/6/1909

“Charles Davies, landlord of the WAGGON AND HORSES, Reddal Hill Road, Old Hill, was summoned on Wednesday at the Old Hill Court, before Mr. H. A. Bassano and Mr. J. H. Holcroft, for allowing Shadrack Talbot, butcher, of High Street, Old Hill, to be on his premises in a drunken condition on the 27th May. Mr. Clulow prosecuted and Mr. Willison defended. Inspector Needham said that on the 27th of last month he visited the WAGGON AND HORSES at 10.30pm. When he got into the passage the landlord came out of the smoke room. He said, 'Good evening, Inspector; come this way,' at the same time inviting him to go into the kitchen. Instead of accepting the invitation, however, he went into the smoke room, where he saw Shadrack Talbot, an iron merchant, and a butcher named Farmer. Talbot was in an almost helpless state of drunkenness. He said to Mr. Davies, 'How do you account for having this man on your premises in such a drunken condition?' He replied, 'He has not been here long; he has had nothing to drink here. I have just filled him a soda water to sober him.' The Inspector then said, 'You know you have no right to have people on your premises in that state,' to which the landlord replied, 'Well you can't throw them out.' When Talbot tried to get up he fell back and said something, but his voice was so thick that he could not tell what the words were. He then told the landlord to send Talbot home, or he would have to lock him up. Talbot was then dragged out of the house. He was absolutely helpless. He could neither walk, talk nor stand.

Mr. Clulow: Helpless or what? – Drunk.

Proceeding, the Inspector said a man named Collett joined them in the road, and with another man took him home. At 10.55 he saw the two men dragging Talbot along the road towards his home. At 11.5, in company with PC Flowers, he saw Talbot lying on the floor in the back kitchen of his home. His wife was pacing backwards and forwards, wringing her hands as if in great distress. The other men had then gone. He spoke to Talbot and told him to get up. He lifted himself up a few inches, and made a communication to his wife. He then fell back again. He was helpless.

Mr. Clulow: Helpless, what? – Drunk.

Mr. Willison: In your opinion this was about as bad a case of helpless intoxication as you know of? – Yes.

By Mr. Willison: The landlord did not tell me that Talbot had collapsed 'only a few moments ago.' He did not ask me what I was going to charge him with, and I did not say 'What can I charge you with if he was not drunk?'

Have you heard of cases even in London, the foremost place, when men have been locked up for being drunk, and in the morning it has been found that it was not drink? – Yes.

Mr. Clulow: But I don't accept London as the foremost place. (laughter)

Mr. Willison: Well. I will accept it as such, after Birmingham. (laughter)

Mr. Clulow: You have heard of other people besides inspectors making mistakes? – Inspector: Yes, sir.

Even doctors have made mistakes? – I expect so.

And in some cases after doctors have given evidence the Bench have gone against them. – Yes.

Somebody made a mistake? – Yes.

William Flower (PC) said he was with the inspector on the Cross at Old Hill on the night in question. He corroborated the statement made by the inspector.

The defendant said he had been at the WAGGON AND HORSES 11 years. On the evening in question Talbot and Farmer entered his house at 10.30. Talbot had a gin and soda and Farmer a pint of ale. Both men were perfectly sober. Talbot borrowed his long pipe and smoked it. Shortly after he complained of feeling unwell, and a few moments afterwards he dropped the pipe and collapsed on the seat, and he (defendant) fetched a soda water. Then the Inspector went in, and said, 'Hello what is this,' and he (defendant) said, 'He's had a fit.' Then the Inspector said, 'Well get him off home, or I shall take him.' Then he said, 'What can I charge you with if the man is sober?' The inspector then left the house.

Mr. Clulow: Why should you suggest drunkenness? – I did not suggest drunkenness.

But if you thought he was in a fit, and it was obvious, why did your mind go to the question of being charged with drunkenness? – I was looking after myself. If the inspector had said he was drunk I should have called in a doctor at once. But he did not say he was drunk.

Do you suggest the pipe made him bad? – It might have helped him on.

Shadrack Talbot, butcher, of 3, High Street, Old Hill, said that on the day in question he had only one drink at the ROYAL EXCHANGE. In the evening he went to the VINE, where Mr. Farmer had a pint of ale and I took the top off. From the VINE they went to Davies, at the WAGGON AND HORSES, and there had a gin and soda. He was not drunk; he had not had enough to make him drunk. He was in the house about an hour, when he had a sort of a fit. He knew nothing after till he found himself in bed. He had a similar seizure on Saturday; they were too busy to drink on Saturday.

Answering Mr. Clulow: It is not true to say I promised the inspector the best gold mounted walking stick that money could buy. I did not say I would give him something to let the case drop. When he was on the floor in he kitchen he did not hear the conversation that passed between his wife and the officers.

Stephen Farmer, butcher, 41, Spinners End, Cradley Heath, said that when he met Talbot 'he was perfectly all right.' If Talbot had been drunk he would not have gone in a public with him. He was not drunk in the WAGON. He had nothing to make him drunk. Hannah Talbot, wife of Shadrack Talbot, said two men took her husband home unconscious. She told the inspector she was sorry to see him like that.

By Mr. Clulow: I did not say he was a wicked man for getting in that state. I did not tell the officers he was subject to fits or seizures. It was true she asked the Inspector not to report him. She did not tell him she had to drag him to bed.

Why did you not tell the inspector that he had these seizures? – I have not been married long, and I did not want people to know he had fits.

Dr. Stanley Barnes said he examined Talbot on Tuesday, and he was undoubtedly suffering from epilepsy. It was an extremely foolish thing for a man suffering from epilepsy to take alcohol at all. It was an easy matter for the inspector to think the man was drunk.

By Mr. Clulow: A small quantity of alcohol would produce drunkenness in an epileptic, where it would not in a person who was not suffering. From what he had heard in that box, and the result of his own diagnosis, he was of opinion that the man looked drunk when he was not drunk.

This was the case for the prosecution.

The Bench retired, and on their return the Chairman said: This is a singular and most unusual case. It shows the value of expert medical evidence having been introduced. There is no doubt the police were mistaken in considering that the man was drunk, as it has turned out that he suffered from an epileptic seizure. At the same time, it was a very proper case for the police to bring forward; in fact it would have been neglect of their duty if they had not brought it before the notice of the magistrates. The evidence of the expert witness, however, was conclusive in the matter, and the case was dismissed.”

1911 Census

100, Reddall Hill Road – WAGON AND HORSES

- [1] Joseph Bloomer (44), innkeeper, born Quarry Bank;
- [2] Adelaide Bloomer (46), wife, married 23 years, born Cradley;
- [3] Beatrice Fallis (18), domestic servant, born Cradley;
- [4] Florrie Beasley (9), boarder, born Rowley Regis:

County Express 30/9/1911

“At Old Hill Police Court, on Wednesday, Joseph Bloomer, of the WAGON AND HORSES, Reddall Hill Road, Old Hill, was summoned for keeping his house open during prohibited hours.

Inspector Needham was the only police witness. He stated that about 11.10pm on the 15th inst he visited the WAGON AND HORSES, and in the tap room saw two men, John Yates and William Bentley. There were two pint jugs on the counter. He asked the landlady where her husband was, and she said he was out at the back. He drew her attention to the fact that it was ten past eleven, and she said she didn’t know it was so late, as it was only 11 o’clock by their clock. It was just eleven by it. When he asked her again where her husband was she said, ‘At Quarry Bank.’ Before going to the WAGON AND HORSES that night witness passed ten public houses, all of which were closed. The next day defendant came to the police office and asked that the offence might be overlooked, as he and his wife were not aware that the clock was slow. Witness replied that he had already forgiven him for the same thing last December.

Defendant: What car did you come from Cradley Heath on? – Witness: The one leaving at 11 o’clock.

But it doesn’t take ten minutes to get to my place, does it? – About four minutes.

It was wanting two minutes to eleven by our clock when you came into the house. I have got witnesses to prove it. What time did the car leave? – I left Five Ways at six minutes past eleven.

Defendant stated that he had been in the doctor’s hands for two months, and on the night in question he went to bed at 10 o’clock, and his wife didn’t know but that he was out at the back.

John Yates, haulier, giving evidence for the defence, stated that he was in the house when Inspector Needham came in. He had no watch on, but at that time it was not 11 o’clock by two minutes according to the clock in the house.

Cross-examined by Supt. Johnson, defendant said he didn’t know what the right time was when Inspector Needham came in. It would take about three-and-a-half minutes for the car to get from the Five Ways at Cradley Heath to the WAGON AND HORSES. When Inspector Needham came in the house there was no beer being drunk and none had been drunk for ten minutes.

William Bentley, Pearson Street, gave similar evidence.

Adelaide Bloomer, wife of the defendant, said she had no idea the clock was so slow. Her husband got up and timed the clock at midnight and found it was ‘two minutes slow by Cradley Heath and four minutes slow by Old Hill.’ The reason she said her husband was at Quarry Bank was because she thought he ought to be in charge of the house.

PCs Emery and Weston spoke of having cautioned defendant regarding keeping open after 11 o’clock.

A fine of 20s and costs was inflicted.”

Dudley Chronicle 9/12/1911

“The license of the WAGON AND HORSES, Old Hill, was transferred to Frank M. Tibbetts from Joseph Bloomer, who, it was stated, had left the district. The presiding magistrate (Mr. A. H. Bassano) informed the new tenant that there was a mark against this house, the late tenant having been convicted for keeping open after hours.”

Frank Murdoch Tibbetts was married to Myra.

See also REINDEER.

Staffordshire Advertiser 10/2/1912

“The Sessions for Old Hill division were held on Wednesday. Supt. Johnson reported that the number of licenses for renewal was 147, showing a decrease of two alehouses and one beerhouse, dealt with by the Compensation Authority. The Bench renewed the licenses of the WAGON AND HORSES, Old Hill, the HOLLY BUSH, High Street, Cradley Heath, and the VINE INN, Cradley Heath, but the Chairman warned the holders to be more careful about the manner in which the houses were managed.”

County Express 18/5/1912

“On Saturday the annual club supper was held at the WAGON AND HORSES INN, Reddall Hill. Mr. Thomas Bagley presided, and there were also present Messrs. T. Barnsley (secretary), F. Milward, F. Cole, J. Johnson, W. Bentley, H. Lea, D. Perry, J. Baynham, B. Bennett, J. Tate, R. Hall, J. Tibbetts, etc. An apology was announced from Mr. Mark Round. Songs were rendered by Messrs. J. Baynham, W. Palmer, J. Hill, B. Bennett, and G. Homer. Mr. I. Hill was the accompanist. On the motion of Mr. W. Bennett, seconded by Mr. W. Bentley, thanks were accorded to the host and hostess.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 31/7/1913

“At Old Hill Police Court yesterday, Mr. T. Higgs, solicitor, applied on behalf of George Slim for the license of the WAGGON AND HORSES public house, Old Hill. Mr. Higgs stated that the applicant held a license eleven years, and there were then two charges against him. One was of supplying a drunken person and the other permitting drunkenness. He was fined £3 and costs on the first summons and the other was withdrawn. Two years afterwards the license was renewed to him. Mr. Higgs now asked the Bench to give the applicant a clean slate so that he might hold a license again. For the last nine years he had carried on the business of fruiterer without complaint. The police offered no objection and the Bench granted the license.”

Birmingham Mail 20/1/1915

“Private B. Slim, son of Mr. G. Slim, of the WAGON AND HORSES INN, Reddall Hill Road, Old Hill, a reservist in the Coldstream Guards, has been wounded and is an inmate of the Eastern General Hospital. Slim was a tram conductor in the employ of the Stourbridge and Dudley Tramway Company.”

Birmingham Mail 15/2/1915

“Private Bert Slim, a son of Mr. G. Slim, of the WAGON AND HORSES INN, Reddall Hill, Old Hill, a reservist in the Coldstream Guards, has returned home having undergone an operation following a shrapnel wound in the back. He was a conductor in the employ of the Stourbridge and Dudley Tramway Company before the outbreak of war.”

George Lewis married Annie Harris.

1939 Register

100, Reddall Hill Road

- [1] Bert A. Slim, date of birth 18/7/1890, licensed victualler, married;
- [2] May Slim, dob 26/3/1895, unpaid house duties, married;
- [4] Louisa M. Slim, dob 20/3/1885, retired, unpaid domestic duties, widowed:

A team from here took part in the Cradley Heath Darts League. [1970]

George John Garbett was known as John.
He married Ann Marie Harris (1943 - 2004).

Bridgwater Lodge (founded 1921) of the Royal Ancient Order of Buffaloes met here. [2002]

Halesowen News 13/11/2013

“A hapless fly tipper landed himself and his boss with hefty fines after dumping rubbish in Cradley. Dudley Council officers were called to clear the rubbish on Bassett Road and traced it back to the WAGON AND HORSES pub, Reddall Hill Road, Cradley Heath. Former licensee George John Garbett pleaded guilty at Dudley magistrates to failing to dispose of his waste correctly and Kevin Mallard admitted not being a registered waste carrier. 69-year-old Garbett was given a conditional discharge for 12 months and ordered to pay a contribution to the costs of £200 and a victim surcharge of £15. And Mallard, aged 26, of Oldnall Road, Halesowen, was fined £100, with a contribution towards the costs of £100, £90 compensation and £20 victim surcharge. Councillor Tracy Wood, cabinet member for environment and culture, said, ‘This sends out a clear message that we will not tolerate people who do not dispose of their waste properly. If people are caught, they face a costly visit to the courts, it is much cheaper to do it properly in the first place. As part of our Love Your Community campaign we want people to take pride in their borough and that includes keeping it clean and tidy. We hope people will share our pride in the borough and join us in tackling fly-tipping and other issues.’”

It closed in 2014 for a major refurbishment.

[2019]

WARD ARMS

89, (1), Hawes Lane, Rowley Village, (Perrys Lake), ROWLEY REGIS

OWNERS

C. F. Wooldridge [1891]
Showells Brewery Co. Ltd.
Ind Coope and Allsopp (acquired on 3rd July 1935)

LICENSEES

Mrs. Honor Stainton [1854] – [1872]
Joseph Stokes [1873] – 1876;
Mrs. Hannah Stokes (1876 – [1891]
Woodbridge [1891]
Isaac Cashmore [1892]
Mrs. Maude Pountney [1896]
Thomas Gould Taylor [1898] – [1901]
David Gould Taylor [1900]
Priscilla Taylor [1903]
Joseph Withnall (1903 – 1904);
George Hill (1904 – 1906);
Luke Bradley (1906 – 1907);
Benjamin Wall (1907 – [1908]
Thomas Lowe [1911] – 1921);
Charles Cashmore (1921 – 1922);
George Fenton (1922);
Mrs. Harriet Maud (Fenton) Jenks (1922 – 1938);
Jabez William Sutton (1938);
Isaac Tromans (1938 – 1939);
Arthur Gilbert (1939);
Mrs. Gertrude Gilbert (1939 – 1946);
Arthur Gilbert (1946 – [1965]

NOTES

1, Hawes Lane [1881], [1891], [1900], [1901], [1904]
89, Hawes Lane [1908], [1911], [1912], [1916], [1932], [1939], [1940]

LORD WARD ARMS [1856]
WARD'S ARMS [1861]

It became the headquarters of the Rowley Regis and Blackheath Horticultural Society, after it moved from the SIR ROBERT PEEL.

Honor Stainton = Honor Stanton = Horner Stainton

Honor Stainton (nee Mason) was married to Matthew.

Birmingham Journal 29/3/1856 - Advert

“Left His Home.

On Wednesday, the 19th inst, Mr. Edmund Mason, of Gosty Hill, Rowley, Publican, Left his Residence, and has not since been heard of. He is 54 years of age, about 5 feet 6 inches in height, lusty, and stout built; had on, when last seen, a white smock frock, cassimere breeches, and a pair of new half-boots. Information respecting him will be gratefully received by his disconsolate relatives, William Davies, Oakeywell Street, Dudley; or Mrs. Stainton, the LORD WARD ARMS, Rowley, Staffordshire.”

Birmingham Daily Post 14/8/1860 - Advert

“Hooper for Coroner.

The Committees for conducting Mr. Hooper's Election sit daily at the following Places.....

Rowley, at the WARD ARMS.....

By order. Hodgson and Allen, G. S. Watson, Agents for Mr. Hooper. 14th August, 1860.”

[This election followed the death of George Hayes Hinchliffe. Edwin Hooper, Deputy Coroner, was elected Coroner.]

Birmingham Journal 20/10/1860 - Advert

“Staffordshire. Freehold Dwelling Houses and Land, situate at Cock Green, in the Parish of Rowley Regis.

To be Sold by Auction, by Messrs. Cooksey and Rollason (by order of the Mortgagee) at the WARD ARMS INN, Rowley Regis, on Monday, the 5th day of November, 1860, at Six o'clock in the evening, subject to conditions to be then produced.....”

1861 Census

Rowley Village – WARD ARMS Public House

[1] Honor Stainton (57), widow, innkeeper, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Phebe Stainton (26), daughter, born Rowley Regis;

- [3] Elizabeth Stainton (23), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
[4] Sarah Stainton (20), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
[5] Phebe Stainton Nicklin (4), grand-daughter, born Rowley Regis:

Birmingham Journal 16/8/1862 - Advert

“Valuable Freehold Property, with Mines and Minerals, consisting of Two Desirable Dwelling Houses, Outbuildings, Gardens, Land, and Premises, situate at Portway, in the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the county of Stafford. To Be Sold By Auction, by Mr. Bateman, on Tuesday, the 26th day of August, 1862, at Six o'clock in the Evening, at the House of Mrs. Stainton, the WARD ARMS INN, Rowley, subject to conditions then to be produced.....”

Birmingham Journal 25/7/1863 - Advert

“Unreserved Sale. To Capitalists and Others. Important, Well-Situated, and Old-Established Freehold Old-Licensed Inn, Dwelling Houses, Nail Warehouses, Shops, and Premises, situated at Black Heath, Rowley Regis, in the county of Stafford. Mr. Joseph S. Parkes is instructed to Sell by Public Auction, at Mrs. Honor Stainton's, the WARD ARMS HOTEL, Rowley Regis, on Tuesday Next, July 28, at Six o'clock in the evening, subject to conditions then to be produced.....”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 28/7/1863 - Advert

“Sale This Day, at 6pm. By Mr. Joseph S. Parkes, at the WARD ARMS HOTEL, Rowley Regis – Freehold old-licensed Inn, the ROYAL OAK, and three Dwelling Houses adjoining, situated at Black Heath, Rowley Regis, in the county of Stafford.”

Western Daily Press 21/4/1864

“On Tuesday Mr. E. Hooper, one of the coroners for the county of Stafford, held an inquest at the WARD ARMS INN, Rowley, on the body of Samuel Portman, a lad, nine years of age, who expired on Saturday last. The inquiry excited much interest in the neighbourhood, in consequence of the singularity of the circumstances under which deceased received the injuries which resulted in his death. On Tuesday week the deceased, with two little girls and a lad named William Heath, went to a colliery at Hawes Hill, near to his father's residence, and there they remained a considerable time playing about the boiler. Deceased was sitting or lying upon a portion of the boiler, and there was a large stone of about 30 pounds weight upon it. This stone, it is said, was pushed over by the lad Harvey, and it fell on to deceased's arm and side, and caused him to become insensible for a few minutes. He was afterwards assisted home by the two girls, and in the course of the afternoon he complained of being ill. The next day a surgeon was sent for, and all possible aid was rendered, but he gradually sank until Saturday last, when he died. It would appear that the boy Harvey had been taunted by his companions about the matter, and that he was told he would have to go to prison for what he had done. The lad, however, denied having pushed the stone over, and said he was ignorant of having done anything to injure the deceased. At the inquest the jury returned a verdict of Homicide by Misadventure.”

Stourbridge Observer 6/1/1866

“Eleanor Knight, aged three years, the daughter of Mr. Knight, painter, of Rowley, has met with a very frightful death. On Saturday last about 3 o'clock in the absence of her parents she drunk of the boiling water of the kettle. After suffering very fearfully until 9 o'clock on Sunday night, she died. On Wednesday, an inquest was held at the WARD ARMS, before E. Hooper, Esq, when a verdict of Accidental Death was returned. The coroner, however, took an opportunity to reprimand the father for not having a medical man to attend his daughter before 10 o'clock on Sunday morning; also for not having a guard before the fire, he having five more children; and ordered that a guard be procured against this day (Wednesday) week; Police-constable Davies to see that it was done, and if not to report the same to the coroner, that the father be summoned and the inquest reopened.”

Stourbridge Observer 31/3/1866

“On Tuesday an inquest was held at the WARD ARMS, the house of Mrs. H. Stainton, Rowley, before R. Hooper, Esq, Coroner, on the body of Joseph Hill, a miner, aged 48 years, who was killed by a fall of coal (15 tons) at the Gawn Colliery belonging to Mr. W. Mills, about half past two o'clock in the afternoon of Saturday. The injuries which caused death were on the head and body. A verdict of Accidental Death was returned.”

Staffordshire Advertiser 31/3/1866 - Advert

“County of Stafford. Weights and Measures. District C, or South Staffordshire. Notice is hereby given, the William Tullett, the Inspector of Weights and Measures for District C, or South Staffordshire Will attend at the under-mentioned times and places for the purpose of comparing all such Weights and Measures as shall be brought to him for that purpose, and stamping such of them as shall be found correct..... WARD ARMS INN, at Rowley Regis, on Thursdays, April 12th, May 10th, and June 7th, 1866, at ten o'clock am..... All persons in the said district, desirous of having their Weights and Measures stamped may bring or send them to any of the above places for adjustment as shall be most convenient; or to the NEW MARKET INN, St. Peter's Walk, Wolverhampton, on Wednesday or Saturday in every week. Persons within any local jurisdiction, for which a separate Inspector is appointed, cannot have their Weights and Measures examined or stamped by the Count Inspector.

William Tullett, Inspector of Weights and Measures for the said District, Wolverhampton, March 28th, 1866.”

Stourbridge Observer 1/2/1868

“At the Petty Sessions, held on Wednesday last, Daniel Troman, secretary to the Union Society, held at the WARD ARMS, was summoned to answer a charge of not paying to Ann Perry £7 10s, as the widow of Richard Perry, a former member of the club. Mr. Addison appeared for the defendant.

John Moseley produced a deed, in which the deceased had nominated his mother to receive his burial money. This had been carried out. Upon the rules being handed in, it appeared that on the death of any married member his wife should receive 1s 6d per member. Mr. Addison contended that the burial money was the 1s 6d collected from the members to pay over to deceased's mother.

The Bench contended that there were two distinct payments mentioned, although this was not, perhaps, what the club intended. Defendant was ordered to pay over £7 8s 6d, the subscription of 99 members.”

Dudley Herald 8/2/1868

“.....stack on the house of Mrs. Stainton, the WARD ARMS, Rowley Village blown down, and broke through the roof, causing a considerable amount of damage being done in the interior of the house.”

Wolverhampton Chronicle 8/4/1868 - Advert

“County of Stafford. Weights and Measures. District C, or South Staffordshire.

I hereby give notice that I shall attend at the undermentioned times and places for the purpose of Comparing and Examining all such Weights and Measures as shall be brought to me for that purpose, and stamping such of them as shall be found correct. WARD ARMS, at Rowley Regis, on Thursdays, April 16th, and June 11th, 1868, at Ten o'clock am.

All Persons residing in the said District desirous of having their Weights and Measures stamped, should bring or send them to any of the above places for adjustment, as shall be most convenient; or to my Residence, at Goldthorn Hill, near Wolverhampton, on Wednesdays or Saturdays.

Persons within any local jurisdiction, for which a separate Inspector is appointed, cannot have their Weights and Measures Examined or Stamped by the County Inspector.

J. George Horder. Inspector of Weights and Measures for the said District.

Brueton Villa, Goldthorn Hill, Wolverhampton. April 1, 1868.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 17/9/1868

“Mr. George Browne, the Revising Barrister appointed for Rowley Regis division, held his first Court on the circuit at the WARD ARMS, Rowley Regis, on Tuesday. Mr. Fernie, registration agent, and Mr. Rowland Price, solicitor, Stourbridge, attended on behalf of the Conservatives; the Liberals being represented by Mr. Fowler, solicitor, Wolverhampton, and Mr. Owen, solicitor, Dudley. Ninety-seven names were expunged from the list of last year, and 56 were put on as freeholders and 59 as occupiers, making an addition of 18 to the 661 voters already on the list.”

Stourbridge Observer 31/10/1868

“On Monday, Mr. E. Hooper, held an inquest at the WARD ARMS, respecting the death of Mr. Adam Latham (42), a butty collier, in the employ of Messrs. North and Wright, coalmasters, of that place.

Mr. North was present at the inquest, on behalf of the colliery, to render any assistance to the Coroner or Jury.

A collier named Brian stated that he was in company with the deceased on the morning of the accident, and Mr. Latham was engaged in examining the pit. Suddenly a large fall of coal occurred, and the deceased was buried beneath the debris. At least fifteen tons of coal fell. He had not been ordered to work in the place of Mr. Latham, and refused to do so. In his opinion the place was quite safe to work in.

Another miner, named Whitehall, stated that he was but five yards from the deceased when the fall took place. The pit was regularly examined, and there was plenty of timber for the asking. He (witness) had lifted a large quantity of coal and stone from the body of the deceased.

By the Jury: The coal was holed on the previous evening.

Elizabeth Cole stated that the deceased died about one o'clock on the same day as he received his injuries. He had three of his ribs broken on one side, and one on the other. The thigh of one leg was broken, and the ankle of the other.

Drs. Mainwaring and Phillips attended the deceased, but there was no hope of his recovery.

The Coroner wished to know whether the Jury desired to have the inquest adjourned, for the attendance of the Government Inspector. Several of the Jury paid a high tribute to the memory of the deceased, and informed the Coroner that such a course was unnecessary.

A verdict of Accidental Death was then returned.”

County Express 9/1/1869

“There has lately been a sort of Popish plot to overthrow the existing rule in Reddal Hill, and the old dynasty has been driven to adopt a more modern constitution; but like the Austrian government it will insist on the autonomy of the whole of Rowley Regis, and refuses a separate constitution to the inhabitants of Reddal Hill. The people however have been thought worthy and important enough to be incorporated with the Borough of Dudley; for Parliamentary purposes and they are resolved on Local Government, and defiantly assert their right to rule themselves. They have petitioned the Home Secretary who has ordered a Commissioner, Major Rawlinson, CB, to investigate their complaints. He will sit at the WARD ARMS, Rowley, on Wednesday, the 20th of January, at one o'clock, and we shall lay before the public the evidence adduced, and the arguments by which the present state of things is supported. The Commissioner will no doubt use his eyes and nose, as well as his ears."

[This was about the ratepayers and property owners of Rowley Regis parish adopting the Local Government Act of 1858, and the residents of Reddall Hill wanted to be excluded.]

Birmingham Daily Gazette 7/5/1869 - Advert

"By Parkes and Walker, at the WARD ARMS INN, Rowley Regis, on Monday Next, at 6pm.
Freehold Old-Licensed House, the RING OF BELLS, and Dwelling Houses, situated at Rowley Regis."

Birmingham Daily Gazette 24/3/1871 - Advert

"By Mr. Bateman, at the WARD ARMS INN, Rowley, on Monday Next, at Six pm.
Freehold Building Land, part of the Rowley Hall Estate, in the parish of Rowley Regis."

1871 Census

Rowley Village – WARD ARMS

- [1] Honor Stainton (68), widow, licensed victualler, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Sarah Stainton (30), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] Mary Beddows (17), domestic servant, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] William H. A. Sargent (41), visitor, warehouse clerk, born Cudbury, Gloucestershire;
- [5] Elizabeth Sargent (43), visitor, born Birmingham;
- [6] Joseph E. Sargent (7), visitor, scholar, born Smethwick;
- [7] Sarah B. Sargent (4), visitor, scholar, born Birmingham:

Honor Stainton – see also RING OF BELLS.

County Advertiser 15/3/1873

"Ellen Barker was charged with refusing to quit the WARD ARMS INN, Rowley, on the 8th inst. Mr. Addison prosecuted. Mr. Stokes, landlord, said the defendant came into his house on the above date, in company with a man she lived with, and a man named Slade. His attention was called to a disturbance the defendant was creating in the tap-room. Saw the defendant strike the man Slade. He requested her to leave the house, but she refused. He then sent for a police officer. The defendant was fined 2s 6d and costs, or in default 14 days."

Dudley Guardian 10/10/1874

"Mr. R. Sawyer, revising barrister, held a court, on Monday, at the WARD ARMS INN, Rowley, for the division of Reddall Hill and Rowley. Mr. Simkiss (of Wolverhampton) appeared for the Liberals, and Mr. Fernie (of Stafford) appeared in behalf of the Conservatives. The objections for the two divisions numbered 16 – namely, 13 for Reddall Hill and 3 for Rowley. The 3 for Rowley were sustained, and out of the 13 for Reddall Hill, 6 were sustained. The claims numbered 57: for Reddall Hill, 35; and for Rowley 22. These were all sustained.

Mr. Fernie objected to Mr. Green, on the ground that the property belonged to someone else. Mr. Green said he had held the property for several years, and had always paid the rates and taxes since October, 1869. Mr. Fernie said he had been informed that the property was owned by another party; but that must have been a mistake. Mr. Sawyer remarked that he thought Mr. Green was entitled to his vote, and should allow it. Mr. Green applied for costs for loss of time, &c, but they were disallowed.

Mr. Fernie also objected to Mr. Thos. London, on the ground that he had gone to America. Mr. Simkiss was also of opinion that Mr. Johnson had gone abroad; but as that gentleman (Mr. Johnson) put in an appearance at the court, and explained that it was a Daniel Johnson that had emigrated, Mr. Sawyer said he should allow him to be placed as a voter."

Dudley Guardian 13/2/1875 - Advert

"Endowed Schools, Rowley Regis.

An Evening Concert (Under Distinguished Patronage) will be given in the above Schools, on Tuesday Evening, Feb 16th, 1875, under the direction of Mr. R. Lansmere, Organist and Choirmaster of St. John's Church, Dudley; late of the St. James's, St. George's, and Exeter Hall, and principal London Concerts.

The proceeds will be devoted to the Fund now being raised for the Widows and Orphans of the Sufferers in the late Accident at the Titford Long Meadow Colliery.

Reserved Seats, 2s; Unreserved Seats, 1s. Tickets may be obtained of Mr. W. Hackett, GEORGE AND DRAGON INN, Blackheath; Mr. Enoch Hadley, High Street, Blackheath; Mr. Robinson, Whiteheath Gate; Mr. Abraham Grayer, WHITE HORSE INN, Oldbury; Mr. Jos. Plant, near the Cross, Old Hill; Mr. William Blakeway, Oldbury Road, Blackheath; and Mr. Jos. Stokes, WARD ARMS HOTEL, Rowley."

County Express 22/5/1875 - Advert

"Rowley Regis Bowling Club.

WARD ARMS INN, Rowley Regis.

Mr. Joseph Stokes begs to inform the Members that the Bowling Green is now open for the Season."

County Express 14/8/1875

“John Johnson was charged with being drunk and disorderly in the WARD ARMS INN, Rowley, and also with refusing to quit, on the 4th inst. There was another charge against defendant for assaulting Joseph Stokes, landlord of the public house in question. Prosecutor said that on the day in question defendant came to his house and was very disorderly, and on requesting him to leave, he knocked him down. He was fined 10s and costs, or twenty-one days for the assault, and 5s and costs, or fourteen days for refusing to quit.”

County Express 26/2/1876 - Advert

“Ancient Order of Foresters.

The Committee of Court No.6022 beg to announce that they have made arrangements for a Grand Evening Concert to take place at the National School Room, Rowley Regis, on Wednesday, March 1st, 1876. For the Benefit of the Funds of the above Court.

Vocalists: Miss Weston, Mr. J. Hargreaves, Mr. Roberts, Miss Hampton, Mr. Macmillan, Mr. P. W. Pardoe.

The Cradley Heath Glee Union.

Solo Pianoforte, Mr. H. M. Jackson; Accompanyist, Mr. S. Partridge.

Tickets may be had of Mr. Allen, Rowley Schools; Mr. J. Stokes, WARD ARMS INN, Rowley; Mr. John Tranter, ROYAL OAK INN, Springfield, Rowley; or any of the Secretaries of the Courts in the neighbourhood.

Admission, Reserved Seats, 2s each; Unreserved, 1s each.

Doors open at 7.30, to commence at 8pm.”

County Advertiser 25/3/1876 - Deaths

“On the 19th inst, aged 48 years, Joseph Stokes, of the WARD ARMS INN, Rowley Regis; deeply lamented.”

County Advertiser 29/4/1876

“At Wednesday’s Police Court, the following transfers took place.....

WARD ARMS, Rowley, from J. Stokes to his widow.”

County Advertiser 6/1/1877

“Mrs. Hannah Stokes, licensed victualler, the proprietor of the WARD ARMS INN, Rowley, was charged with unlawfully harbouring a police-constable in her house, and supplying him with ale while on duty. Mr. Addison was for the prosecution, on behalf of the police authorities, and Mr. Shakespeare (Oldbury) for the defence.

The first witness called was Joseph Hackett, who said that on the 12th of December he was at the house of the defendant. Police-constable Hubbard (the officer mentioned in the charge) came in at about seven o’clock pm, in company with a female. After having a glass or two of ale he began insulting a Mr. Walker, who was in the house. Before supplying him with any ale, defendant asked him if he was on duty; and he said he was not; he should not go on duty until ten o’clock. He stayed in the house half or three parts of an hour, and became so disorderly that defendant asked him to go, but he refused. He (Hubbard) was not exactly drunk, but witness could not say he was sober.

Cross-examined: He was covered up in a cloak. Mrs. Stokes said to him, ‘Are you on duty?’ and he replied ‘No;’ and asked for some gin. She again asked him, and he then began to be abusive, and said he should summon her.

Charles Hubbard said he was a police constable, and was on duty at Rowley on the night of the 12th ult. He went into defendant’s house and had two glasses of ale supplied to him by her. He had his uniform and armet on at the time, also a cloak, but that was thrown back, and his arms could be seen. He was still in the force. He went to the house about eight o’clock, a girl named Sarah Priest, who lived at Brierley Hill, being with him. Mrs. Stokes asked him if he was on duty, but he did not reply that he should not be on duty until ten o’clock. He was on duty until nine o’clock, and between that time and eleven o’clock he was not on duty. He knew that he was doing wrong by staying in defendant’s house, that he was breaking the rules of the force, and getting Mrs. Stokes into trouble. He did not go there for the express purpose of getting her into trouble.

Sergeant Hand said that Hubbard was on duty on the 12th ult, from five until nine o’clock pm.

This was the case against the defendant.

For the defence, Mr. Shakespeare argued that his client did not harbour the policeman in her house, ‘knowing’ him to be on duty. On the contrary, she used all precaution she could to ascertain whether he was or not, before supplying him with anything. This was proved by Mr. Hackett, the witness for the prosecution, and he could only call witnesses to support his (Hackett’s) statement. Col. Fletcher told Mr. Shakespeare he need not trouble himself to call any witnesses, as he and Mr. Hingley were quite satisfied already.

Mr. Shakespeare proceeded to comment on the evidence of Hubbard, saying he had proved himself to be utterly unfit to be in the police force of the country as the greatest scoundrel that ever existed.

Afterwards the Magistrates said that the only question in the case was whether Mrs. Stokes had ‘knowingly’ committed the offence of harbouring the policeman while on duty, and they were quite satisfied that she had used all precautions to keep within the law. They therefore dismissed the case.”

County Advertiser 21/7/1877

“Hannah Stokes, landlady of the WARD ARMS INN, near the church, Rowley, was charged by the police with unlawfully having permitted drunkenness and other disorderly conduct in her house. Mr. Addison appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. Shakespeare (of Oldbury) for the defence.

The first witness called in support of the charge was John Redfern, who deposed that he went with three companions to the WARD ARMS INN on Saturday, the 17th June, at about two o’clock in the afternoon. One of the men who went with him was named John Moreton, who hanged himself in his own house on the same night. In the time they stayed at the public house they had between them five quarts of ale, but they did not drink all this themselves. There were other persons who came into the house and whom they asked to drink with them. The witness denied that the deceased man Morton was drunk when he left the house. Other witnesses were called, one of them the wife of the man Morton, asserting that her husband was quite drunk when he came to his house after leaving the WARD ARMS, and that he fell down in entering the house. In cross-examination by Mr. Shakespeare she admitted that he walked upstairs to his bedroom without assistance. The other witness, a woman who was subpoenaed, denied that Morgan, whom she saw when she had left the defendant's house, was drunk.

Mr. Shakespeare submitted for the defence that the prosecution had utterly failed to prove the charge of drunkenness, or of the defendant having any knowledge of it if it existed. The house had been conducted respectably and without a conviction being obtained for thirty years, during five of which the license had been held by Mrs. Stokes, the present defendant. She had never been convicted and only once summoned, and then the charge wholly broke down so that the magistrates dismissed the case without calling upon her for her evidence. He thought he should be able to show their worships that in the present case also she was entitled to a similar decision. Mr. Shakespeare went on to argue that the evidence adduced by the prosecution itself had shown the defendant to be quite free from blame. It was not likely that the five quarts of ale which the four men had during their stay in the house, and which they shared with others of their acquaintances, could have made them drunk. He contended that the death of the man Morton was not to be ascribed to his having been driven mad by drink, and that the fact of his having been able to walk upstairs without help tended to show he was not drunk. Any peculiarity that was noticeable in his conduct was more likely to be caused by the influence, whatever it was, which had led him to commit suicide.

The magistrates considered it would be unnecessary for any evidence in defence to be called, as they thought there was no case against the defendant, and therefore dismissed the summons."

Dudley Herald 8/2/1879

"The Distress in the District.....

Yesterday week the local relief committee distributed 140 gallons of soup at the WARD ARMS INN, to about 300 poor people residing in Rowley village. A meeting of the committee was held the same night at the house mentioned, when it was decided to give bread away with the soup in future in consequence of the severity of the weather and the increase of poverty and distress in the place. The long-continued frost is again seriously interfering with all out-door employment, and the canals are so blocked with ice as to render traffic almost impossible. At the present time very little coal is being raised in this district for manufacturing purposes, in consequence of the great difficulty experienced in conveying it along the canals, and if the frost continues much longer the whole of the pits in the neighbourhood of Rowley and Old Hill will be stopped."

Dudley Herald 3/1/1880

"Messrs. Benjamin Hingley and Co, coal and ironmasters, of Old Hill and Netherton, entertained the miners of the Blue Bell Pits, Old Hill, on Christmas Eve, to dinner, at Mrs. Stokes's WARD ARMS INN, Rowley. The tables were well laden with roast and boiled beef and vegetables of first-class quality, to which full justice was done. On the cloth being removed Mr. B. Bennett was voted to the chair, and, on rising, he proposed 'Success to the iron and coal trades of Great Britain, and likewise to the promoters of the feast.' The toast was most enthusiastically received. The evening was spent most pleasantly, songs and recitations being given with credit by many of those present. Votes of thanks were proposed to Messrs. Hingley for their kindness in providing such a feast, and also to the hostess for the admirable manner in which she had catered."

County Express 16/10/1880

"Mr. F. A. Bosanquet, revising barrister, held a Court on Saturday, at the WARD ARMS INN, Rowley, for the purpose of revising the Parliamentary lists of voters for the Rowley division of West Staffordshire and the borough of Dudley. Mr. G. R. Thorne, solicitor, Wolverhampton, appeared on behalf of the Liberals, and Mr. E. Fernie, Stafford, represented the Conservatives. The proceedings were simply formal. There were 80 new claims by persons in Rowley parish not within the borough of Dudley, and 62 new claims for the Reddal Hill district being within the borough. There were 27 party objections to persons claiming in respect of properties within the borough, and 6 in the Rowley division outside the borough."

1881 Census

1, Hawes Lane – WARD ARMS

[1] Hannah Stokes (42), widow, licensed victualler, born West Bromwich;

[2] Sarah Taylor (24), daughter, married, born Dudley;

[3] Mary Cooper (20), general servant, born Oldbury:

County Advertiser 20/8/1881

"The monthly meeting of the Rowley Regis Local Board was held on Monday last.....

Mr. Beasley (medical officer) reported He had received frequent complaints during the month of the scarcity of water in Rowley village, in consequence of which he had made a house to house inspection, and found that there was good ground for the complaints. The only premises supplied with water at the present time between the Wesleyan Chapel at Hawes Lane and the Church, was the WARD ARMS INN, and that but scantily. The other part of the village was not much better off, not more than one house in ten having any water, and very few indeed having a good supply. Many of the houses had wells, but the general complaint was that these were empty during eight or nine months in every year. The great difficulty to contend with in this instance was that the Water Works Company had not any mains laid in the neighbourhood, and even if they had they would be unable to supply water without erecting a pumping engine for that purpose....."

County Express 1/7/1882

“An inquest was held at the WARD ARMS, Rowley, yesterday, on the body of James Walker, miner, who was killed by the fall of a quantity of coal at the Rowley Hall Colliery, on Tuesday last. A verdict of Accidental Death was returned.”

County Advertiser 1/9/1883 - Advert

“WARD ARMS INN, Rowley. Sale of Household Furniture and Effects, removed for convenience of Sale from No.54, Hawes Lane, Rowley, to the house of Mrs. Stokes, WARD ARMS INN.....”

Birmingham Daily Post 10/2/1885

“An inquest was held yesterday, at the WARD ARMS, Rowley, before Mr. E. Hooper (coroner), respecting the death of William Adams (64), formerly residing at 20, Church Road, who died suddenly on the 7th instant. The evidence was to the effect that, after taking a bag of nails down to the village, he came back and sat upon a bench before the fire. He had not been seated many minutes before he fell upon his face, and expired almost instantly. A verdict of Death from Natural Causes was returned.”

Smethwick Telephone 26/11/1887

“.....a special meeting held at Court Foresters’ Pride (No.5305) was held at the WARD ARMS INN for the purpose of presenting to Bro. J. E. White a splendidly framed emblem of the Order for valuable services he has rendered during his term of office.”

County Advertiser 5/10/1889

“On Monday Mr. P. H. Smith (barrister) held a court at the WARD ARMS INN, Rowley, for the purpose of revising the list of voters in the polling districts of Blackheath, Tividale, Reddal Hill, and Rowley Regis, within the Kingswinford division. Messrs. J. Adams and B. Hadley represented the Liberals, Mr. Holberton the Conservatives; and Messrs. Williams, Darby, and Whitehouse appeared for the overseers. The following were the party returns: Conservative new claims sustained, 20, failed, 3; Liberal new claims sustained, 17. The last-named party also sustained 10 objections and withdrew 10.”

County Express 8/10/1890

“Mr. E. Hooper (coroner) held an inquest at the WARD ARMS INN, Tuesday, respecting the death of William Hackett (22), Hawes Lane, who was found dead in bed on the 2nd inst. The evidence showed that on Saturday the deceased was drinking at various public houses with a young man named John Parkes; but the latter did not consider he was drunk when he left the KINGS ARMS INN, where they each had four glasses of whisky, having previously had whisky and beer at other inns. Parkes, however, admitted to the coroner that he could not walk upstairs. When he left at closing time he fell in the street, and was carried home and put to bed, being found the next morning dead. The jury returned a verdict of Death from Suffocation caused by Excessive Drinking. The Coroner said he found the evidence of Parkes anything but satisfactory, and he would disallow his expenses. He also called the attention of Superintendent Woollaston, who was present, to the case, and expressed a hope that he would make enquiries and take action with regard to the supply of drink to the deceased.”

[For further on this case see under KINGS ARMS.]

1891 Census

1, Hawes Lane – WARD ARMS INN

- [1] Hannah Stokes (52), widow, licensed victualler, born West Bromwich;
- [2] Samuel Stokes (28), son, draper’s assistant, born Darlaston;
- [3] Mary Hunt (48), widow, visitor, living on her own means, born West Bromwich;
- [4] S. B. A. Hunt (5), nephew, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Alice Miller (26), domestic servant, born Brierley Hill:

Birmingham Daily Post 3/6/1891

“Last night a conference of employers and representatives of the operatives connected with the local rivet trade was held at the WARD ARMS HOTEL, Rowley, with reference to the wages question. A discussion took place with regard to the notice given by the masters for a reduction of 10 per cent, and which expires on Saturday, and it was explained that although the trade has for some time been exceptionally good there has been a great falling off of orders lately, and the immediate prospects are not of a very rosy character.

Mr. I. Cashmore, who represented the operatives, was not in a position to say what course the men were prepared to take. The operatives’ section suggested that the notice should be withdrawn, and that in the meantime steps should be taken to secure a uniform list, but the employers could not see their way to make the concession.

It was ultimately agreed to adjourn the conference for a week, in order that a meeting of the operatives might be held to take their decision on the question in dispute.”

County Express 29/8/1891

“The annual licensing sessions for the Rowley Regis division of Staffordshire were held at the Police Court, Old Hill, on Wednesday.....

Mr. Woodbridge, owner of the WARD ARMS, applied for the renewal of his license. Inspector Bishop said the late tenant under Mr. Woodbridge was fined 40s and costs for permitting drunkenness. When the conviction took place the owner, Mr. Woodbridge came forward and had the license transferred to himself. They understood that Mr. Woodbridge, the owner, had applied for the license, and they renewed this license.”

Birmingham Daily Post 17/10/1893

“Yesterday, Mr. E. Hooper (coroner) held an inquest at the WARD ARMS INN, Rowley, respecting the death of William Leonard Henze (9). Mr. Cooksey appeared for the parents, and Mr. J. Wright James represented the lad Davis, who, it was alleged, caused the injuries.

After the jurymen had been sworn, one of them asked the coroner if they were forced to see the body, considering the state it was in. The Coroner said they were compelled to view the body.

The Coroner said the deceased, after being ill for a few days, died. He was attended by Dr. Beasley, who gave a certificate of the death, and the body was buried. After the deceased had been buried it came to his knowledge that the deceased had received some injuries at the hands of another lad some few days prior to his death. He, using his discretion, issued a warrant for the body to be exhumed, which had been complied with. He wished it to be understood that the body was exhumed on his own authority, without any application being made to the Home Office. There was some delay in exhuming the body in consequence of the vicar thinking he ought to have received the order from the Home Secretary.

Dr. de Denne said he had made a post mortem examination of the body of deceased, in conjunction with Dr. Saltham, of Hales Owen. He could not trace any bruises on any part of the body externally. There was a considerable amount of congestion on the abdomen. The cause of death was peritonitis or inflammation of the bowels, which might have been caused by a pressure on the abdomen. He could not tell how the injuries were caused.

The Vicar of Rowley (the Rev. M. N. Kearney) said he was rather doubtful at first if he was at liberty to have the body exhumed under the coroner’s warrant.

The Coroner said the delay caused in exhuming the body might have caused a miscarriage of justice.

The Vicar said he had studied the law, and he was under the impression that the order of exhumation should have come from the Home Office. He did not prevent the exhumation.

The Coroner said he hoped the vicar would be more careful in the future.

The boy James Davis gave evidence, and said he only pushed deceased on to the kerbstone.

The jury returned a verdict of Death by Misadventure, but did not consider anyone was to blame.”

St. Giles, Rowley - Parish Register - Baptisms

31st March 1898 - Georgina Victoria Gould, daughter of Thomas Gould and Priscilla Taylor, publican, Hawes Lane.

20th May 1900 - Ethel, daughter of Thomas Gould and Priscilla Taylor, publican, Rowley Village.

County Advertiser 24/9/1898

“On Sunday afternoon the annual friendly societies’ Sunday service, on behalf of the hospitals, was held in a field at the back of Mountford House, Siviters Lane, Rowley, kindly lent for the occasion by Dr. J. G. Beasley. The members of various societies met at their headquarters, and were formed into a procession as below. The Blackheath Village Band started from the WHEAT SHEAF INN, Turners Hill at one o’clock, with the Church of England Friendly Society, and proceeded through Portway and Perys Lake, calling at the BULLS HEAD INN for the Sick Club, at the WARD ARMS INN for Court Foresters’ Pride, at the KINGS ARMS INN for Lodge Working Man’s Friend. It then proceeded by way of Ross, Holly Road, Tump Road, and John Street, to the GEORGE AND DRAGON Ground. The Woodgate Brass Band had in the meantime covered its route from the OLD BUSH INN, Powke Lane, with Court Little Band of Hope, calling at the MALT SHOVEL INN for Lodge Lily of the Valley, the VINE INN for Court Mistletoe Bough, proceeding along Station Road to the RAILWAY INN for Court Britannia’s Pride, thence through Halesowen Street, Tump Road, and Hackett Street, meeting the other Courts at the GEORGE AND DRAGON Ground. A united procession was then formed, and marched to Siviters Lane, reaching the ground at three o’clock. The proceedings opened with the hymn ‘All people that on earth do dwell,’ after which the Chairman (Mr. E. Pewtress, CC) delivered a short address.

The Rev. C. W. Barnard, MA, Rector of Kings Norton, then addressed the meeting, after which the hymn ‘Lead, kindly light,’ was sung. Addresses were also delivered by the Revs. W. Hall and N. Haigh, of Blackheath.

At the close a collection was taken on behalf of the Dudley Dispensary and Birmingham Eye Hospital. It amounted to £11 9s 5d.”

Dudley Herald 8/10/1898

“Mr. P. Howard (Revising Barrister) attended the WARD ARMS HOTEL, on Wednesday morning, to revise the list of voters for the polling districts of Rowley Regis, Blackheath, and Reddall Hill, in the Kingswinford Division. Mr. Williams, assistant overseer, presented the list of voters, and it was only found necessary to make a few corrections, the business being transacted being of a formal character. There were only a few party claims.”

Dudley Herald 22/10/1898

“Edward Palmer, Hawes Lane, Rowley, was charged with being drunk and disorderly on the 10th inst.

PC Reynolds said he saw the defendant in the YARD [sic] ARMS INN, Rowley. The landlord refused him drink, and he was ordered out, but refused to go. Witness then ordered him out, and he went outside and used bad language. He was very drunk. Fined 15s.”

County Advertiser 9/12/1899 - Advert

“Hawes Lane, Rowley Regis, Staffs.

To Hay Dealers, Horse Keepers, and Others.

E. H. Boilstone has received instructions to Sell by Auction, on Tuesday Next, December 12th, about 40 Tons of Old and New Hay, on Land adjoining the Brick House Quarry. The Hay is of Splendid Quality, Well Gotten, and full of Herbage; also a Capital Pony, 12½ Hands, 7 years old, Quiet and Good Worker.

Sale to Commence at Twelve o'clock.

For Particulars apply to the Auctioneer, Old Hill; or to Mr. T. Taylor, WARD ARMS INN, Rowley Regis.”

Thomas Gould Taylor had a sign in a front window asking his customers to ‘Commit No Nuisance.’

1901 Census

1, Hawes Lane – WARD ARMS INN

[1] Thomas G. Taylor (37), publican, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Priscilla Taylor (36), wife, born Rowley Regis;

[3] Georgina Taylor (3), daughter, born Rowley Regis;

[4] Susannah Southwick (18), niece, born Rowley Regis:

County Advertiser 24/1/1903

“Mr. H. Jeffries applied for a temporary transfer of the WARD ARMS INN, Rowley, from Priscilla Taylor to Walter William Simms. He explained that the certificate of character had been filed with the police, but under the new Licensing Act, seven days’ clear notice had to be given, which had not been done in this case. What he wished to point out was that at the end of Section 15 of the Act there was a clause which stated that in urgent cases applications could be granted where the Bench considered reasonable notice had been given. This he submitted was a case of urgency, the present owner having removed to another public house. The notice had been handed in the previous Thursday.

Mr. Cooksey (magistrates’ clerk) said he should have to advise the Bench that the present application was not a case of urgency. The Bench adjourned the matter for a week.

Superintendent Spendlove said he would accept the notice already given towards the proper notice as required by the new Act.”

County Advertiser 31/1/1903

“Mr. H. Jeffries made an application under the New Licensing Act for the temporary transfer of the license of the WARD ARMS INN, Rowley, from Priscilla Taylor to Walter William Slimm. He explained that the applicant had kept a public house at Smethwick for over thirteen years. Applicant gave evidence upon oath, and in reply to questions from Superintendent Spendlove he admitted that he was convicted for being drunk and disorderly about two years ago. He had also been summoned for permitting drunkenness and selling to a drunken person, but was not convicted. He further stated that his brother was living with him ‘for the purpose of learning him a trick or two.’ His brother had been convicted at West Bromwich and fined £10 and costs for allowing dog fighting on his licensed premises.

In reply to Mr. Jeffries witness, who lived with him, said his brother and the woman were leaving at the end of the week. He would give an undertaking that they should not reside upon the premises.

The Bench refused the transfer.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 2/10/1903

“Yesterday Mr. P. Howard Smith (Revising Barrister) attended at the WARD ARMS HOTEL, Rowley Regis, to revise Parliamentary lists of voters.....”

St. Giles, Rowley - Parish Register - Baptisms

26th August 1903 - Joseph Francis William (b. 3/8/1903), son of Joseph and Frances Withnall, licensed victualler, Hawes Lane.

County Advertiser 3/10/1903

“Joseph Pardoe, labourer, Perrys Lake, Rowley, was charged with being drunk and disorderly on the 19th ult, and also with refusing to quit the licensed premises of the WARD ARMS INN, Rowley, kept by Joseph Withnall, on the 19th ult. Police-constable Reynolds proved the first offence, and it was stated that on the night in question defendant visited the public house in a drunken condition. The landlord refused to serve him, and ordered him to leave the premises. He declined to go, and had to be ejected. The Bench fined defendant 20s including costs.”

County Advertiser 2/7/1904

“On Saturday afternoon the first annual cycle parade and sports, promoted by the friendly societies in the Rowley Regis and Blackheath districts, on behalf of the Dudley Guest Hospital, Dudley Dispensary, and the Birmingham Eye Infirmary, were held. The proceedings commenced with a huge procession. The Blackheath Village Prize Band started from the WARD ARMS INN, Rowley, and called at the various club houses en route, afterwards they marched to Park Street where the general procession was formed. It consisted of tradesmen’s turnouts, decorated cycles, and members of friendly societies in regalia. The procession was headed by a company of horsemen, and marched to the Coombs Wood Works Football Ground at Powke Lane, Blackheath, where the sports were held. About 4,000 spectators assembled on the ground, although the showery weather during the morning somewhat affected the attendance.....”

County Advertiser 30/6/1906

“On Friday se’night Mr. W. L. Lewis (deputy coroner) held an inquest at the WARD ARMS INN, Perrys Lake, Rowley, respecting the death of Hannah Ward [sic] (41), wife of George Ward [sic], landlord of the public house, who committed suicide by hanging herself the same day. The evidence showed that some time ago deceased had a severe shock, and she had since given way to drinking. On the instructions of Dr. Beasley she was sent away for a short time and recently returned. During the week she complained of the heat, and on the morning in question she was found hanging in a stable at the rear of the house by a rope attached to a beam. The jury returned a verdict of Suicide whilst of Unsound Mind.”

County Advertiser 30/6/1906

“Mr. T. W. Clulow supported an application for the transfer of the WARD ARMS INN, Rowley, from George Hill to Luke Bradley, who had obtained the house upon a lease. The application was granted.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 29/9/1906

“At the WARD ARMS HOTEL, Rowley Regis, yesterday, Mr. W. J. Dixon, barrister-at-law, attended and revised the Parliamentary lists of voters for the polling districts of Reddall Hill, Cradley Heath, Old Hill, Tividale, and Rowley. The Unionists made 101 claims and sustained 82, and the Liberals made 16 claims and sustained 14.”

1911 Census

89, Hawes Lane

[1] Thomas Lowe (36), licensed victualler, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Alice Lowe (35), wife, married 13 years, assisting in business, born Causeway Green;

[3] Thomas Hartshorne (11), adopted son, school, born Causeway Green:

County Express 9/3/1912

“The Coroner (Mr. G. C. Lewis) conducted an inquest at the WARD ARMS, Rowley, on Monday, on the three-year-old daughter of Frank Parish, late of the BEEHIVE INN. Evidence of identification was given, and the inquest was adjourned until today, a post-mortem to be held in the meantime.”

County Express 2/11/1912 - Advert

“Notice of Withdrawal of Sales.

Alfred W. Dando & Co. beg to Announce that the Sales by Auction of Freehold Dwelling Houses, in Victoria Street, Wallheath, Near Kingswinford; and at Perrys Lake, Rowley Regis, advertised to take place at the CROSS HOTEL, Kingswinford, and at the WARD ARMS INN, Rowley Regis, on Tuesday & Wednesday Next, the 5th and 6th inst, Have Been Withdrawn.

Solicitors: Messrs. Jobson and Marshall, Dudley.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 18/12/1930

“Pit Disaster Fund. Contributions received yesterday for the Birmingham Gazette and Evening Despatch Fund for the relief of the dependants of the victims of the Grove Pit disaster were.

Mrs. Fenton, customers, WOOD [sic] ARMS, Rowley Regis. 11s 0d”

Harriet Maud Fenton married Edmund H. Jenks in the 2nd quarter of 1933.

1939 Register

89, Hawes Lane

[1] Gertrude Gilbert, date of birth, 14/12/1903, manageress of licensed house, married;

Rowley Juniors FC had their headquarters here, in the back room. [1950s]

A team from here took part in the Rowley Regis Darts League. [1959/60] , [1965/66]

Closed

WATERFALL

132, (133), (128), Waterfall Lane, OLD HILL

OWNERS

Thomas Priest

Grigg and Brettell Ltd. (acquired on 9th May 1936)

Ansells Ltd. [1981]

Robert William Pinner (acquired in 1987) [1998]

Holdens Brewery Ltd. (acquired in October 2004)

LICENSEES

John Williams Tibbetts [1841] – [1851]
William Hughes [] – 1857);
G. Growcot [1858]
Benjamin Baker (1857 – 1861);
Major Baker (1861 – []
John Woodhall [1862]
Jem Gaunt [1860] – 1868);
Joseph Boilstone (1868 – 1883);
Samuel Lowe (1883 – []
Joseph Boilstone [1885]
Thomas Priest [1886] – [1891]
Thomas Priest [1901] – [1909]
Walter Edward Broadbent [] – 1910);
Edward Evans (1910 – [1912]
George Sidaway [1916] – 1929);
William Tromans (1929 – 1931);
John Frank Amos (1931 – 1933);
John Thompson (1933 – 1937);
William Hopson (1937 – 1939);
Frederick Richard Mason (1939 – 1940);
Etta Mason (1940 – 1946);
William Joseph Blackwell (1946 – 1948);
Florence Porter (1948 – 1952);
William Kenneth Parkes (1952 – 1953);
Robert Arthur Kendrick (1953 – 1961);
Harold Hughes (1961 – 1962);
Trevor Powell (1962 – 1967);
Thomas Matthew Yardley (1967 – 1968);
Patricia Winifred Bradley (1968 – 1970);
Joan Iris Portman (1970 – 1975);
Roger Huntley (1975 – 1977);
Maureen Smith (1977 – 1980);
Cynthia Ann Nash (1980 – 1981);
Mrs. Ann Carol Maskell (1981 – 1982);
Catherine Ellen Johnson (1982 – 1983);
Andrew Thompson (1983 – 1984);
Wayne Maxted (1984 – 1985);
Mark Winman (1985 – 1987);
Alan Humber (1987);
Lynne Pinner (1987 – 1991);
Barry William Jukes (1991 – 1992);
Robert 'Bob' Wilfred Pinner (1992 – 1995);
Alan Davis (1995 – 1999);
Marie Ann Smith (1999 – []
Martin Clee [1999]
R J Bowater [2001]
Barbara Woodin (2001 – []
Marie Ann Smith [2007]
Stanley John 'Stan' Gardner [2011] – [2020]
Karl Gardner [2020] manager

NOTES

128, Waterfall Lane [1881], [1891], [1900], [1911]
133, Waterfall Lane [1916], [1921], [1924], [1940]
132, Waterfall Lane [2001]

It was originally the VINE.

1851 Census

Waterfall Lane

- [1] John Tibbetts (31), maltster, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Mary Maria Tibbetts (28), wife, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] John Tibbetts (6 months), son, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Ann Eliza Raybould (12), niece, scholar, born Brockmore;
- [5] Phebe Atwood (5), niece, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] Mary Ann Adams (15), house servant, born Rowley Regis:

John Tibbetts was also a brewer and grocer.

It was renamed OAK.

ROYAL OAK [1862], [1864], [1868]

OAK TREE. [1896], [1908], [1912], [1916], [1921], [1924], [1932], [1940]

Birmingham Journal 13/3/1858 - Advert

“Valuable Freehold Property, situated at Waterfall Lane, Rowley Regis.

To be Sold by Auction, by Mr. T. P. Stokes, at the house of Mrs. Lucy Tibbetts, the CROWN INN, Old Hill, on Tuesday Next, the 16th day of March, at Six o’clock in the evening, subject to conditions to be read at the time of sale, the under-mentioned Freehold Property.

All that newly and substantially erected Public House and Premises, known by the sign of the ROYAL OAK INN, situated in Waterfall Lane, in the parish of Rowley Regis, in the county of Stafford, now in the occupation of Mr. William Hughes.

The above Premises comprise large Tap Room, Parlour, Bar, Kitchen, commodious Club Room, Bed Chambers, Brewhouse, two good Stables, Piggeries, large Yard, &c, and the whole are enclosed with a well-built brick wall.

Investors or parties desirous of embarking in the Public Business will find the above an excellent opportunity. The Property has been erected regardless of expense, and is fitted-up with every convenience necessary for carrying on an extensive trade.

For further particulars, apply to the respective Offices of Mr. Warmington, Solicitor, or the Auctioneer, both of Dudley.”

Birmingham Daily Post 22/3/1858 - Advert

“Sale of the ROYAL OAK, Rowley Regis.

By T. P. Stokes, This Day (Monday), the 22nd of March.

The Licenses, Goodwill, and Possession of the ROYAL OAK, Waterfall Lane, in the parish of Rowley Regis.

The Sale will commence at Eleven o’clock in the Morning.”

Wolverhampton Chronicle 7/7/1858

“William Hughes, late of Willenhall, in the county of Stafford, Butty Miner, previously of the OAK INN, Waterfall Lane, Rowley Regis, in the said county of Stafford, Licensed Victualler and Butty Miner, and during part of the same time being in partnership with Thomas Lister, and carrying on business under the style or firm of Hughes and Lister, as Butty Miners, at the Waterfall Lane Colliery, Rowley Regis aforesaid, previously of the BIRD IN HAND, Cross Street, Willenhall aforesaid, Beerhouse Keeper and Butty Miner, part of the time being a Grocer, Provision and Flour Dealer, and part of the same time being in partnership with William Pritchard, and carrying on business under the style or firm of Hughes and Pritchard, as Butty Miners, at the Eagle Colliery, Rowley Regis aforesaid.

William Overell, 36, Warwick Street, Leamington Priors, and 3, Cherry Street, Birmingham. Insolvents Attorney.”

Aris’s Birmingham Gazette 6/12/1858 - Advert

“OAK INN, Waterfall Lane, in the Parish of Rowley Regis.

Important to Publicans, Brokers, and Others.

To be Sold by Auction, by T. P. Stokes, Tomorrow (Tuesday), the 6th day of December.

A portion of the Household Furniture, sweet iron-bound Casks, Brewing Utensils, capital four-pull Beer Machine, and other effects belonging to Mr. G. Growcot, who is giving up the Public Business, in consequence of his employers requiring him to do so.”

County Advertiser 2/7/1859

“A miner named Joseph Crumpton was charged with an indecent assault on Matilda Baker, the landlady of the ROYAL OAK INN, Waterfall Lane. The complainant’s statement was supported by her son, and the case was considered proved, but from what transpired in evidence the Bench were induced to dispose of the case by inflicting the merely nominal fine of 6d and costs upon the defendant.”

John Williams Tibbetts died on 25th March 1860 and was buried at St. Giles Church, Rowley Regis.

Birmingham Journal 7/4/1860 - Deaths

“On the 13th ult, at Old Hill, Rowley Regis, aged 74 years, Lucy Tibbetts. Also on the 25th ult, at Waterfall Lane, Rowley Regis, aged 41 years, Mr. John Williams Tibbetts.”

[Lucy Tibbetts – CROWN, Old Hill]

Birmingham Journal 21/4/1860 - Advert

“John Williams Tibbetts, Deceased.

All Persons Indebted to the Estate of the late John Williams Tibbetts, of Waterfall Lane, Rowley Regis, Maltster and Grocer, deceased, are requested forthwith to Pay the Amounts of their respective Debts to Mr. Henry Bennett, of Rowley Regis, Grocer, or to Mr. Enoch Wakeman, of Oldbury, Miller, Executors of his Will.

Dated this 18th day of April, 1860.

Bolton and Sanders, Dudley. Solicitors to the said Executors.”

Stourbridge Observer 26/3/1864

“Thomas Millington was charged with assaulting William Silvester, on 19th March, by striking him several times on the brow, at the OAK in Waterfall Lane. He was fined 2s 6d and costs, or in default 21 days imprisonment.”

County Advertiser 5/5/1866

“On Saturday last an inquest was held, by Mr. Hooper, Coroner, at the OAK TREE public house, Waterfall Lane, on the body of a man named Biddesford, aged twenty-two, who was killed by a fall of coal, at Messrs. Swindell and Collis’s colliery, on the previous Tuesday. About fifteen tons fell on the poor fellow. The Jury found a verdict of Accidental Death.”

Jem Gaunt was married to Mary.

County Advertiser 14/5/1870

“Samuel Parry, a young man, was brought up on a charge of committing an assault of an aggravated nature upon Sabra Tromans, his aunt. On the previous evening the prisoner, prosecutrix, and others were drinking in the OAK public house, Waterfall Lane, and a dispute arose. Prisoner first called prosecutrix filthy names, and then set to ‘punch’ her with his fists. The woman was most dreadfully beaten, and her face presented a sickening spectacle. Mr. Barrs said the assault was a most brutal and cowardly one, and it was a great pity that the law did not allow such a scoundrel to be flogged. The prisoner was then fined 20s and costs, or two months in default.”

1871 Census

Waterfall Lane

[1] Joseph Boilstone (28), licensed victualler, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Rosanah Boilstone (21), wife, born Rowley Regis;

[3] Frederick W. Boilstone (1), son, born Rowley Regis;

[4] Sarah A. Bedesford (15), general servant, born Rowley Regis;

[5] Ann E. Bedesford (12), nurse, born Rowley Regis:

St. Giles, Rowley - Parish Register - Baptisms

24th May 1874 - Larry Edward, son of Joseph and Rosannah Boilstone, publican, Waterfall Lane.

County Advertiser 31/3/1877

“Sylvanus Harris, a miner, was charged with being drunk on the licensed premises of Joseph Boilstone, OAK INN, Waterfall Lane, on the 21st November last. He pleaded guilty, but Mr. Hayes, who appeared for the prosecutor, said he was instructed to press the charge, in consequence of the circumstances under which it arose.

Mrs. Boilstone, wife of the landlord of the house, said that on the day named the defendant came in drunk, and demanded some beer. She refused to supply him with any, and he then became very violent, using disgusting language both towards her and in reference to her son, whose dead body was then lying in the house. Defendant absconded after the offence.

There were seven previous convictions against him, and the inquiries of the magistrates showed that he was a very troublesome fellow. He was fined 40s and costs, with the alternative of two months’ imprisonment.”

County Express 2/2/1878

“An inquest was held at the ROYAL OAK INN, Waterfall Lane, on the 20th ult, on the body of Joseph Smith, of The Terrace Blackheath. Deceased whilst employed at the New Level Furnaces, Brierly Hill, on the 16th ult was badly injured by the bursting of a tier, and he died two days afterwards. A verdict of Accident Death was returned.”

County Express 18/1/1879

“Mr. E. Hooper (District Coroner) held an inquest on Saturday afternoon at the OAK INN, Waterfall Lane, touching the death of Benjamin Page, aged 19, wheelwright, who was drowned in the canal. The deceased was skating on the canal near the Tump Colliery, when the ice suddenly gave way and the deceased, with several others, sank into the water. A verdict of Accidental Death was returned.”

1881 Census

128, Waterfall Lane

[1] Joseph Boilstone (38), licensed victualler, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Rosehannah Boilstone (31), wife, born Rowley Regis;

- [3] Frederick Boilstone (11), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Larry Boilstone (6), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Liley Boilstone (3), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] Winnie Boilstone (3 months), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [7] Elizabeth Parkes (20), domestic servant, born Rowley Regis:

Evening Star 9/6/1882

“Yesterday afternoon Edwin Hooper, district coroner, held an adjourned inquest at the OAK INN, Waterfall Lane, Rowley, respecting the death of William Beresford (52), miner, also of Waterfall Lane, who, on the 17th ult, was killed by a fall of coal, at the Tump Colliery.

Deceased was employed cutting out the coal in one of the roads and, coming to a hard piece, obtained some gunpowder to blast it. While he was adjusting the charge, and before he had eased away the props that supported the roof, a sudden ‘bump’ was heard, and a mass of coal weighing between 7 or 8 tons fell upon the deceased, and also Edward Stringer, a horse driver, and another man named George Davis. Immediately after the accident the ‘butty’ had the injured men taken to their homes, and afterwards Davis and Stringer were conveyed to the Dudley Guest Hospital; but Beresford, whose spine was badly injured, died the same evening. Davis’s leg had to be amputated, and he still remains at the Hospital, but Stringer was so far recovered as to be able to attend the inquest. The evidence showed that the place where the fall occurred was well timbered and had been examined only an hour before the accident. After the fall, however, a flaw was visible in the seam. Mr. Scott, deputy inspector of mines, said it was to this flaw together with the ‘bump’ that the accident was due. They could do nothing to prevent those queer noises called ‘bumps,’ which very frequently were the forerunners of falls of coal which would carry away timber and everything else. The jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death.”

County Advertiser 15/8/1885

“To be Sold, Pursuant to an Order of the High Court of Justice, made in an Action, Williams v Griffiths, 1883, No.2856, with the approbation of Mr. Justice Pearson, by Mr. John Green Wright, the person appointed by the said Judge.....

At the OAK INN, Waterfall Lane, Rowley Regis, in the county of Stafford, on Tuesday, the 25th August, 1885 at Six o’clock in the Evening.

All that Old-licensed Public House, known as the OAK INN, situate in Waterfall Lane, Rowley Regis, in the occupation of Mr. Joseph Boilstone, with the Brewhouse, Washhouse, Stable, and large Enclosed Yard, with gateway entrance.....”

Advert

“Thomas Priest, OAK TREE INN, Waterfall Lane, Old Hill.

Fine Home-brewed ales. Wines, Spirits and Cigars of best quality. Caterer for Fetes.”

County Advertiser 25/2/1888 - Advert

“Wanted, a General Servant Girl, about 16 to 20 years of age.

Apply, OAK INN, Waterfall Lane, Old Hill.”

Birmingham Daily Post 21/12/1889

“Yesterday, Mr. F. W. Topham (deputy coroner) held an inquest at the OAK TREE INN, Waterfall Lane, Old Hill, concerning the death of Mary Jane Watts, aged one year and eleven months, who formerly resided with her parents at Waterfall Lane, Old Hill, and who died on the 18th inst from the effects of injuries received on the same day by playing with fire. The jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death.”

1891 Census

128, Waterfall Lane – OAK INN

- [1] Thomas Priest (59), victualler, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Elizabeth Priest (58), wife, born Dudley;
- [3] Thomas Priest (19), son, assistant to father, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Sarah Jones (19), domestic servant, born Rowley Regis:

County Advertiser 19/9/1891

“On Monday evening the officers and members of the Sunflower lodge of the Free Gardeners held their first anniversary at their lodge house, the OAK TREE INN, Waterfall Lane. An excellent dinner was put on the table by the host. Dr. Mitchell having been installed as an hon. member of the lodge, Bro. J. Townsend took the chair and Bro. Prestidge the vice-chair. The usual toasts, interspersed with songs and recitations, were given, and the company spent a very enjoyable evening.”

County Advertiser 2/4/1892

“On Wednesday morning Mr. E. Hooper (coroner) held an inquest at the OAK TREE INN, Waterfall Lane, near the railway station, Old Hill, touching the death of Mildred Whitehouse (16), who had lived with her parents at Waterfall Lane, and who was found hanging by the neck in a brewhouse attached to her father’s premises on Monday evening last.

Alfred Whitehouse, father of the deceased, said he was a groom in the employ of Dr. Standish. Deceased had been living at home for the past five weeks, and before that she had been in service at Mrs. Richards, Beech Lane, Warley. She had, however, left to come home to assist her mother. She was the only one in the family who had good health, and was of a lively disposition. He last saw her alive at breakfast time on the Monday morning, and when he went home to dinner about 3.30 in the afternoon, his wife told him that deceased had not been in the house for an hour. There was a funeral taking place over the road, and witness went to see if deceased was there. She was not there, and witness upon going back home, had occasion to go to the brewhouse. He was horrified to find his daughter hanging, by two stockings and a handkerchief tied round her neck, from a nail in the wall. Her back was against the wall, and her toes just touched the ground. Witness at once fetched a knife and cut deceased down. Dr. Beasley, who happened to be passing, was called in, but he could only pronounce life to be extinct. Witness could assign no reason for the act of the deceased. The brewhouse door was closed.

In reply to the Coroner, witness said deceased was very fond of reading the Birmingham Weekly Mercury, published on Saturday, and in that paper there was an account of a young woman aged nineteen, who committed suicide because as she said, she was tired of her life.

In reply to further questions, witness said his wife heard the sound of a nail being knocked into the brewhouse wall, while deceased was absent. Deceased used to talk about the recent suicide in Pig Lane Pool, and she said she did not know how the girl whose body was found there could do such a thing.

Olivia Whitehouse, mother of deceased, deposed to the latter going into the brewhouse about 2.30 in the afternoon to wash her hands and not returning.

The Coroner said it seemed an extraordinary case to him, and in his mind it was clear that deceased committed the act herself, though it was equally clear that her friends knew of no motive for it.

The jury returned a verdict to the following effect 'That the girl suffocated herself with two stockings, but what state of mind she was in at the time there was no evidence to show.'

The sad affair created a very painful impression in the district, where the deceased's parents are well known and respected, and much sympathy is felt for them."

County Advertiser 26/5/1894

"A rivet maker, Joseph Parsons (49), of Terrace Street, Blackheath, committed suicide on Tuesday. Deceased had been greatly depressed. On Tuesday he was missing, and upon his mother, with whom he lived, making search for him, she found a razor stained with blood. She raised an alarm, and it was ascertained that the deceased had cut his throat and afterwards thrown himself down a well. The body was recovered by Police--constable Jewson and a man named Grove.

Yesterday, Mr. E. Hooper (coroner) held an inquest at the OAK TREE INN, Waterfall Lane.

John Parsons, brother of deceased, identified the body, and he said he last saw him alive on the 14th inst. Deceased did not then appear in his usual spirits, and seemed very much disinclined to enter into any conversation with him. Some time ago witness had a conversation with deceased when he complained of having no work, and he did not know what would become of him when he grew old. Witness pointed out to deceased that he was better situated than most persons, and mentioned cases where men with large families had been thrown out of employment. At that time deceased appeared in a very depressed state. Deceased was connected with money clubs and building societies, to which he had to pay £1 a week, and he had often said he did not know how he should meet the loans. Deceased was also connected with the Foresters' Society. Of late he had been so strange in his manner that witness was afraid he would injure either himself or his mother who lived with him.

Samuel Grove, a neighbour, said he last saw deceased alive on Saturday night about 9.30, at Blackheath National School, where he attended for the purpose of paying his club money. Deceased then appeared to be very strange in his manner. Witness did not hear anything more of deceased until about nine o'clock on Tuesday morning last when he was informed that he was down the well. Witness procured a drag, and after some time succeeded in bringing the dead body of deceased to the surface. He noticed that there was a deep cut on the left side of deceased's neck, and also some blood on the side of the well.

A Juryman explained that deceased had lately met with an accident to his foot, and had asked his employer to give him easier work, but he had refused to comply, and in consequence deceased had been very depressed.

The Coroner said he considered that the fact of deceased not being able to keep his club payments good had preyed upon his mind, and in consequence he had committed suicide. He had no doubt that at the time he committed the act he was in a state of unsound mind.

The Jury returned a verdict to the effect that deceased committed Suicide whilst in a state of Unsound Mind."

County Advertiser 16/6/1894 - Advert

"To Let, Eight-roomed House, with large Window, Chainshop, and good Stable, in Wright's Lane, Old Hill; would suit pawnbroker.

Apply, Thos. Priest, OAK TREE INN, Waterfall Lane, Old Hill."

Birmingham Daily Post 15/8/1894

"An inquest was held yesterday, at the OAK TREE INN, Rowley, before Mr. E. Hooper, coroner, concerning the death of William Ashfield (42), miner, who was killed in Rowley Hall Colliery on the 8th inst. Mr. W. H. Pickering, assistant Government inspector of mines was present, and the proprietors of the colliery were represented by Messrs. A. H. Bassano and I. Meacham (manager). George Rollason, miner, who was at work with the deceased, said, as they wanted some candles, Ashfield climbed over a fence. He begged of deceased not to do so, as he knew he was breaking the law. Witness got under the fence in order to persuade deceased to return, but he refused. A few minutes afterwards Ashfield fired the gas, and the force of the explosion knocked witness backwards, and he was injured. He supposed deceased was suffocated by the after-damp. Both he and deceased were carrying naked lights at the time of the explosion.

Thomas Baker, underground manager, said he knew gas existed in one of the heads, and fences were placed there to indicate to the men that it was dangerous. Both the main entrances to the place where the explosion occurred were fenced off, and both the men were acting illegally in going beyond those fences.

A juror said he thought the two men had committed a grave error in going over the fence when they knew it was dangerous. The jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death, and added an expression of opinion that the deceased and Rollason were to blame for going with naked lights into a place they knew was dangerous, and they did not think Mr. Baker was to blame in the matter. Mr. Meacham, on behalf of the proprietors, expressed deep sympathy with the relatives of the deceased.”

County Advertiser 19/10/1895

“An inquest was held yesterday by Mr. E. Hooper, at the ROYAL OAK INN, Waterfall Lane, concerning the death of Emma Bateman, who died suddenly on Wednesday. Deceased had a quarrel with a woman named Taylor, over some children about 12-40. Deceased became very excited, and at the end of the quarrel returned to her wash tub. In about a minute she fell down, and expired before medical assistance could be obtained. It appeared that she had been suffering from heart disease, and had been attended by Dr. Beasley. The woman who had the quarrel with the deceased, attended the inquest, and expressed her regret about the quarrel, and said she would not have had it happen for a thousand pounds.

The Jury returned a verdict of Death from Natural Causes, accelerated by excitement.”

County Advertiser 22/8/1896

“Free Gardenery. On Monday last the members of the Sunflower Lodge held their fifth anniversary at the lodge house, OAK TREE INN, Waterfall Lane, and there was a large contingent of members from the various lodges in Netherton and Darby End. An excellent and substantial repast was provided by the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Priest.....”

Dudley Herald 13/8/1898 - Advert

“On Tuesday Next. Sale of Desirable Detached Freehold Residence at Blackheath, Rowley Regis, near Dudley. Joh G. Wright & Son (Established 1790) are instructed to offer for Sale by Auction, at the house of Mr. Thomas Priest, OAK TREE INN, Waterfall Lane, Old Hill, near Dudley, on Tuesday, August 16th, 1898, at Six o'clock in the evening for 6.30 precisely.....”

1901 Census

Waterfall Lane – ROYAL OAK INN

- [1] Thomas Priest (29), licensed victualler, born Old Hill;
- [2] Lucy Priest (30), wife, born Halesowen;
- [3] Thomas R. Priest (6), son, born Old Hill;
- [4] Mary E. Priest (5), daughter, born Old Hill;
- [5] Dorris Priest (4), daughter, born Old Hill;
- [6] David V. Priest (2), son, born Old Hill;
- [7] Rose Holland (19), domestic servant, born Blackheath;
- [8] Annie Jones (18), domestic servant, born Blackheath:

County Advertiser 21/9/1901

“On Tuesday evening week the members of the Old Hill Cricket Club sat down to a congratulatory dinner, provided by Mr. T. Priest, of the OAK TREE, Blackheath, for the purpose of celebrating the success of the recent fete and gala. A splendid repast having been done justice to, the members received the financial report of the fetes secretaries, Messrs. H. Pearce and W. Willetts. This showed that a total profit of over £81 had been realised. The report was greeted with hearty cheers and unanimously adopted. It was resolved to forward £3 of the amount to the Old Hill District Nursing Fund, as a slight thank-offering for the splendid manner in which the public had supported the cricket club. Votes of thanks were passed to the secretaries for the able way in which they had performed the secretarial duties in connection with the fetes, and to Mr. W. E. Gilbert, the respected chairman of the Fetes Committee. After the business had been disposed of, a smoking concert was held, and Messrs. F. Yates, F. Wright, G. Cresswell, and C. Edwards contributed songs, which were greatly appreciated. An enjoyable evening was terminated by the singing of the National Anthem.”

County Advertiser 15/3/1902

“Mr. H. A. Pearson (coroner) held an inquest at the OAK TREE INN, Waterfall Lane, Old Hill, on the body of a female child aged one month, whose parents reside in Mott Street, Blackheath, and who was found dead in bed on Monday morning. It appeared from the evidence of the mother that deceased was put to bed on Sunday night and was found dead the following morning. Dr. Freer, who was called in, attributed death to suffocation through overlying. The jury returned a verdict of Accidentally Suffocated.”

County Express 15/3/1902

“On Tuesday morning, Mr. H. A. Pearson (County Coroner) held an inquest at the OAK TREE INN, Waterfall Lane, Blackheath, with respect to the death of Samuel Parsons (21), loader, Terrace Street, Blackheath, who had been killed at the Haden Hill Colliery, belonging to Messrs. Bassano and Co.

Mr. W. N. Atkinson (Government Inspector) represented the Home Office, and Mr. S. Dimmock (general manager) the owner of the colliery.

Jabez Edwards stated he was a fireman at the colliery where the deceased was employed as a loader. At 11.30 he heard that an accident had occurred at No.5 gate-road. Upon going into the road he found that about three tons of ‘gob’ had fallen from the roof on to the deceased. On removing the debris deceased was found in a stooping position, his head being between his legs, and a tree across his neck. He was quite dead, and appeared to have been suffocated.

By Mr. Atkinson: He attributed the accident to a 'bump' which displaced a bar, liberating the 'gob.' When he examined the place at 9.45 it appeared to be perfectly safe.

The Coroner said it was a very sad occurrence for the unfortunate young man. The accident was attributed to one of those 'bumps' so frequently experienced in collieries.

The jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death."

County Advertiser 2/1/1904

"A farewell dinner was given on Wednesday last week by Court Lushington No.7, to Citizen B. Atkins, at the house of Mr. T. Priest, OAK TREE INN, Waterfall Lane, on his leaving for America. The Lord Mayor, Citizen T. Priest, after dinner made a presentation on behalf of the Court, to the guest of the evening. This consisted of a silver mounted Malacca cane with buck horn handle specially made and mounted by Nutting, of Birmingham. A silver band bore the following inscription, 'Presented as a token of respect to B. Atkins, by Court Lushington, No.7, OAK TREE INN, Old Hill, England, 1903.' The Lord Mayor also presented him with three bottles of liquors, and in the course of his remarks said it gave him much pleasure to make the presentation, and to say that as a Citizen of that Court, and as a resident of the district, Mr. Atkins had always been known as a honest and straightforward man, and it was the hope of the whole Court that good health and good luck would wait on him and his wife in their new country. Citizen Snellings, as a Free Gardener, also spoke eulogistically of the guest of the evening.

In reply Mr. Atkins thanked all present for the kindly feeling shown and the presents made to him. Amongst those present were Lord Mayor Priest, Aldermen Parry, Wainwright, and Mole; Citizens Armstrong, Saunders, Woodhouse, Forrest, Snellings, Goodwin, Johnson, Lee, and Recorder Tibbetts. Among the invited guests were Messrs. E. Wooldridge, J. Lewis, T. Tibbetts, W. Thompson, A. Rowley, and T. Rose."

County Advertiser 30/1/1904

"Permission was given to Thomas Priest landlord of the OAK TREE INN, Waterfall Lane, Blackheath, to make alteration to the premises."

County Advertiser 21/5/1904

"Thomas Guest [sic], landlord of the OAK TREE INN, Waterfall Lane, Old Hill, made an application for an occasional license to sell on the Coombs Wood Tube Works Football ground, on the 24th inst, on the occasion of the annual fete and gala promoted by that club. There was no objection, and the Bench granted the application from one o'clock until 9 o'clock."

County Advertiser 20/7/1904

"An application was made by Thomas Priest, landlord of the OAK TREE INN, Waterfall Lane, Blackheath, for an occasional license to sell intoxicants at the fêtes and sports in connection with the Old Hill Cricket Club, to be held at Haden Hill on the 2nd of August. There was no objection on the part of the police, and the license was granted from two o'clock until ten."

County Advertiser 27/8/1904

"On Sunday afternoon the eighth annual parade and service arranged by the various friendly societies in the Old Hill district took place under favourable circumstances. The proceedings commenced with a large procession.....

The Halesowen Temperance Prize Band started from the OAK TREE INN, Waterfall Lane, at one o'clock, and proceeded down Waterfall Lane and Clifton Street to Wrights Lane, calling for the societies at the PRINCE OF WALES INN and the BRITISH OAK INN. Afterwards they marched to the field.....

Upon arrival at the field a grand procession was formed..... This paraded the principal streets of the locality for some time, after which they proceeded to a field in High Street, kindly lent for the occasion by Mr. A. E. Sidaway. Here a service was held, the chair being occupied by Dr. T. E. Mitchell. Notwithstanding the threatening state of the weather there was a large attendance.....

A collection was made upon the route, and at the service, on behalf of the Dudley Guest Hospital, Dudley Dispensary, Birmingham Eye Hospital, Birmingham General Hospital, Birmingham Ear and Throat Hospital, and the Old Hill Nurses Fund."

County Advertiser 27/5/1905

"Arrangements have been made by the Rowley Regis Cricket Club to play a match on Whit-Wednesday on behalf of the fund opened for the benefit of the West Bromwich Albion Football Club. Mr. T. Priest, of the OAK TREE INN, Waterfall Lane, will bring a strong team to oppose the Rowley Club, and it is hoped that the match will prove a great success financially."

County Advertiser 16/9/1905

"On Saturday night last the members of the Sunflower lodge, No.1727, of the N.U.O.F.G. met at the clubhouse, the OAK TREE INN, Waterfall Lane, to assist at a presentation to Bro. Joseph Lowe, late Master of the above, on his leaving for America. The presentation, which consisted of a silver medal, suitably inscribed with the signs of the Order, was the gift of Drs. Mitchell and McQueen, surgeons to the club. As he already held the certificate and key of the Order as late master, the medal was decided upon. In the absence of the donors, the presentation was made by the host, Bro. T. Priest, who spoke of the long connection of Bro. Lowe with the lodge. Bro. S. Weston (secretary) and Bro. Ed. Snellings (trustee) also spoke in commendation of the recipient. Songs and recitations whiled away the remainder of an enjoyable evening. The lodge is the largest in the Dudley and Netherton District, and is in a sound financial position. The officers' arrangements were excellent."

County Express 24/4/1909

“On Wednesday, at Old Hill, William Owen, a miner, of Waterfall Lane, Blackheath, was summoned for refusing to quit the licensed premises of the OAK TREE INN, Waterfall Lane, Blackheath, on the 14th inst. Thomas Priest, the landlord, stated that defendant came into his house in a drunken state. Witness refused to serve him, and requested him to leave, but he refused to do so. Defendant, who admitted the offence, was fined 10s and costs.”

Walter Broadbent was also involved in a haulage business.

Walter Edward Broadbent – see also CROWN.

1911 Census

128, Waterfall Lane – OAK TREE INN

- [1] Edward Evans (44), landlord, public house, born Wales;
- [2] Mary Evans (42), wife, married 22 years, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] William Edward Evans (19), son, porter Great Western Railway, born Cakemore;
- [4] Alfred Evans (14), son, horse driver, born Cakemore;
- [5] Arthur Redvers Evans (10), son, school, born Cakemore;
- [6] Emmy Florence Evans (5), daughter, born Cakemore;
- [7] Elsie Gladence Evans (3), daughter, born Cakemore:

Smethwick Telephone 7/2/1914

“Important Sale of Valuable Freehold Property, Business Premises, and Land, situate at Blackheath and Rowley Regis, by Messrs. Samuel Jones, Son, and Vernon, FAI, at the ROYAL OAK HOTEL, Blackheath, on Monday, February 16th, 1914, at 7pm sharp..... Waterfall Lane, Old Hill. By order of the Representative of the late Thomas Priest, equitable Mortgagee under a document dated 21st May, 1903.

Lot 4. All that Piece of Freehold Land, adjoining the OAK TREE INN, with a building frontage to Waterfall Lane, Blackheath, together with the field at the rear thereof, having a frontage to Terrace Street, the whole stated to contain a total area of 3,595 square yards or thereabouts.....”

Birmingham Daily Post 14/2/1914

“In the Chancery Division, yesterday – before Mr. Justice Eve – Mr. Sheldon moved ex parte in the action Priest v Millington, for an injunction to restrain the sale of a piece of land near the OAK TREE INN, Rowley Regis, Staffordshire. Counsel said it had been advertised for sale on Monday next by Mr. Stephen Thomas Millington, one of the executors of the late Thomas Priest. Plaintiff, who was the son of the testator, was also one of the executors and a residuary legatee. Other parties to the suit were the other residuary legatees. Mr. Millington was claiming apparently to sell this piece of land as executor of the testator upon the footing of an equitable deposit of title deeds made by Thomas Priest, the plaintiff, to his father. The testator was formerly of the OAK TREE INN.

His Lordship, having read the affidavits, said on the evidence before him it seemed rather strange conduct. He would restrain the sale over that day week and give leave to serve notice of motion for the same day. Meantime an injunction would be granted.”

John Frank Amos = Joseph Frank Amos

1939 Register

Waterfall Lane – OAK TREE INN

- [1] Frederick R. Mason, date of birth 20/5/1913, licensed victualler, married;
- [2] Etta Mason, dob 6/1/915, unpaid somestic duties, married:

Rowley Juniors FC changed in the back room here. [1950s]

A team from here took part in the Rowley Regis Darts League. [1965/66]

A team from here took part in the Cradley Heath Darts League. [1970]

Mrs. Beatrice Sisely ran the pub as a caretaker manager.

Andrew Thompson was area manager for Ansell's.

It became MAXY'S WINE BAR.

Sandwell Evening Mail 17/12/1986

“Detectives and fire experts were investigating a blaze at a disused Blackheath wine bar today which caused severe damage. Firemen spent nearly four hours tackling the blaze, in a front living room above MAXY'S WINE BAR in Waterfall Lane. They arrived at the scene just after midnight to find the building well alight. Fifteen firemen, some wearing breathing apparatus, fought the outbreak, in which furniture and carpets were destroyed and other first floor rooms severely damaged by heat and smoke. Station officer Dennis Knabe, of Cradley Heath fire station, said efforts to trace a key holder for the premises – formerly known as the OAK public house – proved unsuccessful.”

It reopened as the WATERFALL in 1987.

Express and Star 2/8/1988 - Advert

“The WATERFALL, Waterfall Lane, Rowley Regis.

Large Beer Garden Now Open!

Bring the family and enjoy a meal outside beside the waterfall.

An extensive menu of good food for lunchtimes and evenings is offered at reasonable prices.

Traditional Beers including Bathams, Old Hooky, Everards Tiger and Old Original, along with a regular selection of weekly guest beers.”

Sandwell Evening Mail 8/12/1989 - Advert

“The WATERFALL, Waterfall Lane, Rowley Regis.

Traditional Christmas Lunches (Not Christmas Day) £7.50.

Fancy Dress Party New Years Eve.

Function Room now available for private parties etc.”

Sandwell Evening Mail 14/11/1992

“Pub Talk. WATERFALL, Waterfall Lane, Blackheath.

Many of the best of British brews flow through Bob Pinner's cellar pipes to reach the bar of his Black Country pub. He knows it's all good stuff because drinkers with a taste for well-cultivated pints arrive in droves. Furthermore, Bob is always there applying the skills needed to make sure every barrel load is served in peak condition. There's just one thing he doesn't do – and that's drink any of it! ‘I'm completely teetotal,’ he said when, surrounded by beers hand picked from the top-of-the-counter range, I asked him which one took his particular fancy.

As a landlord ready to enter into all the fun events at the WATERFALL – the pub he turned into a beer lover's paradise – Bob did try his hand at a yard of ale drinking contest. But he didn't much care for the after effects. So, content to make his lunchtime tinkle a mug of tea, the licensee – who virtually built his own pub – explained how he manages to deliver the goods from a position of ‘dry’ ground. ‘I went in at the deep end and made a lot of mistakes,’ he admits. ‘But you learn from experience and we can't be doing too badly when customers come from miles around and the pub keeps its place in the Good Beer Guide.

Bob was a builder helping licensee pals with some of their jobs around the bar before deciding to join the pubmasters' guild five years ago. But it became another building project when he faced all the heavy work needed to turn a fire-damaged and disused wine bar into what's now a real down-to-earth pub – yet one perched high enough to provide striking views across land to far-away hills.

From day one, Bob has been serving hand-pulled brews that would never otherwise have found their way to Blackheath, or probably many other parts of the West Midlands. I liked the Black Adder dark stout from Suffolk. And if it's hearty eating you're after, try the mixed grill for a king-sized challenge.

Pubfile:

Pick of the pints: Batham's Bitter, Murphy's Stout, Everards Old Original and other guest ales.

Plus pints: Friendly atmosphere, homey bar and lounge.

Food: A little or a lot at prices never at the steep end. Served at lunchtime and at night. A functions room for private parties.

Price of a pint: £1.33 or more for the stronger brews.

Opening hours: noon-3pm and 5.30pm-11pm (Monday-Friday); 12noon-11pm (Saturday). Normal Sunday hours.”

Birmingham Daily Post 7/8/1995

“Midland drinkers had time on their hands yesterday when last orders at the bar on a Sunday lunchtime became a thing of the past. Many people took to the change in the law, which allows all-day drinking on the Sabbath for the first time in almost a century, like ducks to water....

Mr. Alan Davis and his girlfriend Miss Amy Knowles, who are joint managers of the WATERFALL, welcomed the longer opening hours. Mr. Davis said, ‘We have a garden and children's facilities so we decided it would be a good thing to do. It's been a great success and we've been very full. We normally only serve lunches from noon to 2pm and from 7pm to 9.30pm but now we're going to serve it all day.

‘The main challenge was to find ways to continue encouraging people to visit the pub on a Sunday afternoon,’ said Miss Knowles. ‘It's going to be extra work but it's going to be worthwhile,’ she added. ‘We've got to make sure we get extra business to pay for the extra staff to work through the day and kitchen staff, as well as things like lighting and heating in the winter.’”

Alan Davis – see also FOUNTAIN, Lower Gornal.

Express & Star 28/4/2020

“A pub in Sandwell is preparing to host a fundraising event in aid of the NHS. Karl Gardner, manager of the WATERFALL pub in Cradley Heath, will be holding the fundraiser on Thursday, April 30, at the pub. Since pubs closed last month to prevent the spread of Covid-19, the WATERFALL has a surplus of stock which is reaching its expiry date. Karl decided rather than throw it away, he would organise an event where people could exchange charitable donations for beer.

He said, ‘We have some beer that is close to its sell-by date, at the fundraising event we will be donating beer and asking our customers and the community to make any donation they can towards the NHS. We want to boost the morale of the community and do our part giving back to the NHS helping deal with Covid-19.’

From 6pm onwards the pub, on Waterfall Lane, will be donating two barrels of cask ale and bottles to take out while socially distancing on the pub’s car park and all of the money raised will go towards supporting frontline key workers during the coronavirus pandemic. Karl’s dad, Stanley John Gardner, is the licensee of the pub which is owned by Holdens Brewery Ltd.”

Stanley John Gardner – see also BELL AND BEAR and HADEN CROSS.

[2020]

WHARE

135, (64), Station Road, (14, Granville Road), (136, Gorsty Hill Road), (136, Slack Hillock), OLD HILL

OWNERS

Wordsley Brewery Co.
George Harris
Mitchells and Butlers Ltd.
Premier Midland Ales (acquired in 1985) [1989]
Scottish and Newcastle

LICENSEES

John Wright [1855] – [1884]
William Henry Hingley [1889] – [1896]
Henry ‘Harry’ James [1897] – [1901]
Frederick Holloway [1901] – [1912]
Mrs. Emma Holloway [1916]
George ‘Abner’ Harris [1921] – 1923;
Mrs. Rose Hannah Harris (1923 – 1968)
Denis Charles Forman []
Mary Hurdley [1980]
M Holloway []
Charles Poolton []
Alan Fairclough []
Mandy Collins (1985 – [1989] manager
Jacqueline Foster [1993]
Steve Warren [1993]

NOTES

136, Slack Hillock [1881]
136, Gorsty Hill Road [1891]
Granville Road [1896], [1901]
64, Station Road [1908], [1911], [1912], [1924], [1932], [1940]
135, Station Road [1996]

SPORTSMAN [1860], [1862], [1864], [1865], [1873]
SPORTSMAN AND RAILWAY [1868], [1870], [1872], [1884], [1892], [1896], [1908], [1912], [1932]
SPORTSMAN INN and RAILWAY HOTEL [1883]

Black Country Bugle

‘Slack Hillock Farm’

“.....the bridge [Wright’s Bridge] still stands today – and so does the house, but the building is no longer a farm. It is the SPORTSMAN AND RAILWAY – a public house The canal may not have been a great inconvenience to Slack Hillock Farm but the vast quarry on its Waterfall Lane boundary and the pithead gear of ‘The Drainage Mine,’ the Tump Colliery and finally the railway system which bridged the canal within a hundred yards of the farmhouse in 1850, gradually surrounded the property and eroded its meadows to such an extent that farming was no longer a paying proposition.

Tory Street was built to house workers from the surrounding mines and Slack Hillock Farm stood, like the last fortress of the old feudal order, encompassed and besieged by industrial undertaking.

In 1852, Joe Walters finally put the farmstead up for sale Thereafter it became a combined farm and public house owned at various times by 'Butcher' Mills a local mine operator who lived in nearby Waterfall Lane and the Sturman family. It was purchased by Abner Harris (the old Villa player) in 1914....."

Worcestershire Chronicle 12/9/1855

"The adjourned licensing meeting was held at the Public-office, Wordsley, on Monday last.....

There were two applications adjourned till today John Wright, the SPORTSMAN, Gosty Hill, Rowley, which was granted."

County Advertiser 6/11/1858 - Advert

"Desirable Freehold Building Land at Old Hill, in the Parish of Rowley Regis.

To be Sold by Auction, by Mr. B. Wooldridge, at the house of Mr. John Wright, the SPORTSMAN INN, at Gosty Hill, Rowley Regis, on Monday, the 15th day of November, 1858, at Twelve o'clock at Noon, and subject to such conditions as shall then be read....."

John Wright was also a maltster. [1860], [1865], [1868], [1870]

1861 Census

Gorsty Hill

- [1] John Wright (41), farmer and victualler, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Eliza Wright (42), wife, born Cofnalls, Staffordshire;
- [3] Eliza Wright (15), daughter, born Rounds Green;
- [4] Harriet Wright (12), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Lucy Wright (10), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] Sarah Ann Wright (8), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [7] John Wright (5), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [8] Isabella Beaman (22), servant, dairymaid, born Rowley Regis:

Aris's Birmingham Gazette 17/8/1861 - Advert

"Preliminary Announcement. Staffordshire. Old Hill, Rowley Regis.

Important Sale of a Valuable Colliery, Plant, and Premises, and of Desirable Freehold Houses and Building Land.

To be Sold by Auction, by Kempson and Suckling, at the house of Mr. John Wright, the SPORTSMAN INN, Gosty Hill, in the parish of Rowley Regis, on Tuesday, the 3rd day of September next....."

Worcestershire Chronicle 1/10/1862

"William Smith, licensed victualler, Gorsty Hill, was summoned for having, on the 16th inst, unlawfully sold a quantity of ale on a race course without being duly licensed to do so. Defendant pleaded guilty, but urged that he had applied to the Excise for a license, and was informed that a license was not required, and that he might sell what he wished during the wake. The Clerk pointed out to the Bench that by the 25th Vic. chap.22, sec.13, the Commissioners of Inland Revenue could grant permission to licensed victuallers to sell on race courses after the consent of two Justice of the Peace had been obtained. He further suggested that as the Act was a new one, it could not be very well known, and that all purposes might be served if the defendant would plead guilty and pay costs. The defendant agreed to this course, and the case was dismissed.

John Wright and James Tromans, publicans at Gorsty Hill, were brought up on similar charges, and were dismissed under the same conditions."

County Advertiser 26/8/1865 - Advert

"Rowley Wake Races will take place on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, September 18th, 19th, and 20th, 1865, on the Old Race Course, near the SPORTSMAN AND RAILWAY HOTEL, Gorsty Hill.

Further Particulars in future Advertisements."

John Wright was also a coalmaster. [1872]

County Advertiser 11/3/1871

"John Wright, landlord of the SPORTSMAN public house, Old Hill, was charged with selling liquors during prohibited hours.

Defendant pleaded, in extenuation, ignorance of the new law, and, in consequence of this, the mitigated fine of 6d and costs was inflicted."

Stourbridge Observer 18/3/1871

"William Darby was fined 6d and costs, for drinking in a public house (the SPORTSMAN INN, kept by Mr. Wright) during prohibited hours."

1871 Census

Slack Hillock

- [1] John Wright (51), licensed victualler, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Eliza Wright (52), wife, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] Lucy Wright (20), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Sarah Wright (18), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] John Wright (15), son, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] Isabella Beaman (40), general servant, born Rowley Regis:

County Advertiser 31/5/1873

“An inquest was held at the SPORTSMAN public house, Old Hill, on Wednesday afternoon, before Mr. F. W. Topham, deputy-coroner, on the body of Ann Maria Siviter, aged two years. The evidence showed that about two o’clock on Sunday the deceased was playing, with other children, near an open well. She fell in, and was got out in a state of partial insensibility. She died, however, immediately she was taken home. Verdict, Accidental Death.”

Stourbridge Observer 30/8/1873

“Fatal Accident at Old Hill Railway Station. A shocking accident here on Monday night to a man named Samuel Macaulay, dealer, of the Hayes [Lye]. Deceased was a passenger by the 7.30pm train from Birmingham to Cradley, and as the train was proceeding slowly towards the platform, he opened the door and stepped out. Instead of alighting on the platform he put his foot on the bridge adjoining the platform, and was dragged along the top of the bridge 5 or 6 feet, when he loosed hold of the handle, and fell on the road below, a distance of about 19 feet.

Assistance was promptly at hand, and he was picked up insensible, and carried to the SPORTSMAN HOTEL, where he died in a few minutes. Mr. Kerr, surgeon, was in attendance, but deceased died before his services were available. The surgeon was of opinion that deceased died from dislocation of the neck. An inquest was held on the body on Wednesday, before Mr. E. Hooper, coroner, at the SPORTSMAN HOTEL, Old Hill.

Mr. Oldershaw appeared on behalf of Mr. Shakespeare, for the friends of deceased, and Mr. Grover, with Inspectors Ledbrook and Lock, attended on behalf of the Great Western Railway Company.

Ellen Phipps said she lived at Old Hill. On Monday night she rode from Smethwick with deceased, on the 7.30 train from Birmingham. They were in a second-class carriage. Witness was going to Old Hill. On reaching Old Hill Station, deceased got out to assist her out. The train had not quite come to a standstill. As he got out he slipped and fell. The train might have stopped before he fell. Witness got out onto the platform. She did not hear anyone call out from the platform. Deceased was sober. If the train had stopped witness would have got out where deceased did. It was very dark and the train was full.

Cross examined by Mr. Oldershaw: There were lights on the platform, but not on the bridge. The train was coming to a stand when deceased fell.

By a Juror: There was a light in the carriage, and that made it more dangerous, as the light reflected on the bridge, and made it resemble the platform.

George Chance, residing at Stamber Mill, said the train was in motion when deceased got out. Witness stayed in the carriage until the train came to a stand. Deceased asked witness if he would assist the last witness out of the carriage, and on his refusing to do so he said, ‘Let your grandfather do it; he is insured.’ The train was longer than the platform. Deceased stepped on to the bridge, and then fell down. The train stopped before the carriage they were in reached the platform. Witness got out of the carriage and put his foot on what he thought was the platform, but it was the bridge. Some one pulled him back into the carriage or he should have gone over the bridge himself.

Thomas Evans, guard in the employ of the Great Western Railway Company, said he was in charge of the 7.30pm train on Monday night from Birmingham to Hartlebury. The train did not arrive at Old Hill until 8.24. It ought to have got there by 8.2. He saw the door open of the North-Western carriage, and called out, ‘Keep that door shut behind; keep your seats till the train draws to the platform.’ There were only three carriages behind his van. When the train stopped, the carriage where the deceased got out was on the bridge. The train was longer than the platform. The platform is not long enough for an excursion train. There was nothing to prevent passengers getting out of the train at that particular point if they thought they were on the platform. Witness could not say whether there were lights at the station or not.

Samuel Hall, miner, Cox’s Lane, Old Hill, said he was passing under the bridge on Monday night as deceased fell down, and caught him on the arm. He asked deceased if he was hurt much, and deceased said, ‘Take me away from here.’ He never spoke again. There were carriages on the bridge when deceased fell. Witness called for assistance, and deceased was carried to the SPORTSMAN HOTEL, where he died in a few minutes. When witness picked deceased up, his head fell on one side.

Cross-examined by Inspector Ledbrook: I heard someone call out ‘Keep your seats’ just as the poor fellow came down to the ground.

Inspector Ledbrook said the line was passed in 1867 by the Inspector, who said it was safe. He thought that if a fence was placed on the top of the bridge any person getting out would be dashed against the fence, and thrown back under the wheels. He considered the danger would be equally great. The platform had been lengthened within the last two years.

The Coroner, in summing up, said if the man had not got out before the train had stopped the case would have assumed a more serious aspect, but as he got out whilst it was in motion he was himself to blame. Any suggestion the Jury might offer he would forward to the Great Western Railway Co.

The Jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death, with a recommendation to the Great Western Railway Company that the bridge be made safe for passengers.”

Staffordshire Advertiser 20/2/1875 - Advert

“‘Defensio, Non Provocatio.’ Caution.

The Licensed Victuallers’ Tea Association, Southwark Street, Borough, London.

This Association, having prosecuted and convicted a Grocer, at Bradford, at the Leeds Assizes, under the Merchandize Marks Act, 1862, and also prosecuted a man at Chester Assizes, who was sentenced to six months’ imprisonment for fraudulently counterfeiting and imitating their Trade Mark, and having obtained a decree for a perpetual injunction against a Tea Company (Limited), restricting the said Company from selling or exposing for sale Tea packed in covers or wrappers made in imitation of those used by the Licensed Victuallers’ Tea Association, or not materially differing therefrom, or in any covers or wrappers which by their shape, size, colour, labels, writings, figures, inscriptions, trade mark, or general character should make it appear that the packets sold or exposed for sale were those of the Licensed Victuallers’ Tea Association, and which decree on appeal was confirmed by the Lord Chancellor, notice is hereby given that all Persons Counterfeiting or Imitating the Trade Mark of the Licensed Victuallers’ Tea Association will be forthwith Proceeded Against; and Licensed Victuallers, Grocers, Bakers, Confectioners and others are hereby warned from selling or exposing for sale Tea packed in covers or wrappers made in imitation of those used by the said Association.

Thompson and Son, 60, Cornhill, Solicitors for the Licensed Victuallers’ Tea Association.

Agents For Staffordshire.

Oldhill: J. Wright, SPORTSMAN INN.”

Lucy Wright (25), spinster, Cock Green, daughter of John Wright, publican, married Benjamin Darby (20), bachelor, maltster, of Waterfall Lane, son of Samuel Darby, grocer, at St. Giles Church, on 27th December 1875.

County Express 18/8/1877

“On Tuesday morning a painful occurrence was witnessed at Old Hill Railway Station. James Grove, a bricklayer, aged 73, residing at Islington, was accompanied to the railway station by his grandson, intending to go by train; but when in the act of taking a ticket at the booking office he fell down dead. The body was removed to the SPORTSMAN INN, where an inquest was held the same day by the district coroner, Mr. Hooper. The jury, after hearing the evidence adduced, returned a verdict to the effect that deceased died from Natural Causes.”

County Express 22/9/1877 - Advert

“The LION INN and Premises, and Eight Other Freehold Dwelling Houses and a Quantity of Building Land, Part of the Old Lion Colliery Estate, at Old Hill, in the Parish of Rowley Regis.

Messrs. Bateman and Son beg to announce their instructions to Offer for Sale by Auction, on Monday, the 8th day of October, 1877, at Six o’clock in the Evening.

Plans and descriptive particulars are in course of preparation, and in the meantime and further information may be obtained from Messrs. T. and J. Simcox, Solicitors, 20, Waterloo Street, Birmingham; or the Auctioneers, Dudley; and from Mr. Daniel Wright, the FIELD HOUSE, Oxford Street, Dudley; Mr. John Wright, the SPORTSMAN INN, Gosty Hill, Old Hill; or Mr. Joseph Wright, the PRINCE OF WALES INN, Wrights Lane, Old Hill.”

1881 Census

136, Slack Hillock – SPORTSMAN INN

[1] John Wright (61), licensed victualler, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Eliza Wright (62), wife, born Penkridge;

[3] John Wright (25), son, solicitor, born Rowley Regis;

[4] Isabella Beaman (40), boarder, general servant, born Rowley Regis:

County Advertiser 8/7/1882 - Advert

“Freehold and Leasehold Property, Waterfall Lane, Rowley Regis, Staffordshire.

The Sale of this Property, fixed for the 18th July, inst, at the SPORTSMAN INN, Old Hill, is Postponed until further notice.”

Dudley and District News 13/1/1883

“George Rivers, alias Smith (40), returned convict, and Thomas Warr, pensioner, who gave their addresses as Windsor Street, Birmingham, were charged on remand with uttering counterfeit coin at Old Hill and Blackheath.

On the 5th inst, William Andrews, keeper of the CROWN INN, Old Hill, noticed the two prisoners stop in front of his house and then part, Warr going down the road and Rivers going into the house. Rivers called for half a pint of ale, which the servant girl brought him, and in payment of which he gave her a florin. Andrews looked at the coin and discovered it was a bad one. He asked the prisoner how many more he had like it, and he made no answer. A policeman was then sent for, and the prisoner was given into his custody.

Evidence was then given by Martha Smith, whose father keeps the NAVIGATION INN, Old Hill, showing that Rivers called at the house on the same date and asked for half a pint of ale, tendering a two-shilling piece in payment. Upon sounding it she found it was a bad one, and she refused to take it in payment or to supply the ale.

Eliza Wright, wife of John Wright, landlord of the SPORTSMAN INN, Old Hill, stated that Rivers called in the house on the 5th and asked for half a pint of ale, in payment of which he tendered a florin. She did not notice that it was a bad one, and she gave him change.

The same prisoner also passed a coin at a public house at Gorsty Hill.

The whole of the coins were examined by Mr. Henn, jeweller, of Cradley Heath, and were found to be composed chiefly of lead.

Upon being apprehended 10½d of good money was found upon Warr, and eight bad two shilling pieces. About 9s good money was found upon Rivers.

PC Varrily, of the Birmingham force, gave evidence showing that the prisoner Rivers was committed at the Northampton Assizes in 1877, and sentenced to five years penal servitude.

The Bench remanded the prisoner for seven days.”

Birmingham Mail 29/1/1883

“Stafford Assizes.....

George Rivers (35), labourer, and Thomas Warr (40), labourer, were charged with uttering several bad half-crowns at Old Hill. Mr. Todd prosecuted. It appeared that Rivers on the 5th of December went to the CROWN INN, Old Hill, and asked for a pint of ale, tendering half a crown. The servant, doubting its genuineness, went in search of the landlord, William Andrews, outside the door. Andrews seeing it was bad, gave prisoner in charge of a policeman. He then remembered seeing the prisoner Warr talking to Rivers before going into the house. With a policeman he followed Warr, and arrested him at Hales Owen Bridge. In his possession were found eight counterfeit half-crowns, which he said he had been given him to carry by Rivers. Prisoners were found guilty. Rivers was an old offender, and having on three previous occasions been convicted for uttering base coin, he was sentenced to ten years' penal servitude. Warr was ordered to be imprisoned for a month.”

County Advertiser 21/7/1883 - Advert

“On Monday, the 23rd July, Instant. Old Hill, Rowley, Staffordshire.

Sale of Valuable Freehold Properties and Building Land, consisting of an Old-Licensed Inn, called the PRINCE OF WALES INN, Eight Dwelling Houses, with Nailshops and Premises, and Six Building Lots, in Wrights Lane; and Nineteen Plots of Building Land fronting the Lion Road and adjoining proposed new streets, the whole being part of the Old Lion Colliery Estate, situate at Old Hill; and Five Dwelling Houses, with Gardens, &c, at Hyams Hill, in the parish of Rowley Regis.

Messrs. Bateman and Son have received instructions to Offer for Sale by Auction, at the house of Mr. John Wright, the SPORTSMAN INN and RAILWAY HOTEL, near the Old Hill Railway Station, on Monday, the 23rd day of July, 1888, at Six o'clock in the Evening, subject to conditions of Sale, the above Valuable Freehold Properties.....”

Dudley and District News 5/1/1884

“It has been reported to the police that a wagoner named John Pritchard in the employ of Mr. Wright, of the SPORTSMAN INN, Gorsty Hill, had been robbed under singular circumstances. Pritchard is known throughout the district as a man of eccentric habits, and of late years he has slept in the hayloft of an outbuilding adjoining his employer's residence. A night or two ago two men broke into the hayloft whilst Pritchard was asleep and cut out one of the pockets in his trousers, which contained several pieces of old linen, in which was carefully wrapped half-sovereigns and silver amounting in the aggregate to £35 5s, which, it is alleged, it has taken Pritchard fourteen years to save. The thieves afterwards decamped with the money.”

County Advertiser 8/3/1884

“James Powell (29), alias ‘Dollar,’ miner, 16, Tory Street, Blackheath; William Powell (28), alias ‘Nep,’ miner, 54, Waterfall Lane, Blackheath; John Knight, alias ‘Ganner,’ miner, Halesowen Road; and Joseph Steventon (18,) labourer, Russian Row, Blackheath, were brought up in custody and charged with stealing £35 at Blackheath, on the 28th December last, the money of John Prichcett, labourer, of Gorsty Hill.

The prosecutor, who is said to be of an eccentric turn of mind, is a carter in the employ of Mr. John Wright, of the SPORTSMAN INN, Gorsty Hill, and for some time had slept in a hay loft on his employer's premises. That prosecutor carried his savings of some years about with him was known in the locality, and a few weeks before Christmas he was met by James Powell, who told him he should have his money. A number of men got into the hay loft where the prosecutor was sleeping on the night named in the charge and took £35, which was wrapped in some old rags, from the prosecutor's pocket. Upon prosecutor endeavouring to raise an alarm, he was struck several blows on the head. After the robbery the prisoners were ‘spreeing’ about with plenty of money in their possession. At the DOLPHIN INN, Stafford Street, Knight gave the landlady £13 to hold for him. The money, he said, had been won on a race. He treated everybody who came to the house, and altogether spent the sum of £2. He also had another £2 of the money from the landlady, and she afterwards returned to him the remaining £9. Information of the robbery did not reach the police for a week or so. After the robbery, and when they commenced to make inquiries, two of the prisoners had absconded. Eventually all the prisoners were apprehended. Knight, when in custody, sent for Inspector Walters, and made a statement to the effect that the other three prisoners came to his house, and said they had robbed an old man. They asked to be allowed to share the money. They divided the money into four parts, and gave him £4 10s. Next morning he found £8 10s in an old rug under his table. William Powell made a statement to the effect that they went to Wright's barn, and Knight took the money off the old man while James Powell held him. They afterwards went to Knight's house and divided the money. When first arrested Knight had denied knowing anything about the matter. When charged jointly, they all said they had nothing to say against it. It was after this that Knight sent for the inspector and made the statement above given to him. The Bench committed all the prisoners to take their trial at the next Sessions.”

[At the Staffordshire Quarter Sessions all four pleaded guilty. Steventon was sentenced to six months' imprisonment. The other three, who had previous convictions, were sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment.]

West Bromwich Weekly News 21/5/1887

“On Saturday afternoon, Mr. E. Hooper (coroner) held an inquest at the SPORTSMAN INN, Gorsty Hill, respecting the death of a single woman named Eliza Danks (25), daughter of Samuel Danks, blacksmith, of Netherton, who was found dead in a water

'shoot' at the side of the Birmingham Canal, near to Gorsty Hill tunnel, on the 13th inst. Inspector Smith appeared on behalf of the Great Western Railway Company.

Eliza Danks, grandmother, said that she saw the deceased alive on the 12th inst. Her granddaughter was in the habit of sleeping at her residence in St. Thomas Street. Deceased was subject to fits, and frequently used to have three or four violent turns in a week. She had distant relatives at Old Hill, but was not in the habit of visiting them.

Sarah Ann Cooper, landlady at the THREE FURNACES INN, Old Hill, said that the deceased visited their house on three separate occasions, and requested to have some beer supplied to her; but she was refused, witness seeing that she had had enough. Before she would leave witness had to threaten to send for the police. Deceased proceeded down Waterfall Lane, and she did not see her again.

Samuel Taylor, boatman, said that on the 13th inst, about 5.30am, he was proceeding to the Gorsty Hill tunnel, for the purpose of going out with a boat, when he saw the deceased lying in the water 'shoot' on her back. A short distance up the embankment he found her skirt. At the time there was very little water running down the stream.

Police-sergeant Salt stated that he had examined the place, and had traced the deceased's footprints along the railway line, and to the spot where she was found. He was present when Dr. Standish examined the body, and said that the marks on the body might have been caused by falling, and were not sufficient to cause death.

The jury returned a verdict of Found Dead."

County Advertiser 8/10/1887

"Yesterday Mr. E. Hooper, coroner, held an inquest at the SPORTSMAN INN, Old Hill, respecting the death of John Crump (23), rivet maker, of Long Lane, whose body was found in the Birmingham Canal, on the 5th inst, near to the railway station.

William Crump stated that he last saw the deceased alive on Monday evening, at the RIDDINGS INN, when he promised to assist witness in making some rivets on the following morning and afterwards left to go home. He did not hear anything further of deceased until the following day, when the canal was dragged and his body was found in the canal between Wrights Bridge and Gorsty Hill tunnel.

Evidence was given by Thomas Brooke and John Bennett that deceased had threatened to make away with himself. He had had some beer, but was not drunk. It was stated there was insanity in the family.

The Jury returned an open verdict of Found Drowned, there being no evidence to show how the deceased got into the water. They also recommended the Coroner to write to the Birmingham Canal Company informing them of the dangerous state of the canal at Gorsty Hill tunnel."

County Advertiser 7/4/1888

"An inquest was held at the SPORTSMAN INN, Old Hill, before Mr. Hooper, on Wednesday morning, touching the death of Eli Bloomer (71), building society agent, of Evers Street, Quarry Bank. On Saturday he left home to transact business, but did not return. On Monday a hat was found on the canal side near the Old Hill Railway Station, and Police-constable McHugh procured drags and found the dead body of the deceased in the water. Evidence was given showing that deceased had been seen walking in Waterfall Lane on Saturday night. There was no evidence to show how he got into the water, and a verdict of Found Dead was returned."

County Advertiser 6/4/1889 - Notice

"Notice Is Hereby Given, that on the 2nd day of July Next, Application will be made to her Majesty's Justices of the Peace, assembled at Quarter Sessions, in and for the County of Stafford, at Stafford in the said County, for an Order for Stopping Up Entirely as unnecessary and useless a certain Highway for Foot Passengers, situate at or near a place called Slack Hillock, at Old Hill, in the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the said County of Stafford, which said Highway commences at the fence on the south side of the Stourbridge Extension Railway at a point twenty-three yards or thereabouts East of the Wing Wall of the Bridge carrying the said Railway over the Netherton Canal, and passes thence on to and across the said Railway and thence in a north-westerly direction along the top of the slope or bank, on the north-east side of the said Netherton Canal, up to and terminates at the north-east corner of the Bridge over the said Canal in front of the Public-house or Inn there situate, called the SPORTSMAN AND RAILWAY INN, in the occupation of William Henry Hingley, and which said Highway so desired to be stopped up, contains in length one hundred and twenty yards or thereabouts. And that the certificate of two Justices having viewed the same, and directed this Notice to be given, and the proof given to their satisfaction of the same having been duly published, with a plan of the said Highway so proposed to be stopped up will be lodged with the Clerk of the Peace for the said County on the 1st day of June next.

Dated this 28th day of March, 1889.

The Seal of the Rowley Regis Local Board as Surveyors of the Highways of the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford.

A. Wright, Clerk to the said Local Board."

Birmingham Daily Post 21/12/1889

"Last night a numerously-attended meeting of gas-tube makers was held at the SPORTSMAN INN, Old Hill, for the purpose of forming a local trade society, and also considering the desirability of becoming affiliated with the Midland Trades Federation. A workman presided.

Mr. T. Homer, who attended as a delegate from the federation, explained the objects of the association. He advised the men in the gas-tube trade to form a society of their own, and then, out of the funds subscribed to the local society, they would be required to contribute 1d per week per member to the federation. In return they would receive the assistance of the federation in case any disputes arose respecting the wages and other questions affecting the trade, and he assured them that the influence of the federation would always be exerted to secure a conciliatory settlement of all disputes. It would be better for both masters and men if the latter were thoroughly united, and the best way of protecting the interests of their trade would be to form a trade association of their own, and then join the federation.

After some discussion it was resolved to form a gas-tube makers' association for the Old Hill district, and also to join the federation at once."

1891 Census

136, Gorsty Hill Road – SPORTSMAN INN

[1] William Henry Hingley (24), licensed victualler, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Eliza Joyce Hingley (24), wife, born Rowley Regis;

[3] — Hingley (3 days), son, born Rowley Regis;

[4] Arthur Edwin Hingley (18), brother, born Rowley Regis;

[5] Ellen Gallin (15), domestic servant, born Rowley Regis:

County Advertiser 18/4/1896 - Advert

"Under a Distress for Rent, the SPORTSMAN INN, Gorsty Hill, Old Hill.

H. King and Son will Sell by Auction, on Monday, April 20th, 1896, at the SPORTSMAN INN, as above, a quantity of Agricultural Implements, Useful Half-bred Mare, Five years old; promising Yearling Colt, Roan Cow, Tump of Hay, Gearing, Poultry, Furniture, &c.

Sale will commence at Two o'clock.

Auctioneers' Offices: 87, High Street, Stourbridge."

County Advertiser 5/6/1897

"On Wednesday last, at the Rowley Police Court – before Messrs. H. A. Wiggin, J. H. Smith, and W. H. Holcroft – Peter Wood, a police-constable stationed at Blackheath, was summoned by a man named John Skett, of Waterfall Lane, Old Hill, for being disorderly in a certain place on the 25th May, and there was a cross-summons by the officer charging Skett with using obscene language. Mr. W. H. Tinsley appeared on behalf of Skett, and Mr. Sharpe for Wood.

Mr. Tinsley said the defendant was charged with disorderly conduct under one of the County bye-laws. According to his instructions this disorderly conduct occurred in three places, viz, in a public house, in a street, and in the complainant's yard. The bye-law set forth what was meant by a public place, and defined a street. Mr. Tinsley then read the bye-law. The facts of the case, which would be borne out by corroborating evidence, were these. On this Tuesday evening complainant went into the SPORTSMAN INN, near Old Hill Railway Station. Wood made some offensive remark bearing upon the private character of a woman named Parkes. The complainant Skett then said he should inform the husband of what had been said the first time he saw him. This statement was the origin of the disturbance. Skett afterwards left the public house and went home. On his way, about forty yards from the house, Wood met him and began taking hold of him and pushing him about. Wood asked him whether he intended to tell the woman's husband about the statement, and Skett said he should. Skett then went into his house to have his supper, and locked himself in. Wood came to the window, and shouted that he did not care a — for Skett or Parkes. Skett went out, and would give in evidence what happened in the yard. He held that if these facts were proved an offence had been committed by Wood under the bye-law.

John Skett said that Wood came into the bar of the public house and had some whiskey. Wood made an offensive remark concerning a Mrs. Parkes, and Skett said he should tell Parkes the first time he saw him. Wood said he did not care for him or Parkes. Shortly afterwards witness left the house in company with a man named Booth. When near home he saw Wood, who asked him whether he intended to do what he had said. Witness told him he should, and Wood said he did not care a — for him or Parkes. Witness said to Wood that he was only trying to make him show his temper, but he had hit the wrong nail on the head that time. Skett then went home, and while he and his wife were having their supper Wood came up the entry and shouted something through the back window. Skett went out and told Wood he had better go down the entry. Wood said he did not care for Parkes or him., and some words followed. Wood at last got out his staff, and witness said, 'Oh, if you are going to pull out your staff I will fetch the poker.' Wood then rushed at him, and secured the poker saying, 'This is enough evidence for me.'

Cross-examined: Witness did not say 'This is the — that locked me up.' Witness said he would fetch 'Uncle Tom' (meaning the poker) when Wood pulled out his staff. He had been convicted at that court.

Mrs. Skett corroborated.

In cross-examination witness said she made a statement about the affair to Police-sergeant Winfield. In that statement she said. 'No bad language was used by my husband or Police-constable Wood,' but she did not think it would be used in court. Police-sergeant Winfield did not read it over to her afterwards. In reply to the Bench witness said it related to what happened before Wood came into the yard. This closed the case for Skett.

Mr. Sharpe said he did not agree with Mr. Tinsley's interpretation of this particular bye-law, which was a comprehensive one. Mr. Tinsley had said there were three parts of the charge, and he must say that the charge of disorderly conduct in the public house, even assuming that everything which had been alleged by the prosecution was true, could not be sustained. It was not part of the charge, and he contended could not be made evidence unless he agreed with it. At the same time he wished to say that the police authorities did not wish to exclude anything from the inquiry. He would show that there was nothing in the nature of disorderly conduct which took place in the public house, and that Wood simply said that he had had to go to the house. No suggestion was made that there was the slightest impropriety on the part of Mrs. Parkes, and one could scarcely understand a sober, intelligent officer who had been in the force for twelve years should go into the bar and make such a statement as that alleged. Afterwards Wood had an appointment with his sergeant at Waterfall Lane, not far from the public house, and again it was incredible that the officer should be desirous of being engaged in a quarrel with Skett when he had to meet the sergeant. As Wood was going along his beat Skett met him and said, 'This is the — that locked me up.' Skett made use of obscene language, and Wood ordered him into the house. Skett then rushed into the house and brought out a poker, which Wood secured. Wood did not draw his staff at all. He asked the Bench to look at the character of the two men — one had been convicted several times, and the other had been a long while in the police force. They might ask, what became of the wife? But he urged that the charge was not made out, and that the summons against the officer should be dismissed.

Police-constable Wood was called, and said he had been stationed at Blackheath for four years. A short time ago he was called to the house of a man named Parkes, as the result of a quarrel between him and his wife. Witness then bore out the statement of Mr. Sharpe. He did not use any offensive remark, and did not put a finger on Skett until he took the poker off him. Witness did not go down the entry, and did not draw his staff at all. Skett was very excited but not drunk.

Henry James, landlord of the public house, and William Cooper deposed to Wood making no offensive remarks in the house.

Police-sergeant Winfield deposed to Mrs. Skett making a statement to him, which he afterwards got her to sign. He read it over to her. He met Wood in Waterfall Lane, and the latter made a complaint against Skett.

The Bench retired, and upon coming into Court Mr. Wiggin said the Bench thought that the bye-law meant by a public place, a place to which the public had access. They did not think there was sufficient evidence to show that disorderly conduct took place in the public house, and there would be a technical objection to the summons on that point, and it would be dismissed, the officer to pay costs.

Mr. Tinsley said that he thought the best way would be to allow the matter to drop, and not take any further proceedings.

The Bench intimated they should dismiss the cross-summons against Skett."

County Advertiser 4/9/1897

"Henry James, landlord of the SPORTSMAN INN, Blackheath, was charged with being drunk on his own licensed premises, on the 27th July. Mr. S. Sharpe, of West Bromwich, defended.

Police-constable Beech stated that at about 10.40pm on the evening of the date in question he visited the SPORTSMAN INN.

Defendant was sitting in the bar, and witness at once saw he was drunk. He asked defendant to follow him into another room.

Defendant could scarcely get off his chair, and he staggered as he came across the room. Witness told him he was drunk, and he replied, 'I have had some beer, but I am not drunk.' He then asked witness to send for Dr. Mitchell, but witness told him that if he wished for a doctor he must send for one himself, as he was satisfied that defendant was drunk. Defendant then called a man named Booth, and witness asked Booth's opinion as to defendant's condition. He replied, 'He has had some beer, you can see, but he is not drunk.'

Cross-examined: He had had some communication made to him by another publican, but that was not the reason he said defendant was drunk. Defendant did not fall down. He denied being drunk, and at once spoke of sending for a doctor.

Police-constable Plant, who accompanied Police-constable Beech to the house, corroborated.

Moses Cutler [NEPTUNE], a publican, stated that on the evening named he went to the SPORTSMAN INN about six o'clock.

Defendant came in at about twenty minutes to seven, and witness stayed in the house until nine o'clock. During that time defendant had had something to drink, and was in a drunken condition. There was a disturbance between witness and another publican, and as a consequence witness left the house at the request of the defendant. He went to the police station, where he informed Police-constable Beech that defendant was not sober.

Inspector Given said that in consequence of information received he went up to defendant's house on the night in question at 11.45 and overheard the wife of defendant say to him, 'Harry, you know you have had too much; it is your own fault.' Witness then went into the house, and could see from the defendant's manner that he was quite drunk. Witness mentioned that he had overheard the remarks of the defendant's wife, and then left. He subsequently heard through the window a further conversation, in which defendant told his wife she ought not to have told witness that he was drunk. He then said, 'Fill me another glass,' and she replied, 'No, you have had quite enough; you are quite drunk.' Witness then tapped the window and said, 'You are quite right, missis; he is quite drunk; that is perfectly true.' Defendant then said, 'Oh, you have done it this time,' and witness came away.

This closed the case for the prosecution, and Mr. Sharpe said that if defendant had consulted his own pocket he would not have defended the case, as the maximum fine was 10s, but he was so conscious of his innocence that he decided to defend it. It was the first time he had been summoned. A rival publican went to the house on the night in question, and in consequence of some strong language used by this man, Perry [sic], in the exercise of his discretion and the conduct of his business, ordered him out of the house. The man went back and asked to be supplied with some drink, but was refused, and he then went to the police station, and stated that defendant was drunk. Defendant's actions were those of a sober man, and he asked that the incident after closing time might be dismissed as having no weight.

Defendant was called, and said that on the date of the charge he went to Birmingham. He had four or five glasses of ale in Birmingham, and reached home about 7.30. Cutler and another publican were there, and there were some words between them. He told Cutler that if he used bad language and insulted his customers as he was doing, he should not have him in the house. He requested him to leave, and he did so, but afterwards came back and asked for a bottle of stout. This defendant refused, and Cutler then said he would go down to the police station and tell them that he (defendant) was drunk.

Dr. Thomas Ellis Mitchell said that at about ten minutes past eleven on the 27th ult, defendant came to his surgery and gave him an account of what had taken place in his house that night. From the fact that when defendant came into his house he was able to walk steadily and to give a coherent account of his doings during the night, witness would say he was not drunk.

Cross-examined: He was not prepared to give a definition of drunkenness or sobriety. Defendant was not so sober as he appeared in Court at that time.

Sir Benjamin Hingley: Under the influence of drink, but not incapable? — Witness: Yes.

Charles Booth and Alec Hughes corroborated defendant's statements.

After a short consultation Sir Benjamin Hingley said that the Bench were of opinion that although it might have been very unkind on the part of the other publicans, they believed defendant was drunk and incapable of carrying on his business, and he would be fined 10s including costs.”

County Advertiser 2/10/1897

“The adjourned licensing sessions for Rowley Regis Petty Sessional Division was held on Wednesday at the Police Court, Old Hill, before Messrs. W. Bassano, J. Walker, and G. Green.....

Henry James, of the SPORTSMAN INN, Old Hill, applied for the license to be renewed to him. Inspector Given objected, and said that applicant had been convicted and fined 10s and costs for being drunk on his own licensed premises since licensing day in August. He had no other complaint against the applicant. Applicant promised to keep his house in a proper manner in the future, and the application was granted, Mr. Bassano warning the applicant that if he was again convicted he would in all probability not be allowed to hold a license, and urging him to be very careful.”

County Express 19/1/1901

“Henry James, landlord of the SPORTSMAN AND RAILWAY INN, Granville Road, Blackheath, was summoned for permitting drunkenness on his premises; and also for selling intoxicating liquors to a drunken person on the 29th ult.

Mr. J. Walter Clulow appeared to prosecute, and stated that on the night in question Police-sergeant Bentley and Police-constable Heath visited the defendant’s house, and found a man named Edwin Heath very drunk, with a cup containing recently-drawn ale before him. Defendant said he had requested Heath several times to leave, but he had refused to do so; but the sergeant pointed out to defendant that the man had only recently been supplied with beer. Heath refused to give his correct name and address, but when the sergeant threatened to lock him up he did so. Heath drank some of the beer while the sergeant was in, and he would have fallen back into the fire had not the sergeant caught hold of him. The landlady was also present when told about the man’s condition, and said she knew he was drunk, but did not know he was incapable of walking home.

Police-sergeant Bentley and Police-constable Heath bore out the above facts in evidence.

Defendant admitted he had supplied Heath with two pints of ale, but said he had refused to serve him with a third. He ordered him to leave but he refused to do so, and Heath being a big man, he had not got the power to eject him.

John Phillips, colliery agent, said Heath was sober.

Edwin Heath, miner, Powke Lane, Blackheath, was charged with being drunk on the licensed premises.

Defendant admitted he had had too much, but excused it on the ground that it was the nineteenth anniversary of his marriage.

The Bench fined James £2 and costs, in all £5 10s; and Heath 10s and costs. Solicitor’s fee was also allowed.”

1901 Census

Granville Road, Slack Hillock – SPORTSMAN INN

[1] Fred Holloway (43), licensed victualler, born Old Hill;

[2] Emma Holloway (44), wife, born Old Hill;

[3] Sarah Portman (17), domestic servant, born Old Hill:

County Advertiser 20/8/1904

“Old Hill and District Football League. At the last meeting of this League it was decided not to accept more than fourteen clubs. At present there are ten clubs entered. Any club wishing to join may do so by attending next meeting on Wednesday, August 24th, at headquarters, SPORTSMAN INN, Old Hill, at 7.30 sharp, when the League will be closed, or by applying early to the League Secretary, B. Reece, 76, Clifton Street, Old Hill.”

County Advertiser 20/1/1906

“Football. Old Hill and District Challenge Cup and Medals (third annual season), open to non-association teams. Draw takes place on Monday, Jan. 22nd, at the SPORTSMAN INN, Old Hill (one minute’s walk from Old Hill Station, GWR), at 8 o’clock pm. Entrance Fee, 3s.

Apply, B. Reece, 76, Clifton Street, Old Hill, Staffs.”

County Advertiser 28/7/1906 - Advert

“A Horse for Sale, eight years old, 15-3 high, good worker; also Wagonette and Harness.

Apply at the SPORTSMAN INN, Old Hill.”

County Express 4/1/1908

“Sick and Draw Clubs.... SPORTSMAN AND RAILWAY INN (Old Hill).

On Boxing day, the occasion being the first annual dinner. Mr G. Buttery was elected to the chair, and Mr. Tandy to the vice-chair. The dividend was 11s 10½d per member, and its announcement by the secretary (Mr. B. Reece) was greeted with applause. The health of the host and hostess (Mr. and Mrs. F. Holloway) was drunk.”

1911 Census

64, Station Road

[1] Frederick Holloway (53), publican, born Old Hill;

[2] Emma Holloway (54), wife, married 34 years, assisting in the business, born Old Hill:

Frederick Holloway died in the 1st quarter of 1915.

George 'Abner' Harris was born in 1878 in Gorsty Hill.

He was a footballer with Stewarts and Lloyds (Coombs Wood Works) FC.

He signed professional forms for Aston Villa in 1899. In 1908 he joined West Bromwich Albion.

He played cricket for Old Hill CC. [1921]

Sportsman Excelsior FC was based here. [c.1914]

Black Country Bugle (November 1980) - Pub of the Month

“.....Soon Slack Hillock Farm became better known as the RAILWAY INN, but it did not lose its agricultural appearance for several decades Abner Harris (who played left back for Aston Villa and West Bromwich Albion) bought the place in 1913, and it became the SPORTSMAN AND RAILWAY. The place prospered under Abner's ownership and he brought much needed discipline to what had been a tavern notorious for its fighting clientele Abner Harris was tragically killed at Enoch Wheeler's scaperyard in 1923, when a heavy leaden ball broke away from the jib of a crane and crushed him. His widow Rosannah continued to run the place until her death in 1968.....”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 5/6/1923

“Mr. George Harris, the well-known Old Hill cricketer and former Aston Villa, Albion, and Coventry City footballer, was killed at Old Hill yesterday under tragic circumstances. Just before mid-day he was engaged in conversation with Mr. Enoch Wheeler in the latter's scrap-yard in King Street. A short distance away a crane was being used by some workmen, when suddenly the jib flew out in the direction of the two men. Before Mr. Harris could move he was struck on the head and fell to the ground. Medical aid was sent for, but when Dr. Mitchell arrived a few minutes later he could only pronounce life extinct. Death had apparently been instantaneous, the cause being a severe fracture of the skull. Mr. Harris, who was 45 years of age, and leaves a widow and one daughter, was the licensee of the SPORTSMAN, Station Road, Old Hill.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 13/6/1923

“At the adjourned inquest on George Harris, aged 45, formerly licensee of the SPORTSMAN, Station Road, Old Hill, an old footballer and member of the Old Hill Cricket Club, who was killed under tragic circumstances, a verdict of Accidental Death was recorded.

Evidence was given to the effect that deceased paid a visit to some metal works. A crane which was considered safe with a ton load was lifting about half that weight when the whole structure collapsed and Harris was hit, sustaining a fractured skull.”

Dudley Chronicle 14/6/1923

“The funeral of Mr. George Harris, better known as ‘Abner’ Harris, the Old Hill cricketer, and former West Bromwich Albion, Aston Villa, Coventry City, and Stafford Rangers' footballer, who met his death under such tragic circumstances on June 4th, took place at Halesowen Parish Church on Thursday last week, in the presence of a large number of friends and sympathisers. There were many floral tributes of respect. Deceased, as a member of the Old Hill Cricket Club second team, played against West Bromwich Dartmouth as recently as Saturday week.”

Rose Hannah Harris = Rosannah Harris

1939 Register

Station Road – SPORTSMAN INN

[1] Rose Hannah Harris, date of birth 23/11/1888, licensee of free house, widowed;

[2] Millicent M. J. (Harris) Forman, dob 5/2/1918, at home, helps with business, single;

[3] George Wood, dob 2/1/1890, tube examiner, steel tube works, married;

[4] Amy Wood, dob 20/8/1889, unpaid domestic duties, married:

Evening Despatch 21/11/1939

“During the last eight weeks £50 6s has been contributed to the Sportsman and Railway Services Fund at Old Hill. Each week parcels are despatched from the SPORTSMAN AND RAILWAY INN, Station Road, to men in the Services.”

Denis Charles Forman was born on 14th August 1909.

Birmingham Mail 5/12/1945 - Engagements

“The engagement is announced between Denis Charles (Flt.-Lieut. RAFVR), only son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Forman, of Surbiton, Surrey, and Joan, only daughter of Mrs. R. Harris and the late Mr. G. Harris, of the SPORTSMAN INN, Old Hill.”

Birmingham Daily Post 21/1/1977 - Advert

“In the Estate of Denis Charles Forman.

The above deceased late of the SPORTSMAN AND RAILWAY INN, Station Road, Cradley Heath, West Midlands, died on the 4th December, 1976. Any Creditors having a claim against the Estate of the Deceased are requested to forward such details to Thomas Cooksey & Co., Solicitors, 223, Halesowen Road, Cradley Heath, Warley, West Midlands, on or before the 7th March, 1977, after which date the Estate will be distributed.

Dated this 19th day of January, 1977.

Thomas Cooksey & Co., 223 Halesowen Road, Cradley Heath, Warley, West Midlands.”

Birmingham Daily Post 3/11/1977 - Advert

“Cradley Heath, Warley. Of interest to Breweries, Restauraterus, etc.

The SPORTSMAN AND RAILWAY INN, Station Road, Cradley Heath, Warley, West Midlands.

Well appointed freehold licensed premises. Site area 11,976 square yards or thereabouts. Attractive location adjacent to Dudley Canal. Considerably scope for extension.

Auction December 13, 1977.

Scriven & Co. 140-141 High Street, Rowley Regis, Warley, West Midlands.”

Its name was changed to the WHARF in November 1985.

Sandwell Evening Mail 4/8/1987

“A boxing match involving the fearsomely named Skull Crusher and The Tank will be held in the Black Country on Saturday – but no one will get hurt.

The Skull Crusher is Alan Fairclough, licensee at the WHARF pub, off Station Road in Old Hill, and he will be taking on Tommy Mills, of Grange Road, Old Hill, in a fancy dress match for charity.

Alan said that Tommy, a regular at the THREE FURNACES in Waterfall Lane, had often ‘threatened’ to get him in a boxing ring and sort him out. ‘Now’s his chance. It’s obviously not going to be too serious and we shall be in long johns and fancy dress,’ said Alan.

The two fighters will be aiming to raise cash for the Father Hudson’s Homes charity and are hoping to get Warley boxer Pat Cowdell to referee.

The match will be on the car park of the WHARF at 3pm.”

Sandwell Evening Mail 22/10/1987

“Old Hill drinking pals Tommy Mills and Alan Fairclough were black and blue after challenging each other to a fight – but it was all in a good cause. Alan, former licensee of the WHARFE public house off Station Road and Tommy, one of his regular customers, fought each other in a sponsored boxing match there – and for their pains they raised more than £200 for a children’s charity.

The two were sponsored by customers at the WHARFE and the THREE FURNACES public house in Waterfall Lane, Old Hill.

A cheque for £205 raised by the contest, along with some cuddly toys, was presented by Tommy at the THREE FURNACES to Mr. Charlie O’Malley, the local representative of Father Hudson’s Children’s Homes.

Mrs. Helen Robinson whose husband Ian is licensee of the THREE FURNACES, said the contest, refereed by another friend, Mr. Tony Jones, lasted several rounds and was declared a draw. She said, ‘It was all a bit of fun really. Alan and Tommy had always joked about fighting each other and when charity was mentioned they decided to do it for real.’”

Mandy Collins was married to Jim.

It closed in 2005.

It was damaged by fire on 28th February 2006.

Demolished [2009]

WHEATSHEAF

1, Turners Hill, (Darbys Hill), Lye Cross, (Four Lanes End), Oakham, ROWLEY REGIS

OWNERS

T. W. Williams, Rowley Brewery

Thomas B. Williams and Lizzie Bate, Rowley Regis

Ansells Ltd. (acquired on 15th June 1946)

Admiral Taverns

LICENSEES

Benjamin Woodhouse [1834] – [1861]

Joseph Cox [1861] – [1892]

Joseph Parkes [1896] – 1907;

Walter Woodall (1907 – 1912);
Thomas Holland (1912 – []
Howard Woodhouse [1916]
Thomas Woodhouse [1919] – 1920);
Edward Harrison (1920 – 1929);
Frank Green (1929);
Frank Jinks (1929 – 1957);
Walter Raymond Harris (1957 – 1960);
Frederick William Hughes (1960 – [1965]
Frederick Brown (1968 – []
C Swarbrick (1970 – []
Arthur Isherwood (1981 – []
Glenn Whitehouse [1988]
Sara Harvey (2015 – []

NOTES

Aris's Birmingham Gazette 18/11/1839 - Advert

“Freehold Estate at Portway.

To be Sold by Auction, by Thomas Pitt Stokes, at the house of Benjamin Woodhouse, the WHEAT SHEAF, at Lye Cross, near Portway, Tomorrow (Tuesday), November 19th, at five o'clock in the afternoon, under such conditions as will be then produced – a desirable Freehold Estate at Portway, in the Parish of Rowley Regis, within two miles of Dudley, by the side of the road leading to Oldbury, Titford, and Birmingham – consisting of a Farm House, Barn, Cow-house, small Tenement, and four Closes of rich Pasture Land, containing about eight acres, in the occupation of Thomas Woodhouse.

The admirable situation of this property in the immediate vicinity of numerous collieries and iron-works, renders it a most desirable investment.

Further particulars may be obtained at the office of Mr. Wm. Fellowes, jun, Solicitor, in Dudley.”

1841 Census

Lye Cross

- [1] Benjamin Woodhouse (50), publican, born Staffordshire;
- [2] Sarah Woodhouse (50), born Staffordshire;
- [3] Ann Woodhouse (20), born Staffordshire:

Aris's Birmingham Gazette 16/8/1841 - Advert

“Darby Bank Cottage, near Rowley Regis.

To be Sold by Auction, by Jesse Wright, on Monday next, August 23, at Mr. Benjamin Woodhouse's, the sign of the Wheat Sheaf, Oakham, near Rowley Regis.....”

1851 Census

Lye Cross

- [1] Benjamin Woodhouse (64), victualler, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Sarah Woodhouse (63), wife, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] Sarah J. Woodhouse (19), daughter, born Rowley Regis:

Hoof marks reported on its roof in 1855.

1861 Census

Lye Cross

- [1] Joseph Cox (34), licensed victualler, born Rowley;
- [2] Sophia Cox (36), wife, born Dudley;
- [3] John Cox (6), son, born Rowley;
- [4] Sarah J. Cox (3), daughter, born Rowley;
- [5] Annie E. Cox (1), daughter, born Rowley;
- [6] Sarah Rupp (17), house servant, born Dudley:

Stourbridge Observer 16/2/1867

“An inquest was held on Tuesday last, at the WHEAT SHEAF INN, Rowley, before Mr. E. Hooper, Esq, Coroner, on the body of Samuel Taylor, labourer age 48.

From the evidence it appears that deceased had eaten his supper, and was sitting in a chair, when he fell off it on to the floor. He was picked up, and died in ten minutes.

Mr. Smith (Dr. Horton's assistant) was soon in attendance, but life was extinct.

A verdict was returned of Died from Natural Causes.”

County Advertiser 29/2/1868

“Mr. E. Hooper, Coroner, held an inquest on Saturday, at the WHEAT SHEAF INN Turners Hill, on the body of John Lilley, fifty-two years of age. Deceased was at work on the previous Saturday, at the Hailstone Quarry, getting stone. A piece of stone, about 2cwt, suddenly fell, and struck deceased on the back. Mr. Mainwaring, surgeon, was called in, but so severe were the injuries that he died on the following day. The Jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 21/6/1870 - Advert

“Sale. This Day (Tuesday). Near the WHEAT SHEAF, Oakham.

By Mr. John Bent, This Day (Tuesday) – the Household Furniture, together with Eight fine, healthy, New-milch Cows, and Dairy Utensils, by order of the Executor of the late Mr. Woodhouse.

Sale to commence at Eleven o'clock.”

1871 Census

Turners Hill

[1] Joseph Cox (44), licensed victualler, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Sophia Cox (45), wife, born Dudley;

[3] Eliza Ann Cox (18), daughter, born Rowley Regis;

[4] John Cox (16), son, solicitor's clerk, born Rowley Regis;

[5] Sarah J. Cox (13), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis;

[6] Ann E. Cox (11), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis;

[7] Mary S. Cox (9), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis:

County Advertiser 30/5/1874 - Advert

“Worcestershire. The Ashes, Worley Wigorn, Parish of Halesowen.

To be Sold by Auction, by John G. Wright, at the house of Mr. Joseph Cox, the WHEATSHEAF INN, Turners Hill, Rowley Regis, on Wednesday, June 10th, 1874, at Six o'clock in the evening, subject to conditions to be then read.....”

Aris's Birmingham Gazette 23/9/1876

“Last evening an inquest was held, before Mr. Hooper, at the WHEAT SHEAF INN, Turners Hill, on the body of Samuel Ruston (16), who was shot with a gun by his companion, William Redfern, on Tuesday.

Emanuel Whitehall, stepfather of the deceased, said he heard ‘a great noise and screaming’ at Joseph Redfern's, and upon going to the house saw the lad Ruston sitting in a chair. The blood was streaming from a wound under the right jaw. He was told the next day it had been done accidentally by the son of Joseph Redfern. His stepson did not recover consciousness, and died in half an hour. He did not think it was done intentionally. He considered it a pure accident. Redfern and Ruston were on good terms. No quarrel ever took place between them.

William Redfern (18) said deceased came to the house at about seven 'clock. His father and mother were out. Ruston asked him to reach the gun from the ceiling where it hung. It had been a long time since it was fired. Deceased said he wanted to look at the gun, and after some persuasion witness took it down. He pulled the cock up to see if there was a cap on, so that he might not give it to Ruston when loaded. He could not see the cap, and he loosed it down again. He let it down of its own force. Ruston was sitting opposite, and the charge went into his right cheek. He ran for the doctor, and neighbours came in and rendered assistance. When he returned, with the surgeon, the boy was dead. His father did not know when the gun was loaded, and cautioned him not to take the gun down. He did not think there was anything in the gun. He was very friendly with deceased.

Joseph Redfern said the gun was not usually kept loaded. He had not used it for years. Last November his eldest son used it, and it was possible it might have been left then with the charge in it.

A verdict of Accidental Death was returned.”

Birmingham Daily Post 18/10/1878

“Yesterday afternoon Mr. Edwin Hooper, coroner, held an inquest at the WHEAT SHEAF INN, Turners Hill, on the body of Joseph Woodhouse (53), a milkseller, who died under circumstances already reported.

Mrs. Woodhouse said she had been delivering milk with her husband on Monday night, and when in Gipsy Lane, on the road home, she heard a great shouting, and saw a trap loaded with men behind them. Her husband pulled more on one side, but as he did so the horse became frightened, and bolted with them. She lost consciousness, and when she recovered her husband was lying by the road side insensible. She had fallen on her shoulder, and her collar bone was broken. At the time she recovered the men in the trap were driving off faster than ever. A young man helped witness home, and brought her husband. The men were to blame for shouting so loudly and frightening the pony.

Joseph Harvey, of Tividale, said he heard five or six men in a trap driving at full speed, and shouting to Woodhouse as though they wished him to get out of the way. When the pony bolted both were thrown out, and the trap fell over. He called to the men, but they would not stop.

Police-constable Gevin said he had made full enquiries as to the men in the trap, but had not learned who they were. He received no information of the man's death until late on Tuesday evening.

The Coroner summed up, and asked the jury if they would have an adjournment to give the police more time. There seemed no doubt but that the men would say if brought before the jury that they were simply shouting for the old man to get out of the way.

The wife evidently did not seem to think much of the blame to be attached to the men, for she made no complaint, and did not inform the police of the death of her husband for a long time. The jury then returned a verdict of Accidental Death.”

1881 Census

35, Oakham

- [1] Joseph Cox (54), licensed victualler, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Sophia Cox (56), wife, born Dudley;
- [3] John Cox (26), son, clerk at colliery, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Annie E. Cox (21), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Mary S. Cox (19), daughter, born Rowley Regis:

County Express 21/4/1883

“On Wednesday afternoon Mr. Edwin Hooper (South Staffordshire Coroner) held an inquest at the WHEAT SHEAF INN, Turners Hill, Rowley, respecting the death of Thomas Pugh (43), who had died from the effects of burns received on the 9th instant at the Birchfield Colliery, near Halesowen, belonging to the Churchbridge Colliery Company.

Mr. W. B. Scott, her Majesty’s Inspector of Collieries, was present to watch the proceedings.

The evidence of several witnesses showed that at six o’clock in the morning of the 9th instant a fire was discovered in the workings in the ‘wind way’ of the colliery, and efforts were made to extinguish the flames by pouring water from a pipe. On the arrival of deceased he suggested that a tub of water should be emptied on the fire, which was at the back of a heading. At the time the place was full of steam and smoke, and in consequence of deceased opening a trap door the fresh air came in contact with the heated smoke, the result being that an explosion followed, and deceased and a man named Reuben Lewis were badly burnt. The injured men were removed to their homes and Pugh expired on the 15th instant.

In reply to Mr. Scott two of the witnesses stated that there was sulphur in the pit.

The Coroner said he thought the doggy (Simpson) should have been in attendance and thoroughly explained to the jury how the explosion took place.

Mr. T. E. Lloyd, the certificated manager at the colliery, stated that Mr. Simpson’s absence was caused through the workings being still on fire. He might say that deceased was considered to be a skilled workman, and should have known better than to open the trap door in the way that he did.

The jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death.”

1891 Census

1, Turners Hill

- [1] Joseph Cox (64), licensed victualler, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Sophia Cox (66), wife, born Dudley;
- [3] Annie E. Cox (31), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Mary S. Cox (29), daughter, born Rowley Regis:

County Advertiser 1/9/1894

“On Wednesday afternoon Mr. E. Hooper (coroner) held an inquest at the WHEAT SHEAF INN, Turners Hill, Rowley, respecting the death of John Henry Turner (43), recently employed as an engineer at Lord Dudley’s Lye Cross Colliery, who died suddenly on Sunday morning last. The evidence showed that for some time past deceased had suffered from heart disease, and expired on Sunday before medical aid could be procured. The jury returned a verdict of Death from Natural Causes.”

County Advertiser 24/9/1898

“On Sunday afternoon the annual friendly societies’ Sunday service, on behalf of the hospitals, was held in a field at the back of Mountford House, Siviters Lane, Rowley, kindly lent for the occasion by Dr. J. G. Beasley. The members of various societies met at their headquarters, and were formed into a procession as below. The Blackheath Village Band started from the WHEAT SHEAF INN, Turners Hill at one o’clock, with the Church of England Friendly Society, and proceeded through Portway and Perrys Lake, calling at the BULLS HEAD INN for the Sick Club, at the WARD ARMS INN for Court Foresters’ Pride, at the KINGS ARMS INN for Lodge Working Man’s Friend. It then proceeded by way of Ross, Holly Road, Tump Road, and John Street, to the GEORGE AND DRAGON Ground. The Woodgate Brass Band had in the meantime covered its route from the OLD BUSH INN, Powke Lane, with Court Little Band of Hope, calling at the MALT SHOVEL INN for Lodge Lily of the Valley, the VINE INN for Court Mistletoe Bough, proceeding along Station Road to the RAILWAY INN for Court Britannia’s Pride, thence through Halesowen Street, Tump Road, and Hackett Street, meeting the other Courts at the GEORGE AND DRAGON Ground. A united procession was then formed, and marched to Siviters Lane, reaching the ground at three o’clock. The proceedings opened with the hymn ‘All people that on earth do dwell,’ after which the Chairman (Mr. E. Pewtress, CC) delivered a short address.

The Rev. C. W. Barnard, MA, Rector of Kings Norton, then addressed the meeting, after which the hymn ‘Lead, kindly light,’ was sung. Addresses were also delivered by the Revs. W. Hall and N. Haigh, of Blackheath.

At the close a collection was taken on behalf of the Dudley Dispensary and Birmingham Eye Hospital. It amounted to £11 9s 5d.”

1901 Census

1, Turners Hill – Tavern

- [1] Joseph Parkes (60), licensed victualler, born Blackheath;
- [2] Sarah Jane Parkes (59), wife, born Blackheath:

Birmingham Daily Gazette 1/6/1906

“Bankrupts.....

Fanny Parkes, 4, High Street, Blackheath, grocer (wife of William Parkes). Trustee, Joseph Parkes, WHEAT SHEAF INN, Turners Hill, Rowley Regis, victualler. Dated May 21; filed May 28; unsecured liabilities £221 9s 8d; estimated assets, £110.”

1911 Census

1, Turners Hill

- [1] Walter Woodall (35), brewer (beer), licensed victualler, born Wednesbury;
- [2] Elizabeth Woodall (36), wife, married 12 years, assisting in the business, born Wednesbury;
- [3] Florence Woodall (11), daughter, school, born Tipton;
- [4] Walter Woodall (5), son, born Tipton;
- [5] Harold Woodall (1), son, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] Mabel Taylor (16), domestic servant, born Rowley Regis:

Demolished

It was rebuilt behind the original one in 1936.

Evening Despatch 26/1/1939

“Youths’ and Nig Nog Fixtures.....

Youths’ League Division North B.

Kick-off 2.30. Oakham Wanderers v Bush Rangers.

(WHEATSHEAF INN, Oakham).”

1939 Register

WHEATSHEAF INN

- [1] Frank Jinks, date of birth 12/7/1900, publican, licensee, married;
- [2] Alice Jinks, dob 13/2/1902, unpaid domestic duties, married;
- [4] Alice A. Bayliss, dob 21/6/1874, unpaid domestic duties, widowed:

Birmingham Daily Post 19/11/1958

“After discovering that the key of his house fitted the door to the WHEATSHEAF public house, Oakham, a 13-year-old boy visited the inn 21 times in the early hours of the morning. On 19 visits he took money from a box behind the bar. On another occasion he took a packet of cigarettes. On his last visit he was caught by police.

At a Rowley Regis juvenile court yesterday, the boy admitted breaking into the premises and stealing a total of £11 10s. His father was ordered to pay a total of £4 10s and the boy was placed on probation for three years and ordered to attend an attendance centre for 12 hours.”

Tipton Herald 13/8/1960

“A man who put a wine glass in his pocket after having a drink with his wife and daughter at the WHEATSHEAF INN, Turners Hill, Oakham, pleaded not guilty at Old Hill Magistrates Court on Wednesday to the theft of the glass, worth 1s 3d. He was William Gilbert (45), of 38, Willow Drive, Oakham, who was given a conditional discharge on payment of £1 15s costs.

PC Davies said while in plain clothes, off duty, he saw Gilbert with two women, drinking in the forecourt of the WHEATSHEAF INN. When they had finished drinking, Gilbert put two of the glasses on the window sill of the Inn and put another in his pocket. Gilbert then walked away with the two women down City Road. One of the women told Gilbert not to take the glass. The constable stopped Gilbert when he had gone about 50 yards and told Gilbert he had seen him take the glass from the Inn. Gilbert put his hand in his left-hand pocket, produced a glass and handed it to the constable.

Gilbert said, ‘You must have been drunk, because I took it out of my right-hand pocket.’ Gilbert added that he was having a drink with his wife and daughter, and put the glass in his pocket ‘to tease my wife.’ He had commented about the price of a small drink his daughter had. ‘There was no cause to steal the glass; it was not wanted,’ he said. ‘I was going to nip back with it when the constable stopped me. I had gone only a few yards.’

Supt. Critchley asked Gilbert if it would have been ‘a bit of a shock’ had he known the young man looking at him was a police officer. Gilbert replied, ‘If I wanted to steal anything that would be the last spot in the world I would go to.’

The Superintendent asked Gilbert if he was serious when he said he was teasing his wife by putting a glass in his pocket. ‘You don’t know my wife,’ commented Gilbert.

The Chairman (Mr. John Ball) commented that there was an element of doubt about Gilbert’s intentions.”

Frederick Brown was married to Ingeborg.

See also WALL HEATH TAVERN, Wall Heath, and TEN ACRES, Stourbridge.

Arthur Isherwood was married to Sheila.

He was born c.1928.

See also RED LION, West Bromwich.

Sandwell Evening Mail 3/6/1988

“Gig Guide Friday Red Shoes (WHEATSHEAF Rowley Regis).”

Sandwell Evening Mail 2/12/1988

“A Rowley Regis couple complain trade has slumped at their pub by at least 15 per cent since a road was closed to make way for the merger of two huge quarries. The WHEATSHEAF INN is in Turners Hill Road on top of the 1,000ft high Rowley Hills. Motorists used the road to reach parts of the Black Country from Rowley Regis. But the road was closed as a through road to enable the Hailstone and Edwin Richards quarries on either side of the road to be merged.

The Government closed the road despite protests from Sandwell councillors and hundreds of Rowley Regis families who said the road was a ‘short cut’ to various Black Country areas. The quarrying firms of Tarmac and ARC Roadstone merged the quarries to obtain more stone for making roads. Now WHEATSHEAF licensee Mr. Glenn Whitehouse and his wife Dierdre complain that trade has been affected by the road closure.”

Sandwell Evening Mail 17/5/1991

“Gig Guide Thursday Ian The Goat/Bogus Social Workers (WHEATSHEAF Rowley Regis).”

[2019]

Closed [2020]

Express & Star 9/5/2023

“A pub is set to be converted into ‘ultra-modern’ flats, if plans are approved by councillors this week. The WHEATSHEAF, a former pub at the junction of Portway Hill and Turners Hill in Rowley Regis, would be demolished to make way for a three-storey building containing 20 apartments and 23 car parking spaces.....”

Halesowen News 24/11/2023

“Sandwell Council has backed a move to knock down the empty former WHEATSHEAF pub in Rowley Regis and replace it with 20 ‘ultra-modern’ flats. There were concerns about the flats plan by Jugraaj Singh with some objectors saying that two dozen more cars using the ‘perilous’ and ‘dangerous’ four-way junction on the corner of Turners Hill would be a recipe for disaster. Objectors had also said the surrounding streets were already congested and the application did not provide enough parking space for visitors. This would also make the already congested roads during busy pick-up and drop-off times at nearby Oakham Primary School even worse, the objectors said.....”

WHEELIE THIRSTY

215, Halesowen Road, OLD HILL

OWNERS

Fixed Wheel Brewery [2019]

LICENSEES

Scott Povey [2019]

Charlie Pugh [2019] manager

Penny Birks [2021] manager

NOTES

It opened on 2nd May 2019 in a former café.

Charlie Pugh – see also PARK TAVERN, Kingswinford.

Halesowen News 17/5/2021

“The manager of an Old Hill micro pub is fuming after teenagers vandalised its outside seating area for the second time in weeks. The gang of four youths struck at the WHEELIE THIRSTY Micropub on Halesowen Road yesterday (Sunday May 16) at around 6pm, just hours before it was due to reopen. Manager Penny Birks said the incident, in which the group of three girls and one boy, ripped up flower beds, snapped small trees and threw rubbish around, left her feeling angry and despondent. It is the second time it has happened as the same youths struck around a fortnight ago. It came as a real blow as the bar did not operate outdoors only and opened for the first time since November today (Monday 17).

Penny said on Facebook, ‘This has totally ruined my Sunday but felt I had to share in case anyone knows who they are. I am the manager of the WHEELIE THIRSTY Micropub in Old Hill. I have worked extremely hard getting the bar looking great for reopening tomorrow, now for the second time three girls and a boy have vandalised the outside area. I have them on camera and will be calling the police and the local school. Fortunately my children are teenagers and once I enhance the footage they should recognise them! Any help will be appreciated.....’

[2021]

WHITEHEATH GATE

Oldbury Road, (152, Whiteheath Road), (152, (17), (27), Whiteheath Gate), (17, Whiteheath), (Birchfield Lane), WHITEHEATH

OWNERS

George Long
Showells Brewery Ltd. (leased) [1918]
William Butler and Co. Ltd. [1959]
Mitchells and Butlers Ltd.

LICENSEES

Job Parkes [pre 1860]
Richard Barnsley [1859] – 1860;
Thomas Hurley Robertson (1860 – [1892]
John Evans [1896]
Albert Moore [1901]
George Long [1902]
William Evans [1904] – [1912]
James Mallin [1916]
Tabiatha Horton [1919] – 1920;
Thomas Prescott (1920);
George Hall (1920 – 1931);
John Calloway (1931 – 1942);
Mildred Miriam Calloway (1942 – 1964);
John Robinson Brettell (1964 – [1965]

NOTES

27, Whiteheath Gate [1881]
17, Whiteheath Gate [1891], [1908], [1912], [1924]
17, Whiteheath [1911]
152, Whiteheath [1939]
152, Whiteheath Road [1940]

WHITEHEATH GATE [1864], [1892], [1896], [1916], [1924]
GATE [1932], [1940]

Oxford University and City Herald 30/8/1856

“On Tuesday afternoon, the inquest on the bodies of the unfortunate men who were killed by the explosion at Lord Ward’s Ramrod-hall Colliery, on the 13th inst, was resumed at the WHITEHEATH GATE. Mr. Brough, the Government Inspector, was present, and was accompanied by Mr. Wynne, inspector for the adjoining district on North Staffordshire. Mr. Wainwright, solicitor, of Dudley, attended to watch the proceedings on behalf of Lord Ward.

The evidence of the witnesses examined at the first enquiry was read, and a large amount of additional evidence was given. Mr. Brough, the Government Inspector for the district, was then examined, and deposed to the following effect. On the day after the explosion he made a careful inspection of the Ramrod-hall colliery. He found all that part of the pit, through which he passed, a perfect wreck, as regarded timber, but otherwise little injured. There was no fireman at the bottom of the up-cast, nor any other means for producing a current of air. There were doors and stoppings in the pit judiciously placed and properly constructed, but no other means for producing ventilation. He descended the pit again on the following Tuesday, when he found the ventilation restored; the air was good and the pit safe, though still without a furnace. They found fire-damp in three separate points, all at the end of gate roads and but a few yards in each case beyond the air. At the north-eastern end of the first bolt-hole he found a door put up for temporary purposes. It had been placed there since the explosion. The original door at the north-eastern end he found on the floor of the bolt-hole, shattered to pieces. From this he concluded that though one door was closed the other remained duly closed. Therefore he was of opinion that the explosion was not caused by the first bolt-hole having been left open at all. At the north-western end of the second bolt-hole he found a shattered pair of doors, they were prostrated to the north-west, probably by the expansive force of the explosion. He believed these doors were shut when the explosion took place; that, therefore, it could not have been caused by the second bolt-hole having been left open, though had such been the case, the mine would have been left in a perilous state. It was in great danger, even with all the doors closed, in consequence of the want of a furnace at the bottom of the up-cast shaft.

Other evidence having been given, the Coroner said that if Baker, the butty, had been alive, he would have directed the jury to return a verdict of manslaughter against him. As it was, he left it for them to say whether an equal degree of culpable negligence did not attach to the ground bailiff who had the management of the pit. After a short consultation, however, the jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death, unaccompanied by any remark."

London Daily News 15/9/1856

"The last of the five inquests held upon the bodies of the eleven men and lads who were killed by an explosion at Lord Ward's Ramrod-hall Colliery, near Oldbury, on the 13th of August, took place on the afternoon of Friday last at the DUDLEY ARMS HOTEL, before R. Docker, Esq, acting for W. Robinson, Esq. The inquiry has been opened by viewing the bodies of the deceased on Friday, the 15th ult. The names of the three subjects of the inquiry were Richard Cartwright, Thomas Shaw, and Thomas Round. It may be well to observe that the other four inquests were held as follows: At WHITEHEATH GATE, on the 26th ult, on Thomas Baker, William Simpson, Joseph Fullwood, and Samuel Willets; and at Portway on the 28th, on Thomas Hampton, by G. H. Hincliffe, Esq, the verdict in each of these three instances being Accidental Death; on John Sheldon and John Bryan, by R. Docker, Esq, at Oldbury, on the 4th inst, when the jury found a verdict of Manslaughter against the dead butty, Thomas Baker; and on the 9th inst, at West Bromwich, by G. H. Hincliffe, Esq, on Thomas Waller, when the jury returned a similar verdict, viz, Manslaughter against Baker. The jury in the last case attached no blame to the ground bailiff, and in addition to their verdict on Manslaughter against Baker, they recommended that in future no person be allowed to descend the pit with a lighted candle, or with fire, before safety lamp had been used."

[The jury tried to bring in a verdict of Wilful Murder against Baker, but the coroner would not accept it and eventually they returned a verdict of Manslaughter.]

Bells Life in London and Sporting Chronicle 13/2/1859

"To be shot for, open to all England, tomorrow (Monday) at Mr. R. Barnsley's, WHITEHEATH GATE INN, near Oldbury, a £20 sweepstakes, by 20 members, at £1 each. Conditions: 3 birds each, 21 yards rise, 60 yards boundary; single guns not to exceed ¾ bore, 2oz of shot, double guns 1½oz of shot, allowed two yards. The gun to be held below the elbow till the bird is on the wing. A plentiful supply of the best blue rocks will be on the ground. Shooting to commence at one o'clock precisely."

County Advertiser 25/6/1859 - Advert

"Unreserved Sale, at the WHITEHEATH GATE INN, Whiteheath Gate, near Oldbury.

To be Sold by Auction, by Mr. W. Hawkins, on Monday Next, June 27th, 1859, the whole of the excellent Public House Fixtures, Capital Drinking Tables, Four Pull Beer Machine, Piping and Taps, Brewing Utensils, Casks, Household Furniture, Beds, Bedsteads, and other Effects, upon the premises as above, under a Distress for Rent.

Sale to commence at Eleven o'clock in the Morning."

London Gazette 4/12/1860

"Job Parkes, heretofore of WHITEHEATH GATE INN, in the parish of Rowley Regis, in the county of Stafford, Licensed Victualler, Licensed Brewer, and Retailer of Spirituous Liquors, Wine, Beer, and Tobacco, and Butty Collier, working the Titford Colliery, in the parish of Oldbury, in the county of Worcester, on his own account, then working the Furnace Colliery, in the parish of Oldbury aforesaid, in partnership with Richard Barnesley, then working the Holt Colliery, in the parish of Hales Owen, in the county of Salop, on his own account, and the Alston Colliery, in the parish of Oldbury aforesaid, in partnership with Noah Parkes, at the same time carrying on the business of a Licensed Victualler aforesaid, then working the New Rounds Green Colliery, in the parish of Oldbury aforesaid, on his own account, afterwards working the Alston and Titford Collieries aforesaid, in partnership with Noah Parkes aforesaid, then of Webster's Farm, in the parish of Oldbury aforesaid, working the Alston Colliery in partnership with Noah Parkes, at the same time working the New Rounds Green Colliery aforesaid, and farming at the farm aforesaid on his own account, then of Portway Hall, in the parish of Rowley Regis, in the county of Stafford, working the Holt and New Rounds Green Colliery aforesaid on his own account, at the same time working the Alston Colliery, in partnership with the said Noah Parkes and Jabez Griffiths, afterwards working the Holt Colliery aforesaid on his own account, then of Pensnett, in the parish of Kingswinford, in the county of Stafford, working the No.41 Coal Pit, Old Park, Pensnett aforesaid, on his own account, and in lodgings, and late of Pensnett aforesaid, out of employment and in lodgings."

St. Giles, Rowley - Parish Register - Baptisms

27th January 1860 - Eliza, daughter of Thomas Hurley and Catherine Robertson, victualler, Whiteheath.

December 1861 - Lucy Catherine, daughter of Thomas Hurley and Catherine Robertson, victualler, Whiteheath Gate.

29th March 1863 - Mary Ellen, daughter of Thomas Hurley and Catherine Robertson, publican, Whiteheath Gate.

12th February 1865 - Robert, son of Thomas Hurley and Catherine Robertson, victualler, Whiteheath Gate.

12th February 1865 - Joseph, son of Thomas Hurley and Catherine Robertson, victualler, Whiteheath Gate.

18th April 1869 - Charlotte, daughter of Thomas Hurley and Catherine Robertson, publican, Whiteheath Gate.

1861 Census

Whiteheath

[1] Thomas H. Robertson (35), innkeeper, born Halesowen;

[2] Lucy C. Robertson (33), wife, born Halesowen;

[3] Eliza Robertson (1), daughter, born Rowley Regis;

[4] Mary Ann Collins (19), domestic servant, born Bricken Hampton, Staffordshire:

Thomas Hurley Robertson was also a carpenter. [1864], [1865]

Bells Life in London and Sporting Chronicle 16/12/1865

“Open To All. To be shot for, at Mr. Thos. H. Robinson's [sic], the WHITEHEATH GATE INN, Whiteheath Gate, near Oldbury, on Monday, Dec 18, a handsome fat pig, weighing upwards of 18 score, by 20 members at 10s each. The winner to take the pig or receive £9 10s. Conditions, 3 birds each, 21 yards rise, 60 fall, guns not to exceed 11 bore, single guns 1½oz shot, double guns 1¼oz shot, allowed two yards. Best blue rocks provided. The inn is ten minutes' walk from Oldbury station.”

Birmingham Daily Post 19/10/1867 - Advert

“To be Let, with immediate possession, that well-known Old-licensed Public-House, the VINE INN, White Heath Gate, near Oldbury. The premises comprise Tap Room, large Kitchen, Bar, Parlour, Club Room, Chambers, good Cellars, Brewhouse, Malt Room, Piggeries, and good Garden. Rent low. No valuation required.

Apply to Mr. Robertson, WHITE HEATH GATE INN; or to Mr. Hawkins, Auctioneer, &c, Brierley Hill.”

Aris's Birmingham Gazette 13/6/1868 - Deaths

“On the 1st inst, of scarlatina, aged 5 years and 3 months, Mary Ellen, the beloved daughter of Thomas and Lucy Robertson, Whiteheath, Rowley Regis.”

1871 Census

Whiteheath

[1] Thomas H. Robertson (47), builder and publican, born Halesowen;

[2] Lucy C. Robertson (43), wife, born Halesowen;

[3] Eliza Robertson (11), daughter, born Rowley Regis;

[4] Lucy C. Robertson (9), daughter, born Rowley Regis;

[5] Robert Robertson (6), son, born Rowley Regis;

[6] Joseph Robertson (6), son, born Rowley Regis;

[7] Charlotte Robertson (2), daughter, born Rowley Regis;

[8] Elizabeth Oakes (17), domestic servant, born Oldbury;

[9] Eliza Newell (51), visitor, born Halesowen:

Birmingham Daily Post 14/8/1873 - Advert

“Preliminary Announcement. The Titford Estate, Whiteheath Gate, near Rowley and Oldbury.

Valuable Freehold Property, comprising Farm House, Out-Buildings, and about Forty-three Acres of valuable Freehold Land, situate in the townships of Cakemore and Warley Wigorn, in the parish of Hales Owen, in the county of Worcester.

To be Sold by Auction, by Mr. Bateman, on Tuesday, the 9th day of September next, at Six o'clock in the evening, at the house of Mr. Robertson, the WHITEHEATH GATE INN, Rowley, subject to condition then to be produced, and either in one or such other lots as may be determined upon.....”

1881 Census

27, Whiteheath Gate – WHITEHEATH GATE INN

[1] Thomas H. Robertson (57), licensed victualler, born Halesowen;

[2] Lucy Catherine Robertson (53), wife, born Halesowen;

[3] Lucy Catherine Robertson (19), daughter, born Rowley Regis;

[4] Robert Robertson (16), son, born Rowley Regis;

[5] Joseph Robertson (16), son, born Rowley Regis:

Thomas Hurley Robertson was re-elected to the Rowley Regis Local Board in April 1883.

County Advertiser 27/6/1885 - Advert

“Worcestershire. Sale of Compact Freehold Estate of about Nineteen Acres, called Titford Farm, situate at Whiteheath Gate, near Rowley and Oldbury.

Messrs. Batmen and Son are instructed by the Trustees of the late Mr. John Clay, to Offer for Sale by Auction, at the house of Mr. Robertson, the WHITEHEATH GATE INN, Rowley, on Thursday, the 16th day of July, 1885, at Five for Six o'clock in the Evening precisely, subject to conditions of Sale to be then produced.....”

County Advertiser 18/7/1885

“On Thursday last Mr. John Bateman offered for sale, at the WHITEHEATH GATE INN, the freehold estate known was Titford Farm, consisting of five closes of arable, meadow, and pasture land, besides the farm buildings, with garden and croft adjoining, measuring in all nineteen acres. There was a good attendance, and the bidding was spirited. The estate realised £1,150. Mr. W. W. Oldershaw, of Blackheath, was solicitor to the vendors.”

West Bromwich Weekly News 16/4/1887

“On Wednesday afternoon an inquest was held at the GATE INN, Whiteheath, before Mr. E. Hooper (coroner), touching the death of Joseph Willetts, who was killed at the Rowley Station Colliery, on Sunday morning last.

Samuel Willetts, brother of deceased, stated that he came up the pit at one o'clock in the morning, from work, and his brother was on the bank waiting for him. They went into the engine house and went to sleep until about 5.30. He had never slept in the engine house before, and afterwards his brother, with Timothy Harris, and John Daniels, started to go down the pit, although cautioned not to do so. Deceased had no business at the colliery whatever.

Timothy Harris, engineer at a quarry, stated that he went about eleven o'clock to the colliery to wait for deceased's brother coming up the pit. He had previously seen deceased at the BULLS HEAD, Mr. Homer's house, where they had share of a pint of ale.

They then went into the engine house and took a quart of fourpenny with them, which they drank. About 6.30 some of the men came to go down the pit, and deceased stated that he wanted to go down with them, but they asked him not to go, but ultimately John Daniels, himself, and deceased went down. They got down safely, and seven of them got on the cage to come up again, and deceased had hold of the chain. After coming up about 150 yards they heard deceased give a squeal, and then heard him drop on the bottom. They went for Mr. E. Simpson, the foreman, and got him out.

John Daniels, horse feeder at the colliery, stated that they went down the pit and cleaned the stables out, and about nine o'clock they came up, and about half-way Timothy Harris said he had gone back again.

The Coroner: You knew these men were strangers to the colliery, why did you not ask why they were going down? – Witness: I don't know.

Coroner: Who were the other men? – Witness: There were seven.

The Coroner: And what brought all these people going down, it seems that the whole parish could go down, if they liked.

Mr. W. F. Clark, who represented the Colliery, said it was news to him.

The Coroner remarked it was the most extraordinary thing he had heard of for some time.

John Sheldon, under doggy, stated he went down to examine the pit and saw the visitors there.

The Coroner: And did you speak to them? – Witness: No.

The Coroner: And did you consider you were doing your duty according to the rules of the pit by letting them remain there? – Witness: No.

The Coroner: I should think not. – Witness: I ought to have given him a reprimand for being down.

The Coroner: And you did not. How many were there in the pit? – Witness: Seven.

The Coroner: And three out of seven had no business there.

Mr. Scott: Who was attending to the bank? The rule says 'That the engineer shall not raise or lower the shaft without someone being present.'

The Coroner: Have you ever read those rules? – Witness: No.

Mr. Scott: And you are the person in charge of the pit? – Witness: I was that morning.

Witness then stated that he dragged the man out of the water quite dead, and his head was off.

Alfred Shirland, engineer at the colliery, stated that he went on duty about five o'clock on Saturday last, and about eleven o'clock deceased and Harris asked him to allow him to stop in the engine house until one o'clock. He did so, although he knew he was breaking the law.

The Coroner: It is the most extraordinary proceeding I have heard of for some years, the law seems to have been broken with impunity in so many cases. He let them all down the Colliery, and knew at the same time that they had no business there.

To witness: Who gave the signal? – Witness: There was no one there, the foreman had not come.

Mr. Franks explained that some 18 months ago they heard rumours of someone going down the pit on a Sunday morning, and the engineer was sent for and cautioned about it.

The Coroner (to the engineer): And yet in face of that you have allowed this to take place? You have allowed them to remain in the engine house contrary to rules. It is giving them an opportunity to interfere with the machinery if they had been disposed to do so. The law has been broken in several instances, and I hope the Company and officers will take the matter up. He also believed the Government Inspector would take the matter up. The Coroner said the engineer had told the truth about the matter, but if he had done his duty, that man's life would have been saved. It was a very sad and distressing case, but the young man had no business at the colliery, and had no right to go down the pit at all. As far as the evidence went there was nothing to lead them to suppose that there had been any violence used towards him, and they must return a verdict of Accidental Death. There had been a flagrant breach of the laws, which no one deplored more than the Colliery proprietors themselves. There was no doubt the engineer would have to answer for it, and he only hoped others would take warning from it. If they returned a verdict of Manslaughter no jury would return a bill against them, and the best course would be to leave it in the hands of the Government Inspector.”

West Bromwich Weekly News 25/6/1887

“At a meeting of the Whiteheath Lodge, No.916, of the Nottingham Imperial Order of Oddfellows, held on Monday at the WHITEHEATH GATE INN, Rowley Regis, the Rev. F. Keatch, Vicar of Blackheath, was instituted as honorary member.

The Secretary (Mr. A. Harper) moved that the degree of PIF, pro forma be conferred on Bro. F. Keatch, which was unanimously carried. This is the highest honour that any minor lodge could confer upon any of its members.....”

West Bromwich Weekly News 20/8/1887

“Nottingham Imperial Order of Odd Fellows.

The annual meeting of the Rowley Regis Provincial Grand Lodge of the above Order was held at the WHITEHEATH GATE INN, Rowley Regis, on Saturday last.....”

Dudley Mercury 13/4/1889

“Halesowen. The following persons were appointed Overseers and Surveyors for the different parishes, at the Police Court, on Tuesday.....

Surveyors Cakemore, Thomas Hurley Robertson.”

1891 Census

17, Whiteheath Gate – WHITEHEATH GATE INN

[1] Thomas H. Robertson (67), builder and licensed victualler, born Halesowen;

[2] Lucy Catherine Robertson (65), wife, born Halesowen;

[3] Robert Robertson (26), son, contractor, born Rowley Regis;

[4] Joseph Robertson (26), son, carpenter, born Rowley Regis;

[5] Salina Lappage (24), servant, born Tipton:

Birmingham Daily Post 7/4/1893

“Yesterday Mr. E. Hooper (coroner) held an inquest at the GATE INN, White Heath, concerning the death of Eunice Law (15), who was found drowned in the Birmingham Canal, near Rowley, on Tuesday last. The deceased disappeared mysteriously about a fortnight ago, under circumstances already reported, and as there was no evidence to show how she got into the water the jury returned a verdict of Found Drowned.”

Birmingham Daily Post 13/12/1893 - Advert

“GATE INN, Whiteheath. This old-established Full-licensed House to be Let; lease 13 years; good lodge, 150 members. Rent £30. Tied for ales only.

Apply, William Henry Pass, Auctioneer and Valuer, 13, Church Street, Oldbury.”

Thomas Hurley Robertson died on 30th August 1896.

1901 Census

Whiteheath – GATE INN

[1] Albert Moore (32), publican, born Birmingham;

[2] Elizabeth Moore (30), wife, born Oldbury;

[3] Clarson Moore (7), son, born Rowley Regis;

[4] Florry Moore (6), daughter, born Rowley Regis;

[5] Joseph Moore (5), son, born Rowley Regis;

[6] Elsie Moore (3), daughter, born Rowley Regis;

[7] Baby (under one month), daughter, born Rowley Regis;

[8] Louis Law (21), domestic servant, born Oldbury:

County Express 17/5/1902

“On January 10th George Farrell, of Arden Grove, Langley, went into the WHITEHEATH GATE INN, and was supplied with a pint of ale, which he drank, but for which he refused to pay. As he became disorderly, the landlord (George Long) ordered him out. He refused to go, and upon the landlord endeavouring to put him out, Farrell broke the cup he had had the ale in wilfully, and also struck the landlord in the neck. He was summoned for refusing to quit, for assault, and for malicious damage to a cup and to a collar the landlord wore, and which was torn in the melee.

He was fined 5s and costs for refusing to quit, and ordered to pay 1s damages.”

Smethwick Weekly News 5/7/1902

“On Friday, June 27th, a supper was given by the proprietor of the GATE INN, Whiteheath, Mr. George Long. About 40 guests sat down to an excellent spread, which was done full justice to. Great credit was due to the host and hostess for the able manner in which they had catered for the company. Upon the cloth being drawn Mr. W. Griffiths was appointed to the chair, and a good programme of music was got through.....”

County Express 23/8/1902

“Two boys, Thomas Crumpton (9) and Joseph Kesterton (9) of Whiteheath, were charged with stealing a quantity of vetches, value 6d, the property of Edwin Richards; and Mrs. Rebecca Phoebe Long, landlady of the WHITEHEATH GATE, was charged with receiving the vetches knowing them to have been stolen, on August 11th. Mr. G. Green appeared for Mr. Richards, and Mr. S. Vernon defended Mrs. Long.

The case for the prosecution was that PC James saw the two boys, each with a bag of vetches, coming from a field near the Titford Colliery, belonging to Mr. Richards. From what they told him, he accompanied them to Mrs. Long's house, where he noticed some vetches lying near the stable. He saw Mrs. Long, and stated the boys informed him that she has sent them for the vetches, to which she replied that she had had some from them that afternoon, and had given the boys some coppers for them. At the same time she pointed to the vetches lying near the stable, saying that those were the vetches they had brought in the afternoon. She did not know where the boys had had the vetches from.

Mr. Vernon submitted there was no case made out against his client, for there was no evidence to show where the first lot of vetches came from. The boy Crumpton often cleaned out the stable for Mrs. Long, and on the afternoon in question asked and received permission to go out and get some grass. His client never saw what the boys brought in until the police officer called her attention to it, and she certainly had not the slightest intention of receiving anything that was stolen. He submitted it was a most trumpery and trifling case. Crumpton and Kesterton were dealt with under the First Offenders Act, and ordered to come up for judgement if called upon within twelve months. The case against Mrs. Long was dismissed."

1911 Census

17, Whiteheath

[1] William Evans (38), licensed victualler, born Halesowen;

[2] Annie Evans (37), wife, married 8 years, assistant in business, born Oldbury;

[3] Annie Evans (7), daughter, school;

[4] Harrold Evans (5), son, school:

Birmingham Daily Post 14/9/1918 - Advert

"To Close A Trust. To Investors, Brewers, Manufacturers, Speculators, and Others.

Notice of Sale by Auction of a Valuable Old Licensed Freehold Public House, a Choice Residential Property, Building and Accommodation Lands, Dwelling Houses, a Landed Property and Buildings, in and around Warley, Whiteheath, and Rowley Regis. Alfred W. Dando & Co. have received instructions from the Trustees of the late W. C. Hodgetts, to Sell by Auction, at the TALBOT HOTEL, Oldbury, on Tuesday, October 1, 1918, at Seven o'clock in the Evening precisely, subject to conditions of sale then to be produced, as follows.

Lot 1. A Very Valuable Old-established Fully-Licensed Commodious Public House, known as the GATE INN, Whiteheath, near Blackheath, in a prominent position on the Oldbury Road at the corner of Titford Road, as let to Messrs. Showells Limited on lease expiring September 29, 1920....."

1939 Register

152, Whiteheath

[1] John Calloway, date of birth 11/10/1895, publican, married;

[2] Mildred Miriam Calloway, dob 13/12/1900, unpaid domestic duties, married;

[3] John Calloway, dob 23/4/1922, trailer tiller, single;

John Calloway died in the 2nd quarter of 1942.

Birmingham Daily Post 10/2/1962

"The owner of two crossbred Labradors was lowered 30ft over the top of Newberry Lane slag quarry, Rowley Regis, last night to rescue his two dogs. He had told the fire brigade that the dogs were too vicious to be rescued by anyone but himself. Apparently the dogs, while chasing foxes in the area, had fallen over the 30ft sheer drop but had landed on a ledge short of the water which fills the hole. The dogs were brought to safety by their master, Mr. Kenneth Wilson, of the GATE INN, Whiteheath, near Blackheath."

The original pub stood on the opposite corner.

A Provisional Removal Order to premises to be erected at Oldbury Road and Throne Road, Whiteheath, was granted. Final Order granted on 25th March 1964.

Demolished

Rebuilt

The new building opened in 1964.

Sandwell Evening Mail 15/3/1988

"Fifteen men have appeared at Warley magistrates court accused of conspiracy to cause violent disorder after being arrested by police who stopped a van in Whiteheath, Rowley Regis, on Saturday night.

They were all bailed to appear before magistrates at Smethwick on March 23 on condition that they did not visit four public houses in the Whiteheath and Blackheath areas – the MANCHESTER, the TRAVELLERS REST, the ROWLEY RAG, and the GATE INN. Thirteen of the defendants who appeared were from Rowley Regis....."

Sandwell Evening Mail 12/1/1991 - Advert

"The GATE INN, White Heath offer traditional home made lunches from 12-2pm.

Telephone orders welcome.”

It closed in 2007.

Halesowen News 8/12/2008

“Plans for a shopping and housing development in Rowley Regis have been approved despite fears it could create traffic ‘mayhem.’ An application to build a Tesco Express store and six apartments on the derelict site of the WHITEHEATH GATE pub, on Oldbury Road, were passed by Sandwell council on Wednesday December 17. The decision will anger some residents who claim the new store will increase traffic on an already busy junction. Speaking at the committee meeting, Amrit Singh, manager of the nearby Whiteheath Supermarket, said he had witnessed four accidents in the last month. He said, ‘The new store will cause total chaos with the traffic.’

Those concerns were echoed by councillor Iris Boucher, who said the development would be ‘an accident waiting to happen,’ while councillor Trevor Crumpton claimed it would create ‘mayhem.’

The committee eventually agreed to approve the application when council highway engineers agreed to take another look at the traffic situation. A council highways officer told the committee he did not believe the new store would significantly increase traffic in the area. When complete the new store could create up to 25 new jobs and parking for 24 cars.”

[2009]

Demolished [2010]

Shops were built on the site. [2011]

WHITEHEATH TAVERN

400, (403), (404), (83), Birchfield Road, (Birchfield Lane), (83, Birchy Field Lane), WHITEHEATH

OWNERS

Gresley Brewery Company, Burton [1894]
William Hodgetts, Whiteheath
J. Hodgetts, Clent
Edwin Richards, Birchfield Lane, Oldbury
Nathaniel Sadler, Dingle Street, Rounds Green (acquired c.1905)
T. A. Sadler, Dingle Street, Rounds Green
Grigg and Brettell Ltd. (acquired in 1928)
Ansells Ltd.
Inn Business
[Richmond Hill Brewery \[2023\]](#)

LICENSEES

Richard Pearsall [1845] – [1851]
George Moseley [1854] – [1856]
Noah Parkes [1857] – [1859]
Richard Clifton [1861]
Samuel Clifton [1870] – [1872]
Thomas Collins [1880] – 1889;
George Trainer (1889 – 1890);
John Willis (1890 – 1891);
Mrs. Hannah Willis (1891 – 1892);
James Peacock (1892 – 1893);
Alfred Eardley (1893);
William Comley (1893 – 1903);
Edwin Gerrard Carroll (1903 – 1904);
Nathaniel Sadler (1904 – 1908);
Charles Withers (1908 – 1926);
Arthur Jones (1926 – 1927);
William Edwin Colesley (1927 – 1929);
Arthur Harold West (1929 – 1933);

Eli Shenton (1933 – 1935);
Daniel Jeavons (1935 – 1950);
Thomas George Edward Tipping (1950 – 1954);
Alfred Edwin Tongue (1954 – 1959);
Harry Stewart Parkes (1959 – 1962);
Barry Nock (1962 – []
Ray Hingley [1960s]
Anthony ‘Tony’ Barnard [1987] – [2001]

NOTES

83, Birchfield Lane [1873]
83, Birchy Field Lane [1881]
403, Birchfield Lane
404, Birchfield Lane [1896]
400, Birchfield Lane [1896], [1916], [1921], [1939]
400, Birchfield Road [1995]

It was originally the NEW HOTEL [1845], [1850], [1873], [1892], [1916]

It was known locally as “Jedknapps”.

Richard Pearsall was also a butcher. [1845], [1850]

Birmingham Journal 27/9/1845

“On Friday week an inquest was held at the NEW HOTEL, Whiteheath Gate, in the parish of Hales Owen, on the body of William Jones, aged twenty-two years, who was injured on the 24th of July last, in Messrs. Houghton’s pit, by the fall of a quantity of coal. The deceased lingered till the 18th inst, when death put an end to his sufferings. The unfortunate man had his thigh broken, and three of his ribs were forced in. No blame could be traced to any party, the mine being properly and carefully worked. On the following day another inquest was held at the CROWN AND ANCHOR, Oldbury, on the body of William Madeley, aged twenty-two, who was also injured a few days before by a fall of coal in Mr. Horton’s pit, in the parish of West Bromwich. In both cases verdicts of Accidental Death was recorded.”

1851 Census

Whiteheathgate

- [1] Richard Pearsall (36), butcher and beer shop, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Sarah Pearsall (33), wife, born Halesowen;
- [3] William Pearsall (14), son, scholar, born Warley Wigorn;
- [4] Richard Pearsall (11), son, scholar, born Warley Wigorn;
- [5] Alfred Pearsall (10), son, scholar, born Warley Wigorn;
- [6] Joseph Pearsall (3), son, born Halesowen;
- [7] Isabela Hall (18), general servant, born London;
- [8] Thomas Pearsall (33), visitor, butcher, born Birmingham;
- [9] Hannah Pearsall (30), visitor, born Birmingham:

George Moseley was also a butcher. [1854]

Birmingham Journal 16/8/1856

“On Wednesday evening an inquest was held at the house of Mr. Moseley, the NEW HOTEL, Oldbury adjourned.”

Birmingham Journal 30/5/1857 - Advert

“Road-Side Corner Public House.

To be Let, that capital Old-established Public House, known as the NEW INN, situated at the junction of the roads leading from Hales Owen to Oldbury, and from Titford to Rowley Regis, being in the midst of the new Coal Mines, now in full operation. Valuation under £100 if required.

Enquire of Mr. Noah Parkes upon the Premises, Whiteheath, near Oldbury.”

County Advertiser 27/6/1857 - Advert

“Sale at the NEW INN, Whiteheath Gate, near Oldbury.

To be Sold by Auction, by Mr. Hawkins, on Tuesday, July 14th, 1857, the whole of the excellent Public House Fixtures, Beer Machine, Screens, Tables, Brewing Plant, Malt Crusher, Well-seasoned Casks, varying from 50 to 500 gallons, several Pockets of Prime Hops, of the growth of 1856; together with part of the modern Household Furniture, and effects, belonging to Mr. Noah Parkes, who has taken to the GEORGE AND DRAGON, and had no further use for the same.

Sale to commence at Eleven o'clock in the Morning.

Any person wishing to take to the House previous to the sale, may have any portion of the Fixtures at a fair valuation; for particulars apply on the Premises, or to the Auctioneer, Brierley Hill."

Birmingham Journal 16/1/1858 - Advert

"To be Disposed of, a Licensed Public House, near Oldbury, with Butcher's Shop attached, in which good business is done. Satisfactory reasons will be given for the Proprietor parting with the Business. Apply at the NEW HOTEL, White Heath Gate, near Oldbury."

County Advertiser 25/9/1858 - Advert

"To Publicans, Brokers, Butchers, and Others.

Unreserved Sale at the NEW HOTEL, White Heath Gate, near Oldbury.

To be Sold by Auction, by Mr. W. Hawkins, on Tuesday next, September 28th, 1858, the whole of the Public House and Butcher's Shop Fixtures, Four-pull Beer Machine, Drinking Tables, Casks, Mashing Tub, Coolers, Wood Vats, part of the Household Furniture, and effects.

Sale to commence at Eleven o'clock in the morning."

County Advertiser 15/10/1859

"Joseph Willetts and Richard Fereday, colliers, were charged with breaking into the cellar of Mr. Noah Parkes, landlord of the NEW INN, Whiteheath Gate, Rowley, and stealing a quantity of ale therefrom, his property. It appeared in evidence that the two prisoners in company with other men were drinking and bowling on Monday night last at the public house called the SWAN, kept by Benjamin Slim, which adjoins or is in close proximity to the prosecutor's premises. The NEW INN had been lately taken to by Parkes, and the house was unoccupied. In the cellar, however, were two or three thirty-six gallon casks containing ale, one of which was in tap, and about two gallons had been taken out. The cellar had been properly secured during the afternoon, and about seven o'clock in the evening prosecutor received information that the cellar had been broken into and that the ale was being carried away. He immediately went to the place, and saw the prisoner Fereday in Slim's yard in the rear of the premises, and separated from prosecutor's house by a seven feet wall, but he had nothing in his possession. He went to the other side of the wall, and there found an iron bucket full of ale, and on examining the cellar, which had been entered by breaking open the trap door, he found that the barrel which was in tap was about half emptied of its contents. It was estimated to be worth at least 1s per gallon. The prisoner Fereday had endeavoured just previously to borrow a bucket from Mrs. Slim, but was refused, and he then took it. He was also heard to say that he would have some ale, and that it should come from the other side of the wall, pointing towards the cellar; and another witness swore to seeing the prisoners handing the beer to each other over the wall. They were each committed to take their trial at the ensuing Stafford Sessions on Monday next."

Wolverhampton Chronicle 19/10/1859

"Staffordshire Quarter Sessions.....

Richard Fereday, 23, and Joseph Willetts, 35, both miners, were charged with breaking into the dwelling house of Noah Parks, the keeper of the NEW INN, White Heath, Rowley Regis, and stealing 18 gallons of ale from a 36 gallon cask in the cellar. Fereday was seen bringing some of the ale away from the cellar in a bucket; Willetts, it was alleged, aided him in passing it over the wall at the back of the NEW INN. Fereday was now sentenced to three months' hard labour, and Willetts was acquitted."

1861 Census

Birchyfield Lane – NEW HOTEL

- [1] Richard Clifton (55), victualler, born Oldbury;
- [2] Sarah Clifton (51), wife, born Oldbury;
- [3] Vaughton Clifton (21), son, born Oldbury;
- [4] Sarah Clifton (18), daughter, housekeeper, born Oldbury;
- [5] Mary Clifton (10), daughter, scholar, born Oldbury;
- [6] Hannah Egginton (15), general servant, born Langley:

Richard Clifton – see also ALBION, Oldbury.

Samuel Clifton, beer retailer, Birchfield Lane. [1870]

1871 Census

Birchy Field Lane

- [1] Samuel Clifton (37), publican and farmer 30 acres, employs 1 labourer, born Oldbury;
- [2] Jane Clifton (35), wife, born Smethwick;
- [3] Susan Clifton (4), daughter, born Oldbury;
- [4] Mary Clifton (2), daughter, born Oldbury;
- [5] Ann M. Bissell (12), nurse girl, born Dudley;
- [6] Phillis Willetts (19), domestic servant, born Rowley:

Birmingham Daily Post 2/9/1872 - Advert

“Youth Wanted, to attend to Cows and make himself useful.
Apply, S. Clifton, White Heath, near Oldbury.”

Jane Clifton married Thomas Collins in the 4th quarter of 1879.

1881 Census

83, Birchy Field Lane – NEW INN

- [1] Thomas Collins (51), farmer, 50 acres, 2 men and 1 boy, and licensed victualler, born Oldbury;
- [2] Jane Collins (42), wife, born Tipton;
- [3] Elizabeth A. Collins (2 months), daughter, born Oldbury;
- [4] Susan Clifton (13), step-daughter, scholar, born Oldbury;
- [5] Mary Clifton (11), step-daughter, scholar, born Oldbury;
- [6] Samuel Clifton (8), step-son, scholar, born Oldbury;
- [7] Amy Clifton (6), step-daughter, scholar, born Oldbury;
- [8] Phillis Willetts (28), domestic servant, born Oldbury;
- [9] Ann Collins (48), sister, unmarried, born Oldbury:

Bradford Observer 31/5/1882

“From last night’s [London] Gazette Liquidations by Arrangement. . . .
Thomas Collins, licensed victualler, Whiteheath Gate, Oldbury.”

Thomas Collins was also a shopkeeper. [1884], [1888]

West Bromwich Weekly News 27/8/1887

“Thomas Collins, landlord of the NEW HOTEL, Whiteheath Gate, was charged with keeping open during prohibited hours, on the 14th inst, and Charles Withers, of Whiteheath, and Jonathan Gething, of Birchfield Lane, were charged with being on the premises. PC Clarke stated that he watched the premises closely on the Sunday in question, and saw the defendants enter the public house by a door leading from a field. He followed one of them and there found both defendants in the house with ale before them. He called the attention of the landlady to it, but she vouchsafed no reply.

Mr. Collins pleaded that he was not aware the men were there.

Withers stated that he went for the purpose of getting some eggs, and the beer that was filled he understood was for the manservant.

Collins was fined 10s and costs, and Withers and Gething 5s and costs each, or in default seven days.”

Birmingham Daily Post 19/9/1888

“The adjourned annual licensing session for the Oldbury Division took place yesterday. There were three cases that had been adjourned from the annual meeting. . . .

Thomas Collins, NEW HOTEL, White Heath. . . .

The Bench cautioned the applicants as to their future conduct, and then renewed the licenses.”

Birmingham Daily Post 5/7/1889 - Advert

“Grand Litter, champion-bred, perfectly-marked St. Bernard Pups. Sell cheap.
NEW HOTEL, Whiteheath, near Dudley.”

Birmingham Mail 23/3/1891 - Advert

“John Willis, Re (The NEW HOTEL, Birchfield Lane, near Oldbury), Licensed Victualler.

Claims forthwith to undersigned, Trustee’s Solicitor.

J. W. Phillips, 13, Old Square, Birmingham.”

1891 Census

Birchfield Lane – NEW HOTEL

- [1] John Willis (50), general labourer, born Bromsgrove;
- [2] Hannah Willis (45), wife, licensed victualler, born Defford, Worcestershire;
- [3] William Packwood (15), son, born Bromsgrove;
- [4] Annie Parkes (19), general servant, born Oldbury;
- [5] John Wright (56), visitor, caretaker, born Fazeley, Staffordshire;
- [6] Enoch Green (59), visitor, bailiff in possession, born Princes End:

Warwick Advertiser 27/6/1891 - Advert

“Oldbury. To Brewers, Wine and Spirit Merchants, Publicans, and Others.

To be Sold by Auction (Without Reserve) by Bill, Son, and Gamble, at the TALBOT HOTEL, Oldbury, on Thursday next, the 2nd day of July, punctually at Six o’clock in the Evening, subject to conditions to be then produced.

The very Valuable Free Lease, having 12 Years unexpired, at the low rent of £35 per Annum, together with the Goodwill and Possession of the well-accustomed Fully-licensed Roadside Inn, known as the NEW HOTEL, White Heath, Tifford, near Oldbury, together with the Fittings and Fixtures therein.....

Birmingham Daily Post 18/11/1891

“Yesterday, at the Oldbury Police Court – before Messrs. H. Heaton and A. M. Chance – Hannah Willis, landlady of the NEW HOTEL, Whiteheath, was charged with refusing to admit the police on the 11th inst.

Police-constable Stevens said he and Police-constable Davis visited the defendant’s house at 11.25pm, and saw a light in the bar and in the passage. They listened near a side window for a few minutes, and hearing voices and sounds of laughter inside they knocked at the front door and asked to be admitted. Defendant appeared at the front window downstairs and asked what was the matter. Witness replied that he wanted to come in. Defendant then said there was no one in the house except her own family.

Witness repeated his request to be allowed to enter the house, but defendant refused to open the door, and, upon witness threatening to report the case, she said they could do what they liked but they would not enter her house that night.

Police-constable Davis corroborated.

Defendant now said she was under the impression that her house was private after eleven o’clock until the next morning.

Mr. Wright (clerk) said she was bound to admit the police at any time.

She was fined 19s 6d, including costs.”

Birmingham Daily Post 8/3/1894

“Yesterday afternoon, at West Bromwich County Court – before Judge Griffiths – an action was brought by Alfred Yardley, of the Sun Hotel, Hunnington, against the Gresley Brewery Company, Burton, to recover £22 7s alleged to be due from defendants in connection with the sale and transfer of the NEW HOTEL, Whiteheath. Mr. J. S. Sharpe appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Hugo Young (instructed by Messrs. James and Barton, Birmingham) appeared for defendants.

Mr. Sharpe explained that plaintiff was formerly engaged in farming. In early last year he paid a deposit of £100 to go into the NEW HOTEL, which belonged to defendants. The defence was that the plaintiff had signed a receipt in settlement of all accounts between himself and the company. After a long legal argument, his Honour ultimately gave a verdict for defendants.”

Birmingham Daily Post 28/9/1895

“Yesterday, at the County Court – before Judge Griffiths – an action was brought by Richard Clarkson Smith, boatbuilder, Bridge Street, Smithwell against William Comely NEW HOTEL, Whiteheath, to recover £9 7s for thirty-four weeks hire of two boats at 5s 6d per week. Mr. J. Clark appeared for the plaintiff.

The defendant pleaded that he hired the boats during the severe frost last winter, and it was customary for hirers of boats to be exempt from payment when the boats were stopped through strikes, lock-outs, or the frost.

The Judge held that the plaintiff was entitled to the full amount claimed in law, but said it would be only doing justice to the defendant if the plaintiff made him a reasonable allowance for the time when the boats were frozen up. He gave a verdict for the plaintiff £9 1s 6d, and Mr. Clark intimated that the plaintiff would make the defendant an allowance.”

County Advertiser 24/6/1899 - Advert

“To Brewers, Licensed Victuallers, and Others.

Important Sale of Freehold Licensed Premises, and other Properties, at Oldbury, Titford, Causeway Green, and Bristnall Fields, in the Parish of Halesowen.

H. King and Son are favoured with instructions from Messrs. Hodgetts to Offer for Sale by Auction, on Thursday, June 29th, 1899, at the Grand Hotel, Colmore Row, Birmingham, at Three o’clock in the Afternoon, subject to Conditions of Sale then to be produced.....

The NEW HOTEL, Birchfield Road aforesaid, let to the Albion Brewery Co., under lease expiring 25th March, 1903.....

Plans and particulars may be had of Mr. T. Jarvis Hodgetts, Surveyor, 21, Bennetts Hill, Birmingham; Messrs. Bourne and Co., Solicitors, Dudley; or of the Auctioneers, Stourbridge.”

AND

Smethwick Telephone 24/6/1899

“.....Sale by Auction, on Thursday Next, June 29th, 1899.....

Lot 6. The NEW HOTEL, Birchfield Road, Oldbury, a Fully-Licensed Freehold House, situate in and fronting to Birchfield Road aforesaid, and in a good neighbourhood for business. The house is well built, and has ample accommodation for the trade. There is stabling for five horses, with Coach-house, Shed and Yard. It is now held by the Albion Brewery Company, under lease which expires on the 25th March, 1903.”

West Bromwich Weekly News 18/8/1900 - Advert

“Titford Pool Now Open.

A Steam Launch and a Good Fleet of Rowing Boats.

Terms: Steam Launch and Rowing 6d per hour, Children 3d each. Fishing per day, Angling 1s, Pike 2s 6d. Season Tickets for Fishing on Special Terms.

N.B. Promenade Season Tickets, 5s 6d each.

Dinners and Teas Provided on the Island, Pool, or at the NEW HOTEL.

Ales, Wines, Spirits, Cigars and Refreshments of the Finest Quality.

Proprietor W. Comley, NEW HOTEL, Whiteheath, nr. Dudley.”

1901 Census

Birchfield Lane

- [1] William Comley (49), licensed victualler, colliery agent, born Firley, Gloucestershire;
- [2] Mary Comley (47), wife, born Whiteheath;
- [3] Georgina Comley (24), daughter, hotel assistant, born Whiteheath;
- [4] Mary Comley (22), daughter, born Whiteheath;
- [5] Alexander Comley (18), son, born Whiteheath;
- [6] Albert Comley (12), son, born Langley;
- [7] Sarah Hodgetts (16), housemaid, born Whiteheath:

Smethwick Weekly News 20/4/1901

“William Comley, landlord of the NEW INN, Whiteheath, was summoned for driving a vehicle without having a light attached in Brades Road, Rounds Green, on Good Friday.
PC Haden gave evidence, and defendant, who was represented by Mr. H. Jeffries, was ordered to pay the costs, 6s 6d.”

Smethwick Weekly News 5/10/1901

“Mr. William Comley, of the NEW HOTEL, Whiteheath, gave a supper to the members and friends of the money club held at the hotel, on Saturday last. A good number of the members and friends sat down to an excellent spread, presided over by the host, and after the cloth was drawn a musical evening was spent. Master Bert Comley delighted the audience by his exceptionally good rendering of several selections on the banjo.”

Smethwick Weekly News 1/3/1902

“Mr. William Comley of the NEW HOTEL, Whiteheath, gave a supper on Saturday evening last, in connection with the Money Society held at the hotel, and also to celebrate the promotion of his son, Mr. Ernest Comley, to the rank of sergeant in His Majesty’s Army. The proceedings were given quite a military air by the number of officers present from the Battery stationed at Great Brook Street Barracks, Birmingham. After a splendid spread a vote of thanks was passed to Mr. and Mrs. Comley for their hospitality. A smoking concert followed.....”

Smethwick Weekly News 23/8/1902

“The members of the money society held at the NEW HOTEL, Whiteheath, were entertained to dinner by the host (Mr. William Comley) on Saturday evening last, and an excellent spread of good things were provided and thoroughly enjoyed.....”

William Comley – see also NAVIGATION, Titford Road, Oldbury.

Evesham Standard 23/6/1906

“Worcestershire Quarter Sessions.....

Joseph Brown (29), and Anthony Walker (23) were charged with stealing a hundred and twenty-four pennies, a brass lock, and a tin money box, the moneys and property of the Oldbury Urban District Council, on March 29, at Langley.

The prisoners were seen by several witnesses in the vicinity of a void house in Junction Street, Langley, to which an entrance was forced, and the money and box taken from a penny in the slot gas meter. The same night Walker, in the MALT SHOVEL INN, Oldbury, gave 12 coppers in change for a shilling. Brown on the way to the police station dropped a skeleton key, which it was found would open the door of the house from which the money was taken, and he also had upon him a filed down latch key and a file.

Brown, on oath, denied all knowledge of the offence. He was not at the scene of the theft at the time named.

Walker alleged that he and Brown were together at Langley, and Brown left him to go to these premises. Brown gave him a shilling’s worth of coppers and some other money he had earned. He admitted that Brown, at the NEW HOTEL, Whiteheath, had earlier in the day given change in copper for a two-shilling piece.

The jury found both prisoners guilty, and recommended Walker to mercy.....

Mr. Bund passed the following sentences.....

Anthony Walker, recommended to mercy for theft at Oldbury, 12 months’ hard labour.

Joseph Brown, for burglary at Oldbury, 12 months.”

Charles Withers was nicknamed ‘Jedknapp’.

Smethwick Telephone 14/6/1913 - Advert

“The Birmingham & Midland Motor Omnibus Company Ltd.

Oldbury & Blackheath Motor Omnibus Service.

Commencing Saturday, May 24th, Omnibuses will run as follows.

Week Days.

Leave TALBOT HOTEL (Oldbury) for Blackheath, Quinton, Bearwood, and Birmingham at 8-5am and 5 minutes past every hour until 1-5pm, then 5 and 35 minutes past every hour until 11-5pm.

Leave HANDEL HOTEL, Blackheath, for Oldbury at 7-50am and 50 minutes past every hour until 12-50pm, then 20 and 50 minutes past every hour until 10-50pm.

Sundays.

Leave Oldbury at 11-5am and 5 and 35 minutes past every hour until 10-35pm.

Leave Blackheath at 10-50am and 20 and 50 minutes past every hour until 10-20pm.

Fares.

TALBOT HOTEL, Oldbury, and NEW HOTEL, Whiteheath, 1d.

NEW HOTEL, Whiteheath, and HANDEL HOTEL, Blackheath, 1d.

TALBOT HOTEL, Oldbury, and HANDEL HOTEL, Blackheath, 1½d.

O. C. Power, Traffic Manager, Omnibus Offices, 65, Tennant Street, Tel.2371 and 2 Mid.”

Staffordshire Advertiser 27/2/1915

“Sergeant-Major C. Withers, of the 1st South Staffordshire Regiment, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Withers, of the NEW HOTEL, Whiteheath, Black Heath, is in a base hospital suffering from rheumatism. Mr. and Mrs. Withers have three sons at the front. Private Jack Withers, who is in the 2nd South Staffordshires, and went through the Boer War, was some time ago reported killed in action, but his wife has received a letter from him saying he is alive and well.”

Arthur Harold West – see also WAGGON AND HORSES, Oldbury.

1939 Register

400, Birchfield Lane

[1] Daniel Jeavons, date of birth 7/4/1887, public house keeper, married;

[2] Nellie Jeavons, dob 15/4/1886, unpaid domestic duties, married;

[3] Daniel Jeavons jun, dob 25/9/1915, turner, aluminium alloy rolling mills, single:

Sandwell Evening Mail 29/5/1987

“Hoping for a smashing boost for charity – that’s Tony Barnard, licensee of the WHITEHEATH TAVERN at Oldbury, and his wife Pat. On Tuesday a gallon size whisky bottle which has been filled with coins by customers will be smashed open. The proceeds will go to the children’s ward at Sandwell District General Hospital.

Mr. Barnard said, ‘The cash has been donated over several months but until the bottle is emptied it is difficult to say how much is in.’

Warley boxer Pat Cowdell and two directors from Ansells Brewery had agreed to attend the pub on Tuesday to help him and his wife find out how much money has been collected.”

Sandwell Evening Mail 5/6/1992

“Customers at the WHITEHEATH TAVERN, Birchfield Road, Oldbury, are planning to take part in 12-hour darts marathon on July 4 to help raise funds for equipment for the Birchley School and the Causeway Green Adult Training Centre for the Handicapped, Oldbury.”

Sandwell Evening Mail 14/10/1992

“On the Oche.....

Oldbury Sunday League division two leaders Molliett continued their winning ways with a 5-2 success against WHITE HEATH TAVERN B.”

[2023]

WHITE HORSE

Old Hill Road, BLACKHEATH

OWNERS

Steven Rollinson, Blackheath

LICENSEES

Thomas Ashfield (1868 – [1871])

Steven Rollinson (1877 – [])

NOTES

WHITE HART [1872]

County Express 25/4/1868

“Thomas Ashfield was charged with keeping his public house open after eleven o’clock, on the 15th inst. Police-constable Thomas Clee said at about twenty minutes past eleven he found several men in with some ale before them. Plaintiff had only been at the house a fortnight. Ordered to pay costs.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 30/8/1869

“The annual licensing meeting for Rowley Regis division was held on Friday, at COOKSEY’S HOTEL, Old Hill.....

The following beerhouse keepers had been fined during the last five years.....

Thomas Ashfield, WHITE HORSE, Blackheath.”

County Advertiser 7/10/1871

“Thomas Ashfield, of the WHITE HORSE public house, Blackheath, was charged with assaulting his landlord, Steven Rollinson, of Blackheath. Mr. Hayes appeared for the complainant, and Mr. Shakespeare, of Oldbury, for the defendant.

The defendant some time ago gave the complainant three months’ notice to leave the WHITE HORSE. The notice expired on the 29th September, and on that day Rollinson went to take possession. Meeting with opposition, however, he forced open the door, and was violently assaulted by defendant and his wife. Mr. Shakespeare held that the Court had no jurisdiction, as it was not competent for any Justices to try a case of assault and battery, in which the question of right or title to lands or tenements was involved. The case was, therefore, dismissed.

There was a cross-summons against Rollinson for damage to a door, but this was also dismissed on the consent of Mr. Shakespeare.”

AND

Stourbridge Observer 7/10/1871

“Thomas Ashfield was charged with assaulting Stephen Robinson, on the 29th ult, and Stephen Robinson was charged with wilfully damaging a door, the property of Ashfield. Mr. Hayes appeared for Robinson, and Mr. Shakespeare for Ashfield.

Mr. Hayes, in opening the case, said the complainant is the owner of the WHITE HORSE, at Blackheath, and defendant is the tenant. He gave him notice to leave, which expired on the 29th September. Complainant went to take possession of the house. Defendant refused to give up possession, and assaulted complainant.

Complainant said he lived at Blackheath, and was landlord of the WHITE HORSE, and the defendant was the tenant. He gave him notice to leave, which expired on the 29th September. Went to take possession, when the defendant refused to leave, and struck him several times. Defendant’s wife scratched his face.

Cross-examined: The door was fastened. I pushed the door open. It burst the latch off. I have given the defendant three months’ notice.

Mr. Shakespeare, for the defence, said the notice was bad, and it was a question of disputed right, and the Bench had no jurisdiction.

The Bench took this view of the case, and dismissed both summonses, each party to pay costs.”

Stourbridge Observer 14/12/1872

“Transfers Mr. Addison applied on behalf of Stephen Rollinson, owner of the WHITE HART, Blackheath. Mr. Laister, of the HANDEL INN, opposed the application. Mr. Hayes read the Act bearing upon the point.

Mr. Hingley said he was informed that the house was not wanted, and should refuse the transfer until he had taken time to consider whether it was legal.

Mr. Addison said that the late tenant was out of the house, and that the present applicant gave him £9 to go out, because he had been convicted, and urged upon the Bench to transfer the license.

Mr. Hingley: I am not to be bothered out of it by a lot of stuff. I shall take time to consider the question.

The further hearing of the case was adjourned until next week.”

County Express 8/8/1874 - Advert

“To the Overseers of the Poor, and the Superintendent of Police, of the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford, and to all whom it may concern.

I, Stephen Rollinson, do Hereby Give Notice that it is my intention to Apply, and the General Annual Licensing Meeting, for the Division of Rowley Regis, to be holden at COOKSEY’S HOTEL, at Old Hill, in the said County, on the 28th day of August, next ensuing, at the hour of Eleven o’clock in the Forenoon of the same day, for a License to Sell Beer by Retail, to be consumed on the premises, situate at Blackheath, Rowley Regis, and known as the sign of WHITE HORSE, and was then in the occupation of Thomas Ashfield, who kept it as a beerhouse for five years, but is now in my own occupation, in pursuance of the Acts Geo.IV, and Wm.IV, c.64, and Acts amending the same, and which said premises are duly rated for the relief of the poor as by law is required.

Given under my hand this 20th day of July, 1874.

Stephen Rollinson.”

County Express 29/8/1874

“The Rowley annual Brewster Sessions was held at COOKSEY’S HOTEL yesterday morning.....

Steven Rollinson applied for a beer license for a house known as the WHITE HORSE, Blackheath. The application was refused.”

County Express 25/8/1877

“After the business of the Petty Sessions had been disposed of the Annual Licensing Sessions were held.....

Stephen Rollinson's application (supported by Mr. Hayes) for an indoor license to sell beer at Blackheath, was granted; the only person opposing being Mr. Laister, of the HANDEL HOTEL.”

AND

County Advertiser 25/8/1877

“Stephen Rollinson, WHITE HORSE, Old Hill Road, Rowley, was granted a retail license.”

WHITE LION

Powke Lane / Cox's Lane, OLD HILL

OWNERS

Mrs. Ann Cole [1881]

Mrs. Emily (Cole) Sippitts [1900]

John Rolinson and Son Ltd. (acquired c.1901 for £2,800) [1903]

Wolverhampton and Dudley Breweries Ltd.

LICENSEES

Thomas Cole [1850] – [1851]

Mrs. Ann Cole [1856] – 1859);

Thomas Cole [1861]

Thomas Bird (1859 – 1872);

Mrs. Ann Bird (1872 – [1873])

Ann Cole [1880] – [1885]

Thomas William Cole [1888] – [1892]

Mrs. Emily (Cole) Sippitts [1892] – [1898]

James Thomas Cole [1901]

William Edward Broadbent [1903] – 1909);

Thomas Rawlings (1909 – [1912])

Mrs. Alice Rawlings [1916] – 1964);

Albert Thomas Rawlings (1964 – 1965);

Mrs. Ethel Violet Rene Cope (1965 – [])

NOTES

Coxes Lane [1860]

Thomas Cole, beer retailer and butcher, Cox's Lane. [1850]

1851 Census

Cox's Lane

[1] Thomas Cole (37), butcher, employs 1 man, born Dudley;

[2] Elizabeth Cole (44), wife, born Rowley;

[3] Joseph Cox (19), butcher's assistant, born Rowley;

[4] Sarah Cole (18), daughter, born Dudley:

Wolverhampton Chronicle 29/11/1854

“G. W. Hinchcliffe, Esq, coroner, held an inquest on Wednesday last at the WHITE LION INN, on the body of Phillis Jeavons, aged six years, who on the 17th of November went with other children to a pit mouth where there was a fire, and in a short time her clothes caught fire. A man at the wharf being alarmed, speedily went to the spot, and extinguished the flames, and found the deceased was badly burnt. She died from the effects of the burns on the Monday following. Verdict Accidental Death.”

County Advertiser 8/11/1856

“Ann Cole, of the WHITE LION INN, for having her house open at illegal hours on Sunday morning, the 26th ult, was fined 20s and costs.”

Brierley Hill Advertiser 17/1/1857

“William Powell, a collier, was charged with stealing a pair of boots belonging to the child of Mrs. Ann Cole, a publican at Row-

ley. It appeared that Powell in company with several other men was in the public house on Tuesday morning last, drinking. Mrs. Cole was washing the child and as soon as the parties had left she missed the boots. Mrs. Cole gave a man named Sims a pint of ale to apprehend Powell, and when he did so he denied all knowledge of the affair; Sims then told him to search his pockets, which he did, and in the right hand pocket of an overcoat he found the boots. In defence Powell denied taking the boots, did not know they were in his pocket, and alleged that some of his companions must have placed them where found, as he had no children or any person to steal them for. Committal to the House of Correction for one month hard labour.”

County Advertiser 13/6/1857

“The following persons, keepers of public houses, were fined for offences against the tenor of their licenses, the respective charges being proved by the testimony of Police-officer Burton. Anne Cole, WHITE LION INN, Rowley Regis, 5s, including costs, for having her house open for the sale of liquor during the hours of divine service on Sunday, the 31st ult; Edward Hewlett, of Garratts Lane, 2s 6d and costs for a similar offence on the same day.”

Brierley Hill Advertiser 26/9/1857

“The license of Ann Cole, WHITE LION, Rowley Regis, was likewise, from a consideration of the fact that no case had been brought against her during the last twelve months, granted..... These cases were suspended at the last general licensing day.”

Birmingham Journal 6/2/1858

“One of Messrs. Badger’s pits at Bell Farm Colliery has been standing for seven or eight weeks past, owing to a dispute between the master and butties as to the charter on which they had been worked; but some satisfactory arrangement having been made on which they (the butties) were again to proceed, measures were adopted on Monday with a view to recommencement. At about twelve o’clock the butties, George Morgan and Isaac Attwood, went to the pit and got into the skip to descend, it is said, to inspect the workings. The machinery was put in motion, and the men slowly disappeared from the surface, but ere they had descended many yards the chain broke, and they and the skip were precipitated to the bottom of the shaft, a distance of about 180 yards. All was consternation at the shocking occurrence; but in the hope that the men might not be dead, a messenger was despatched to Mr. W. E. Johnson’s surgery, at Dudley, for medical aid. Men were in the meantime lowered into the pit, and at the bottom found the bodies of Morgan and Attwood frightfully mutilated, so cut to pieces as to render it necessary to collect their remains into sheets. Morgan was a publican, and kept the OLD CROWN public house, at Darby Hand; and Attwood, also a respectable man, lived at Old Hill.

The inquest on the body of the man Attwood took place on Tuesday, at the house of Mrs. Ann Cole, the WHITE LION, Garratts Lane, before G. H. Hinchliffe, Esq, and a jury.

William Walker, a banksman at the pit, was examined, and said that the pit was at work the whole of the Monday morning, and therefore the skip and chain which broke had been constantly ascending and descending. The butty and Attwood went down about ten o’clock, and soon after eleven they called out to be drawn up. The witness fancied that they had come about half-way up, when heard a jerking of the chain, and in a moment afterwards he heard the skip fall at the bottom. He had been at work there about a week, but he had not seen the chain examined during that time. He never heard any one complain about the chain. If this chain was a good one it would be capable of raising two tons. The engine in drawing the men up, worked at the usual speed. The rivets were broken. The plates seemed to be all right.

William Slim, the engineer at the pit, said he had worked there about twelve months. He said the pit was 200 yards in depth; its mouth was thirty yards from the engine house, and the chain for that distance was supported by three rollers. He had not seen the broken rivet, and he did not think it had been found. He said if the chain had been in good repair, it was capable of raising eight tons. He could not account for the breakage. It was the duty of the chain maker to examine the chain, but he must have orders first. The banksman looked at the chain as it went up and down, and then if he saw anything the matter he told the masters. This was the only opportunity he had of examining it. Richard Priest was the banksman, but he had not been at work lately. Thomas Smith, Lincoln, examined the chain about two months ago, by having the engine worked very quietly. He (Smith) took one rivet out of the chain, and put a new one in. It was about the middle of the chain. This was all he did at it. The witness never heard anything as to the chain being unsafe and dangerous. He could not say how long the chain had been at work.

Benjamin Bourne, of Windmill End, one of the men at work in the adjoining pit at the time, found both the deceased at the bottom, lying near together at the centre of the shaft. The skip was broken to pieces, and was lying about them. The chain was also lying on and about them. The log of the chain was lying on Attwood’s head, which was crushed to a ‘mummy.’ His right arm and left leg were nearly cut off. He (witness) had worked at the pit about three years. The chain was bought from Mr. Oliver Billingham’s about eighteen months ago, and he believed it was then quite new. It was at first placed to work at the thick coal pit, but being too heavy for the balance, it was removed to the pit where it broke about eight or nine months ago. Mr. Attwood, one of the deceased, was in the habit of searching the chain, and had half-a-dozen times sent for the chainmaker to repair it.

The Coroner said it would be desirable to have the evidence of Mr. Billingham, who made the chain, and of some other person who understood chains. It would also be desirable to have the attendance of Mr. Brough, the Government Inspector, and for that purpose it was necessary that they should adjourn the inquiry.

An adjournment for a week then took place.”

Staffordshire Advertiser 13/2/1858

“The adjourned inquests on the bodies of George Morgan and Isaac Attwood, killed last week at a colliery belonging to the Messrs. Badger, near Old Hill, by the breaking of a rivet in the pit chain by which the skip was being drawn up, were held on Monday and Tuesday, before Mr. G. H. Hinchliffe, coroner. The only point of interest in the enquiry was in reference to the chain used. The chain in this case was what is called a flat iron rivet chain. Three links of the chain are riveted to two others, the ends of which are placed between them and two flat pieces similarly riveted outside, one rivet joining the whole together, and passing through seven thicknesses of iron. The evidence was clear as to the quality of the iron in the chain being good and the care taken to examine it; but Mr. L. Brough, Government inspector, said he considered this kind of chain, which he described as a series of three links and a rivet the whole length of the chain, the most dangerous that could be used. The jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death in each case, with a recommendation that the use of rivet chains be discontinued, owing to the great difficulty in discovering the state of the rivets.”

Thomas Bird married Ann Cole in the 4th quarter of 1858.

Thomas Cole, beer retailer, Cox Lane. [1861]

1861 Census

Cox's Lane

[1] Thomas Bird (32), licensed victualler, born Dudley;

[2] Ann Bird (28), wife, born Dudley;

[3] Thomas Cole (6), son, born Rowley;

[4] Benjamin Bird (1), son, born Rowley;

[5] Susannah Highs (13), niece, born Dudley:

Birmingham Daily Post 15/10/1864

“The man Daniel Parkes, alias Trick, who was apprehended on Thursday morning on a charge of having thrown a can of gunpowder into the cottage of a miner named Samuel Rowley, residing at Mushroom Green, Dudley, was yesterday taken before Mr. W. Haden, at the Town Hall, for examination.....

George Rowley, sworn, deposed: I am a miner, working at No.19 pit, at the Earl of Dudley's Saltwells Colliery an explosion took place in my house. I went downstairs and found the place full of smoke, and I opened the door to let the smoke out. I then went upstairs and carried the children down. The window of the downstairs room was broken, and the gable end of the house was blown out.....

Superintendent Mills, of Brierley Hill, deposed: In consequence of information I received I went to the cottage where Rowley lives. I found the kitchen window broken, and the walls very much injured. The premises were altogether very much shaken; the roof was broken, and the bricks and tiles were scattered about the yard.....

Thomas Bird, of the WHITE LION, Old Hill, victualler, was the first witness for the defence. He deposed: I have known the prisoner twenty years. He lived about a mile from my house. He was at my mother's house on Wednesday night – the ROSE AND CROWN, at Darby Hand. I saw him there at half-past eleven o'clock, and left him there. The prisoner lives right opposite to my mother's house. He was drinking when I saw him, and was 'fresh.'

Cross-examined: I know that he is a miner on strike. He is brother-in-law to me. I don't think he could have walked half a mile.....”

[Daniel Parkes was committed to Worcestershire Assizes. On 12th December 1864 he appeared charged with 'Feloni-ously by explosion of gunpowder, destroying part of a dwelling house, persons being therein.' He was found guilty and sentenced to ten years' penal servitude.]

County Advertiser 4/11/1865

“Thomas Whittall, a banksman, was charged with stealing a watch-seal and key, the property of a German Jew, named Samuel Friedman, hawker, of Birmingham. On the previous Wednesday the prosecutor called at the WHITE LION INN, Old Hill, and exposed a quantity of jewellery, which he had in a box, for sale. While the prosecutor's back was turned for a moment, the landlord (Thomas Bird) saw prisoner take something from the box and walk to the other side of the room. Prosecutor immediately afterwards missed the seal and key, and prisoner was charged with taking it. He denied the charge, and asked to be searched, and he said he would accompany prosecutor to the Police Station. As soon as they had got outside of the house, however, he took to his heels. He was apprehended the same night by Police-constable Daulman. The Bench committed the prisoner to the House of Correction for one month. Mr. Shakespeare defended.”

Stourbridge Observer 10/3/1866

“On Tuesday, an inquest was held before E. Hooper, Esq, at the WHITE LION, Coxes Lane, on the body of George Harcourt, aged 7 years, the son of Richard Harcourt, horse fettler. It appears that the deceased's mother left her four children, of which he was the eldest, in the house while she took dinner. Deceased for some purpose or other, bolted the door, and while in the act of reaching a hook from the crane, caught fire and received such injuries about the body and neck as caused his death. The boy was burnt at 1pm on the 2nd inst, and lingered until 3pm on the 3rd inst. A verdict of Accidental Death was returned.”

1871 Census

Cox's Lane – WHITE LION

[1] Thomas Bird (42) licensed victualler, born Dudley;

[2] Ann Bird (39), wife, born Dudley;

[3] Thomas Cole (16), step-son, born Rowley Regis;

[4] Catherine Gower (18), domestic servant, born Rowley Regis:

Stourbridge Observer 8/7/1871

“A fatal accident occurred on Tuesday last, to a man named William Watehorn, aged 49 years.

It appears that deceased was employed at the Canal Wharf, Old Hill, belonging to Mr. Rose, when a fall of timber took place, which struck the deceased, and he was so injured that he died in four hours after.

The unfortunate man was removed to Mr. T. Bird's, the WHITE LION, where an inquest was held before E. Hooper, Esq, coroner. After hearing the above facts, the jury found a verdict of Accidental Death.”

Thomas Bird died in the 1st quarter of 1872.

County Advertiser 10/2/1872

“The following transfers were made.....

WHITE LION INN, Old Hill, from Thomas Bird (deceased) to Ann Bird, widow.”

[It appears that when Thomas Bird died, his widow took over the license again, and reverted to the surname Cole.]

County Advertiser 19/7/1873

“Samuel Johnson was charged with intent to commit felony. Benjamin Bird said that the defendant was in a stable at the WHITE LION INN. On being asked what he was doing there defendant said he had lost some money. The defendant's father said his son was not possessed of all his faculties. The defendant paid costs.”

Thomas William Cole married Emily Guest in the 4th quarter of 1873.

Dudley and District News 2/10/1880

“Adjourned Licensing Sessions. These sessions were held on Wednesday at Old Hill.....

Mr. Hayes applied for a license for a house in the course of erection, in place of the WHITE LION INN, which recently fell down. Mr. Waldron opposed on behalf of Mr. Darby, landlord of the THREE FURNACES INN, that gentleman being of opinion that there were public houses sufficient in the neighbourhood to supply the wants of the population.

The application was granted, the Bench stating that there was almost a promise at the time Mrs. Cole's house fell down, that when she re-built it her license should be renewed.”

West Bromwich Weekly News 26/3/1881

“Joseph Darby (67), Black Wagon Street, went to the WHITE LION INN, Powke Lane, on the night of the 19th inst, when he accidentally fell down the cellar steps, and was so severely injured that he died on the 22nd inst.”

1881 Census

Powke Lane – LION INN

[1] Ann Cole (49), widow, licensed victualler, born Dudley;

[2] Thomas Cole (26), son, brewer, born Dudley;

[3] Emily Cole (26), wife, born Dudley;

[4] Thomas Cole (2), son, born Dudley;

[5] Sarah A. Bastable (14), general servant, born Rowley Regis:

County Express 21/8/1881 - Notice

“To the Overseers of the Poor, and the Superintendent of Police of the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford, and to all whom it may concern.

I, Ann Cole, Licensed Victualler, now residing at the WHITE LION, Cox's Lane, in the Parish of Rowley Regis, in the County of Stafford, do hereby give Notice, that it is my intention to apply, at the General Annual Licensing Meeting, for the Division of Rowley Regis, to be holden at the Public Office, at Old Hill, in the said County, on the 31st day of August instant, at the hour of Eleven o'clock in the forenoon of the same day, for a Seven Days' License to hold any Excise License or Licenses, to Sell by Retail under The Intoxicating Liquors Licensing Act 1828, and the Acts amending the same, all Intoxicating Liquors to be consumed either on or off the Premises, situate at the WHITE LION, Cox's Lane, in the said Parish, and known by the sign of the WHITE LION, which said premises are of the annual value by law required, of which house and premises I am the owner, and the same are now in my occupation.

Given under my hand this 4th day of August, 1881.

Ann Cole.”

County Advertiser 3/9/1881

“The annual licensing session for the petty sessional division of Rowley Regis, were held on Wednesday last, at the Police Court.....

Mr. Hooper (Messrs. Stokes and Hooper) applied on behalf of Ann Cole, of the WHITE LION INN, Powke Lane, Old Hill for a seven days' license, in lieu of a six days' certificate. The license was granted.”

AND

County Express 3/9/1881

“The annual licensing session for the division of Rowley Regis was held on Wednesday at the Police Court.....

Mr. Hooper (Messrs. Stokes and Hooper) applied on behalf of Ann Cole, of the WHITE LION INN, Powke Lane, Old Hill for the omission of the six days' clause from her license. He urged that for 24 years the applicant had, without complaint, held the license of the old WHITE LION INN, which had now, however, been demolished. Application granted.”

County Express 21/12/1882

“Ann Cole, landlady of the WHITE LION INN, Old Hill, was fined 5s and costs for allowing a horse to stray in Cox's lane, Old Hill. She had been convicted once before for a similar offence.”

County Advertiser 7/3/1885

“Ann Cole, WHITE LION INN, Old Hill, was charged with allowing a horse to stray in Dog Lane, Old Hill, on the 1st inst. Police-constable Wickstead proved the case, and defendant was fined 5s and costs.”

County Advertiser 21/1/1888

“Thomas William Cole, landlord of the WHITE LION, Powke Lane, Old Hill, was charged with selling liquor during prohibited hours on Sunday the 15th inst.

Police-constable McHugh saw a lad go to defendant's house at twenty minutes past three o'clock, where he was supplied with a bottle containing whiskey, for which he paid the landlady.

Mr. Tanfield, who appeared for the defence, said that the liquor was sent for by a man named Caddick, who was engaged at repairing the canal which had recently burst. He lived at Dudley Port and had been at work for 36 hours on the previous day. He was very exhausted, and sent for the whiskey to revive him. He did not know he was doing wrong, because he thought he was entitled to it, living so far away.

In answer to the Bench it was stated that Caddick slept at home on the previous night.

The Bench said the offence was only technical, and they should dismiss the case.”

County Advertiser 30/6/1888

“Mr. Edwin Hooper, coroner for the South Staffordshire district, opened an inquest, yesterday, at the WHITE LION INN, Old Hill, touching the death of Richard Northall (42), Withymoor Road, Old Hill, and Henry Johnson (34), Moor Lane, Old Hill, who were killed on Wednesday whilst engaged at the Gawn Colliery, belonging to Mr. B. Hingley, MP. Deceased, who were colliery engineers, had been engaged in doing some repairs to the pumping apparatus at the bottom of the water shaft, which is some 60 yards deep. They had completed their task for the day, and were being brought up the shaft when the accident occurred which resulted in their death. The men are raised and lowered by means of a gin, and had arrived within about two yards of the top of the water shaft when by some means, at present unaccounted for, the rope, a wire one and practically a new rope, slipped from the drum to the spindle. The rope was naturally jerked with considerable violence, and both Northall and Johnson were thrown from the bowk or skip and fell to the bottom of the shaft, a distance, as already intimated, of some sixty yards. Some men afterwards descended the shaft and found the bodies so terribly mutilated that there was some difficulty experienced in gathering up the remains. Mr. Davis, manager, attended to represent Mr. Hingley, the owner of the colliery.

Jane Northall, wife of one of the deceased, identified the body of her husband. The other body was identified by Enoch Partridge, horsenail maker, of 39, Elbow Street, Old Hill.

The Coroner said it was not his intention to take any further evidence on that occasion. Mr. Scott, the Mines' Inspector, unfortunately, was unable to be present, as he had some cases before the magistrates at Wolverhampton, and had written asking for an adjournment of the inquest. He (the Coroner) proposed to adjourn the inquest for a week. The inquiry was accordingly adjourned.”

County Advertiser 7/7/1888

“Mr. Edwin Hooper, Coroner for South Staffordshire, resumed his inquiry yesterday, at the WHITE LION INN, Powke Lane, Old Hill.....

The Coroner said it was certainly a very unsatisfactory case, as the actual cause of the slipping of the rope was unknown. They might form conjectures as to how it occurred, but it was utterly impossible to say how it did occur. There did not appear to be any breach of the Mines Regulation Act, and the Government Inspector did not attribute culpable blame to anyone, though he made one or two suggestions, which, no doubt, would be carried out.

The Jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death, and recommended that there should be a deeper 'shrouding' on the drum, and that in future there should be someone to mind the rope, unless the gin was shifted.”

County Express 3/5/1890

“An inquest was held by the Deputy Coroner (Mr. F. W. Topham), at the WHITE LION, Old Hill, on Monday, respecting the death of William Henry Hodgkiss (48), miner, of Lion Road, who died suddenly on the 25th inst. Elizabeth Hodgkiss, wife, said her husband was taken ill, and after partaking of some stout he fell down dead. The jury returned a verdict of Death from Natural Causes.”

County Advertiser 19/7/1890

“On Monday evening the members of Court Loyal Marlborough, No.4340, A.O.F. held their annual meeting at the house of Mr. Thos. Cole, the WHITE LION INN, Powke Lane, and a capital dinner was provided. Brother Alfred Lewis Williams, PCR, was appointed chairman, and Brother John Appleby, vice-chairman. The Chairman commented on the satisfactory progress which the Court was making, after which a resolution was unanimously passed thanking the whole of the officers for the admirable manner in which they had carried out their duties. Dr. de Denne was appointed surgeon, and Brother John Williams, PCR, secretary for the ensuing year. Some capital songs rendered by Brothers Eli Cooksey, Thomas Cutler, Joseph Smith, Arthur Grainger, and others, and altogether a very enjoyable evening was spent.”

1891 Census

Powke Lane

[1] Thomas W. Cole (36), licensed victualler, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Emily Cole (36), wife, born Rowley Regis;

[3] James Cole (12), son, scholar, born Netherton;

[4] Joseph Cole (10), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;

[5] Benjamin Cole (8), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;

[6] Rosannah Cole (5), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis;

[7] Hannah Hodgetts (18), domestic servant, born Rowley Regis:

County Express 11/7/1891

“On Saturday evening an accident of an alarming character occurred at the top of Long Lane, near Halesowen. It appears that a wagon laden with hay, belonging to Mr. William Morris, of Green Hill Farm, Halesowen, was being drawn by horses along the main road in charge of boys, when a gig belonging to Mr. Thomas Cole, of the WHITE LION INN, Old Hill, containing Mr. Cole, his son, and a man named Hewitt, collided with the wagon, the result being that the gig was capsized, one of the shafts was broken off, and Cole, the owner, sustained serious injuries to the head. The other occupants of the vehicle were also thrown out, but escaped without injury. Cole, who was rendered unconscious, was removed to his home.”

Thomas William Cole died in the 4th quarter of 1891.

In April 1892 Emily Cole, landlady of the WHITE LION, gave evidence in the case of Edward and Elizabeth Costella, who were charged with obtaining goods on false pretences.

County Express 21/8/1897

“The first of what is intended to be an annual demonstration of the friendly societies in the Old Hill district, was held on Sunday, the object in view being to help the funds of the Dudley Guest Hospital, Dudley Dispensary, and Birmingham Eye Hospital the day was bright and promising, and there were large numbers of people all along the route.

At one o'clock the 1st Worcestershire Volunteer Band started from the CROSS INN, proceeded across Halesowen Road, calling at Trinity Schools and GEORGE HOTEL; then across Lawrence Lane into Reddal Hill Road, calling at the ROSE AND CROWN INN, and proceeding to the Cross, where the final procession was formed. Meanwhile the Old Hill Brass and Red Band started from the WHITE LION INN, proceeded by way of Powke Lane and Garratts Lane to Wrights Lane (as far as the PRINCE OF WALES INN), and returned to Garratts Lane, calling for lodges at the BRITISH OAK INN, FOX HUNT INN, Tabernacle, DUKE WILLIAM INN, VINE INN, to the Cross. On the arrival of this contingent a huge line was formed, and very pretty it looked. Members of the various lodges wore their regalia, and these being interspersed with the more elaborate honorary members' scarves, gave the line a very bright appearance.....”

Emily Cole married Richard Sippitts in the 4th quarter of 1897.

Mrs. Emily Cole was also a brewer. [1898]

County Advertiser 27/8/1898

“On Sunday afternoon the annual hospital parade and open-air service, arranged by the various friendly societies in Old Hill and the surrounding district took place. Processions were formed at different points of members of the Foresters, the Free Gardeners, and provident societies, numbering altogether about 1,000, and these, accompanied by the Blackheath, Halesowen Temperance, and Old Hill Bands, paraded the principal streets of the locality, after which they marched to a field in Garratts Lane, lent for the occasion by Mr. A. Sidaway, where a special service was held. Addresses were delivered by the Revs. E. Brewer, MA (vicar of Old Hill), and W. B. Cheshire (Primitive Methodist). A collection was made along the route and at the service in aid of the Guest Hospital, Dudley Dispensary, and Birmingham Eye Hospital, this realising £25 14s 5³/₄d.

The following was the order of procession issued by the committee. The Blackheath Village Band will start from the WHITE LION INN, Powke Lane, at 1-45 prompt, proceed down Garratts Lane, calling for societies at the BRITISH OAK INN, Tabernacle, DUKE WILLIAM INN, and VINE INN, turning across Queen Street on to the old football ground (by kind permission of Mr. W. H. Jarvis). The Halesowen Temperance Band will start from the PRINCE OF WALES INN, Wrights Lane, at 1-45 prompt, proceed round Cherry Orchard Street, into Wrights Lane, turning down Wagon Street, calling at the OLD ENGINE INN, proceeding down Elbow Street and King Street, across Halesowen Road, to the old football ground. The Old Hill Band will start from the CROSS INN at 1-45 prompt, calling for societies at Trinity Schools and GEORGE HOTEL, proceed across Lawrence Lane, turning up New Street, Ridding Street, Pear Tree Street, Pear Tree Lane, thence into Reddal Hill Road, calling at the ROSE AND CROWN INN, and proceeding to the old football ground. A grand procession will be formed as follows.....”

County Advertiser 25/11/1899

“Richard Sippetts, of the WHITE LION INN, Old Hill, was charged with driving a vehicle at 11-15pm on the 17th inst, without a light. Police-constable Watts said that on the date named, he saw defendant in Garratts Lane, Old Hill, in charge of a vehicle without a light. Witness afterwards found a lamp under the seat in the cart. Defendant was fined 2s 6d and costs.”

Emily Sippitts died in the 4th quarter of 1900.

County Advertiser 15/12/1900 - Advert

“Preliminary Notice.

E. H. Boilstone has been favoured with instructions to Sell by Auction, on Tuesday, the 8th day of January, 1901.

All that Important and Well-known Freehold Old-Licensed Public House, the WHITE LION INN, Powke Lane, Old Hill, and other Freehold Properties.

For particulars apply, Thos. Cooksey, Esq, Solicitor, or the Auctioneer, both of Old Hill.”

County Advertiser 29/12/1900 - Advert

“Old Hill, Staffs.

Highly Important Sale of a Valuable Freehold Old-Licensed Public House and Other Properties.

E. H. Boilstone has been favoured with instructions from the Representatives of the late Mrs. Emily Sippitts, to Sell by Auction, at the House of Mr. Philip Chatwin, the VICTORIA HOTEL, Old Hill, on Tuesday, the 8th day of January, 1901, at Six for Seven o'clock in the Evening, subject to Conditions to be then produced.

Lot 1. All that Well-known and Truly Valuable Freehold, Old -Licensed Public House, known as the WHITE LION, Powke Lane, Old Hill (junction of Cox's Lane).

The House contains Front Smoke Room, 16ft by 14ft; Hall, 4ft wide, with two vestibule doors; Vaults, 21ft by 14ft; Private Bar Parlour, 14ft by 12ft; Sitting Room, 14ft by 14ft; China Pantry, 11ft by 4ft 6in; Club Room, 32ft by 18ft 6in; Three Capital Bed Rooms, Extensive Cellaring; together with large enclosed Yard, approached by Cartway Entrance; Brewhouse, 19ft 6in by 13ft, with Cooking Range and Washing Boiler; Private Stable, 13ft by 8ft; Four-stall Stable, with Loft over; Capital Coach-house, Two very large Pigsties, and all other usual Outbuildings.

This well-known Licensed Premises is surrounded by large Ironworks, Blast Furnaces, Collieries, and other Works, and is favourably situated as a calling house in a district of much traffic. The Property has an excellent and imposing frontage on the junction of the aforesaid roads; it is entirely free, and possession may be had upon completion.....”

County Advertiser 16/2/1901 - Advert

“To Parties Furnishing, Brokers and Others.

Unreserved Sale at the WHITE LION INN, Powke Lane, Old Hill.

E. H. Boilstone has been favoured with instructions from the Exors. of the late Mrs. Emily Sippitts to Sell by Public Auction, on the Premises, on Monday, the 4th day of March, 1901, the whole of the Household Furniture and Effects, comprising Mahogany Leather-covered Sofas and Chairs, Cane-seated and Windsor Chairs, Easy Chairs, Arm Chairs, Mahogany Tables, Hall Stand, Superior Pianoforte, by Steinhart; Mahogany Chiffonier, Gilt and other Pier Glasses, Brass Fender, Ashpans and Fire Brasses, Coal Vases, Barometer, Case of Stuffed Birds, High-back Screen, Deal Tables, Hanging Lamps, Pictures, Linoleums, Oak Bureau, Oak Long-cased Clock, Eight-day Clocks, Carved Mahogany Half-tester Bedsteads, Brass-mounted Bedsteads, Feather Beds, Wire Mattresses, Wool Palliasses, Mahogany Chests of Drawers, Mahogany Wardrobe, bevel plate; Duchess Stands, superior Carved Oak Chest, Mahogany Night Chair, Carpets and Rugs, Toilet and Trinket Sets, Dressing Tables, Swing Glasses, Iron Safe, on Stand; Wringing Machine, Step Ladders, Wheelbarrows, Tubs, Kitchen and Culinary Requisites, Crockeryware and Glass, Cutlery, &c, &c.

Sale to commence at Eleven o'clock prompt.

For Catalogues apply to the Auctioneer. Offices: Old Hill, Staffs.”

1901 Census

Powke Lane

[1] James Thomas Cole (22), publican, born Dudley;

[2] Eliza Jane Cole (19), wife, born Lye:

County Express 6/4/1901

“Richard Sippetts, of Wright's Lane, Old Hill, was charged with being disorderly on licensed premises, and reusing to quit the same when asked. James T. Cole, landlord of the WHITE LION INN, Cox's Lane, proved the case, and defendant was fined 12s, including costs.”

A football team from here took part in the Quarry Bank and District League. [1902-3]

County Advertiser 14/2/1903

“On Wednesday the annual licensing session for the Rowley Regis Petty Sessional Division were held at the Court House.....

Mr. Gandy (instructed by Jobson and Marshall) applied to the Bench to grant a license for the new WHITE LION INN, Powke Lane, Old Hill, to William Broadbent. He explained that the old premises had suffered considerably from mining operations, and arrangements had been made to build a new house on the opposite side of the road to the existing premises. This was now completed, and he asked the Bench to grant the license. There was no objection on behalf of the police, and the application was granted.”

County Advertiser 16/5/1903 - Advert

“On Friday Next. To Builders and Others.

Notice of Sale by Auction, of the whole of the Building Materials, comprised in the WHITE LION INN, Powke Lane, Old Hill, Within 2 minutes of the Tram Line.

The House was erected about 20 years ago of Red and Blue Brick, with Stone Dressings, and Slate Roof, and is in First-class Condition.

Alfred W. Dando has received instructions to Sell by Auction, in one Lot, for Immediate Removal, upon the Premises as above, on Friday Next, May 22nd, 1903, the above Capital Building, with the Stabling, Outbuildings, and Internal Fittings.

Sale of 3 o'clock in the Afternoon Sharp.

To View, apply Mr. Broadbent, opposite the House; and further Particulars may be had of the Auctioneer, Wolverhampton Street, Dudley. Telephone 56.”

A team from here took part in the Rowley Regis and District Air-Gun Shooting League. [1903]

County Advertiser 24/10/1903

“Airgun Shooting. Rowley Regis and District League.

QUEENS HEAD, Old Hill v WHITE LION, Old Hill. Shot at WHITE LION.....”

[QUEENS HEAD won 314 - 302.]

Sports Argus 19/3/1904

“Special Late News. Today's Football Results.....

Old Hill WHITE LION 4, Old Hill Jun 2.”

County Advertiser 8/10/1904

“A branch of the Small Heath Harriers' Club has been opened at Old Hill, and its headquarters are the WHITE LION HOTEL, Cox's Lane. The members have already had preliminary runs, which, considering that the majority of the newly-formed organisation are novices, have turned out extremely satisfactory. On Saturday last the branch started from headquarters, under the leadership of Mr. Fred Priest (vice-captain) and had a very enjoyable run of about ten miles through the Halesowen, Woodgate, Quinton, and Blackheath districts, all finishing in grand style and excellent condition. The actual opening run takes place on October 15th, when the branch members will be augmented by a pack from Small Heath. The opening of this branch offers a splendid inducement to athletes of the district, and the hon. secretary, A. F. Pateshall, King Street, Cradley Heath, will be pleased to hear from, and supply information to, any person wishing to become a member.”

County Advertiser 10/12/1904

“Cross-Country Running. Birchfield (Tipton Branch) v Small Heath (Old Hill Branch).

This run took place from the WHITE LION, Old Hill, on Saturday last, 15 of each club turning out. The trail was laid over a course of about nine miles through Cradley Heath, Colman Hill, Witley, Hasbury, Halesowen, and Coombs Wood. From the start Pateshall took the lead and made the pace hot for about three miles. For the rest of the distance Buckley, Freeman, and he led alternately, with Taylor (Birchfield) not far behind. Unfortunately, about a mile from home the trail men were overtaken, so in these circumstances the result of the race could not stand.

The results of each club were Old Hill 38, Tipton 43.

Old Hill were thus first by five points. Taking into account that this is the first inter-club run in which the new club has taken part, the result is extremely satisfactory, and the members were greatly disappointed when the race had to be declared off. The return takes place at Tipton on December 17th. Today's run is an ordinary one from headquarters.”

County Advertiser 19/5/1906

“Unattended Horses. The following were ordered to pay the costs for not having the control of their horses at Hagley on the 10th inst: Joseph Smith, Halesowen Road, Old Hill; Frank Brawn, Belbroughton; Frederick Griffin, Fairfield, Belbroughton; William Edward Broadbent, WHITE LION INN, Old Hill. Police-constable Gibbs proved the cases.”

County Express 9/7/1910

“At the weekly meeting of the Parade Committee, held on Thursday, at the WHITE LION INN, Cox's Lane, there attended Messrs. W. J. Smith (chairman), J. H. Willetts (vice-chairman), J. Burns, J. Goodwin, F. Bowen, J. Williams, R. Cooksey, W. Partridge (secretary), E. Jones, W. Somerton, J. Griffiths, E. Chater, I. Brain, S. Bagot, A. Marsh, T. Edge, J. Marsh, E. Townsend, J. Adams, N. Bagley, etc.

The Chairman presented Mr. H. Taylor, of Park Street, Netherton, the owner of the collecting dog Prince, with a silver medal for his services last year. He explained that the medal had been purchased by Mr. Joseph Birch, confectioner, of High Street, Old Hill, whom the committee thanked for his generosity. They also thanked Mr. Taylor for what he had done for the parade, and hoped that he would long continue to do good work (applause). Mr. Taylor briefly returned thanks, and explained that the dog's total collection last year was £20 16s 4½d. He announced that at any time a subscription list was opened for the sake of a sick or infirm friend he would be pleased to go round with his dog as he did at the parades (applause). He thanked the committee for their appreciation, and also Mr. Birch. Arrangements were afterwards made for the flower stalls and collecting stations. It was resolved to hold the next meeting at COOKSEY'S HOTEL on Tuesday night.”

1911 Census

Powke Lane

- [1] Thomas Rawlings (36), publican, born Dudley;
- [2] Alice Rawlings (35), wife, married 10 years, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] Albert Thomas Rawlings (7), son, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] William Rawlings (2), son, born Rowley Regis:

Thomas Rawlings died in the 1st quarter of 1913.

Birmingham Daily Gazette 19/7/1924

“More Accident Claims Paid. Insurance Benefits for Gazette Readers.

The latest list of registered readers who have received benefits under the Gazette free insurance scheme is as follows.....

Mr. A. Rawlings, WHITE LION INN, Cox Lane, Old Hill. Motor-cycling accident.

Newsagent: Mr. Potter, High Street, Old Hill.”

1939 Register

Cox's Lane – WHITE LION INN

- [1] Alice Rawlings, date of birth 6/5/1875, publican, licensed victualler, widowed;
- [2] Albert T. Rawlings, dob 9/7/1903, electrician, married;
- [3] Ethel N. Rawlings, dob 16/12/1910, unpaid domestic duties, married;
- [4] Sarah Grainger, dob 24/2/1888, unpaid domestic duties, widowed:

Sports Argus 3/11/1962

“Angling Contests and Meetings.....

Mario Manufacturing: GM Wednesday, 8.30, at WHITE LION, Old Hill. All members to attend.”

Alice Rawlings died in the 2nd quarter of 1964.

Sandwell Evening Mail 7/3/1986

“Darts There were a couple of surprises in the Netherton Thursday League. Leaders COOKSEY were pushed all the way before beating lowly HOPE TAVEN B by the odd game, while third-placed WHITE LION (Cox's Lane) suffered only their fourth defeat in 23 matches. They went down 4-3 to WHITE SWAN (Cradley Road).”

Sandwell Evening Mail 19/8/1989

“Kind-hearted customers at three Black Country pubs have given a huge boost to a £4,700 appeal for a heart monitor at Halesowen and Stourbridge ambulance stations. Regulars at the BALDS LANE TAVERN, in Lye, donned fancy dress for a tour of 12 pubs in the area at the weekend and raised £225. Now the pub is planning to raise another £100 though a cabaret night on September 2.

Customers at the COOKSEY pub in Halesowen Road, Old Hill, raised £170 through a sponsored 10-mile run to the Clent Hills and back and another sponsored event where a regular travelled on as many buses as he could in 12 hours. This figure was on top of £330 already raised at the COOKSEY thanks to a jumble sale and a pub crawl.

Regulars at the WHITE LION, Cox's Lane, Old Hill, have also got in on the fund-raising act. A dozen customers completed a sponsored pub crawl on Friday and collected £417. Mrs. Elaine Gordon, who runs the pub with her husband Robert, said that a car boot sale and a raffle were also planned and it was hoped to raise £1,000 altogether towards the appeal.

Halesowen ambulance station officer Mr. Bev Barrett said he was delighted with the efforts of the three pubs and was very grateful for what was being done for the appeal. He added that it was hoped to raise over £1,000 from an open day being held at the Halesowen station, in Old Hawne Lane, on September 9.”

[1990]

Closed

It was converted into a café.

WHITE SWAN

276, (245), (190), Halesowen Road, OLD HILL

OWNERS

William Foley
Exors. of William Foley
Albert E. Sidaway
Mitchells and Butlers Ltd.

LICENSEES

Jacob Coley [1867] – 1872);
William Foley (1872 – 1919);
John Foley [1882]
Henry Ernest ‘Harry’ Foley (1919 – 1923);
Mrs. Elizabeth Foley (1923 – 1924);
Thomas Johnson (1924 – 1926);
Charles Thomas Smith (1926 – 1931);
Francis Henry Scriven (1931 – 1941);
John Leonard Wright (1941 – 1954);
Harold Preston (1954 – 1956);
Albert James Bailey (1956 – 1957);
Frederick Stanley Crumpton (1957);
John Henry Hatfield (1957 – [1965]

NOTES

190, Halesowen Road [1881]
245, Halesowen Road [1896], [1901], [1904], [1908]
276, Halesowen Road [1911], [1912], [1924], [1932], [1939], [1940]

SWAN [1870], [1872], [1876], [1881], [1882], [1889], [1890], [1891], [1892], [1893], [1894], [1912]

County Advertiser 31/8/1867

“Rowley. The Annual Licensing Meeting.....

There were thirteen applications for spirit licenses. The applications of the following were refused.....

Jacob Coley, Old Hill.”

Jacob Coley, beer retailer, Old Hill. [1868], [1870], [1872]

See also WAGGON AND HORSES, Cradley Heath.

Birmingham Daily Gazette 30/8/1869

“The annual licensing meeting for Rowley Regis division was held on Friday, at COOKSEY’S HOTEL, Old Hill.....

The following applications were made for alehouse licenses.....

Jacob Coley, WHITE SWAN, Old Hill. Application granted.”

1871 Census

Halesowen Road – WHITE SWAN

[1] Jacob Coley (36), licensed victualler, born Dudley;

[2] Eliza Coley (36), wife, born Rowley Regis;

[3] Mabell Coley (14), daughter, scholar, born Dudley:

County Advertiser 18/1/1873

“Solomon Tromans was charged with being drunk and refusing to quit the WHITE SWAN INN, Old Hill, on the 11th inst. The landlord said defendant came into his house and was about to fight with his brother. He put him out, but he returned and made a disturbance, eventually leaving of his own accord. Defendant was ordered to pay costs.”

Stourbridge Observer 3/1/1874

“William Foley, landlord of the WHITE SWAN, Halesowen Road, Old Hill, was charged with keeping his house open during prohibited hours on the 27th ult.

Police-constable Kettle said he visited defendant’s house on the night in question at a quarter past eleven o’clock and found from forty to fifty in the house drinking. He called defendant’s attention to it and he said he thought he had until twelve o’clock.

Mr. Hingley to defendant: Did you open on the 26th?

Defendant: Yes, sir, and I thought I had got the 27th as well. It was my mistake.

Mr. Mills said if the Bench thought it was a mistake on defendant’s part he should be willing to withdraw the case on defendant’s paying expenses.

Defendant was ordered to pay costs.”

The Era 13/12/1874 - Advert

“Dudley. WHITE SWAN Music Hall, Old Hill. (Proprietor, Mr. William Foley).

This Hall, which has been Closed for Alterations, will Reopen on Monday, December 21st, 1874. Serio-Comic and Characteristic Ladies and Negro Comedians may write in for that date. Piano and Harmonium, R. Barlow. Glad to hear from all Friends.”

County Express 22/1/1876

“Thomas Bryant was charged with being disorderly and refusing to quit the SWAN INN. Mrs. Foley said the defendant came into the house and raised a disturbance. He refused to quit when ordered to do so. Defendant was fined 10s and costs.”

County Advertiser 26/2/1876

“Samuel Jones, navvy, was charged with being drunk and disorderly. Police-constable Kettle said he saw defendant leave the SWAN INN, Halesowen Road, on the night of the 19th inst, and he used obscene language. Fined 1s and costs.”

County Express 11/11/1876

“John Holloway was charged by William Foley, landlord of the WHITE SWAN INN, with being disorderly and refusing to quit his premises. The case was proved and defendant was fined 20s and costs, or twenty one days’ imprisonment.”

The Era 1/9/1878 - Advert

“SWAN Music Hall, Old Hill, Near Dudley. (Proprietor, W. Foley).

Wanted, Good Talent, for Monday, September 17th, and future dates. Send lowest terms. Pianist, E. Smith.”

County Express 21/12/1878

“Henry Yorke, miner, was charged with having on the 5th July, 1876, refused to quit the WHITE SWAN INN, Old Hill, and also with having being drunk and disorderly in the public highway on the same date. Evidence was given as to the former charge by the landlady of the house, and in the latter charge by Mr. Inspector Price. Defendant was fined 2s 6d and costs in each case, or fourteen days’ imprisonment.”

County Advertiser 4/1/1879

“Herbert Hall, fruiterer, Halesowen, was charged by Police-constable Farrell with allowing his vehicle to remain in the road for an improper time, on the 7th ult. The officer’s evidence was that he found defendant’s cart standing outside the WHITE SWAN INN, Halesowen Road, Rowley, on the night of the above date. Defendant was drinking in the house, and remained there a long time. Defendant pleaded he was only in the house a quarter of an hour. He was fined 1s and costs.”

County Advertiser 1/3/1879

“Henry Pugh, miner, Old Hill, was charged with being disorderly on the licensed premises of William Foley, WHITE SWAN INN, Halesowen Road, Old Hill. Police-constable Farnell found him at the house on the 7th ult, challenging another man to fight, and causing disturbance.

A fine of 5s and costs, with the alternative of fourteen days, was inflicted.”

The Era 11/1/1880 - Advert

“Wanted, for SWAN Music Ha, Old-hill, near Dudley (Proprietor, Mr. Foley), for Monday, January 12th and future dates, Talent of all descriptions well up in Concert Business, Gymnasts excepted. Comics and Serio-Comics write at once, stating lowest terms.”

Dudley Herald 4/9/1880

“The miners in connection with the Old Hill District Branch held their annual gathering at Mr. William Foley’s, Halesowen Road, on Monday last. A marquee was pitched on the ground in front of Mr. Foley’s house, wherein a large number of the miners partook of an excellent dinner. The cloth being removed, Mr. Richard Davies was vote to the chair, and after a few introductory remarks, he called upon Mr. William Breakwell, miners’ agent, who gave an address upon the necessity for better organisation and the advantages arising therefrom. Mr. George Pearson, secretary of the Branch Society, read the yearly financial report, which showed that the finances were in a healthy state. The remainder of the evening was spent in conviviality. Votes of thanks to the host and hostess, and chairman, terminated the proceedings, which were most successful throughout.”

Dudley and District News 12/3/1881

“On Tuesday night, at ROYAL EXCHANGE, Netherton, a capital meeting of miners was held, Mr. Breakwell occupying the chair. A deputation from South Yorkshire attended to solicit aid for those on strike in that district. The Chairman briefly introduced the deputation, and called upon Mr. George Cragg, Chairman of the South Yorkshire Miners’ Association, who gave an interesting account of the condition of his association, and entered fully into the merits of the dispute at present prevailing.

Mr. John Bowen added a few remarks bearing upon the dispute.

Mr. Fletcher, another member of the deputation, delivered a powerful address upon the absolute necessity for, and the benefits arising from organization; he clearly demonstrated the evils which were growing among the men of various districts from the want of proper union, and made an urgent appeal on behalf of their fellow-craftsmen in South Yorkshire.

Mr. Bowen supported the appeal, and the following resolution was unanimously passed ‘That a contribution be raised at the various pits throughout this district on behalf of the men now on strike in the district of South Yorkshire; such subscriptions be forwarded to the committee every Saturday evening, at the house of Mr. William Foley, SWAN INN, Old Hill.’

A similar meeting was held at the house of Benjamin Talbot, VINE INN, Old Hill, last night, when a similar resolution was passed.”

1881 Census

190, Halesowen Road

- [1] William Foley (31), publican, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Hannah Foley (32), wife, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] William Foley (8), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Joseph Foley (5), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Henry Foley (1), son, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] Elizabeth Whorton (22), domestic servant, born Rowley Regis;
- [7] Hannah Webb (27), domestic servant, born Rowley Regis:

Dudley and District News 13/5/1882

“At the Old Hill Police Court on Wednesday, before Messrs. W. Bassano and C. Holcroft, William Ball, alias George Keel, Poplar Place, Bridge Street, West Hockley, Birmingham, pearl and stud turner, and John Johnson, 12, Eaton Street, Hockley, pearl turner, were charged with uttering and putting off counterfeit coins representing half-crowns, and one florin, at Old Hill and Cradley Heath, on the 8th inst. On the prisoner Ball was found 8s 9d and five coins, and on Johnson 29s 7½d and two coins.

Joseph Manning, QUEENS HEAD, Corngreaves Road, said on Monday evening last the prisoners came to his house while he was sitting at tea. Ball called for two drinks, and was served by his wife, who called him to look at the half-crown they had tendered for the drink. He looked at the coin and broke it in two. It was bad, and he sent for a police officer, and detained Ball, but Johnson would not stay, and went out because he said he had nothing to do with Ball.

Aquilla Parkes, landlord of the BIRD IN HAND, Spinners End, said Ball came to his house on Monday afternoon about 4.30 and called for a glass of ale, tendering the base half-crown produced, he filled the glass of ale and gave him 2s 4½d back. It rang well on the counter. Ball drank the ale and went out. The next morning a police officer came and asked if he had taken any bad money, and his wife examined the money they took on Monday and picked the half-crown out, it being the only one they took that day. He identified Ball next day.

Susan Harris, wife of Thomas Harris, licensed victualler, CROWN AND ANCHOR INN, Providence Street, New Town, said on Monday Ball came to her house and asked for a bottle of soda water, she had none and gave him a bottle of ginger beer, he tendered her half-a-crown, she gave him 2s 4½d in change and he went out. Next day she found that the coin was bad.

Louisa Nicklin said she was servant to Priscilla Foley, who kept the BRITISH OAK, High Street. On Monday afternoon both the prisoners came to the house and Ball called for a pint of ale. She filled it and Ball gave her half-a-crown which she took to her mistress who gave her change. She was quite sure that Johnson was with Ball. Priscilla Foley said when her servant brought the half-crown and she had given her the change she went into the shop and saw the prisoners standing by the counter. Two more men were with them. When she went into the bar Ball asked for the cup to be filled, and gave her a two shilling piece, she gave him 1s 9½d in change, they did not wait to empty their cup but said they must go so as not to be caught in the rain. Ball and Johnson then left the other men and went out. The two coins she received were bad, and she gave them to the police.

Emma Johnson (14), daughter of Samuel Johnson, the HEARTY GOOD FELLOW, King Street, Old Hill, said she saw the prisoners come into the house on Monday afternoon. Ball called for a quart of ale, she supplied it and Ball gave her half-a-crown in payment. She gave the change, Ball threw the drink down and both went out. Her father wanted some change and she took it to Chances for sixpences.

Hanna Webb, barmaid at Mr. John Foley's, the SWAN INN, Old Hill, said the prisoner came into the house and Ball asked for some ale and tendered her half-a-crown, she took the coin to Mrs. Foley and gave Ball the change. Hannah Foley said Hannah Webb brought her a half-crown which she put in her pocket with the other money. The same night she gave it to a police officer. PC Litherley said he was sent for to the QUEENS HEAD, Corngreaves Road, on Monday and received the half-crown produced, from Mr. Manning, who said in the presence of Ball, that he had received it from him. He took Ball into custody, and he at first gave the name of George Keel, Hart Yard, Hatton Garden, London, and said it was not half-a-crown but a two shilling piece which he gave. PCs Litherly and Lawrence proved receiving the base coins produced from the witnesses.

Inspector Walters said on Monday the prisoner Ball was brought to the station and gave the name of George Keel, Hart Yard, Hatton Garden, London. He declined to give any reference, and said witness might enquire about it. He took him to Birmingham to the detective department, where he saw detective Baker, who called Keel by his right name, and said, ‘How do William Ball.’ He then went to Ball’s address in Bridge Street, West Hockley, and on going into the house he found the prisoner Johnson lying on a screen, he then gave the name of George William Hobson, No.13, Eaton Street, Abbey Fields, Hockley. He told him he would be charged with being in company with Ball the previous day at Old Hill, and passing counterfeit coins. He replied, ‘I know nothing at all about it.’ He searched him and found £1 9s 7½d all in small coins. He told him he would have to go with him to Old Hill, when he became very violent, and rushed to the table to get a knife, but he put the handcuffs on him and brought him to Old Hill. He was present in the office when Ball was identified, and he might add that he went to Eaton Street, Hockley, but no such person as the prisoner Johnson was known there.

Honor Chance, wife of John Chance, 2, King Street, underground manager for Messrs. Hingley, said she changed half-a-crown for Emma Johnson on Monday afternoon. Emma came and told her that it was a bad half-crown, and took it back.

Eliza Johnson, wife of George Johnson, publican, KINGS HEAD, Elbow Street, said four men came to her house on Monday, and Ball asked for half-an-ounce of tobacco and a pipe, and gave her half-a-crown which she changed. PC Rowlands came at night, and she found the coin was a bad one.

Mr. Henn, Cradley Heath, said PC Litherly showed him three half-crowns which he examined and found to be bad. They were made principally of lead. PC Rowlands also showed him four half-crowns, and one two shilling piece which were counterfeit.

The half-crowns were all from the same mould, dated 1875, and plated.

Prisoners were remanded to Stafford to appear on Wednesday."

[At the Staffordshire Quarter Sessions, William Ball (32) and John Johnson (27), both button makers, were each sentenced to twelve months, Ball pleading guilty.]

The Era 4/11/1882 - Advert

"Wanted a Respectable Pianist and Vocalist (Female). Must be a good Vamper. A comfortable shop for a competent person.

Cartes de Visits forwarded.

Address, W. Foley, SWAN INN, Old-hill, Staffordshire."

Dudley and District News 24/11/1883

"William Green, Old Hill, was summoned for being disorderly and refusing to quit the licensed premises of William Foley, known as the WHITE SWAN INN, Halesowen Road, Old Hill, on the 12th inst. Defendant while in the house commenced a quarrel and refused to leave when requested by the landlord, but he was subsequently ejected from the premises. A fine of 10s and costs, with the alternative of 14 days' imprisonment was imposed upon the defendant."

Dudley and District News 3/5/1884

"William Clemson, of Penn Common, was charged with leaving a horse and cart in the public highway for an unreasonable space of time. PC Bradbury stated that the horse and cart were in the road while the defendant was drinking in the WHITE SWAN INN, Halesowen Road. Defendant pleaded guilty, but said he was very sorry, and produced a good character. The Bench, in consideration of this, only fined him 10s, including costs."

County Advertiser 29/1/1887

"Mr. E. Hooper (coroner) held an inquest on Monday at the WHITE SWAN INN, Old Hill, respecting the death of William Smith, labourer, who resided at 248, Halesowen Road, and who was killed on the 22nd inst. Deceased was employed at the Corngreaves Works, Cradley Heath, to attend to the trucks as they came up the pit. On the above date, at about 8.15am, whilst he was standing in front of an iron plate near the mouth of the pit, a truck, unperceived by him, came down a slight incline and caught his neck between the plate and the truck. He was extricated by a man named Charles Willett, but expired soon afterwards. Deceased was not inexperienced at the work, and it was his duty to have made the trucks secure. The Coroner remarked that it appeared to him deceased had come by his death through his own neglect, and the jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death."

AND

"On Tuesday, Mr. E. Hooper, coroner, held an inquest at the WHITE SWAN INN, Old Hill, relative to the death of Phoebe Hollis (59), 184, Halesowen Road, who died suddenly at her residence. Timothy Hollis, husband of the deceased, stated that shortly after supper-time his wife fell prostrate on the floor, without having any symptoms of illness of any kind beforehand, and died very soon afterwards. He sent for a doctor immediately. His wife had complained of pains between the shoulders, and had also been subjected to fainting fits. A verdict of Death from Natural Causes was returned."

Dudley Mercury 6/4/1889

"Thomas Jackson, turner, Handsworth, was charged with refusing to quit the SWAN INN, Halesowen Road, Old Hill, on the 23rd ult, and also with assaulting the landlord, William Foley, on the same date. The landlord stated that the defendant and a number of his friends came into his house and caused a disturbance. He asked them to leave, and defendant struck witness on the face and knocked him down. The defendant's friends pulled witness to the ground, and he was struck and kicked several times. John Tromans corroborated.

Henry Perks, Handsworth, said that the landlord struck the defendant first.

Defendant was fined 2s 6d and costs in each case."

County Advertiser 26/10/1889

"On Thursday morning, at the WHITE SWAN INN, Old Hill, an inquest was held before Mr. Edward Hooper (coroner), touching the death of a boy named William Henry Haynes, aged nine years, of Halesowen Road, Old Hill, who was killed on Saturday last by a gate falling upon him at the entrance of the New Connexion Chapel. Mr. Cooksey watched the proceedings on behalf of the trustees of the chapel.

Martha Haynes, wife of William Haynes, labourer, said she was the mother of deceased. The boy left home on Sunday morning at nine o'clock to go to school, and in a quarter of an hour afterwards was brought home dead. Witness was told that an iron gate had fallen upon him. He was in perfect health when he left home, and when brought back he had a wound on his left temple. She could not tell how the accident happened.

William Pugh (12), residing at Lawrence Lane, stated that he was with deceased at the time of the accident. The gate led from the road to the school as well as to the chapel; and deceased was pulling in and out that portion of the gate which fell upon him. The gate fell out towards the road and knocked deceased down. Witness endeavoured to raise the gate while another boy tried to get deceased from under. When they had extricated deceased a policeman came and picked him up.

In reply to the coroner, witness said that before the accident some boys told deceased that the gate was not safe. Witness had never seen or heard of the gate falling before.

In reply to further questions from the jury, witness said that on the Sunday preceding the occurrence there was a staple in the wall, to which was attached a chain holding the gate in its position. On the date of the accident, however, witness noticed that the staple was out of the wall.

In answer to Mr. Cooksey, witness said deceased would have had to give a good pull to get the gate out of its position, as there was a stop in the centre of the slide to keep it from coming too far. There was a proper gate in front of the chapel; and the schools were also used as Sunday schools.

Police-constable Pailing proposed to call three other lads, but the Coroner thought it would not be advisable to hear evidence from them, as they were too young, and the officer proceeded to give evidence himself. He was on duty at the Police Station, which is almost opposite the chapel, when he heard a noise as of something falling down. He at once went across to the place, and found the last witness and a lad named Mark Underhill endeavouring to get deceased from beneath one of the large iron gates at the entrance of the chapel. Witness took hold of deceased, and found a large wound on his left temple, and blood also running from his ears and mouth. Deceased only breathed once in witness's arms and expired. Dr. de Denne was sent for and attended, but was unable to do anything, as death had taken place. Witness subsequently made an examination of the gate, and on the handle, which corresponded with the wound on deceased, was a quantity of blood. The gate was in two sections, and worked in and out from the wall on slides, in the centre of which was an elevated stop, to prevent the halves coming out beyond the necessary point. On the back of the lift section was a chain, holding the gate in its position, but to that section which fell the chain was not secured by a staple to the wall, and was, therefore, utterly useless. He could not see any place in the wall where there had been a staple, although he made a minute examination. He had never heard of any complaints respecting the gate prior to the accident, but he had since heard by accident of several. One man had made a statement to him that, on the 17th inst, his daughter, a girl of eight years, was hurt by the same gate, and that he had been to the trustees about it.

One jurymen thought that the stop in the slide was not sufficient to prevent the gate getting out of position.

The question as to the position of the gate, however, was not further dealt with, and a verdict of Accidental Death was ultimately returned."

County Express 16/8/1890

"William Foley, landlord of the WHITE SWAN INN, Halesowen Road, Old Hill, was summoned for permitting drunkenness in his house on the 29th ult. Mr. Waldron prosecuted on behalf of the police, and Mr. Shakespeare defended.

Police-constables Illsley and Kegan stated that on the night in question they visited the defendant's house twice, and each time they found a woman named Rosannah Harper drunk. Mr. Shakespeare said the defendant had kept the house for upwards of twenty years, and during that long period it had been well conducted. Mrs. Harper only had three glasses of ale in the house, and Mrs. Foley, perceiving that she had had enough to drink, requested her to leave, and she refused to do so. Under the circumstance he hoped the magistrates would dismiss the case. Mr. Bassano said seeing that the house had been well conducted for twenty years, the magistrates were sorry that an offence had been committed. They should only inflict a nominal penalty of 10s and costs, £1 11s 6d."

County Advertiser 27/9/1890

"Adjourned Licensing Session at Old Hill.....

William Foley, of the SWAN INN, Halesowen Road, Old Hill. Inspector Bishop said the house had been well conducted. The applicant was getting old, and the conviction was the first one. Mr. Bassano cautioned the applicant, and the license was renewed."

1891 Census

Halesowen Road – WHITE SWAN INN

- [1] William Foley (41), innkeeper, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Hannah Foley (42), wife, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] William Foley (18), son, bicycle agent, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Joseph Foley (15), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Florence Foley (1), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] Hannah Webb (37), domestic servant, born Sedgley;
- [7] Anny Cooksey (21), domestic servant, born Rowley Regis;
- [8] Henry Foley (11), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;

The Era 28/11/1891 - Advert

"Mr. Geo. Danvers, Comedian and Burlesque Actor, Musician, Pantomimist, and Dancer, Liberty. Tour or Panto. SWAN HOTEL, Old Hill, Staffs."

Birmingham Daily Post 24/2/1892 - Died

"On the 22nd inst, at the SWAN HOTEL, Old Hill, aged 19, William, dearly-beloved son of William and Hamah Foley; deeply regretted."

County Advertiser 6/5/1893

"William Holding, tramp, was charged with being drunk and disorderly in the SWAN INN, Halesowen Road, Old Hill, and with vagrancy on the 29th ult. Prisoner went to the public house begging and asking for beer. He was refused, and then commenced making a disturbance. Inspector Bishop said the prisoner was a pest to the neighbourhood, had several times been convicted, and was well up in prison discipline. Prisoner was committed to prison for 14 days with hard labour."

County Advertiser 9/9/1893

“Barzillai Homer, Cradley Heath, was fined 2s 6d and costs for being drunk and disorderly and refusing to quit the SWAN INN, Cradley Heath, kept by William Foley, on the 5th inst.”

County Advertiser 1/12/1894 - Advert

“Magpie Row, Halesowen Road, Netherton, near Dudley.

Mr. Joseph Smart had been favoured with instruction from the Mortgagees to Sell by Auction, at the House of Mr. William Foley, SWAN HOTEL, Old Hill, Staffordshire, on Tuesday, December 11th, 1894, at Seven o'clock in the Evening, subject to conditions incorporating the common form conditions of the Birmingham Law Society, the following Valuable Property.....”

County Express 13/1/1900

“Mr. H. A. Pearson (coroner) held an inquest on Wednesday, at the WHITE SWAN HOTEL, Old Hill, upon Annie Eliza Danks (30), of Macefield House, Old Hill, who had been found dead in a water tank, on Tuesday.

Thomas Albert Danks, boiler manufacturer, husband of the deceased, stated that about seven weeks ago the deceased was confined, and was attended by Dr. Beasley, and apparently went on favorably. At times she was slightly depressed, but had not threatened to take her life. At three previous confinements she had suffered from melancholia. Between six and seven years ago deceased threatened to commit suicide with a razor. On the 8th inst she was quite rational, and made no complaint. They went to bed between twelve and one o'clock on Tuesday morning. Shortly after six he missed the deceased and heard the baby crying. He searched for his wife and upon going to the top of the house found her in a tank which contained eighteen inches of water. She was in her nightdress and apparently dead.

The foreman of the jury (Mr. Hadley) suggested that bars should be placed before the tank for protection of the children.

Witness: I will provide them.

Dr. Tibbetts stated that Mr. and Mrs. Danks had, to the best of his knowledge, always lived happily together. On Sunday night he saw deceased, and she was then in apparently good spirits. Early on Tuesday morning he was called again to see her, and she was then apparently dead. He tried artificial respiration, but it was evident she had been dead half an hour. Death was due to suffocation from drowning, and there was no doubt deceased suffered from melancholia after confinement.

Inspector Given said he had made every enquiry into the case, and he corroborated Dr. Tibbett's statements that Mr. and Mrs. Danks had lived happily together. The key to the door leading to the water tank was kept on a ledge, and had evidently been taken away by the deceased.

The Coroner said it was a most distressing case, and there was no doubt the deceased when suffering from a fit of melancholia took her own life. They all sympathised with Mr. Danks in the irreparable loss he had sustained.

The jury returned a verdict that the deceased committed Suicide when Temporarily Insane.

The Foreman added they very much sympathised with Mr. Danks, and this feeling, it may be added, is general in the district.”

1901 Census

245, Halesowen Road

- [1] William Foley (51), born Old Hill;
- [2] Hannah Foley (51), wife, born Old Hill;
- [3] Frederick J. Foley (27), son, brewer, born Old Hill;
- [4] Henry Foley (21), son, publican barman, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] May Foley (11), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] Hannah Webb (42), general servant, born Pensnett;
- [7] Florrie Davis (24), general servant, born Cradley Heath:

Tipton Herald 28/2/1903

“Mr. H. A. Pearson, coroner, held an inquest at the WHITE SWAN INN, Old Hill, on Monday morning, relative to the death of Thomas Hart (43), who formerly resided at King Street, Old Hill, and who was killed on Saturday morning last whilst following his employment at Mr. Robert Fellow's Corngreaves Colliery.

Mr. Makepeace (HM Inspector of mines) was present, and Mr. George Green, of Cradley Heath, represented the widow of the deceased.

The first witness called was Clara Ann Hart, the deceased's wife, who gave evidence of identification. Her husband, she said, went to work in his usual good health on Saturday morning at 6.30. At half past eight they brought him home dead. Her husband was not subject to fits. There were five children.

Samuel Leonard, a miner, of Overend, Cradley, who worked at the colliery, deposed that at 7.30 he saw the deceased at the bottom of the shaft. A few minutes later he took a loaded tub to the bottom of the shaft, and could not find Hart. He called out for him, but got no answer. Subsequently he found the deceased pressed under the cage. He signalled to the engine man to draw the cage up, and when he had done so he discovered that the deceased's head was forced between his legs. With help he got him from under the cage. Deceased gave one breath and expired. Deceased had worked at the colliery for three weeks, and was a competent man. He could not say how the accident happened.

Mr. Makepeace: Was deceased a careful man? – Witness: Yes.

Mr. Makepeace: When you pulled the deceased from under the cage did it settle down level? – Witness: Yes, sir.

Mr. Makepeace: Was there anything that would cause him to be tripped up? – Witness: No, sir.

William Hart, the deceased's son, also works at the colliery, and was near to his father when the accident happened. He heard

Leonard shout for help and he assisted to get his father out.

By Mr. Makepeace: He had often seen his father pass underneath the shaft as the cage was ascending and descending.

Cyril Lander, a miner, of Belle Vale, Halesowen, gave corroborative evidence.

Benjamin Palmer, underground manager at the colliery, said the deceased had been employed at the colliery some time. He saw the place shortly before the accident happened and a minute after. Deceased, in his opinion, was trying to pull a bolt or put something under the cage to make it settle down level when he met with the accident. He had cautioned the deceased many times of the dangers that existed. Deceased was a competent workman, and was trustworthy.

Dr. T. M. Tibbetts made a post mortem examination on the body, and said deceased had bruises across the back. Death was due to asphyxia or suffocation, caused by the compression of the stomach.

The foreman of the jury remarked that the evidence had been given very straightforwardly. He had known of several similar accidents, and he suggested that this was an accident.

A verdict of Accidental Death was returned.”

A team from here took part in the Rowley Regis and District Air-Gun Shooting League. [1903]

1911 Census

276, Halesowen Road – WHITE SWAN

[1] William Foley (63), licensed victualler, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Hannah Foley (63), wife, married 42 years, born Rowley Regis;

[3] Joseph Foley (34), son, assisting in business, born Rowley Regis;

[4] Henry Foley (30), son, assisting in business, born Rowley Regis;

[5] May Foley (21), daughter, assisting in business, born Rowley Regis;

[6] Hannah Webb (56), domestic servant, born Coseley;

[7] Lizzie Kidson (30), domestic servant, born Netherton:

County Express 25/5/1912 - Deaths

“On the 21st inst, Hannah Foley, wife of William Foley, of the SWAN INN, Halesowen Road, Old Hill. Interred on Thursday, at St. Luke’s Churchyard, Cradley Heath.”

AND

County Express 25/5/1912 - Acknowledgment

“Mr. W. Foley and Family, of the SWAN INN, Halesowen Road, Old Hill, wish to thank their numerous friends who have sympathised with them in their recent sad bereavement.”

William Foley died in the 1st quarter of 1919.

Henry Ernest Foley married Elizabeth Hartshorn in the 2nd quarter of 1919.

William Foley and Co., SWAN BREWERY, Old Hill.

Proprietors – H. E. Foley and F. M. Coley. [1920s]

Henry Ernest Foley died on 31st May 1923 and was buried at St. Luke’s Church, Cradley Heath.

Birmingham Daily Gazette 27/8/1923

“Mr. Henry Ernest Foley, of the WHITE SWAN INN, Halesowen Road, Old Hill, licensed victualler, has left £15,953.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 21/1/1928

“The public examination in bankruptcy of Thomas Johnson, 40, Trinity Street, Old Hill, an underground fireman and formerly tenant of the WHITE SWAN INN, Old Hill, took place at Dudley yesterday, and was closed. Debtor, who had a deficiency of £177 15s 3d, in the course of his examination, said his takings began to fall off when the coal strike occurred. Many of his customers were miners, and, being a safety man, he had to continue working, with the result that his house was more or less boycotted.”

Charles Thomas Smith – see also TWO FURNACES.

Dudley Herald 6/6/1931

“The following transfers were granted.....

WHITE SWAN, Old Hill, from Charles Thomas Smith to Francis Harry Scriven.....”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 29/9/1937 - Advert

“Bar-General, live in, references essential.

Apply, WHITE SWAN, Halesowen Road, Old Hill, Staffs.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 25/1/1938 - Advert

“Bar-General Wanted, live in, referenced required.

WHITE SWAN, Old Hill, Staffs.”

1939 Register

276, Halesowen Road

[1] Francis Henry Scriven, date of birth 7/6/1895, licensed manager, core maker, foundry work, married;

[2] A. Maud Scriven, dob 22/12/1901, unpaid domestic duties, married;

[3] Dorothy Maud (Scriven) Ashman, dob 4/12/1922, learning chemist department, single;

[4] F. Thomas Scriven, dob 26/6/1924, drop forge worker, single;

Harold Preston – see also RAILWAY, Blackheath.

Albert James Bailey – check also HARGATE TAVERN, West Bromwich.

Closed

Demolished

WHITE SWAN

Powke Lane, OLD HILL

OWNERS

J. Rolinson and Son Ltd.

LICENSEES

WHY NOT

128, (93), Reddal Hill Road, OLD HILL

OWNERS

Samuel Perry

Wolverhampton and Dudley Breweries Ltd. (acquired on 2nd November 1950)

LICENSEES

Thomas Perry [1865] – 1877);

Mrs. Esther Perry (1877 – [1896]

Alfred Perry [1900] – [1903]

Thomas Perry [] – 1904);

Daniel Perry (1904 – [1912]

Samuel Perry [1919] – 1928);

Alfred Perry (1928 – 1933);

Mrs. Laura Lavinia Perry (1933 – 1950);

Wilfred White (1950 – 1952);

Bert Arthur Davies (1952);

Thomas Brookes (1952 – 1955);

Joseph James Henry Onions (1955 – 1962);

Septimus Harvey Gobleret (?) (1962 – 1963);

Kenneth Johnson (1963 – 1969)

NOTES

93, Reddal Hill Road [1881], [1891], [1896], [1901]

128, Reddall Hill Road [1911], [1924], [1939], [1940]

It had an ante '69 beerhouse license.

Thomas Perry, beer retailer and fruiterer, Old Hill. [1865]

1871 Census

Reddall Hill – WHY NOT

- [1] Thomas Perry (48), publican and iron dealer, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Ester Perry (46), wife, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] Samuel Perry (23), son, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Daniel Perry (20), son, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] George Perry (18), son, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] Sarah J. Perry (12), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [7] Alfred Perry (8), son, born Rowley Regis;
- [8] Martha Lewis (18), general servant, born Rowley Regis:

County Advertiser 28/4/1877

“The Bench allowed the following licenses to be transferred....

WHY NOT INN, Reddall Hill, from Thomas Perry to Esther Perry, his wife.”

1881 Census

93, Reddall Hill Road – WHY NOT INN

- [1] Esther Perry (56), widow, beerhouse keeper, born Bewdley;
- [2] Samuel Perry (32), son, carter, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] Daniel Perry (29), son, chain manufacturer, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] George Perry (20), son, carter, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Sarah J. Perry (22), daughter, domestic servant, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] Alfred Perry (17), son, brewer, born Rowley Regis;
- [7] William Perry (9), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis:

County Advertiser 10/6/1882 - Advert

“For Sale, Three 120-gallon Barrels, good as new, made by best workman.

Apply, Esther Perry, WHY NOT INN, Old Hill, near Dudley.”

Dudley and District News 25/10/1884

“On Tuesday evening last, the members of the Trinity Cricket Club held their annual dinner at the house of Mrs. Perry, WHY NOT INN, Reddall Hill. Upwards of 30 members and friends partook of an excellent repast which had been provided by the hostess. After the drawing of the cloth Mr. T. Cooksey was voted to the chair.....”

County Express 3/1/1891

“William Nock, Reddall Hill, Old Hill, was charged with being disorderly on the licensed premises of Esther Perry, landlady of WHY NOT INN, with refusing to quit the same, and with assaulting the landlady on the 24th. Complainant said defendant had had too much beer and she asked him to leave. He went out for some time but returned and struck her violently in the eye, blacking it. Defendant was fined 20s and costs or a month for the assault, no proceedings being taken in the other case.”

1891 Census

93, Reddall Hill Road

- [1] Esther Perry (65), widow, beerhouse keeper, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Samuel Perry (42), son, scrap iron dealer, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] Daniel Perry (40), son, warehouse man, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Sarah Jane Perry (30), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Alfred Perry (27), son, brewer, journeyman, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] William Perry (19), son, office clerk, born Rowley Regis:

County Advertiser 30/12/1893

“The members of the WHY NOT sick and draw club held their fourth annual meeting at the WHY NOT INN, Reddall Hill, Old Hill, on Saturday evening last. The report showed that the society now numbered 50 good members, and though the payments for sickness and deaths during the past year had been heavy, a dividend of 8s 9d per member was declared, leaving a good balance in hand towards next year. Ten new members were elected. The meeting proved the most successful yet held.”

County Advertiser 29/12/1894

“The annual meeting of the WHY NOT sick and draw club was held at the WHY NOT INN, Reddall Hill, on Christmas Eve, a large majority of the members being present. The auditors (Messrs. J. Humphries and O. Jones Aston) presented the report, which showed that during the year a considerable amount of sickness among the members had prevailed. After paying all expenses a dividend of 8s 6d per member was declared, leaving a good balance in hand. Votes of thanks were passed to the secretary and treasurer, and 26 new members were elected. The members were unanimously of opinion that though trade during the year had been bad, the society had had the most successful year, since its formation, five years ago."

Mrs. Esther Perry, beer retailer, 93, Reddal Hill Road. [1896]

County Express 16/1/1897

"A largely attended meeting in connection with the Old Hill and District Cricket League was held on Monday evening at the WHY NOT INN, Reddal Hill, Old Hill, Mr. F. T. Hill (Old Hill Mutual) in the chair. The clubs of which the league is composed are Blackheath, Brierley Hill and District, Cradley Heath Mutual, Doulton's, Lye, Old Hill Mutual, Swan Village Gas and Tividale. The fixtures for the coming season were arranged, and other business was transacted, including the completion and adoption of the rules of the league. The proceedings were marked by that spirit of enthusiasm and good feeling which, it is believed, will influence each of the eight teams when the time for operation arrives. It was stated that the formation of the league will, undoubtedly, be the means of popularising local cricket, and will tend to give that local impetus to the game which it has, for several years past, so much needed. A vote of thanks to the chairman brought the meeting to a close."

County Advertiser 1/1/1898

"The annual meeting of the WHY NOT Sick and Draw Club was held at the WHY NOT INN, Old Hill, on Christmas Eve. Mr. R. Bagley presided over a crowded meeting, over a hundred members being present. The auditors, Messrs. Wm. Southall and Jos. Bennett, in presenting their reports, congratulated the members on a most prosperous year. The statement of accounts showed that the receipts amounted to £124 17s 5d, that the sick pay was £25 14s and payments for deaths £6, and that after all other payments a dividend of 12s per member was declared, a balance of £8 2s 11d being left in hand towards next year. The Secretary reported that the number of members entitled to draw was 135, being an increase of 18 on last year. In responding to a vote of thanks, he said he would still continue his best efforts on behalf of the society. Thirty-five new members were nominated for election, and the chairman and other officers were elected. Votes of thanks to the retiring officers were passed, and the most successful meeting ever held was brought to a close by singing some old carols."

County Express 6/1/1900

"Sick and Draw Clubs WHY NOT INN, Old Hill.

The annual meeting of this club was held on Saturday. Mr. R. Bagley presided over a crowded meeting. The auditors (Messrs. J. Bennett and J. Johnson) presented their report. The receipts had been £177 17s 5d; sick pay, £40 4s; payments for deaths, £11; and after all payments a dividend of 12s 9d each was declared, a balance of £8 18s 5d being left in hand. The secretary said the number entitled to draw was 174 against 157 last year, and though the payments for sick were again heavy, the draw was the best on record. Nearly 30 new members were nominated."

County Advertiser 3/11/1900

"Sergeant J. Hill, of the E Company, 2nd Worcestershire Regiment, in a letter dated the 17th September, and written to Mr. Fred Perry, of the WHY NOT INN, Reddal Hill, Old Hill, says, inter alia, I shall have some fine old yarns to relate, for I think I have seen my share in everything, both in hardships, fighting, and marching. We only had our last fight a few days ago, on the 11th I did not think there would be a man left of the Worcesters to tell the tale, but, fortunately, we only had about 32 killed and wounded, and we think it was marvellous, for shells and bullets were falling all round us. But anyhow, after nine months at it it finds me alive and kicking. We only remained in Pretoria one day. We are now in Hekpoort Valley, about thirty miles north-west of Pretoria, and our last fight was at Bloemfontein, about twelve miles from here."

1901 Census

93, Reddal Hill Road

- [1] Alfred Perry (37), beerhouse keeper, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Samuel Perry (52), brother, scrap iron dealer, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] Daniel Perry (49), brother, chain warehouseman, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Sarah Jane Perry (41), sister, house keeper, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] William Perry (29), brother, clerk, nail and chain manufacturer's office, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] Mary Ann Green (23), general servant, born Rowley Regis;

County Advertiser 29/8/1903 - Advert

"Cleveland Place, Park Street, Old Hill Staffs.

Highly Important Sale of Freehold Property.

E. H. Boilstone has been favoured with instructions from the Owner, who is going abroad, to Sell by Auction at the house of Mr. Alfred Perry, WHY NOT INN, Reddal Hill, on Monday, the 7th day of September, 1903....."

A team from here took part in the Rowley Regis and District Air-Gun Shooting League. [1903]

Alfred Perry died on the 2nd February 1904.

County Advertiser 13/2/1904

“The following licenses were transferred.....

WHY NOT INN, Reddal Hill, Old Hill, from the executors of the late Alfred Perry to Daniel Perry.”

Birmingham Daily Gazette 14/3/1904

“Mr. Alfred Perry, of Reddal Hill Road, Old Hill, who died on February 2 last, left estate valued at £2,117 9s gross, with net personalty nil. Probate of his will has been granted to his brothers, Mr. Daniel Perry, of the WHY NOT INN, Reddal Hill, and Mr. William Perry, of Belgrave Road, Blackheath.”

County Advertiser 14/1/1905

“On Tuesday the death occurred of Mrs. Sarah Jane Perry, sister of the landlord of the WHY NOT INN, Reddal Hill, at the age of 45 years. The deceased lady, who was well known and highly respected in the district, had been ailing for some time, but was taken worse on Monday. The funeral took place yesterday at St. Luke’s Church, Cradley Heath.”

County Express 8/8/1908

“On Sunday afternoon there was held the twelfth annual service promoted by the united friendly societies in the Old Hill district. The occasion was favoured with brilliant weather, and there was a large attendance at the services. The proceedings opened with a large procession, which aroused considerable interest in the district. The Old Hill Ironworks Band started from the PRINCE OF WALES INN, Wrights Lane, at one o’clock, and proceeded to the OLD HOUSE AT HOME INN for sick and draw club, through Cherry Orchard, calling for Court Robin Hood’s Cave and BRITISH OAK sick and draw club; by way of Wagon Street, calling for Success-to-the-FOX-HUNT Lodge; Elbow Street for Court Benjamin and KINGS HEAD sick and draw club; Halesowen Road, calling for Provident Institution, and on to the field. The Cradley Heath Salvation Army Band started from COOKSEY’S HOTEL at one o’clock with Snowdrop Lodge, by way of Halesowen Road, calling for Court Loyal Marlborough; Bank Street, Queens Street, High Street, and on to the field. The Cradley Heath Town Prize Band started from the ROSE AND CROWN INN, Reddal Hill, with Court Robin Hood the Brave; by way of Reddal Hill Road, calling for the WHY NOT sick and draw club, and on to the BRIDGE INN for Welcome to the Bridge Inn Lodge, across Plant Street, Lawrence Lane, Clyde Street, Petford Street calling for Druids Society; Pear Tree Street, Riddings Street, New Street, Halesowen Road, calling for Court Royal Sherwood and Rechabites Society and ROYAL EXCHANGE sick and draw club; High Street to the field. A grand procession was then formed.....”

Birmingham Mail 8/2/1911

“The annual general Licensing Sessions for Old Hill were held today.....

Superintendent Johnson objected to the renewal of the license of the WHY NOT INN, Reddal Hill Road, to Daniel Perry, on the ground that the premises were structurally unsuitable and difficult of police supervision. In reply to the Justices’ Clerk (Mr. T. Cooksey), Perry said he was willing to block up a doorway before the adjourned licensing sessions. Superintendent Johnson said upon giving that undertaking he would withdraw the objection.”

1911 Census

128, Reddal Hill Road

- [1] Daniel Perry (59), unmarried, beerhouse keeper, born Old Hill;
- [2] Samuel Perry (63), unmarried, scrap iron dealer, born Old Hill;
- [3] James Perry (18), nephew, mechanical pulley block works, born Rowley;
- [4] Alfred Perry (16), nephew, cabinet maker’s apprentice, born Rowley:

County Express 23/9/1911

“On Wednesday, at Old Hill, Daniel Perry, landlord of the WHY NOT INN, Reddal Hill Road, Old Hill, was charged with selling intoxicating liquor to a person under 14 years of age without the vessel containing it being sealed.

Inspector Needham said he saw Samuel Griffiths, aged 11, leave defendant’s house with a pint of ale in a bottle which was not sealed. He saw defendant, who said, ‘I served it; it had only to go across the way, and I didn’t think it mattered.’

Defendant repeated this statement to the Bench, and promised to be more careful in future.

He was ordered to pay 10s including costs.”

Daniel Perry, beer retailer, 93, Reddal Hill Road. [1912]

Samuel Perry, beer retailer, 128, Reddal Hill Road. [1924]

Dudley Chronicle 13/2/1924

“The Adjourned Licensing Sessions for the Old Hill Petty Session Division was held at the Police Court on March 5.....

The licenses of the WHY NOT INN, Reddal Hill Road, Old Hill which had been adjourned from the annual sessions, would be renewed.....

Mr. E. H. Grove supported an application by the licensee of the WHY NOT INN, Reddal Hill Road, Old Hill, for permission to carry out alterations. He explained that it was proposed to put a window in the passage, by which persons in the outdoor department could be served without having to go into the bar.

The architect (Mr. C. A. Bloomer) said persons and children who had to go into the house for beer had to stand in the bar and be served.

The Chairman said the proposal commended itself to the justices and the plans would be approved.”

Samuel Perry died in the 3rd quarter of 1928.

Thomas Brookes – see also HOLLY BUSH, Cradley Heath.

Boxing matches were staged here in the 1930s.

1939 Register

128, Reddall Hill

[1] Laura L. Perry, date of birth 27/9/1895, licensed victualler, public house keeper, widowed;

[2] Samuel G. A. Perry, dob 12/9/1920, seamless steel tubes, single;

[3] Alfred Smith, dob 7/9/1912, window cleaner, married;

[4] Cissie Smith, dob 24/8/1913, warehouse assistant, married:

Laura L. Perry was also a brewer. [1940]

A Publican's license was granted on 7th February 1951.

Kenneth Johnson was married to Shirley.

He died in 1972.

See also COOKSEY.

Black Country Bugle 20/7/2000

'Cross Guns Whippet Racers Named'

“....the whippet enthusiasts used to meet at the WHY NOT INN on a Sunday lunchtime after racing, and that there would usually be more dogs than customers!”

[1990]

Closed

WINDMILL

ROWLEY REGIS

OWNERS

LICENSEES

Mrs. Caroline Mills [1867]

NOTES

County Express 25/5/1867

“Emmanuel Perry, parish constable, was charged with assaulting Mrs. Caroline Mills, of the WINDMILL INN, Rowley, on the 2nd instant. Complainant said defendant, in company with Mr. Parkes and another man, came to distraint for arrears of income and property tax. Complainant said she was a married woman, but her husband had left her about seven months. She told defendant that she had no money, but would send for her brother. Perry said he would not wait any longer. He pushed her aside, and after words, struck her under her left breast and knocked her down. She had been under the doctor's hands ever since.

Jane Taylor was next examined. Was in the house with complainant, when Perry, Brown and another man came in and said they were come to distraint. Witness asked them to wait a few minutes, but they refused. Perry afterwards pushed complainant so violently that she fell down.

Elijah Dobey said he was in the house at the time the men went in. The men were Perry, Parkes and two other men. He saw Perry begin taking things out of the house. Mrs. Mills spoke to him, and asked him to wait while her brother came, but Perry pushed and knocked her down. Defendant was under the influence of drink at the time, and broke some pictures as he was carrying them out.

The defendant said Mr. Parkes asked him to go with him to the house of complainant and levy a distress. The complainant was in at the time and refused to let them out, and when he endeavoured to remove her from the door she fell. James Brown said complainant would not let them remove the articles. She stood against the door, and when they endeavoured to remove her she fell. Witness had not met with such resistance during his 'experience.'

Joseph Parkes, collector of taxes, said he went to Mrs. Mills' house to collect taxes on the 2nd of May he had repeatedly made application for the money due. As the complainant refused to pay the money he ordered the men to destrain. He went to another house till the men removed the articles. As they stopped a long time he went to complainant's house, and found the house full of people, who would not allow the men to remove the goods. Heard the complainant say, 'The first man that removes anything I'll break his arm.' The bench dismissed the case."

[1868]

WIZARD AND GLASS

52, (62), Cradley Road, (Tyes Green), (Haden Hill), CRADLEY HEATH

OWNERS

Benjamin Westwood
Plant's Brewery Ltd., Netherton
Ansells Ltd. (acquired on 2nd June 1937)
John Welding (acquired in 1986)

LICENSEES

William Stephens [1849] – [1861]
Benjamin Westwood [1864] – [1897];
Mrs. Charlotte Chatham (1897 – [1902]
Ann Chatham [] – 1903);
William Meldrum McWhirter (1903 – 1904);
Ezra Crampton (1904 – 1907);
Joseph Richard Scott (1907 – [1908]
Thomas Raybould [1908] – 1909);
Mary Ann Raybould (1909 – 1911);
John Philip Hill (1911 – [1912]
Ernest Hall [1916]
Thomas Williams [1919] – 1922);
William Botfield (1922 – 1934);
Thomas Baker (1934 – 1946);
George Harry Raybould (1946 – 1949);
Jack Johnson (1949 – 1955);
William George Newman (1955 – 1956);
Gordon Oliver (1956 – 1958);
William Henry Gutteridge (1958 – 1960);
Matthew Mark Partridge (1960 – 1964);
John Paterson Parker (1964 – [1965]
Mrs. Beatrice Sisely (1968 – []
John Welding (1986 – [1987]
Colin Smith [1991]
Thomas A McFadden (1994 – [2007]

NOTES

62, Cradley Road [1881], [1891], [1904], [1908], [1912], [1916], [1921], [1924], [1932]
52, Cradley Road [1939], [1940], [2005], [2015]

It was originally the JOLLY COLLIER.

William Stephens = William Stevens

Birmingham Journal 1/9/1855 - Advert

“Staffordshire. Haden Hill, Rowley Regis.

To be Sold by Auction, by Mr. Hawkins, on Monday, the 10th day of September, 1855, at the house of Mrs. Lucy Tibbetts, the ROSE AND CROWN INN, Haden Hill aforesaid, at Six o'clock in the evening, and subject to conditions.

All that Freehold Public House known by the sign of the JOLLY COLLIER, situated at Haden Hill, in the parish of Rowley Regis, comprising front Parlour and Tap Room, Kitchen, Pantry, Cellaring, Club Room, two Bed Rooms, Brewhouse, Piggeries, Shopping, Yard, Garden, and Appurtenances, late in the occupation of William Stevens, deceased. Annual value £15.

Also, all those Two Freehold Dwelling Houses and Premises adjoining, in the occupation of Widow Cole and Joseph Parsons, producing a rental of £9 15s per annum.

The Property occupies 683 square yards of Land; has a frontage of twenty-one yards to the turnpike road leading from Hales Owen to Dudley, and close to the Collieries of Messrs. Brettell, Homfray, and Bennet.

For further particulars apply to the Auctioneer; or at the Offices of Mr. Jeston Homfray, Solicitor, Brierley Hill.”

[This implies there were William Stevens' senior and junior.]

Benjamin Westwood was formerly a miner.

He married Eliza Attwood.

He was described as a beer retailer. [1864], [1865], [1868], [1870]

Wolverhampton Chronicle 27/4/1864

“On Thursday afternoon, Mr. E. Hooper, the District Coroner, held an inquiry at the house of Mr. Westwood, the JOLLY COLLIER, respecting the death of a labourer, named Henry Parish, aged fifty-three, who had drowned himself on the previous Tuesday morning. The deceased, it appears from the evidence adduced, had sustained an injury to his head some twelve months since, and on the Monday had left his home with scarcely any money in his pocket. At an early hour on the following morning his body was discovered in a pool of water near the Coneygreave Works. A singular fact connected with the case was, that, when found, the body was perfectly upright in the water. The jacket and cap of the deceased were found on the flood-gates, so that no doubt could be entertained that the unfortunate man had deliberately prepared himself for the act of suicide. The Jury found as their verdict that the deceased had destroyed himself whilst labouring under Temporary Insanity.”

County Advertiser 27/8/1864

“Yesterday, the annual licensing of the Rowley division was held at COOKSEY'S HOTEL, Old Hill.....

There were nine applications by beerhouse keepers for licenses, only one of which was granted.....

Benjamin Westwood, JOLLY COLLIER, Cradley Heath (refused).”

County Advertiser 25/8/1866

“Rowley annual licensing meeting was held yesterday.....

The following are the new applications and their results.....

Benjamin Westwood, Cradley Heath, refused.”

Wolverhampton Chronicle 14/11/1866

“At the Police Court, on Friday, before J. Hunt, R. L. Freer, and W. C. Firmstone, Esqs, Susannah Bagott, a young woman living at Quarry Bank, was charged with obtaining a quantity of goods by false pretences from Francis William Gower, grocer, Cradley. It appeared that about twelve months ago the prisoner was in the service of Mrs. Westwood, landlady of the JOLLY COLLIER public house, Cradley Heath. Mrs. Westwood occasionally had goods from the prosecutor. On the 25th ult, and on the 1st and 8th inst, prisoner went to his shop, and on each occasion obtained a quantity of goods, on the representation that they were for Mrs. Westwood. The goods amounted in value to £1 5s 11d. Mr. Gower having had his suspicions aroused, made inquiries, and found that Mrs. Westwood had not authorised the prisoner to obtain any goods in her name. The prisoner made no defence, and was committed to the Sessions for trial.”

[At Worcestershire Quarter Sessions Susannah Bagott was sentenced to four months' hard labour.]

County Advertiser 31/8/1867

“Rowley. The Annual Licensing Meeting.....

There were thirteen applications for spirit licenses. The applications of the following were refused.....

Benjamin Westwood, Cradley Heath.”

County Advertiser 22/2/1868 - Advert

“To be Seen Alive, at Mr. B. Westwood's, JOLLY COLLIER INN, Cradley Heath, the Largest and Handsomest Pig in Staffordshire. Weighs upwards of Fifty Scores.”

Stourbridge Observer 17/7/1869

“On Tuesday evening last, a chainmaker, of middle age, named Jonah Robinson, went to bathe in the Corngreaves Pool, near the Lodge Forge, Cradley. About a quarter of an hour afterwards he could not be seen, and on a search being instituted his dead body was dragged from the pool. Deceased, who was an expert swimmer, was said to be tipsy at the time he went to bathe. From the time he went into the water until his dead body was brought out could not have been more than half an hour. At the place deceased was dragged from the water was not six feet in depth.

An inquest was held yesterday, at the house of Benjamin Westwood, before the Deputy Coroner. After hearing the evidence, the jury returned a verdict of Drowned while bathing.”

1871 Census

Tyes Green – JOLLY COLLIER

- [1] Benjamin Westwood (47), publican, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Eliza Westwood (46), wife, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] Jeremiah Westwood (15), son, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Henrietta Westwood (13), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Alice Westwood (11), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] Esther Westwood (8), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [7] Patty Westwood (5), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [8] Priscilla Westwood (2), daughter, born Rowley Regis:

County Advertiser 27/7/1872

“On Monday last the members of the Flower of the Valley Lodge (No.1126) of the Brierley Hill District, met at Mr. Benjamin Westwood’s, JOLLY COLLIER INN, Cradley Heath, to celebrate their first anniversary. Mr. W. Feldon presided, and Mr. Timothy Shaw officiated as vice-chairman. The business usual on such occasions having been disposed of, the remainder of the evening was spent in a convivial manner.”

County Advertiser 27/11/1880 - Advert

“Money! Money!! Money!!! to be obtained on easy terms at the Cradley Heath Loan and Investment Society, held at Mr. B. Westwood’s, the JOLLY COLLIER INN, Cradley Heath (Near the Gas Works).
Scale of Payments, viz, 1s per week for each and every £5 Share.
Business Hours: Six to Eight o’clock every Monday Evening.
Any person willing to become a Member may obtain every information on application as above.
NB. Refreshment not compulsory.”

County Advertiser 26/2/1881 - Advert

“Cradley Heath Loan and Investment Society.
Any Person wishing to Obtain Money (or Invest) are requested to see the Rules of the above Society, which can be obtained at the house of Mr. Benjamin Westwood, the JOLLY COLLIER INN, Cradley Heath, near the Gas Works; or on application to the Secretary.
Business Hours, Six to Eight o’clock every Monday Evening.
Cash Advanced from £5 and upwards on Personal Security, repayable by easy Instalments.
Wm. Lane, Secretary, Eagle Foundry, Cradley Road.
NB. Refreshments not compulsory.”

1881 Census

62, Cradley Road – JOLLY COLLIER INN

- [1] Benjamin Westwood (55), publican, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Eliza Westwood (54), wife, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] Esther Westwood (20), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Lotty Westwood (15), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Priscilla Westwood (13), daughter, born Rowley Regis:

Dudley and District News 28/5/1881

“On Tuesday last an inquest was held by E. Hooper Esq, district coroner, at the JOLLY COLLIER INN, Cradley Heath, on the body of James Yarnold (7), who was killed whilst crossing the road opposite the RAILWAY HOTEL, on the 17th inst by being knocked down by a passing vehicle. It having been shown that no blame could be attached to any one, the jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death.”

County Advertiser 11/11/1882 - Marriages

“On the 7th inst, at Black Heath, Alfred, eldest son of James Lane, Eagle Chain and Anchor Works, Cradley Heath, to Esther, fifth daughter of Benjamin Westwood, JOLLY COLLIER INN, Cradley Heath.”

County Advertiser 27/6/1885 - Advert

“Cradley Heath and Cradley. Valuable Freehold Houses and Premises.
Mr. T. Pateshall is instructed to Sell by Auction, at the house of Mr. Benjamin Westwood, the JOLLY COLLIER INN, Cradley Heath, on Tuesday, the 7th day of July, 1885, at Six for Seven o’clock in the Evening, subject to conditions.....”

County Advertiser 6/2/1886

“Dudley County Court. Tuesday, Before Sir Rupert Kettle, Judge.
A case came on for hearing in which Benjamin Westwood, James Lane, and Benjamin Thompson, trustees of the Cradley Heath

Loan and Investment Society were plaintiffs. The defendants were John Young, of Birmingham Street, and Samuel Bayley, of Wollaston. The claim was for £12 12s 11d. Mr. Cooksey appeared for the plaintiffs, and Mr. Waldron for the defendants. The case for the plaintiffs was that in January, 1883, a man named John Turnbull made application to the plaintiffs for a loan of £20, and gave the names of John Young and Samuel Bayley as securities. After inquiries had been made a man named George Burford took the promissory note to Messrs. Turney's works, at Stourbridge, where Turnbull and the defendants worked. Burford saw Turnbull sign the note, and also saw a man sign it as John Young. Turnbull then said that the man Samuel Bayley, who was to have been his other surety, was not at work, and that he (Turnbull) would get the note signed in a day or two. A few days afterwards Turnbull took the note to the plaintiffs, bearing the signatures 'John Young' and 'Samuel Bayley,' and the £20 was paid to him. Part of the money had been since paid, and the remainder was now claimed from the defendants. The defendant Young was now called into Court, and the witness Burford said that to the best of his knowledge he was the man who signed the note as 'John Young.' He never saw the man till the day the note was signed. In support of the plaintiffs' case the two defendants were called. Young said he worked at Messrs. Turney's works in January, 1884, and there was no other man of the name John Young employed at the works at the time. He never signed a promissory note in January, 1883, and the signature on the note produced was not his, nor did he authorise anyone to sign the note for him. The signature on the note, dated December, 1881, was his. Cross-examined: The last time he signed a promissory note was in November, 1882. He had been sued for the sum under that note at the Stourbridge County Court, and he was now paying the money. The defendant Bayley said he worked at Messrs. Turney's works in January, 1883. The signature on the note 'Samuel Bayley,' was not his, nor did he authorise anyone to attach his name to the note. In cross-examination the witness said he never signed a note for Turnbull after November, 1882. His Honour gave a verdict for the defendants, with costs."

County Advertiser 22/1/1887 - Advert

"Special General Meeting of the Confidential Loan and Investment Society, Cradley Heath, January 20th, 1887.

The following Resolutions were Proposed and Carried.

- (1.) Proposed that this Meeting agree voluntarily (and not by Court) to Wind Up this the Confidential Loan and Investment Society, held at the JOLLY COLLIER INN, Cradley Heath, in the County of Stafford.
- (2.) Proposed that Messrs. T. Cooper and M. Gardner be appointed Liquidators, to whom all money shall be paid, and all Books, Bond Notes, and all other Vouchers belonging to the aforesaid Society shall be handed over.
- (3.) Proposed that Three Members shall be appointed as a Committee of Inspection, who shall be consulted by the Liquidators."

County Express 28/6/1890

"On Thursday afternoon Mr. E. Hooper (coroner) held an inquest at the JOLLY COLLIER INN, Cradley Road, Cradley Heath, relative to the death of Charles Williams (26), gas stoker, of Careless Green, Cradley Heath, who was found hanging from a beam by a rope in the store room at Cradley Heath Gas Works on the morning of the 25th inst.

William Morton, brother-in-law of the deceased, who is employed at the same works, said the deceased had been living apart from his wife for some time, owing to domestic troubles, and he had recently been addicted to drink. When entering the works on Wednesday morning he was told that the deceased had been found hanging to a beam by the neck in the store room.

In answer to the Coroner, witness said he did not take any steps to get into the room and cut the body down, as he did not like to interfere until a policeman arrived. He had previously heard deceased say that he would make away with himself, owing to pecuniary difficulties that he alleged his wife had brought him into.

Jabez Walters, who made the discovery that deceased had hanged himself, was also examined.

The Coroner asked why he did not cut the body down, and the witness replied that he thought it would be best to leave the body until the police arrived. It was half an hour before the police were on the spot to cut the body down.

Police-constable Davis said the body was warm when cut down, but life was extinct. Witness found in deceased's pocket a book in which was entered, 'I have done this all through a woman. Take me straight to my father's.'

The Coroner commented strongly upon the conduct of the witnesses Morton and Walters in not breaking the door open and cutting the body down. It was highly probable that the man's life would have been saved if this had been done. He should mark his disapproval of their conduct by disallowing their expenses.

The jury concurred in the remarks of the coroner, and returned a verdict of Suicide whilst Temporarily Insane."

1891 Census

62, Cradley Road

- [1] Benjamin Westwood (65), innkeeper, licensed, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Priscilla Westwood (64), wife, born Brierley Hill;
- [3] Priscilla Westwood (23), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Lucy Willetts (17), domestic servant, born Rowley Regis:

County Advertiser 17/2/1894 - Advert

"Rich-Toned Pianoforte, in Walnut Case; 7 Octaves, by Chas. McDay, in splendid condition. Apply to B. Westwood, JOLLY COLLIER INN, Cradley Heath."

County Advertiser 22/9/1894 - Advert

"Cradley, Staffs. Highly Important Freehold Property.

Mr. E. H. Boilstone has received instructions from the Mortgagees, to Offer for Sale by Auction, on Wednesday, the 26th day of September, 1894, at the house of Mr. Benjamin Westwood, the JOLLY COLLIER INN, Cradley Heath, at Six for Seven o'clock in the Evening, subject to conditions.....”

County Advertiser 27/4/1895 - Advert

“General Wanted, not under 20; with good character.

Apply, Mrs. Chatham, JOLLY COLLIER INN, near Gas Works, Cradley Heath.”

County Advertiser 11/5/1895

“Stourbridge County Court. Wednesday. Before Sir Richard Harington, Bart, Judge.

Westwood v Homer. This was an action brought by Benjamin Westwood, licensed victualler, of Cradley Heath, against Mr. Thomas Homer, Solicitor, of Brierley Hill, to recover the sum of £50, which had been paid to defendant for the purpose of arranging a composition. Mr. Kettle (instructed by Mr. Waldron) appeared for the plaintiff, and the defendant was not represented, neither did he appear.

It was stated that in 1893, the plaintiff's son, who was then occupying the BEEHIVE INN, at Cradley Heath, got into financial difficulties, and consulted defendant on the matter. A meeting of creditors was held, when they decided to accept a composition of 4s in the pound. Defendant had at that time £64 in hand, the moneys of Mr. J. Westwood, and the plaintiff advanced the £50 to Mr. Homer on the understanding that the composition should be arranged with the whole of the creditors. That this composition should be made was laid down by plaintiff on a special condition of the advance of the £50 to make up £114; and if Mr. Homer failed to secure the acceptance of the composition he was to return the money. The money was advanced by plaintiff on May 15th, 1893, but no composition had been made. The present action to recover the £50 referred to had been adjourned twice at the defendant's request. On the preceding day Mr. Waldron received from the defendant a cheque, which he did not think fit to accept, and that morning Mr. Waldron received a letter from defendant stating that he would be at the court with the cash, but he had not appeared. Mr. Waldron was called and gave evidence in keeping with counsel's statement, and His Honour gave a verdict for plaintiff for the amount claimed.”

County Advertiser 20/3/1897

“An old and well-known inhabitant in this locality has passed away in the person of Mr. B. Westwood, who had held the license of the JOLLY COLLIER INN for about 35 years. His honest and straightforward disposition won for him the respect of all with whom he came into contact, and his jovial manner stamped him as a true ‘jolly collier,’ in which occupation he spent the earlier portion of his life.”

County Express 29/5/1897 - Advert

“JOLLY COLLIER INN, Cradley Heath. Household Furniture, Brewing Plant, and Casks.

To be Sold by Auction by Oates, Perrens, and Wooldridge, at the JOLLY COLLIER INN, Cradley Heath, on Tuesday, June 1st, 1897, a portion of the Household Furniture, comprising the contents of Sitting Room and Four Bed Rooms, including superior Bedsteads, Mattresses, Beds, Chests of Drawers, superb Dressing Tables and Wash-hand Stands, Linen, etc, and also the Complete Brewing Plant, Well-seasoned Casks, Two Large Wrought-iron Boilers, Six Pockets of Hops, and Effects.

The Sale to commence at Twelve o'clock.

Catalogues may be had at the Place of Sale, or of the Auctioneers, Stourbridge.”

County Express 19/6/1897 - Advert

“Wanted, General Servant, of good character, with knowledge of plain cooking.

Apply, Mrs. Chatham, JOLLY COLLIER INN, Cradley Heath.”

County Advertiser 29/1/1898 - Notice

“Benjamin Westwood, Deceased.

Pursuant to an Act of Parliament made and passed in the 22nd and 23rd years of the Reign of Her Present Majesty, cap.35, intituled ‘An Act to further amend the Law of Property and to relive Trustees.’

Notice Is Hereby Given, that all Creditors and Persons having any Claims or Demands upon or against the Estate of Benjamin Westwood, late of the JOLLY COLLIER INN, Cradley Heath, in the County of Stafford, Licensed Victualler, deceased (who died on the 11th day of March, 1897, and whose Will was proved by William Griffin, the Younger, of Victoria Forge, Cradley Heath aforesaid, Chain and Anchor Manufacturer, the sole Executor therein named, on the 23rd day of April, 1897, in the District Registry at Lichfield of the Probate Division of the High Court of Justice) are hereby required to send in the Particulars of their Claims and Demands to the said William Griffin, the Younger, or to the undersigned his Solicitor on or before the 5th day of February, 1898; and Notice Is Hereby Given, that after that day the said Executor will proceed to distribute the Assets of the said deceased among the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to the Claims of which the said Executor shall then have notice, and that he will not be liable for the Assets or any part thereof so distributed to any Peron of whose Debt or Claim he shall not then have had notice.

Dated the 28th day of January, 1898.

William Waldron, 17, High Street, Brierley Hill, Solicitor to the said Executor.”

County Advertiser 11/6/1898

“On Wednesday afternoon an inquest was held by Mr. H. A. Pearson (coroner), at the JOLLY COLLIER INN, Cradley Road, Cradley Heath, respecting the death of Alice Bloomer, aged 40, formerly residing in Cradley Road, Cradley Heath, who committed suicide by hanging herself on Tuesday last.

Amy Bloomer, daughter, stated that her mother was engaged as a chainmaker at Mr. Joseph Clee's, Bank Street. She last saw deceased alive on Monday night, and when she came from work she looked very sad and depressed. Deceased remarked that the women who worked with her were continually talking about the master giving her the best work to do. On the Tuesday morning witness was aroused by her brother, who said his mother was not in. Witness went to her room and found that she was not there, and upon going into an outhouse witness's brother found deceased lying on the floor. Witness had never heard her threaten to take her life.

John Bloomer, son, gave corroborative evidence, and said he had never heard his mother threaten to commit suicide. He had heard that the women at the works had chaffed her about the master giving deceased the best work to do.

Harry Gill also gave evidence, and Police-constable Maisey stated that the height of the outhouse was 5ft 11½in and the width 2ft 19in.

A juryman said it appeared to him that deceased strangled herself.

The jury returned a verdict of Suicide whist of Unsound Mind.

The Foremen of the Jury (Mr. Thomas Pateshall) said as it was the first occasion on which Mr. Pearson had held an inquiry in that district they would like to congratulate him upon his appointment and accord him a hearty welcome, and also to thank him for the courtesy he had extended towards them.

Mr. Pearson thanked the jurymen in reply for their kind expressions, and said he hoped he should always get as intelligent a jury in Cradley Heath as he had on that occasion."

1901 Census

Cradley Road

[1] Charlotte Chatham (35), married, licensed victualler, born Cradley Heath;

[2] Adelaide L. Chatham (13), daughter, born Cradley Heath;

[3] Rupert Chatham (6), son, born Cradley Heath;

[4] Emma Westwood (66), mother, widow, born Cradley;

[5] Mary Davies (17), domestic servant, born Dudley:

County Express 17/5/1902

"A painful matrimonial case occupied the attention of Messrs. W. Bassano, J. F. Pearson, G. H. Holcroft, and F. Green, at the Old Hill Police Court on Wednesday, when Herbert Jones Chatham, described as a coal merchant, of Whitehall, Cradley Heath, was charged with deserting his wife, Charlotte Chatham, and with wilfully neglecting to maintain his children. Mr. Waldron appeared for Mrs. Chatham, and Mr. Ward defended.

Mr. Waldron stated that Mr. and Mrs. Chatham were married in 1886, and there were three children of the marriage. In 1894 – 7½ years ago – they were keeping the GEORGE INN, Old Hill. Prior to September that year Mr. Chatham was guilty of great cruelty to his wife. He bit her, dragged her up and down stairs, shook her, and pinched her wrists. The result of the cruelty was that she suffered very much in health, and was compelled in 1894 to leave her husband. She went to live with her father, Mr. Westwood, who at that time kept the JOLLY COLLIER INN, Cradley Heath, and resided with him until his death. When she left her husband she took with her a daughter, and subsequently another child was born, but the eldest son continued to live with his father until a few days ago. During his lifetime, Mr. Westwood was content to keep his daughter and grandchildren, and after his death Mrs. Chatham took the public house as a tenant, and had been earning a living there for herself and her children ever since. Of course that duty was rather an expensive one, and Mrs. Chatham felt the time had arrived when her husband should be called upon to contribute towards the support and maintenance of his own children. He was not instructed to ask for one farthing towards Mrs. Chatham's maintenance, for she felt that she could support herself. From the moment Mrs. Chatham left her husband at the GEORGE HOTEL the last named had never contributed anything towards the support and maintenance of his children. As to means, Mr. Chatham was ostensibly carrying on business as a coal merchant, and from the way he lived must be in a fair condition.

Mrs. Charlotte Chatham, in her evidence, bore out Mr. Waldron's opening statement. She was cross-examined at great length by Mr. Ward. As to her means, she said she was not well off, but her position had improved very much financially within the last few years. She admitted she had received thousands under her father's will, but she would not state how many. She denied that she had left her husband in a passion; it was after consulting Inspector Given. That was the third time she had left him. When asked to give particular instances of cruelty and the dates, complainant said if her husband would produce her diary it would answer all that was required. In the January of 1894, after he had been drinking, he bit her in the thick of the arm, and she bore the marks for three weeks. He expressed his sorrow for it afterwards, and said he did it 'in a fit.' On the August Bank Holiday he took hold of her two wrists, shook her, and threw her into the passage. She did not know why he did this, and added she did not think her husband knew either. She admitted she retaliated when she had the chance, and her husband occasionally got the worst of it, and added to Mr. Ward, 'I am little and plucky like yourself' – (laughter). Mr. Ward remarked it was not very often he was complimented by a witness. Continuing under cross-examination complainant admitted throwing a shooting boot at her husband on one occasion, but denied throwing a pudding at his head, neither did she ever threaten him with a poker, nor do her best to aggravate him. Although she said her husband drank to excess at the GEORGE HOTEL, which was in a few yards of Old Hill Police Court, she admitted he was never summoned for being the worse for drinking his own house. She thought her conduct had been wise and prudent, and she had not written to say that she and her husband were a couple of fools.

Mr. Ward here produced a letter written by Mrs. Chatham in 1893, in which she said, 'Dear old boy. You are a fool, and so am I, to make each other think we love each other. We have both made a mess of it, but never mind, I will meet you as you wish.'

Complainant said that letter did not truly represent the state of affairs down to September, 1894, between her and her husband. She did not admit there was a good deal of bad temper on both sides; there was bad temper on the one side, and very great provocation on the other. Her husband was very jealous of her, and there might have been mutual recriminations. She admitted writing five letters, which were put in. One, dated June 27th, 1895, stated, 'I have received your letter, and regret you should trouble to write me again. I cannot consent to see you at all. My experience of you and your treatment in the past have turned my love into hatred, and your present position makes me feel more hopeless for any differences in the future. I think if you had any love for your children you would endeavour to keep them. You need not trouble about me any further. I have no wish to see you, and it is a pity we ever met.'

Witness explained that the reference as to her husband's 'present position' meant his drunkenness, not his position in life. Asked if she would return to her husband, complainant said she would not return if he would give her £5,000.

Mrs. Sarah Grove (now living at New Street, Cradley) who was formerly a servant at the GEORGE HOTEL, said Mr. Chatham treated his wife miserably, and was constantly 'cursing and raging over her.' Mrs. Chatham's life was most unhappy. Cross-examined there was a great deal of quarrelling between the husband and wife. She remembered Mrs. Chatham throwing a dish at her husband. She considered Mrs. Chatham was very patient – far more patient than witness would have been.

Mr. Ward, for the defence, submitted that the summons for wilful negligence must be dismissed, for the evidence showed there was no neglect within the period which the Statute permitted.

Mr. Walter Bassano said the clerk had advised them of that, and that summons would drop.

Mr. Ward contended that as regard the desertion the evidence showed there had been frequent quarrels, and it was said three separations had taken place. Before they could grant an order on a summons for desertion in a case of this kind, there must be proved to have been conduct by the husband which would justify the woman leaving her husband. He suggested there had been faults on both sides, and the wife had taken her remedy into her own hands. Mr. Ward then dealt with the evidence in detail, and said the defendant was now getting a living by selling coal. He was working for his mother, and was practically a servant. He asked the court to say there was not sufficient evidence to justify the allegation that Mrs. Chatham left her home because it was unsafe for her to live with her husband. Her means were amply sufficient to maintain the children in a way consistent with their station, and he pointed out on the other hand they had no evidence as to the means of the defendant.

The Defendant stated he did not know why his wife left him in September, 1894. She took advantage of his absence to remove her goods, and when he returned, he found she had gone. There was no quarrel at that time that he could remember. His wife had an ungovernable temper, and was very aggravating. There was a quarrel between them on one occasion over some poetry he found in her pocket. He never assaulted his wife violently, and denied throwing her into the passage. He may have caught hold of her wrists to prevent her using violence to him. She threw anything at him she could get hold of in her temper. The utmost he could earn now was £1 per week.

Mr. George Chatham was called, and said he once saw Mrs. Chatham threatening the defendant with a poker.

The Bench held there had been desertion. They gave Mrs. Chatham custody of the children, and ordered defendant to contribute 10s per week towards the children's maintenance, and to pay costs and solicitor's fee of £1 1s."

County Advertiser 2/5/1903 - Advert

"To Let, the JOLLY COLLIERY INN, Cradley.

For particulars, apply personally, Plant's Brewery Ltd, Netherton."

William Meldrum McWhirter – see also CROSS, CROWN, COOKSEY'S HOTEL and CORNGREAVES HOTEL.

County Advertiser 22/10/1904

"Charlotte Parsons, a married woman, of New Street, Cradley, was charged with refusing to quit the licensed premises of the JOLLY COLLIER INN, Cradley Road, Cradley Heath, kept by Ezra Crampton, on the 5th inst. Prosecutor stated that defendant came into his house on the date named and commenced to use very bad language. Witness ordered her to leave, but this she refused to do. Defendant pleaded that she went into the house after her husband, who was drinking, and that she did not think she was doing wrong. The Bench decided to dismiss the case."

County Advertiser 26/1/1907

"An interesting point respecting the fitness of publicans was raised in connection with an application made by Mr. W. Waldron for sanction to the transfer of the JOLLY COLLIER INN, Cradley Heath, from Ezra Crampton to Eli Dunn.

Applicant, in reply to Superintendent Johnson, said he kept the HOLLY BUSH INN, Cradley, for five years. He admitted that in May, 1904, a man was convicted for being drunk upon his premises. He instructed a solicitor to defend the man, and he swore in the Police Court that he was sober, but in spite of this the justices convicted him. He also admitted that in November last a woman named Kirton was convicted for drunkenness upon his premises. He attended the Court on this occasion, and swore the woman was sober. She was not drunk upon the tap room floor, but was found by the police lying on the public-house steps. Sergeant Clark, formerly of Cradley, had cautioned him twice in 1904, with reference to the disorder on his premises, but he denied that he had spoken to him about harbouring women and children in the house. He received some notice to leave from the brewery firm, but he did not know that this was due to his last conviction. They, however, put in another manager. He admitted that Sergeant Nobes, who succeeded Sergeant Clark, had spoken to him about permitting gambling on his premises. He did not know a disgraceful fight took place outside his house over a gambling dispute until Sergeant Nobes told him of it. In answer to Mr. Waldron Dunn said no charge had been made against him by the police during the time he held the license. On the last occasion he visited the Court the magistrates' clerk informed him that there was no charge against him.

Sergeant Nobes said he had known the applicant for two years, and during that period he had kept the house at Cradley in a very loose manner. People who were convicted for drunkenness and larceny resorted to it, and he had those persons on his premises whom other publicans declined to serve. He did not think applicant was fit to hold the license. Gambling had been allowed, and when spoken to about a disgraceful disturbance near his house caused by four or five men fighting, he promised to stop it. Mr. Waldron, addressing the Bench, described it as a very bold attempt on the part of the police to take away a man's living and reputation by what were known as innuendoes. The Bench ought not to refuse the application on mere suspicion. The Bench declined to grant the application. On the application of Mr. Travis, the Bench granted a temporary authority to Joseph Richard Scott, and dispensed with the customary notice."

County Express 12/9/1908

"Friendly Societies' Parade. On Wednesday evening the committee of the above met at the PLOUGH AND HARROW INN, Mr. W. Coley presiding over a large attendance. The following was a complete list of those boxes which contained amounts of 1s and upwards.....

Mr. T. Raybould, JOLLY COLLIER, 1s 11d."

1911 Census

Cradley Heath – JOLLY COLLIER INN

[1] Mary Ann Raybould (40), widow, public house business, born Cradley Heath;

[2] Laura Raybould (21), daughter, born Cradley Heath;

[3] Dorothy May Raybould (13), daughter, born Cradley Heath;

[4] Gertrude Ethel Linda Raybould (10), daughter, school, born Cradley Heath;

[5] Phoebe Evelyn Raybould (8), daughter, school, born Cradley Heath;

[6] Thomas Clement Raybould (5), son, school, born Lye:

County Express 6/5/1911

"At Old Hill, on Wednesday, Joseph Foulkes, chain striker, Hightown, Cradley, was summoned for refusing to quit the JOLLY COLLIER INN, Cradley Road, Cradley Heath, assaulting the landlady, Mary Ann Raybould, and also doing wilful damage to seven panes of glass, a window, a partition, and two jugs on the 22nd ult.

Mrs. Raybould stated that on the night in question defendant, when under the influence of drink, visited her house and became quarrelsome. Witness asked him to leave, but he refused to go. Witness put defendant out, and whilst doing so he struck her a blow with his fist in the chest. He also threw a brick at her which missed her, but struck the partition doing damage to it. Defendant pushed his hand through the window of the outdoor department, and upon getting outside he hurled a number of stones at the windows, doing considerable damage to them.

Defendant who appeared with his arm in a sling, pleaded guilty.

In reply to the Chairman (Mr. J. W. Tilley), PC Foulkes said defendant badly injured his hand when he pushed it through the window.

Defendant was fined 10s for refusing to quit, ordered to pay the costs for the assault, and the damage and the costs in the third case. The total amount was £1 16s."

County Express 3/6/1911

"At Old Hill Police Court, on Wednesday, Enoch Stokes (18), chainmaker, Little Hill, Cradley, was charged with stealing a shilling from the till of the JOLLY COLLIER INN, Cradley Road, Cradley Heath, belonging to Mary Ann Raybould, on the 26th ult. Sarah Stokes (38), of the same locality, sister-in-law of defendant, was charged with receiving the shilling knowing it to have been stolen.

It was alleged that the male defendant went into the public house and ordered a drink. During the temporary absence of the landlord he was heard to go to a till in the bar, and afterwards hurry out of the house. The landlady went to the till, and missing the shilling, she went after Stokes, and told him if he did not return it she would give him into custody. He returned, and took 1s out of one of his boots, and threw it on the table. The woman, who was there, used insulting language towards the prosecutrix, and afterwards said, 'You shall not have it now,' and, taking up the money, hurried away with it.

The Chairman said it was a very impudent theft, and defendants were each fined 20s and costs, or 14 days' imprisonment."

County Express 30/9/1911

"At the Old Hill Police Court, on Wednesday, the temporary transfer of the JOLLY COLLIER was applied for from Mary Ann Raybould to John Hill. In answer to the Magistrates' Clerk (Mr. T. Cooksey), Mr. Hill stated that Mrs. Raybould refused to attend the Court and refused to do anything to help the transfer. The transfer was granted."

County Express 28/10/1911

"At Old Hill Police Court, on Wednesday, on the application of John Hill, licensee of the JOLLY COLLIER INN, Cradley Road, a certified copy of the license was granted to him. It was stated that the license had been lost."

County Express 4/11/1911

"Local Auction Summary.....

Furniture. Monday, November 6th. JOLLY COLLIER, Cradley Road, Cradley Heath, by Edward Stone, Hooper, and Pickard."

Dudley Chronicle 9/12/1911

“John Philip Hill applied for the transfer of the JOLLY COLLIER INN, Cradley Heath, from Mary Ann Raybould, who, it was stated, had absconded, the new tenant having served the notice upon the police and overseers. The magistrates granted the application.”

County Express 3/8/1912 - Advert

“Bicycle (gent’s), in good condition, 35s.
Apply JOLLY COLLIER INN, Cradley Heath.”

Ernest Hall was also a brewer. [1920]

William Botfield – see also BELL.

The first meeting of Cradley Heath Licensed Victuallers’ Association was held here in September 1925.

Birmingham Daily Gazette 24/11/1938

“Half of the roof of the JOLLY COLLIER INN, Cradley Road, collapsed under the weight of a falling chimney.....”
[This is from a report on damage done by a gale.]

Birmingham Daily Gazette 15/12/1938

“Chased by a policeman when seen talking to two girls in High Street, Cradley Heath, 19-year-old Frederick Botfield, of the JOLLY COLLIER, Cradley Road, Cradley Heath, wrote to Old Hill magistrates alleging that the policeman assaulted him. When he appeared in court yesterday on an adjourned summons for pavement obstruction his allegations were not substantiated. PC Hinckley said that Botfield and another youth were talking to two girls and as he approached Botfield broke into a run and mingled with the crowd. He was caught by PC Hill and when brought back was holding a handkerchief to his chin, which appeared to have a scratch on it. ‘I asked him what was the matter,’ added the constable, ‘and he replied ‘Nothing.’”
PC Hill said that he had just caught up with Botfield when he seemed to trip up. Witness was unable to stop himself and fell on top of him.

Inspector Hughes: Did you touch him in any way or offer any sort of aggression? – PC Hill: No, sir.

Asked by the Clerk, Mr. G. Lee, if he had anything to say, Botfield replied, ‘I have nothing more to say than was in the letter. I can’t remember tripping up. I was running, and the next thing I know was that I was on the floor with the policeman on top of me.’

Botfield, who was stated to have had two previous summonses for obstruction, was fined 30s.”

1939 Register

52, Cradley Road

[1] Thomas Baker, date of birth 7/9/1907, iron moulder, heavy work, married;

[2] Ruby (E.) Baker, dob 7/6/1912, unpaid domestic duties, married;

[4] Rex Baker, dob 9/4/1933, at school, single;

[5] Madge (Baker) Hackett, dob 31/3/1936, under school age, single:

AND (next entry)

[1] Phoebe A. Botfield, date of birth 13/10/1878, manageress of public house, widowed;

[2] Fred Botfield, dob 28/8/1919, carpenter, single;

[3] Hilda Bennett, dob 13/11/1916, unpaid domestic duties, married;

A team from here took part in the Cradley Heath Domino League. [1960]

John Paterson Parker – see also HEATH TAVERN.

It closed in 1985.

It reopened as the GARDEN HOUSE in May 1986.

John Welding was married to Rosemary.

It was renamed NEW COLLIERS.

Sandwell Evening Mail 18/3/1989

“A 19-year-old Rowley Regis youth was punched in the head and face as he waited outside a disco. The attack happened outside the NEW COLLIER pub, Cradley Road, Cradley Heath, last night.

Smethwick CID said the assault took place after a disturbance inside the pub. The youth was taken to hospital. His condition was said to be satisfactory.”

Sandwell Evening Mail 8/12/1989

“Gig Guide..... Friday.....
Road House Blues, NEW COLLIERS INN, Cradley Heath.”

Sandwell Evening Mail 13/11/1991

“It’s true – look after the pence and the pounds will look after themselves.
Customers at the NEW COLLIERS pub in Cradley Heath have built a foot-high pile of copper from 2p pieces. And they chose to donate it to the Light Up a Life campaign by the Evening Mail, Buzz FM radio and the TSB, to extend the cancer ward at Birmingham Children’s Hospital.
Hosts Rose and Colin Smith drank to the children before finding out the full measure of their customers’ generosity. The pile was knocked down, and the coins added up to £376.”

Sandwell Evening Mail 19/12/1991

“Well Done! Your hearts of gold have kept cash pouring in for cancer children.....
Other fund-raising events still running throughout the Christmas period include.....
NEW COLLIERS, Cradley Road, Cradley Heath, two-pence pile, organised by Rose Smith.”

Thomas A. McFadden was married to Coleen.

Halesowen News 3/6/1999

“The Free Corp Motorcycle Club is staging its annual rally in Cradley Heath to raise money for the Kingfisher Club Bikers will be at the NEW COLLIERS pub, Cradley Road, on Saturday June 12 to raise cash for the disabled club’s holiday fund.
On offer will be a custom and classic motorbike show, best bike in show and all-day activities and entertainment.....”

[2001]

Its name was changed to WIZARD AND GLASS. [2002]

In August 2015 the pub was damaged when a car, driven by a joy rider, crashed into it.

[2019]

Dudley News 17/8/2020

“Plans to convert a former Cradley Heath pub into a takeaway and flats have been submitted to Sandwell Council. The WIZARD AND GLASS pub on Cradley Road closed its doors in March. An application has now been submitted to convert the pub into a takeaway and two two-bedroom flats. Plans from Cradley Heath based firm Lins Property Management, do not state what type of takeaway, or what its opening hours would be. Under the proposal the car park would be extended to provide 15 spaces. There is currently eight spaces.
The pub closed its doors for the final time on March 12.”

WOMAN

New Pool, ROWLEY REGIS

OWNERS

LICENSEES

NOTES

[1868]

YEW TREE

4, Yew Tree Lane, (Carnegie Road), (Ross Hill), BLACKHEATH

OWNERS

William Butler and Co. Ltd.

LICENSEES

George Churchill [1855] – 1858);
William Hadley (1858 – 1860);
Joseph Hadley (1860 – [])
Isaac Hadley [1861] – 1865);
Noah Priest (1865 – [1883])
James Southwick [1887] – [1916]
Mrs. Elizabeth Harper [1919] – 1921);
William Henry Gaunt (1921 – 1924);
Albert Smith (1924 – 1935);
Isaac Bishop (1935 – 1936);
Jesse 'Jess' Smith (1936 – 1961);
Eliza Smith (1961 – [c.1962])

NOTES

Ross Hill [1873]
Carnegie Road
4, Yew Tree Lane [1881], [1891], [1932], [1940]

Birmingham Journal 7/4/1855

“On Tuesday, an inquest was held before G. H. Hinchcliffe, Esq, at the house of Mr. George Churchill, of the YEW TREE, Rowley, on the body of Joseph Plant, aged thirty-three, who was killed while at work in a pit at Waterfall Lane, belonging to Mr. William Mills, by a quantity of coals falling from the roof upon him on the 31st ult. A verdict of Accidental Death was returned.”

London Gazette 26/6/1857

“Whereas a Petition of George Churchill, now and for these six months past, living at Lillyport, in the parish of Rowley Regis, in the county of Stafford, carrying on business as a Licensed Victualler and Publican, and also a Charter Master, under the employ of Messrs. Mills and Higgs, and for five years before that period, living in Yew Tree-lane, in the said parish of Rowley Regis, carrying on business also as a Licensed Victualler and Publican, and also being a Charter Master and Butty Collier, and for three years before that period, living in Powke-lane, in the said parish of Rowley, working as a Charter Master only, an insolvent debtor having been sued in the County Court of Worcestershire, at Dudley, and an interim order for protection from process having been given to the said George Churchill, under the provision of the Statutes in that case made and provided, the said George Churchill is hereby required to appear before the said Court, on the 10th day of July next, at ten of the clock in the forenoon precisely, for his first examination touching his debts, estate, and effects, and to be further dealt with according to the provisions of the said Statutes; and the choice of the creditors' assignees is to take place at the time so appointed. All persons indebted to the said George Churchill, or that have any of his effects, are not to pay or deliver the same but to Mr. Thomas Walker, Registrar of the said Court, at his office at the Court-house, Priory-street, Dudley, the Official Assignee of the estate and effects of the said insolvent.”

Wolverhampton Chronicle 12/8/1857

“At a sitting of the County Court on Friday, Mr. Serjeant Clarke disposed of the following cases.....
George Churchill, licensed victualler and publican of Lilly-pot, Rowley, came up on his first adjourned examination, supported by Mr. Smith, and opposed by Mr. Wright, of the firm of Hayes and Wright, Oldbury. The petition was dismissed with a view to make an arrangement with creditors.”

Staffordshire Advertiser 28/11/1857 - Advert

“Insolvent Debtors to be heard before the Judge of the County Court of Worcestershire, holden at Worcester, at the Guildhall, Worcester aforesaid, on Wednesday, the ninth day of December, 1857, at the hour of ten in the morning precisely.....
George Churchill, late of Rowley Regis, in the county of Stafford, out of business; previously of the same place, Licensed Victualler, Butty Collier, and Chartermaster.”

County Advertiser 28/8/1858

“Stewpony Annual Licensing Meeting. This meeting was held on Tuesday last.....
Forty complaints were made against licensed victuallers for having been convicted since the last license day for keeping open house during divine service, &c. The following were suspended.....
William Hadley, YEW TREE, Rowley.”

Worcestershire Chronicle 18/1/1860

“Wordsley Public Office, Monday, Jan. 16.....

The following transfers of licences were allowed.....

YEW TREE INN, Rowley Regis, from William Hadley to Joseph Hadley.....

Hadley's application was opposed by Mr. Burbury on behalf of the creditors of William Hadley, on the ground that it was an attempt to defraud the creditors of their rights by transferring the goods to the brother. The Bench decided that such was not a point for their consideration.”

1861 Census

Yew Tree Lane

- [1] Isaac Hadley (64), retired farmer, born Rowley;
- [2] Rebekah Hadley (58), wife, born Dudley;
- [3] William Hadley (26), son, labourer, born Rowley;
- [4] Joseph Hadley (24), son, labourer, born Rowley;
- [5] Mary A. Hadley (22), daughter, born Rowley;
- [6] Rebekah Hadley (15), daughter, born Rowley;
- [7] Sarah L. Hadley (3), daughter, born Rowley:

County Advertiser 7/10/1865

“Last week Mr. Noah Priest, of the YEW TREE INN, Blackheath, dug up a potato in his garden, in which two teeth, which had belonged to some large animal, were imbedded.”

County Advertiser 2/10/1869

“On Tuesday, Mr. E. Hooper, Coroner, held an inquest on the body of Mr. William Smart, at the YEW TREE INN, Blackheath, who met his death on Saturday, while at work at the Clipper Pits, Old Hill. Mr. Baker, Government Inspector, was present during the inquiry. The deceased, it transpired, was at work at some ‘hanging coal,’ when a fall of about five tons suddenly took place, and he was instantaneously killed. There did not appear to be blame attached to any one, and the Jury returned a verdict of Accidental Death.”

1871 Census

Yew Tree Lane

- [1] Noah Priest (55), licensed vituler [sic], born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Jane Priest (56), wife, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] Sampson Priest (27), son, married, chain maker, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Lucy Priest (25), daughter-in-law, nail maker, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Noah Priest (3), grandson, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] Jane Priest (1), granddaughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [7] Esther Bird (13), general servant, born Dudley:

County Advertiser 6/3/1875

“Noah Priest, landlord of the YEW TREE public house, was charged with having, on Sunday, the 7th ult, opened his house during prohibited hours, and also with having sold a quantity of rum. Mr. Smith defended. Police-constable Holland said that he visited the defendant’s house on the morning in question, and saw the landlady serve some rum in a bottle to a boy. He called the attention of the landlord to it, but he said he knew nothing about it. Mr. Smith admitted the facts, but stated that there was a person residing near the defendant taken ill, and the boy was sent to the house for some rum. Under the circumstances the rum was supplied. Mr. Superintendent Mills did not press the case, and defendant paid costs.”

County Advertiser 2/10/1875

“Adjourned Licensing Sessions.....

The following publicans who had been convicted during the year having been cautioned had their licenses renewed.....

Noah Priest, YEW TREE INN, Blackheath.”

County Advertiser 9/8/1879

“Solomon Cooper and Joseph Nock, charged with being drunk and refusing to quit the YEW TREE INN, Blackheath, were each fined 5s and costs (or fourteen days) on the evidence of the landlord, Noah Priest.”

1881 Census

4, Yew Tree Lane – YEW TREE INN

- [1] Noah Priest (64), widower, publican, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Noah Priest (13), grandson, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] Annie Poole (36), domestic servant, born Rowley Regis:

Noah Priest married Ann Pool in the 1st quarter of 1882.

St. Giles, Rowley - Parish Register - Baptisms

3rd May 1882 - Noah, son of Noah and Annie Priest, publican, Yew Tree.

31st October 1883 - Samuel, son of Noah and Annie Priest, publican, Yew Tree Lane.

Birmingham Daily Post 21/7/1887

“At Old Hill Police Court yesterday, James Southwick, landlord of the YEW TREE INN, Blackheath; Isaac Mullett, landlord of the HAWTHORN INN; Joseph Tromans, landlord of the BOAT INN, Gosty Hill; James Lovatt of the PORTWAY TAVERN, Perris Lake, Rowley; Henry Cooper of the THREE FURNACES, Old Hill; and Joseph Tibbetts, Spring Fields, Rowley, were summoned by the Excise officials for adding sugar to beer after the duty had been taken, between the dates of April 18 and 27.

Mr. Davis stated that the defendants added a quantity of sugar to the beer after the Excise officers had been round and taken the duty. Books were supplied by the Inland Revenue, in which the quantity of sugar and other ingredients used was entered. Upon visiting the defendants' premises it was found that sugar had been added which was capable of raising the standard of ale from what was termed twopenny up to sixpenny.

Mr. Shakespeare, who defended, pleaded guilty to the charges, but pointed out that the defendants were ignorant of the law, and were not aware they were doing wrong. Their object in adding the sugar was to give the beer a 'head,' make it clear and palatable. There was no intention of defrauding the Inland Revenue Office.

Mr. Davis stated that in one case the gravity of the ale was increased from 66 to 77 degrees.

Mr. Shakespeare asked that a nominal penalty be inflicted.

Defendants were fined £20 each, including costs, the aggregated amount of the penalties being £120.”

1891 Census

4, Yew Tree Lane – YEW TREE INN

[1] James Southwick (29), widower, bricklayer, master, and publican, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Priscilla Southwick (27), sister, born Rowley Regis;

[3] Phoebe Priest (19), general servant, born Rowley Regis;

[4] Edward Darby (15), nephew, bricklayer's labourer, born Rowley Regis;

[5] Charles Smith (33), boarder, bricklayer's labourer, cripple from birth, born Rowley Regis:

County Advertiser 13/1/1894

“A shocking accident occurred on Wednesday morning at the Hawes Hill Colliery, Moor Lane, Rowley, which resulted in one man losing his life, and another being seriously injured. The colliery has recently come into the possession of a number of gentlemen who trade as the Hawes Hill Colliery Company, and during the week two men named Samuel Tucker, of Garratts Lane, Old Hill, and Richard Roberts, of Moor Lane, had been repairing the shaft preparatory to work being commenced by the miners. On Wednesday afternoon the two men descended the shaft a distance of about 20 yards, and, as usual, were lashed to ropes. Shortly after commencing work one of the men made the remark that he was afraid there was going to be a slip of the shaft, and they at once signalled to the banksman to be drawn up. The ropes were attached to a stave, or what colliers call a 'byatt.' The men, however, got into the 'bowk' to ascend before divesting themselves of the ropes, the result being that when they ascended the shaft a few yards, the ropes to which they were attached pulled them out of the 'bowk,' and both fell with great violence on the scaffold below. Some men immediately descended the shaft and found Roberts, who is twenty-one years of age, dead, his neck being broken. Tucker, who is about 50 years of age, was discovered with his right leg broken, his ribs fractured, and his face badly injured. He was able to explain to his rescuers how the accident occurred. He was then removed to his home, and attended by Dr. Beasley. Owing to his serious condition, he was the same afternoon, removed to the Guest Hospital.

The inquest on Roberts was held yesterday afternoon, at the YEW TREE INN, Rowley Regis, by Mr. F. W. Topham (deputy coroner). Mr. S. Hooper, of Dudley, represented the Hawes Hill Colliery Company, the owners of the colliery at which the deceased met his death. Mr. H. Scott, Government Inspector of Mines, was also present.

William Whitehead, miner, 15, Moor Lane, Rowley Regis, said he was called to the Scotwell Colliery at ten minutes past seven on Wednesday morning. When he reached the pit, Tucker was calling for help and a light. There was a light in the pit at the time, but not sufficiently far down for Tucker to see what he was doing. He ran home for a line to let down a light and when he returned Tucker had got into the 'bowk' and had been drawn up. He enquired of Tucker where deceased was, and Tucker replied, 'He's dead.' Witness then descended the shaft in company with the banksman, when they found deceased lying on his back at the bottom, dead. He had the rope, which was attached to a curb about nine yards up the shaft, still fastened round his body. He was unable to tell at the time the nature of the deceased's injuries. The rope was unfastened, and deceased brought to the top of the shaft and conveyed home. The shaft had not been in use for some time, and deceased, who was a labourer, was, at the time he met with his death, employed with Tucker in preparing it for work again. Deceased commenced work on Tuesday morning, and had been at work about an hour on Wednesday morning when the accident occurred. The men were engaged in clearing out the shaft at the bottom. There being a danger of the bottom giving way, each had a rope fastened round his body to curbs some distance above. When there were indications of a slip they signalled to be drawn up, and got into the 'bowk.' They neglected to detach the ropes, and as the 'bowk' was hauled above the curb the ropes became taut, and dragged them out of the 'bowk,' and they fell to the bottom.

By Mr. Hooper: The ropes were attached to the men by their own request.

Edmund Chambers, banksman, of Wrights Lane, Old Hill, said he was employed at the colliery on the morning of the accident.

Shortly after seven o'clock Roberts and deceased gave the signal to be drawn up. He communicated this to the engineman, and the latter started the engine. When the 'bowk' came to the top empty, he immediately ran and fetched the previous witness, who descended the shaft with him. He untied the rope which was round the waist of the deceased. Tucker told witness that the only cause of the accident was their neglect to take off the ropes before they commenced the ascent. The pit was about fifty yards deep, and the men must have fallen a distance of about twenty yards.

By Mr. Hooper: It was customary to raise the 'bowk' three or four feet, and then to steady the rope at the top of the shaft, after which a second signal was given. Both the men signalled each time.

Police-constable Hyman stated that he had examined the body of the deceased, whose injuries consisted of a broken neck and severe bruises on the body. He had also visited Tucker, who said there was no blame attached to anyone but themselves.

The Coroner said he did not think the jury would have much difficulty arriving at a conclusion. The only reasonable one warranted by the evidence was that the occurrence was accidental.

A verdict of Accidental Death was accordingly returned."

County Advertiser 2/3/1895

"Yesterday morning, Mr. E. Hooper (coroner) held an inquest at the YEW TREE INN, Blackheath, concerning the death of Thomas Gould (50), nailer, of Cakemore, near Halesowen, who died suddenly on the 26th inst. The evidence showed that on the day named the deceased, whilst working near the Hawes Lane, Leasowes, was taken suddenly ill, and expired shortly afterwards. The wife of deceased said that deceased only brought her of his wages 8s and 6s per week, and they had for several days been obliged to go without food.

The Coroner said it was a very sad case.

The jury returned a verdict of Death from Natural Causes, accelerated by want of proper food.

At the close of the inquest, Mr. T. Brookes, the foreman of the jury brought up the question of a public mortuary. He thought that a public mortuary should be constructed. He pointed out that in this case had not proper arrangements been made the body would probably have been eaten by rats.

The Coroner said if it was the wish of the jury he would report the matter to the proper authority. A stable was not the proper place for a dead body.

The other jurymen agreed with the remarks of Mr. Brookes, and the Coroner intimated that he would lay the whole matter before the proper authority."

County Advertiser 25/5/1895

"A Raid On Publicans.....

James Southwick, landlord of the YEW TREE INN, Blackheath, was charged with permitting gaming on his premises on the 27th ult for money or money's worth. Mr. Waldron appeared for the police, and Mr. J. Sharpe defended.

Mr. Waldron briefly detailed the facts, and added that defendant was a most respectable man. Police-sergeant Winfield visited the house without the knowledge of the other officers, and soon after he came in a young woman, who was serving, came in and told the men to stop playing, thus showing that she knew what was going on. The men refused, and a young man came in and took away the cards.

Police-constable Rixson deposed to visiting the house of defendant in plain clothes on the night of the 27th ult. In the tap room there were about nine men, and five were playing 'don.' Several games were played for beer and money. The winner received a penny from each of the four losers, and paid it to 'kitty' towards a quart of four-penny. The beer was brought in and consumed, and the young man and woman supplied it. They were in and out most of the time, and the landlord came to a screen in the room once or twice and looked over it. He could see what was going on. The young woman told them the sergeant was there and they were to stop playing. They refused, and the young man came in and took the cards away.

George Badger corroborated.

Mr. Sharpe said in this case he had to urge that the landlord had no knowledge that card playing was going on in his house, and, therefore, did not connive at it. One of the men brought a pack of cards into the house without his knowledge, and when he knew of it he told them to stop playing and did all he could to make them desist. Defendant had a good record and he urged that it was a case in which they might dismiss the summons.

Defendant was called and said he had kept the house for ten years without any complaint of this character. He did not know of any card playing, and when he did he told them he should have no card playing here.

Mary Brace, servant, said she served the ale and did not see any money pass.

Southwick was fined £5 and costs, and the license was not endorsed."

Birmingham Daily Post 26/9/1895

"The Old Hill adjourned annual Licensing Sessions were held yesterday. Mr. Waldron applied for a renewal of the licenses to James Southwick which were adjourned from the annual licensing day. Mr. Bassano asked how the houses had been conducted in the meantime, and Inspector Given replied that everything had been satisfactory. The licenses were renewed."

1901 Census

4, Yew Tree Lane

[1] James Southwick (40), bricklayer and publican, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Annie Elizabeth Southwick (38), wife, born Beoley, Worcestershire;

[3] Alice Jones (22), servant, born Blackheath:

County Advertiser 20/10/1906

"James Southwick, of the YEW TREE INN, Blackheath, was summoned for allowing four horses to stray upon the highway, on the 10th inst. Police-sergeant Bentley proved the case. Defendant pleaded that he kept his fence good, but the fence belonging to another person was down. The Bench ordered defendant to pay the costs, and informed him that his remedy was against his neighbour.”

County Express 25/7/1908

“On Wednesday, at Old Hill, Edward Willetts (53), insurance agent, Powke Lane, Blackheath was charged with stealing a bottle of brandy, value 5s 6d, belonging to James Southwick, landlord of the YEW TREE INN, Ross, Blackheath. Mr. Taylor prosecuted, and Mr. A Ward (instructed by Mr. R. Bate) defended.

Prosecutor said that on the 11th inst, he was arranging his stock and left defendant in the bar alone for a few minutes. When he returned witness missed a bottle of brandy from the top shelf, and speaking to the servant girl about the loss, requested her to fetch a policeman. Defendant was present and he then produced a bottle of brandy from his pocket, and said, ‘I don’t know what made me do it.’

In cross-examination, witness said he knew defendant had suffered from epileptic fits. He was all right until witness called for a police officer, then he commenced to tremble and could not keep himself still. He had known defendant for over forty years, and knew him to be a respectable man. Sometimes he scarcely seemed to be responsible for his actions.

For the defence, Mr. Ward admitted the theft, but raised a plea that defendant was not responsible for his action at the time of the offence. Defendant had lived all his life in the district and was highly respected.

Dr. A. D. McQueen stated that he had attended defendant for three years. He suffered from gall stones and lately developed epileptic fits. When he was seized in a fit he was hardly responsible for his actions.

Mr. J. H. Smith (chairman) said there was no possible doubt about the theft, but after hearing the medical evidence the Bench had come to the conclusion that there was no felonious intent. Under those circumstances the case would be dismissed.”

1911 Census

4, Yewtree Lane – YEW TREE INN

- [1] James Southwick (49), widower, publican, born Yew Tree Cottage, Rowley;
- [2] Florrie Lycett (25), barmaid, housekeeper in business, born 18, Dudley Road, Rowley;
- [3] Mary Pardoe (20), domestic servant, born Whiteheath:

Birmingham Daily Gazette 4/8/1913

“One of three brothers, each of whom was over twenty stones in weight and over six feet high, has died at Blackheath. This was Mr. George Southwick. He was a Volunteer for many years, and his brother Mr. James Southwick, who is landlord of a well-known hostel, is one of the oldest publicans in Rowley Regis.”

County Express 16/4/1921

“At Old Hill Police Court on Wednesday, the license for the YEW TREE INN, Ross, Rowley Regis, was transferred from Mrs. Elizabeth Harper to William Henry Grant. It was explained by the applicant that the usual notice had not been given to the police, it being necessary for Mrs. Harper to leave the house immediately. Supt. Robotham raised no objection to the transfer under the circumstances.”

1939 Register

Yew Tree Lane – YEW TREE INN

- [1] Jess Smith, date of birth 14/2/1905, licensee, haulage contractor, heavy work, married;
- [2] Eliza Smith, dob 8/3/1903, unpaid domestic duties, married;
- [3] Clifford Smith, dob 8/6/1926, at school, single;
- [4] Stanley Smith, dob 29/7/1930, at school, single;

The license was surrendered on the grant of the license for the TIMBERTREE.

Closed

It was demolished c.1964.

The site became a car park.

Beerhouse – Unnamed

49, Springfield Lane, (Blackberry Town), ROWLEY REGIS

OWNERS

LICENSEES

Mark Dunn [1857] – [1891]

Frederick Mark Dunn [1901] – [1911]

NOTES

[This was an off-licence and no evidence has been found indicating that an on-licence was granted.]

County Advertiser 27/6/1857

“Mark Dunn, a beerhouse-keeper, Spring-Fields, Rowley Regis, was summoned by PO Burton for having his house open for the sale of liquors after eleven o’clock on the night of the 15th inst. The officer found five men and several women drinking there at half-past eleven o’clock. Defendant who expressed contrition in very warm terms, was fined 2s 6d and costs.”

1861 Census

Springfield Lane – Public House

- [1] Mark Dunn (39), nailor, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Hannah Dunn (41), wife, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] John Dunn (16), son, labourer, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Samuel Dunn (9), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Sarah J. Dunn (7), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] Susan Dunn (6), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [7] George E. Dunn (4), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [8] Frederick M. Dunn (2), son, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [9] Phemelia Dunn (9 months), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [10] John Sheldon (20), visitor, unmarried, labourer, born Rowley Regis;
- [11] Elizabeth Sheldon (17), visitor, unmarried, nailor, born Rowley Regis;

County Advertiser 27/8/1870

“The annual licensing meeting for the Old Hill Petty Sessional Division was held yesterday.....

There were nine applications for beer licenses.....

Mark Dunn, Springfield. Refused.”

1871 Census

Blackberry Town

- [1] Mark Dunn (49), nail maker, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Susanna Dunn (51), wife, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] John S. Dunn (30), son, labourer at blast furnace, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Sarah J. Dunn (17), daughter, nail maker, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Susanna Dunn (16), daughter, nail maker, born Rowley Regis;
- [6] Georgina Dunn (15), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis;
- [7] Frederick M. Dunn (13), son, labourer at pipe factory, born Rowley Regis;
- [8] Pamela Dunn (11), daughter, scholar, born Rowley Regis;

County Advertiser 28/8/1875

“Old Hill Licensing Sessions.....

Mark Dunn, Springfield, and Stephen Rollason, Blackheath, applied for beerhouse licenses. John Mathews and William Woodhall, both of Cradley Heath, for wine licenses. The applications of Mr. Mathews and Mr. Woodhall, were granted, and all the others were refused.”

Dudley Herald 28/8/1880

“The annual Licensing Session was held at the Police Court, Old Hill, on Wednesday.....

Police-superintendent Woollaston presented his annual statement of offending publicans during the past year.....

Mark Dunn, out-door beerhouse-keeper, Springfield, Rowley, allowing ale to be consumed on premises July 14th, 1880, to pay costs.....

Mr. Hayes applied for a renewal of an outdoor licence to Mark Dunn, of Rowley. Granted.”

1881 Census

49, Springfield Lane

- [1] Mark Dunn (59), beerhouse keeper, born Rowley Regis;
- [2] Susannah Dunn (61), wife, born Rowley Regis;
- [3] Georgina Dunn (24), daughter, born Rowley Regis;
- [4] Frederick Dunn (22), son, unemployed, born Rowley Regis;
- [5] Amelia Dunn (20), daughter, born Rowley Regis;

County Express 25/3/1882

“Mark Dunn, outdoor beerhouse keeper, Springfields, Rowley Regis, was summoned for selling ale to be consumed on the highway near his house. Mr. Cooksey defended.

At about four o'clock on the afternoon of the 10th inst, Police-constable Styles saw a man leave the defendant's house carrying a jug which contained ale. Having walked a short distance off the man drank the ale. The officer then entered the house and ascertained that defendant's daughter supplied the ale. He taxed the defendant's wife about it, but she replied that she could not follow people about, to see where they drank the ale. Defendant subsequently met the officer, and told him that if he would look over this case he would pay him well for his trouble.

For the defence Mr. Cooksey called evidence to show that the jug in which the man fetched the ale did not belong to the defendant, but that he had borrowed it from a neighbour. Under this circumstance the defendant could not be expected to know what was going to be done with the ale.

Mr. Bassano said the worst of these cases was that they seemed to have such a demoralising effect on people. The landlord tried to bribe the policeman, and the witnesses seemed to be prepared to say anything to make out a case. Not unfrequently they imposed on their own advocates. He thought that the Bench were bound to consider this in estimating the penalty, and though the offence itself was not a bad one, they should impose a fine of 40s and costs."

Dudley and District News 2/9/1882

"Old Hill annual Brewster Sessions were held at the Police Court on Wednesday.....

The following is the black list, and in each of the cases the licenses were suspended till the adjourned licensing meeting Beer-house Keepers.....

Mark Dunn, no sign, Springfields, allowing ale to be consumed on premises, paid costs; selling ale on premises, fined 40s and costs."

Dudley and District News 30/9/1882

"This being the Old Hill adjourned licensing sessions the Bench granted a renewal of the licenses which were suspended at the last annual general sessions. The Chairman stated that the magistrates had very carefully considered each case, and they had decided to renew the licenses on the understanding that some assurance was given on the part of each defaulter, that their respective houses should be better conducted in the future. The Bench were determined that the law should be enforced, and if the defendants were guilty of any further offence against the Licensing Laws they would be severely punished and their licenses forfeited. The Chairman added that Henry Heath, who was convicted for selling ale during prohibited hours on Sunday, was now taking out a six days' license instead of a seven days', and his license was renewed on that condition; and if any of the others wished to have six days' licenses the Bench would be pleased to grant them."

1891 Census

49, Springfield Lane

[1] Mark Dunn (69), beer seller out licence, born Rowley Regis;

[2] Susannah Dunn (71), wife, born Rowley Regis;

[3] Frederick M. Dunn (32), general labourer, born Rowley Regis:

1901 Census

49, Springfield Lane

[1] Frederick M. Dunn (42), unmarried, brewer, born Rowley Regis:

1911 Census

49, Springfield Lane

[1] Frederick M. Dunn (52), unmarried, beerhouse keeper, born Rowley Regis: